"Yes, and as a matter of fact, it's not bad eating. I've tried it myself, though I was not aware of it at the time. It looks like young veal."

"Have you any regular customers?"

"We have one, a Mrs. Farley, who used to live corner of Avenue A and Sixteenth street. She was pretty far gone in consumption, but she used to come every other week for five or six months for a nice fat dog. I have not seen her for some time, but I don't think she's dead. Some one told me she was living over on Ninth avenue. But as a general thing we don't know our customers' names. This superstition is so general on the east side that many of the drug stores keep dog fat or oil in stock. There are a number of these household remedies for different diseases. Through Vermont and New Hampshire the fat of skunks is used a cure for croup and rheumatism. Then at the South the negroes use dogs' flesh as a cure for rheumatism. The dog must be jet-black or the medicine is without efficacy. When the animal is chosen it is fed on nothing but the lungs and livers of racoons until it is so fat that it can hardly walk, when it is killed and eaten. After that if the patient is not cured he is perfectly assured that his pains and aches are attributable to some other cause."

During the last six years over 48,000 dogs have been drowned at the pound. So far this year 3,007 have been received, 2,674 drowned, 98 redeemed, 3 returned by order of the authorities and 232 are now awaiting death.—N. Y. World.

How the German Boy is Schooled.

From the hour of his birth until he has reached the mature age of six years he is under the constant supervision of his parents or his nurse. He plays as children play all the world over, but his games and pastimes are not rough. From the moment his sensitive mind is capable of being trained he learns obedience and politeness. He is not four years old ere he will bid a stranger good-day or good-evening, raising his little hat and making his little bow at the same time. Between four and six he is allowed to mingle freely with the children of the neighborhood, but his play-ground is always circumscribed according to the size of the garden in the rear of the block. At six the law compels his parents to send him to school.

From that time on he is a person of some responsibility, for his lessons must not be neglected under any circumstances, unless his health proves him to be unequal to the tasks. His school hours for the first year are not long, but he must be in his place promptly at eight o'clock in the morning, remaining until ten, and at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, remaining until 2:30. Then he brings home his lessons for the morrow, which, with the assistance of his parents, he must be prepared to answer for on the next day. The second year of his school-life is a little more severe. The schools open at six in the summer and seven in the winter, and long before children of his age are awakened in America, the streets are full of little ones hurrying to the different schools. This early class is dismissed at eight and nine o'clock, and the children are then expected to assist their mothers, or, as is more frequently the case, from ten years of age upward, they go to the great factories or work-shops where they are apprenticed, and learn a trade. Indeed, the school hours are fixed thus early in order that the children may not only receive an education but also learn how to make a living and help their parents to keep the wolf from the door.—Chemnitz Cor. Chicago News.

Worshiping Account-Books.

A correspondent writes: "Dewalee, the feast of lanterns, has often been described in your columns. I proceed to describe the interesting ceremony of Vahee Pooja, which I was invited to witness at the office of a distinguished native firm. Among the natives of India, whether they be Parsees, Mohammedans, or Hindoos, for practical purposes the new year commences with that of the Hindoos. The ceremony of Vahee Pooja, as its name denotes, is the worshiping of the account-book for the new year. It takes place a day before the Dewalee, and is performed not only by every merchant and trader, but even by private persons. In short, the new year among natives of India, whether for business or household affairs, commences with the new year of the Hindoos. This necessitates the closing of old accounts and opening of new ones, and for the latter purpose new books are used, but before they can be so utilised they must be worshiped, and each according to his means does this. The wealthier native firms avail themselves of the opportunity to invite their friends and constituents to be present to wish them a happy and prosperous year. The firm who had invited me is one of the oldest firms in Bombay. I of course expected the pooja, or ceremony of worshiping, would be performed by the mobeds or dustoors, a sort of jasun ceremony—but I was surprised on entering the office to see the place of honor assigned to a half-starved and very dirty-looking Brahmin. On the floor of one of the rooms was spread a clean floor-cloth, with huge cushions near the walls, in the center of which were placed silver trays containing pan-suparee, cocoanuts, battasas, dried dates, sugar-cane, coriander seeds, and silver and copper coins. In an adjoining room was placed a silver vase containing fire, and round it stood one of the high priests, or dustoors, of the Parsees, attended by several mobeds.

When all the preparations were completed we took our seats by the well-adjusted cushions, and all who knew Guzerati were given a new account-book and a new pen, and each wrote on the second leaf of the book what seemed to be a supplication to the deity invoking his blessings (in as many names as he is known by in the Zoroastrian calendar) for the new year, which is written in full with its corresponding English and Parsee dates. When some thirty books had been written up, the Brahmin—who sat in the center amid trays containing the articles above enumerated—had them submerged in gulal and the red stuff used by natives on all auspicious occasions; and thus the dustoor and his mobeds on the one hand, and the Brahmin on the other, invoked the diety's blessings. The duties of the Brahmin were not, however, confined to simply supplicating his gods to bless the undertakings for the coming year of the Parsee firm; they seemed to be of a multifarous nature, for he appeared to have had to bless (by muttering something in Sanscrit) each article as he took it from the tray, and after besmearing it with the red stuff, to place it on one of the many new account-books near him. This went on until the trrys were emptied of their contents. Then in a small silver dish were mixed some coriander-seeds with sugar and given to all the guests to eat; and then, as it were by way of a final dramatic effect, the Brahmin took a smal. silver vessel, and in it placed some of the red stuff with two or three pieces of ignited camphor, and had it taken about the room while he stood up shouting at the top of his voice. "Brahma! Brahma!" Then were distributed money, nosegays, and pan-suparee to all those present, and the proceedings terminated. I was informed that the books and articles would be left undisturbed on the floor as placed by the Brahmin until the new year's day.—Bombay Gazette.

Rather Curious Law in England.

A British Member of Parliament, Mr. Macfarlane, has been comparing some of the sentences recently inflicted upon offenders of various grades, and he has reached the conclusion that, in the eyes of British law, it is a much lighter offense to kick a woman to death than to pick her pocket. A man who kicked his wife to death was sentenced to six weeks' hard labor, and in the month following a man who had picked a woman's pocket of nine shillings was sentenced to penal servitude for ten years. Nor are these exceptional cases. The penalty in a case of knocking down a wife and kicking her savagely in the face was three months' hard labor; for knocking down and kicking a woman, a fine of £4; for trying to kill a wife with a razor, being a second offense, twelve months. Against these are set such sentences as for stealing coals to the value of two shillings, eight months' hard labor; for stealing a watch, five years' penal servitude. It would be interesting to inquire how much of this scandalous leniency to brutes is due to the ancient tradition that makes a man's wife his slave. But it does not appear necessary that the woman attacked should be the man's wife in order to give him practical immunity. In a case of violent assault upon a woman in the street, the ruffian was fined forty shillings, and in another case where three men ill-treated and killed a woman they were imprisoned, one for sixteen months and the others for six months, while a man who stole a knife and some keys got five years. All this seems to show that the equal protection of English law is not meant to extend to women.—Philadelphia Times.

—The button factory at Ithaca, N. Y., turns out 144,000 buttons per day.

HUMOROUS.

—"Don't you think I have a good face for the stage?" asked a young lady with histrionic aspirations. "I don't know about the stage," replied her gallant companion, "but you have a lovely face for a 'bus!"—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

—You never would suspect that the fine looking member of the horse guards, who shows off to such advantage on parade days, is the identical man who peddles milk and mashes the servant girls, would you? Such is the fact, however.—New Haven Register.

—"I tell yer wot, boys," exclaimed old Ben, the roughest man in the camp; "I tell yer wot, boys, it made a feller feel kinder watery round the lids to hear that little chit of a thing a-settin' up thar like an angel a-sayin' her prayers so cute, 'Mary had a little lamb,' or sunthin' er thet sort."

—"I feel I am growing old," said the lady, mincingly, to her guests, "for, really, I am beginning to lose my hair." (Of course she has bushels of it, and it is as black as a raven's wing.) "Then, ma," exclaims her little child, with the innocent frankness of infancy, "why don't you lock up the drawer when you put it away at night?"—From the French.

—A French scientist has made some experiments recently which go to show that all classes of insects, in proportion to their size, are from fifteen to forty times as strong as a horse. If you don't believe in the strength of insect life, watch the velvety little bumble-bee, with the tropical polonaise, and see him lift a two-hundred-pound picnic man out of the grass.—Chicago Times.

—When all the buffalo are killed off, if Uncle Sam can be induced to quit feeding the red devils on canned goods and other Government rations, they will have to put up at an American boarding-house, and then dyspepsia will wind up the noble red man. The Secretary of the Interior should cut this out and paste it where he will see it again.—Texas Siftings.

—The new reporter was sent to the school exhibition. His report read pretty well; but there were a few things in it which did not meet the approval of the local editor—such, for instance, as these: "The essays of the graduating class were good, whoever wrote them;" "the floral offerings were excessive, and from the number received by Miss Simplegush we judge her father owns a first-class greenhouse;" "the young lady who read the valedictory to the teachers has in her the making of a fine actress. She simulated sorrow so accurately that the writer might have been misled had he not subsequently heard the young lady speak of this same 'dear teacher' as 'a hateful old thing.'"—Boston Transcript.

A Sad Thing.

One of the most unfortunate occurrences of the present season took place a few morning's since on Third street. William H. Root has been for some time the owner of a gentlemanly young antelope that was a general pet. Everybody loved little James, for he was affectionate in his nature and highly intellectual. He knew his name, too, which is more than some of our Western men know, who have left the East under peculiar circumstances.

James was a loving and devoted companion to Mr. Root at all times. When Mr. Root went out in the yard and stooped over to pick up something little James would take a run and jump and knock his young master over into the tall grass. He was always ready for a jump, and ate every thing in sight from red clover to the primary speller. He had in fact a perverted taste for literature and he fell, as many a young man has fallen, as a result of this vitiated taste.

Little James a few mornings ago ate the first page of our vile contemporary containing a special from Alexandria and a facetious pay local in relation to Dr. Deadbeat's Hand-me down Ointment. His master did not at first understand why little James was so sad, but later he found the fragment of the paper that was left, and at once gave up all hope of recovery.

With his native hills far away to the westward stretching outward and embracing the blue summer sky, with the soft wind sighing over him, little James gathered himself together in a small package and died.

Mr. Root composed the calm features of the dead, spread him out on the grass, and went away where he could weep by himself. Death at last conquers all. The festive young man and the old people, the giddy girl in the midst of her gum career and the old lady whose life is but a memory, large or small, the same fate awaits them all. So little James, who had only just developed a taste for literature, and before he knew how to choose between the good and pure and the pernicious and false, swallowed a special from Egypt and skipped out for the great unknown.—Nye's Boomerang.

—A sulphur mine in Sicily was recently set on fire in a very curious manner. A wagon loaded with sulphur was being drawn up an incline, when the rope supporting it broke, and the wagon rushed back into the mine at a frightful speed. The rapid motion developed heat enough to set on fire the highly-combustible ore, and the flames spread so quickly through the mine that thirteen workmen were unable to escape and thirty or forty others were seriously injured.

Judge

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 28, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

The "red negro" of Shelby county has been put to work in the coal mines near Birmingham.

At Greenville, S. C., the people let their hogs run in the street during watermelon time, in order to dispose of the rinds, which would otherwise furnish a green and slippery pavement.

A citizen of Cincinnati has discovered that a small quantity of Limburger cheese taken to bed with him at night keeps the mosquitoes away. This certainly shows good taste on the part of the mosquitoes.

An Alabama law, passed by the last Legislature, prohibits the owners of sheepkilling dogs to run at large. The first conviction under the law was made in Jefferson county recently, and the owner of the dog fined $75.

Mayor Cleveland, of Buffalo, has been nominated by the Democrats of New York, as their candidate for Governor. John Kelly and his Tammany delegates were admitted to the Convention, and with harmony again restored the chances are good for the success of the Democracy. So mote it be.

The Republican Convention which met at Wetumpka on last Monday failed to place a candidate in the field for Congress. They did not endorse Rev. Mr. McCoy publicly, but there is little doubt that he will get the secret endorsement and support of the Republicans of the district.

A specimen of Alabama grown rice was shown at the Selma cotton exchange on Friday. The stalks were three feet and a half high, the heads were well filled and the kernels were large and white. A rice expert pronounced the sample as fine as any grown in Louisiana and expressed surprise that so excellent a quality of the grain could be grown hereabouts. There is evidently no overestimating the posibilites of Alabama soil.

A physician at Lawton, Mich., is also a clergyman. In a bill which he recently rendered for "professional services," was an item of $8 for visits which as the patient, claimed, were made solely to administer spiritual consolation, and therefore payment is refused. The doctor on the other hand, declared that while it is true that he spent most of the time of these calls in prayer, he gave medicine for the body too, and his charge is only for the latter. A lawsuit is to settle the dispute.

Abstract of Assessment of Real Estate and Personal Property of Chilton County.

To our worthy Probate Judge, we are indebted for the following abstract of assessment of the real estate and personal property in Chilton county. We publish it, knowing that it will prove interesting to many of our readers:

REAL ESTATE.

Total number of acres, 357,553. Value $417,923.00.

Value of town property, $50,092.

Total value of real estate $468,015.00.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Value of wharf boats, toll bridges, ferries, &c., $200.

Stocks of goods wares, and merchandise; largest amount on hand at any one time during the preceding year, and including all merchandise kept on plantations for sale, or dealt out to laborers for profit, $53,305.

Household furniture, $2,337.

Printing presses, $255.

Libraries, $500.

Jewelry, Plate and Silverware, $755.

Pianos, and other musical instruments, $3,494.

Paintings, $50.

Clocks, gold and silver watches, and gold safety chains, $6,997.

Wagons, and vehicles, $8,878.

Mechanical tools, $550.

Farming implements, $109.

Dirks, bowie knives, sword canes, pistols and guns, $5,406.

Cattle (3,497 head), $23,573.

Horses (1,228 head) $57,637.00.

Mules (614), 35,509.

Studs, jacks, jennets, and race horses (10), 585.00

Hogs (272), 396.00.

Sheep (1,163) 1,486.00.

Goats (1,202), 1,205.00.

Salaries, gains, incomes and profits for the preceding year, 10,200.

Money loaned, and solvent credits or credits of value (indebtedness to be deducted, and excess taxed), lien notes, mortgage notes, or other notes, open accounts, 28,373.

All property real or personal not otherwise specified herein, 162,869.

Road bed, track, and other real and personal property of railroads, $89,840.

Total value of real and personal property in county, $1,462,512.

Total State tax, 9,511.58.

Total county tax, 5,853.46.

Poll tax on 1,434 male inhabitants over 21 and under 45 years of age, 2,151.

The railroads in county pay a State tax of 4,271.24 and a county tax of 2,628.46.

Pratt Saw Mill Co. pays a State and county tax of 878.17.

The very small assessment for farming implements is due to the fact that the greater part of such property is exempt from taxation, and is not assessed.

Cheap Tuition.

MR. EDITOR:—The demand for cheap tuition is one of the crying events of our county, at the present time. With many people, cheapness of tuition seems to be the chief qualification of a teacher. The man who puts his tuition down to the lowest figure is the teacher for them, regardless of his want of competency. Such persons, I fear, have never properly considered this matter—they have never thought what it takes to constitute a teacher. They seem not to know what a difference there is between a competent and an incompetent teacher. Such people think that any kind of teacher will do to teach children to spell and to read. Just as well say that any cobbler can lay the foundation of a building though it may take a master workman to finish the superstructure. No man can teach a child that which he does not know himself; and yet there are thousands of men and women all over this fair land of ours professing to teach children to read, while they themselves do not know how to read.

The truth is, there is just as much difference as to the character of the work done by different teachers as there is in the work done by different grades of mechanics; and if it is right for a master mechanic to receive higher wages than a mere journeyman, it is also right for a competent teacher to have better pay than those who are less competent. The work done by some teachers is as well worth five dollars a month as that done by others is worth one dollar a month, even in teaching the elementary branches just as one kind of cloth is worth more than another.

A man who is competent to teach school is competent to engage in other kinds of business; and such men are not going to wear out their lives in teaching school just for accommodation, when other easier and more lucrative employments are within their reach. This demand for cheap tuition has already driven thousands of the best teachers from the work of teaching and other kinds of business, and this most important work of education has been left to be done, in great part, by those who, to say the least, are very imperfectly qualified for it. Would that the eyes of the people could be opened to discern their own and their childrens interest.

TEACHER.

Maplesville Dots.

The first two weeks of dry weather since June.

Cotton is coming in slowly. No time to stop picking to gin and pack.

Mr. Thos. Lawrence has a steam ginnery in operation.

Died, near Calera, Shelby Co., on the 22d inst., Mrs. W. D. Oliver nee Miss Mollie Walker. Her remains were brought here and interred in the Isabella cemetery. Our sympathy is extended the bereaved ones in their hour of affliction.

BIJOU.

Callierville Items.

Fine weather this week for cotton picking.

Messrs. Gregory & Coe will soon have their fine steam saw mill in operation one mile north of Callierville.

Mr. Buckner Harris intends building a new dwelling house soon.

A Union church is being built five miles east of Callierville.

Mr. James Mitchell will make sorghum syrup with a new $150 evaporator.

JOLLY JOE.

Jemison Jottings.

Some sickness. Messrs. Geo. Dawson, Fisk Dawson and J. M. Keitt, are very low.

Several hands are at work on the school building. It will be well ceiled and every thing arranged by the third of October, when the Institute will open.

Prof. Burns has just returned from a visit to Bibb county, accompanied by his mother who will reside with him at Jemison.

Miss Mattie Hand has returned from a visit of several weeks to relatives in Shelby county.

Mrs. C. H. Smith has returned from a lengthy stay in Atlanta, Ga.

Cotton is coming in quite rapidly.

MUGO.

The delegates to the Republican Congressional Convention for this district have returned. They represent that a split up was the result of the Convention and that a candidate could not be agreed upon. This "splitting up" game is a part of the tactics by which it is hoped to throw the Democrats off their guard while the Republicans will consolidate on and vote as a man for the Independent, McCoy.

While Bill Wimpill, a gentleman of color, was "taking in" the town of Rising Fawn, Ga., last Saturday, the marshal remonstrated with him for his noisy and unbecoming conduct. At this, William became offended; his feelings were ruffled, his dignity bruised. He said he could clean up any d—n policeman living, and swore he would have blood. He got the blood, but it was his own, for the marshal fired first, and William was buried Sunday.—Exchange.

Senator John T. Morgan

Has kindly consented to address the people of Chilton county at Verbena, Thursday, October 5.

Clanton, Friday, " 6.
Jemison, Saturday, " 7.

This will be a rare opportunity for us to hear our gifted Senator speak upon the political issues of the day. He is one of the best informed men in the country, and everybody should turn out to hear him.

Public Speaking.

Hon. Thos. Williams, Democratic and Conservative candidate for Congress will address the people of Chilton county as follows:

Cooper's, Tuesday, October 17.
Clanton, Wednesday, October 18.
Jemison, Thursday, October 19.
Mullberry Church, Wednesday, October 25.

The ladies are especially invited to attend.

By order of the District Executive Committee.

J. H. PARKER, Chairman.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 27-tf Lomax, Ala.

S. J. Heath's

Inauguration of the Fall and Winter Season of 1882 and 1883.

New Stock! New Store! And New Prices!

Better goods and more of them for the money than can be had at any other house in Chilton County

Now Being Offered

—BY—

S. J. HEATH,

THE

Monarch Merchant

OF THIS SECTION.

Who has just completed a large and commodious store house at

Strasburg, Ala.

and purchased the largest and most complete stock of General Merchandise, ever brought to this market, which he has bought at

"ROCK BOTTOM" PRICES FOR "SPOT CASH,"

and which will be sold at the smallest living margin. Come and see me. Examine and price my goods and you will be convinced that it is to your interest to give me your trade. Call without delay. You cannot judge the extent and magnitude of my stock until you have seen it. Don't be governed by the past, but call and see for yourselves.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR COTTON AND COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Remember the place
HEATH'S, AT STRASBURG.
Sept. 27-tf

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

H. L. Wheeler.

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

Will buy and sell lands for commission.

Wheeler & Riley,

Fire Insurance Agents

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—AND—

Agents for the London and Lancashire and Royal Insurance Companies, of Great Britian and the Capital City, of Montgomery, Ala.

Office on First Avenue, Second Floor of Bank Building. Jun15-ly.

Ehrman Again To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.
MEAT PER POUND 15c.
GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.

Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.

LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of

CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,

and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.
Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville

Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to

ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

and the best route to

BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Dr. J. P. Givhan,

(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. may15-ly

J. F. MAULL. J. H. HOCKENSMITH.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.

Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HATS Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinware, Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles and

FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN. ☜

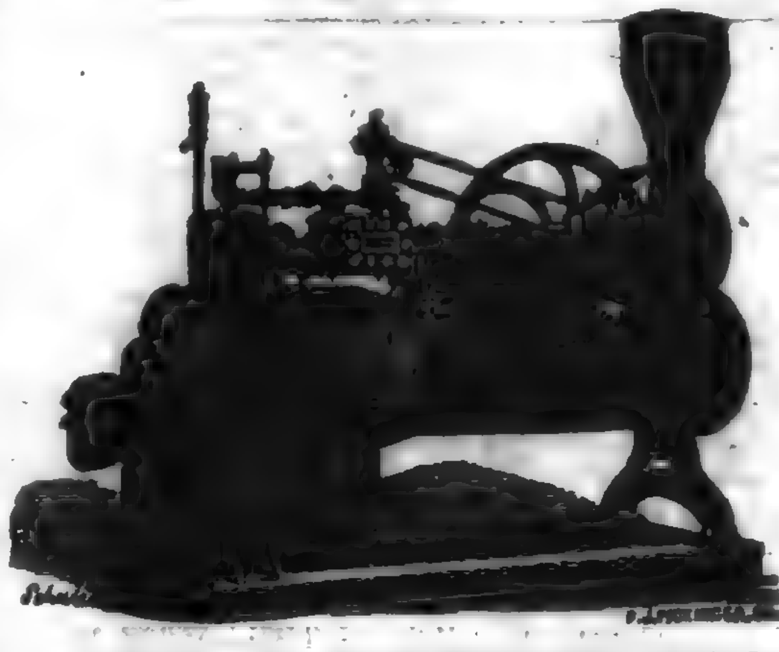
We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patronage.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINES

OF ALL SIZES

FROM TWO TO TWO HUNDRED HORSE POWER,

—AND—

OF ALL KINDS

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHEELS.

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Best. Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State. mar8-ly

W. N. RANEY,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Groceries,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Flour, Bacon, Lard, Sugar, Coffee, Grain, and Produce Sold at Importer's Prices.

SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Next Door to Hudgin's Bank.

Dec 22-tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,

And Blank Book Manufacturers,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in North Alabama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the large cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send your orders to us.

Nov1-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.

An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volumes.

SOME REASONS WHY THIS WORK Is Superior to all Other CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopædia. It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopædia.

It embraces over 62,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.

Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork, and Binding [illegible].

IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.

The price in Cloth being $[illegible] per set.
The price in Sheep being $[illegible] per set.
The price in Half Russia being $[illegible] per set.

Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms [illegible]. Send for circular.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,
[illegible] Beekman St., N. Y.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 28, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.
Representative—William A. Collier.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:45 p. m.
No. 11	3:35 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	*9:00 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	8:15 p. m.
No. 12	10:35 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 6:30 a. m.	Selma	Arr 9:15 p. m.
" 9:45 "	Calera	Lve. 6:02 "
" 4:16 p m	Rome	" 11:32 a m
" 6:15 "	Dalton	" 9:40 "
" 8:13 "	Cleaveland	" 7:00 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:20 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 433, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T. meets every Friday night at 8 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Mite meets to-night at the residence of Mr. W. H. Foshee.

Senator Morgan is a fine speaker, and our people should not fail to hear him.

Mr. J. F. Maull offers a good store house and lot for sale on very reasonable terms

It will pay any and every merchant in Chilton county to advertise in the county paper.

Our live merchant Mr. R. Ehrman, is buying cotton extensively. He pays the highest market price.

Clanton merchants have ordered extensive stocks of goods. A lively trade is expected this fall and winter.

Married, in this place, on the 20th inst., by Rev. W. A. Montgomery, Mr. I. B. Bowden and Mrs. Mary A. Brinkman.

Hon. Thos. Williams' appointment was to speak at Mulberry Church and not at Maplesville, as we published last week.

Rev. J. W. Shores is holding a protracted meeting at the Verbena Methodist church this week. He is assisted by Rev. Mr. Rush, of Prattville.

Senator Morgan will address his fellow-citizens of Chilton county on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Let everybody turn out to hear him.

The Shelby Sentinel job printing office is now located at Calera. Work can be done there in the neatest style. We are agents at this point and can have work done on reasonable terms.

The Birmingham Daily age we are glad to see, has a regular correspondent at Clanton. Said correspondent seems to be under the very correct impression that Clanton is a boss town.

The American Universal Cyclopedia is one of the best works of the kind ever published. It is a verbatim reprint of Chambers Cyclopedia and is cheaper than any other Cyclopedia.

See the new advertisement of that energetic and flourishing merchant Mr. S. J. Heath, of Strasburg. He means what he says, has a bran new stock of goods, and every one should give him a call.

It is utterly imposible to conduct a newspaper to suit everybody. We have learned this from an eight years experience in the business, and we have never expected and don't intend to try to conduct this sheet to suit any one except the proprietor thereof.

The citizens of Mountain Creek contributed sixty dollars for the yellow fever sufferers of Pensacola.

A comet can be seen in the morning. It makes its appearance at about 4 a. m., just over the point where the sun rises.

The communication of "Teacher" which is published in this week's issue is a strong argument against the belittling of good schools by cheap tuition.

Mr. Frank J. Davis presented us last week with three very fine apples of the Taunton variety. Mr. Davis is a great fruit raiser, and our section is the locality for such.

A concert at Verbena, last Friday evening given by Mrs. A. M. Knox, of Clanton and Mrs. Werth, of Montgomery, was a success, and was much enjoyed by those who attended.

The splendid specimens of apples which have been brought to this office during the past few days have convinced us that Chilton county is an excellent section for this fruit.

We are glad to learn that Prof. A. E. Burns, who has recently removed from Bibb county to Jemison, has a flourishing school at the latter point. Success to him and all such enterprises.

Married, in Columbiana, Ala., on the 27th inst., Mr. E. L. Spencer and Miss Sallie A. Nelson. We extend congratulations to friend "Genie," upon his securing one of Shelby's fairest daughters as a life partner.

The Chilton View is well edited, shows energy and pluck in its columns, and we wish for it continued prosperity.—Tuskegee News.

Thanks Bro. Mac. We can well say ditto of the News.

Messrs. Maull & Hockensmith, at Lomax, are live merchants as will be evidenced from their liberal use of printers ink. They are anxious to buy corn and are ready to pay a good price for it. Read their advertisement and then call on them.

One of the saddest deaths that our community has known in a long while was that of Mrs B. J. D. Roach, which occurred on last Sunday afternoon. She was only nineteen years of age, had been a wife less than a year, and her death excited the sympathy of the whole community.

A trio of darkies were conversing on the street the other day, and one was heard to remark: "Twenty good mans could whip out the whole d--d squad." What squad was meant was left to conjecture, as their voices were suddenly lowered. Probably it is the "squad" that is to get the "whipping out."

A party of rascals visited the residence of Capt. S. F. Nunnelee, editor of the Tuskaloosa Gazette last week, and assailed his dwelling with brickbats. The trouble seems to be that Capt. Nunnelee is a very strong prohibitionists, and conducts his paper to suit his principles. He should have treated his cowardly visitors to half a dozen doses of No. 1 bird-shot.

The Republican District Convention, which was slimly attended, met at Wetumpka yesterday, organized, concluded neither to endorse or nominate, and thus adjourned. This course will elect Mr. Independent McCoy, of Chambers, over Col. Thomas Williams, by a majority of 720,000 or less, under the provisions of the late Lecompton treaty.—Advertiser.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
CLAY CO., August 7, 1882.

I, W. M. Scarborough, do hereby certify that Littleton Daniel treated an ulcered breast for Mrs. Rowe, of Mellow Valley. The entire breast was taken off and is now healing up. I regard the cure a very remarkable one.

W. M. SCARBOROUGH, M. D.

Any one suffering with cancer, who will visit me at Clanton, will receive treatment and if a cure is not made there will be no charge. Any one having a cancer in the mouth should give it immediate attention, I can cure it unfailingly.

LITTLETON DANIEL.

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 18-2t

A certain young gentleman on seeing the item in this paper stating that the b. m. had returned on account of his pocket being empty, translated b. m. as meaning "bad man," and concluding that he must be the individual alluded to, he made a call on us in company with a dangerous looking six-shooter. He was pacified on being told that b. m. stood for "boss man," and he forthwith made us a present of his shooting-iron, which can be seen suspended from the ceiling of our sanctum, and to which the "devil" has attached the ominous notice, "Look out! Loaded Gun!!" We will hereafter be able to "fix" our friends without the assistance of our champion of the "Three Daggers."

The Fever in Pensacola.

On Tuesday there were sixty new cases of yellow fever in Pensacola and too deaths. Total number of cases to that time 577. Total deaths 56. The mortality is 10 per cent.

Hon. Thos. Williams opened the canvass in this district on Monday at Cross Keys. His first speech in this county will be at Cooper's Station, on the 17th prox., and not at Verbena.

A good price can be obtained for your cotton in Clanton.

Low Rates.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad will sell Round-Trip Excursion Tickets from Montgomery and all stations north and from Memphis and all stations north, to the Louisville Exposition from September 4th to October 19th, and to the Cincinnati Exposition, from September 4th to October 5th, at four (4) cents per mile for the round trip. Tickets sold any day in the week and good to return ten days from date of sale.

For Sale or to Rent.

The house and lot in Verbena, with schoolroom attached, lately occupied by Miss Watson. Also a good lot of school furniture, piano, large stove, and dining table for sale cheap. For further information apply by letter to Miss L. G. Watson, Shorter's Station, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 1813.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 6th, 1882, viz: Sip Atchinson homestead entry 12227 for the n w ¼ of section 12, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Richard McCary, Thomas Ward and Edmund Hayse, all of Maplesville, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT, Register.

Sept 27-5t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March 1881, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The N E ¼ of the n w ¼ section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. Wheeler, its attorney in fact. sept21-5t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Rail Road Company by a certain Deed of Mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August 1881, the Louisville & Nash- Rail Road company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest didder, at the court House door in Clanton Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29 Township 22 North, Range 14 East situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said Mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Rail Road company. By Henry L. wheeler, its attorney in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by James E. Lowe and and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the ninth day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the pupose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. wheeler, its attorney in fact.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju 8-1y

BEST business now before the public.—You can make money faster at work for us than at anything else. capital not needed. We will start you. $12 a day and upwards made at home by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. You can live at home and do the work. No one can fail to make enormous pay by engaging at once. costly outfit and terms free. Address True & co., Augusta, Maine.

$66 a week in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Everything new. capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes. Ladies make as much as men, and boys and girls make great pay.—Reader, if you want a business at which you can make great pay all the time you work, write for particulars to H. Hallet & co., Portland, Maine.

"Quick sales and small profits,"
IS THE MOTTO AT THE CHEAP CASH STORE
—OF—
W. M. WILSON

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

Scohol Books a Specialty
—AT—
The Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON.

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN.
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

EAST TENN., VIRGINIA AND GEORGIA RAILROAD,
Forms the quickest and most comfortable route to Eastern Cities,
AND ONLY ROUTE
—TO THE—WATERING PLACES
—OF—
East Tennessee and Virginia
The principle inducements are
SPLENDID SCENERY, QUICK TIME AND THROUGH CARS.

The only line passing through the mountainous regions of East Tennessee and Virginia.

For information address,
JAS. R. OGDEN, G. P. A.,
A. POPE, Knoxville.
A. G. P. A., Lynchburg, Va.

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
24 AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 22-6m

GOLD. Great chance to make money.—Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances, remain in poverty. We want men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. Expensive outfit furnished free. No one who engages fails to make money. Information and everything needed sent free. Address Stinson & co., Portland, Maine.

NOTICE OF
COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala. J. L. WILLIAMS, County Surveyor.
Nov24-1y

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD!

We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us, with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us who from, and if you want it rolled. Put your name on express card. E. G. WALKER, Montevallo, Ala.
aug10-3m

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine
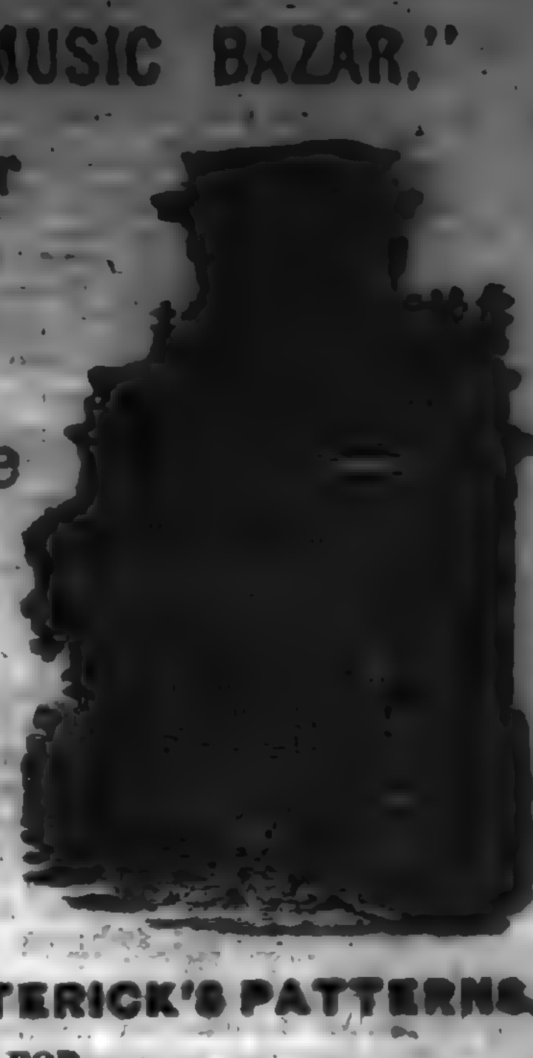
Oil Paintings,
Chromos,
FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—



NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing House,"
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
—DEALERS IN—
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods.

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.
Feb 15-tf

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,
—AND—
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.
—ALSO—
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS,
PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c
—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.
June 23-6m

A. A. CLISBY & CO.,
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
—DEALERS IN—
DRUG SUNDRIES, PATENT MEDICINES AND DYE STUFFS, SNUFF, LAUNDRY SOAPS, STARCH, PAPERS AND TWINE.
DEPOT FOR
Burning and Lubricating Oils, White Lead,
Paints, Oils, Varnishes, and Miners' Supplies.
—WHOLESALE JOBBERS IN CIGARS—
BIRMINGHAM.
Aug. 1—3m

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.
Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo. B. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.
Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-1y

Jno. S. Jemison,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
Over Joel White's Book Store,
No. 13 Market Street.
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.
Will practice in Montgomery and surrounding counties.

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST,
CLANTON, ALA.
Solicits the patronage of the public.
PRICES FOR WORK!
Shaving - - - - - [illegible]
Hair cutting - - - - [illegible]
☞ The only barber in the [illegible] who [illegible] talks.

MY NEIGHBOR.

What if my neighbor lies abed
Until the morning is half spent,
While wife and I have worked instead,
And earned enough to pay the rent?
He sleeps and has no rent to pay,
We toil and sing the live-long day.

What if my neighbor drives a pair
Of [illegible] horses sleek and fleet,
[illegible] to pay our fare,
Or only take the horse-car down the street,
And catch a picture on the way,
Look back and have no charge to pay.

What if my neighbor goes to church
And proudly sits where all can see,
While we are left quite in the lurch,
But in a corner bend the knee?
Of piety this is no test,
The poor in spirit are the blest.

I know my neighbor rich has grown,
But can not see his heart within;
I only need to scan my own,
And keep it free from envious sin.
To Him in whom there's naught obscure
All men alike are weak and poor.
—Detroit Free Press.

Arsenic in Wall Paper.

Some years ago I read a strange and highly-wrought story. It told of a man who went to take possession of some property in England which had just been bequeathed to him. He was not very graciously received by the people in charge, and living there for a time he finally became ill, and without any apparent cause drooped, and grew worse and worse.

If I remember rightly he escaped with his life, but the discovery was made by his physician that the green with which his room was furnished was in part arsenic green, and that he was slowly and surely being poisoned. Whether it was by intent or by accident was not proved, but the case looked rather dark for the people in possession, who had a snug berth in the house so long as there was no master living in it. At any rate, the story, which was evidently told by way of caution to all householders, made much more impression than a mere statement that it is dangerous to use arsenic colors in furnishing a room.

Within a few weeks one of my brother doctors writes of some young people who had been "decorating" their room, and what with lambrequins and other varieties the bed was pushed into a corner, and one of the sisters slept with her face toward the wall. She always had a headache in the morning, and her doctor suggested that the bed be moved out from the corner, and it being summer, with windows open and plenty of fresh air, her headache ceased. But it occurred to me that possibly also the paper might have something to do with her symptoms. They talk of legislation, but the best legislation would be for people to take care of themselves. Act intelligently and with care. The whole has lately come to my mind in a new experience.

My practice lies in a small town in the interior of the State, where there is no crowding and plenty of fresh air. I was called to see two children who were ill, drooping, with all sorts of anomalous symptoms; the eldest, a boy, not as seriously as his little sister. Of course, as was wise, I ordered careful nursing and watching, and waited to see what was the matter. On my second or third visit, the nurse, who slept in the same room, told me she was not well; not really ill, but "weak all over," and generally miserable. The mother was in an adjoining room, and both she and the other children seemed quite well. I told them my suspicions about the paper, for without the fatal "arsenic green," the peculiar hue of Paris green, I knew still that there were other tints and hues that also betrayed arsenic. They moved across the hall into another room, and I took a piece of the paper to be analyzed.

It was full of arsenic, and as soon as they were removed from its baleful influence they began to recover. This is the most marked case, though I could tell of others; and this is the moral: Never buy papers with arsenic green in them (nor green tarlatan dresses.) Have your wall papers examined, especially if they are cheap, and in any cases of unaccountable illness in the family look first for such a cause. It is a burning shame that such things should be, and that there is no law to control the manufacturers. The first man who will solemnly and truthfully assure us that he uses no arsenic colors is the man we should trust, after we are sure that he tells the truth.

Painted walls are better for bed-rooms, for they can be dusted, and can be washed when they need it. But in these days, when "decoration" is so much the order, of course paper bears the palm.

One paper should never be put over another except it be necessary—as was once said in a poorly built house—to strengthen the walls! Paper is often a lurking place for the seeds of disease—germs they call them now. But at least do not have poison in the paper.—Dr. J. Smith, in Christian Union.

Jenny Lind.

"Where is Jenny Lind now?" inquired a reporter of P. T. Barnum.

"Jenny Lind, or Mrs. Goldschmidt, is living in London, near the Buckingham Palace, at a place called Pimlico. When I was last in London I met her daughter at a photographer's—the royal photographer's—and she insisted upon my seeing her mother. So I went to see her, and had a very pleasant visit. Her marriage was rather romantic. Goldschmidt is a Jew. They studied music together. When she came to America she sent for him to come as a pianist, and he used to play at her concerts.

"It was her own arrangement, and she paid his salary herself. She thought he was a grand musician, and used always to get into one of the private boxes and applaud his pieces. Though she was older than he, she loved him, and was bound to marry him. He renounced his religion in order to be her husband. I guess he thought it was a comfortable place. She must be worth $1,000,000. There was a joke about it at the time. The question was, 'Why did he marry Jenny Lind?' and the reply, 'Because he was gold smit.'" —An exchange says that an Indianapolis young man has never voted, and has vowed that he never will, until his mother and sister can accompany him to the polls. If the young man's mother and sister are too busy to accompany him to the polls, they should employ a policeman to go with him; though a man who is afraid to go alone doesn't deserve to exercise the privileges of an American citizen.—Norristown Herald.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—It is the fashion in Milan to grow fruits instead of flowers for house plants. Some elegant parlors are almost converted into little orchards.

—Sir Fowell Buxton has been taking a lot of Norfolk farmers on an agricultural tour in Holland. The average crop of wheat per acre there is said to be the heaviest in the world.

—At Tornay-Charente, the termites, or white ants, having gnawed away the props of a dining-room without its being perceived, the flooring collapsed during a party and the guests sank through.

—The large estates in the province of Posen are passing from the hands of their Polish owners into those of Germans. Last year twenty-nine estates with 80,590 acres of land had thus changed hands, and many large estates are now in the market. The Polish press lifts its warning voice in vain against these transfers of property.

—Grass is said to grow luxuriantly in Waldeck's capital, Arolsen; there are no railroads within the principality, and the post chaises are of the style of fifty years ago. There was quite an interesting scene on the morning when the Duchess of Albany left her childhood's home. The royal family are very much beloved, and the whole town turned out to bid good-by to their pet, Princess Helen.

—A drunk and disorderly man was sentenced by an English magistrate to seven days at hard labor for trying at Leicester recently to shake hands with the Princess of Wales as she sat in her carriage, and poked him away with her parasol. He was immediately released at the request of the Prince and Princess. It is hard to beat an English magistrate in doing what he thinks will please the royal family.

—The present Duke of Devonshire always carried with him a little desk, which contained all the letters ever written to him by his wife, who died eleven years after her marriage, and to whom he was devotedly attached. A few years since the Duke's valet, while handing his master into a railway carriage at Westland Row, laid down the box, which was instantly snatched by a station thief, and has never, though large rewards have been offered, been recovered since. Of the family, Lord Hartington, now forty, is unmarried, and said not to be likely to marry, and Lord Frederick died without issue, so that the title is likely eventually to descend to Lord Edward, the third son, who is married to a cousin of the Earl of Harewood, and has with other male issues a son, Victor. The present Duke is seventy-six, but well preserved.

—There is an eminent painter in Paris who is economical and sententious. The other day one of the students broke a pane of glass in the studio-window, and replaced it temporarily by pasting a sheet of paper over the aperture. When the painter came down next morning he thrust his cane through the makeshift with the remark, "He that breaks pays." None of the class, however, took the hint, and next morning another sheet of paper was pasted across the window. It met with the same fate. And so on the next day, and so on the fourth. On the fifth day, when the artist came down, there was the paper as before. Fire flashed from his eyes, and roaring, "He that breaks pays!" he drove his cane through the paper—and through the pane of glass behind it that had been put in by the students, and then carefully pasted over with a sheet of paper.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—An exchange says that "Henry Irving, the actor, has two sons who will beat him on the stage." Henry should have them bound over to keep the peace. —Texas Siftings.

—Courage that grows from constitution often forsakes the man when he has occasion for it; courage which arises from a sense of duty acts in a uniform manner.—Addison.

—Doctor: "Well, Pat, have you taken that box of pills I sent you?" Pat: "Yes, sir, be jabers, I have, but I don't feel any better yet; may be the lid hasn't come off yet!"

—It seems to me we can never give up longing and wishing while we are thoroughly alive. There are certain things we feel to be beautiful and good, and we must hunger after them.—George Eliot.

—A New York physician gives half a dozen reasons why Americans grow bald. It appears that the principal reason is because their hair comes out. We always suspected as much.—Norristown Herald.

—It costs this Government over $18,000 per year to fire sunset guns at various military posts, but we wouldn't have 'em stop it for anything. The sun doesn't know enough to sink out of sight without being shot at.—Detroit Free Press.

—Unsatisfactory arithmetic: Parson—"I wish to complain, Mrs. Diggins, of the conduct of your daughter at the Sunday-school to-day; it was rude to the extreme." Mrs. D.—"Ah, it's what they taches her at that theer board school as dun it; yesterday she came home and she says: 'Mother, they are a-taching of me vulgar fraxions.' What can you expex after that, sir?"—London Fun.

—"What Ails This Heart of Mine," is the heading of a story that is going the rounds of the papers. We suppose he saw his girl out riding with another fellow. There is nothing that makes the heart get up and pound ribs and carom on the other vital parts, and jump up and down like a churn-dasher, and then get tired and keep so still you think it has stopped beating forever, as to see your girl out riding with another fellow, we are told.—Peck's Sun.

—The Scientific American says: "An invention that will be appreciated by travelers who play chess on voyages is that reported from Berlin of an iron chess-board, with magnetized men, that will hold in place, no matter how often the ship or the car rolls over." When a ship rolls over a few times, or when a car gets to the bottom of an embankment, we can imagine how much a traveler will appreciate an iron chess-board with magnetized men.—Texas Siftings.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—In Germany during the slippery season temporary calks are used for horse shoes. Two sharp-pointed studs an inch long are screwed into holes left in the shoes, and when the horse enters the stable they are taken out and a button screwed into their place, thereby preventing all damage to the horse and keeping the screw holes from filling.

—Cultivate frogs, toads and lizards. Put them in your gardens, and as the evening approaches they will hop from their hiding places and snuggle down in some convenient spot near the gutter, or where they know there will be plenty of food. The ants, roaches, mosquitoes, etc., they consume in the night is marvelous, and thus they keep down the insect pests.

—It is said, and we see no reason to doubt it, that if a cucumber vine is trained to run up a stake on which a few stubs of limbs have been left along its whole length, the crop will be enormous. By this plan the vines not only occupy less space but are afforded opportunity to follow their natural habit of climbing up, instead of running on the ground.—N. Y. Herald.

—Vermin on fowls and about hen roosts will leave headquarters by injecting from a syringe a weak steep in water of pennyroyal herb tea. Drive this weak steep thoroughly over the roosts and the poultry and it will cleanse them from lice. Several varieties of flies annoy and suck blood from horses and other animals. Pennyroyal steep will drive them away if the animal is washed with it.—American Cultivator.

—To Know Ripe Water-Melons: The Christian Intelligencer says that when the melon begins to change color inside, and its seeds turn black, a small speck, scale or blister begins to appear on the outer circle or rind. These are multiplied and enlarged as the fruit matures. A ripe melon will show them thickly over the surface. A partial development only indicates half-ripened fruit. A full crop of blisters reveals its perfect ripeness.

—A farmer of my acquaintance, whose business is chiefly raising hogs, had one acre of artichokes two or three years ago; he now has six acres and talks of planting four more. He says that in some years one acre of artichokes is worth three of corn, and that a small piece, according to the number of hogs, will any year be worth the same area of corn. Some use the tops as feed; horses and cattle both seem to relish them.—Farm and Garden.

—Creamed Cabbage: Slice as for cold slaw, and stew in a covered saucepan till tender; drain it, return to saucepan, add a gill or more of rich cream, one ounce of butter, pepper and salt to taste; let simmer two or three minutes, then serve. Milk may be used by adding a little more butter; or have a deep spider hot, put in the sliced cabbage, pour quickly over it a pint of boiling water, cover close and cook for ten minutes, then pour off water, and add half a pint of rich milk. When the milk boils stir in a teaspoonful of flour, moistened with a little milk; season, cook a moment and serve.—Chicago Journal.

—A clock on exhibition in Utica, N. Y., marks the time of day in all parts of the world at the same time. It is a globe with a transparent dial for local time, and in running the globe revolves figures on the ring representing the equator, indicating the time in different countries at that same particular moment. The clock was constructed at Canajoharie.—Utica Herald.

—One year ago the business portion of Truckee, Cal., was entirely wiped out by fire. Now the town is much larger and contains handsomer and more substantial buildings than ever before.—Chicago Times.

VAST merit is inherent in St. Jacobs Oil, and we heartily recommend it to our readers.—Chicago (Ill.) Western Catholic.

—The anti-æsthetic, all-but-poetic man of the Denver Tribune does exceedingly dislike O. Wilde, and says that if any girl in Colorado would marry "the gaunt, raw-boned, lantern-jawed, long-haired, mackerel-eyed, bilious-hued æsthete," his (the editor's) confidence in the taste and good sense of the average Colorado female will be remorselessly and eternally dispelled.

THE New York Evening Telegram says: Tony Pastor was cured of rheumatic pains by St. Jacobs Oil. He praises its efficacy.

—Mrs. Polly Shaw, of Canterbury, N. H., was one hundred years old a few days ago, and there was a gathering of her friends and relatives at her son's in honor of the event, at which four generations of her descendants were present.—N. Y. Post.

Our Progress.

As stages are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the hugh, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts. By druggists.

—The oldest building in Hartford, Conn., stands at the corner of Main and Talcott streets, and many of the timbers in it were put there in 1646.

Tennyson's "May Queen."

Who knows that if the beautiful girl who died so young had been blessed with Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" she might have reigned on many another bright May-day. The "Favorite Prescription" is a certain cure for all those disorders to which females are liable. By druggists.

—York and Lancaster counties, Pennsylvania, manufacture about one-tenth of all the cigars made in the United States.

IF the blood be impoverished, as manifested by pimples, eruptions, ulcers, or running sores, scrofulous tumors, swellings or general debility, take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Sold by druggists.

—A statistician estimates the annual consumption of cigars in this country at 275 for every man of voting age.

—The right of a woman past the age of twenty-one to marry whom she pleases has just been vindicated in Missouri. The father of Laura Hobbs, aged twenty-seven, attempted to hold her to continued service in the paternal home by locking her up in a room when she had made a verbal contract to become the wife of George W. Bishop. A writ of habeas corpus unlocked the door, and the marriage took place in spite of the father's objections.—N. Y. Sun.

After All Else Failed.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23, 1881.

H. H. WARNER & Co.: Sirs—I exhausted all other remedies for kidney and liver diseases, only to find complete cure in your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

S. CHAMBERLAIN.

—The stealer of a horse in Minnesota could not find a saddle, and took a sack of feathers to ride on. The sack had a hole, the feathers were slowly strewn along the road for twenty miles, and by means of them the rascal was hunted down.

IT has wonderful power on bowels, liver and kidneys! What? Kidney-Wort.

—It is said the Horseshoe Falls at Niagara have lost the shape which won for them their name, and now resemble a letter V.

Decline of Man.

Nervous Weakness, Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility, cured by "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists. Send for pamphlet to E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

—A Frenchman says that there has not been one pure French novel written during the last twelve months.

That Husband of Mine

Is three times the man he was before he began using Wells' Health Renewer. $1. Druggists. Send for pamphlet to E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

—A Frenchman says that there has not been one pure French novel written during the last twelve months.

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

—There are four nickel mines in the United States, all of which are exceedingly profitable.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK.

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR RHEUMATISM,
Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Soreness of the Chest, Gout, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Swellings and Sprains, Burns and Scalds, General Bodily Pains, Tooth, Ear and Headache, Frosted Feet and Ears, and all other Pains and Aches.

No Preparation on earth equals ST. JACOBS OIL as a safe, sure, simple and cheap External Remedy. A trial entails but the comparatively trifling outlay of 50 Cents, and every one suffering with pain can have cheap and positive proof of its claims.

Directions in Eleven Languages. 17

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS IN MEDICINE.

A. VOGELER & CO.,
Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH
BITTERS

The terrible scourge, fever and ague, and its congener, bilious remittent, besides affections of the stomach, liver and bowels, produced by miasmatic air and water, are both eradicated and prevented by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a purely vegetable elixir, indorsed by physicians, and more extensively used as a remedy for the above class of disorders, as well as for many others, than any medicine of the age.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

ENGINES (Traction & Portable) for Farm, Saw Mill & Plantation. For prices, etc. write THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO. Mansfield, O.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE
HISTORY OF THE U. S.
BY ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

It contains nearly 800 fine portraits and engravings of battles and other historic scenes, and is the most complete and valuable history ever published. [illegible] Agents are wanted in every county. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents.

[illegible] Publishing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

FAIRBANKS'
SCALES.
The World's Standard.

COTTON SCALES.

For Weighing Seed Cotton at the Gin.

Will more than pay for itself in one Season. Don't be humbuged by the cheap and worthless Wagon Scales which are offered at any Price; they are of no use and you will be better off without a Scale.

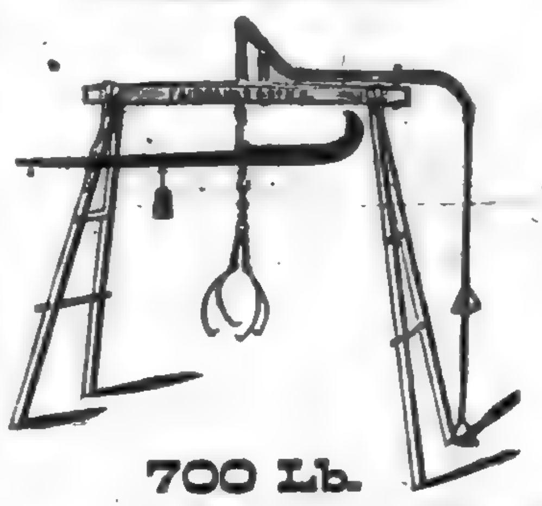
Write to us for Prices and one of our Books giving Testimonials. Don't buy untill you have heard from us, or seen our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS'



700 Lb.
SOUTHERN
COTTON BEAM
Frame, Hooks and all other required Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE
Fairbanks' Standard.

SCALES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

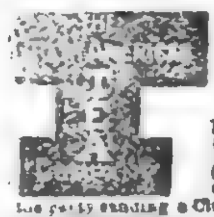
SEND FOR PRICE LIST.

FAIRBANKS & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS.

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.



GOOD NEWS
TO LADIES!

Get up Clubs for our CELEBRATED TEAS, and secure a beautiful "Moss Rose or Gold Band Tea Set," (44 pieces,) our own importation. One of these beautiful Tea Sets given away to the party sending a Club for $25.00. Beware of the so-called "CHEAP TEAS" that are being advertised—they are dangerous and detrimental to health—slow poison. Deal only with reliable houses and with first hands if possible. No humbug.

The Great American Tea Co., Importers,
P. O. Box 289. 31 & 33 VESEY ST., New York.

DR. STRONG'S PILLS
THE OLD
WELL TRIED HEALTH
WONDERFUL RENEWING
REMEDIES.

Sold by leading druggists. For circulars and almanacs with full particulars, address P. O. Box [illegible], N. Y. City.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

BULBS, PLANTS, TREES, &c.

Our Illustrated and Descriptive Price List of Holland Bulbs, Plants, Seeds, Shrubs, Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Grape-vines, etc., all for Fall planting, will be mailed FREE TO ALL APPLICANTS. Address NANZ & NEUNER, Louisville, Ky.

12 Cents buys 3 Lovely Ad. Cards and a None Such Cook Book. GEO. C. HANFORD, Syracuse, N. Y.

DR. HARTER'S

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and invaluable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice.

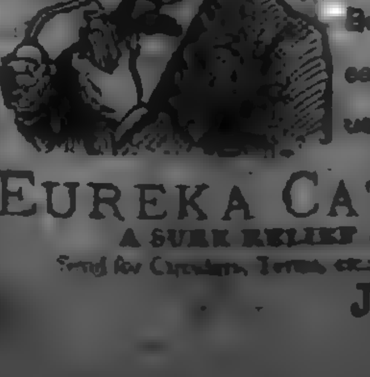
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 20th, 1881. DR. ROBERT SAUNDERS, 3104 Wash. Av.

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus, in a palatable form. The only preparation of Iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO. 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. L



FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, Neuralgic Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use

EUREKA CATARRH CURE,
A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.
Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to
J. W. GURLEY, M. D., Atlanta

DIAMONDS FINE JEWELRY
SOLID SILVER
BRIDAL PRESENTS
LARGEST STOCK, NEWEST
and Lowest Prices.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue
J. P. STEVENS &
FACTORY & SALESROOM
34 WHITEHALL STREET
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN

Woman can Sympathize with Woman.

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND
is a Positive Cure
for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

McBRIDE & CO.
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE
ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Own the Gate City National Stone Water Filter and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Catalogue mailed on application.

SIX CTS: WHY WASTE MONEY! [illegible]

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILL

Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.

Send for CIRCULARS.

Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM

Lamar Daily Mutual Marriage Association,
Holly Springs, Miss.

Organized Aug. 24th 1882. Pays [illegible] and $5. per day. No membership fee. Annual dues $8, $9, and $10 according to amount of policy. Policies paid [illegible]. Send applications to G. C. MYERS, Holly Springs, Miss.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES
OF ALL KINDS, BELTING
PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL
IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS
STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS
&c. Send for Price List. W.
LINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street,
VILLE, KY.

TEAS in abundance.—[illegible] imported the last year.—[illegible] than ever.—Agents wanted. [illegible] waste time.—Send for [illegible]
10 lbs. Good Black or Mixed
10 lbs. Fine Black or Mixed
10 lbs. Choice Black or Mixed
Send for pound sample, 17 cts. extra. Then get up a club. Choicest Teas in the world. Largest variety. Pleases everybody. Oldest Tea House in America. No chromo. No humbug. Straight business. Value for money.
ROB'T WELLS, 43 Vesey St., N. Y.

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL 1. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1882. NO. 47.

THE WHEEL O' THE BREAST.

Through rivers of veins, on a nameless quest,
The tide of my life goes hurriedly sweeping,
Till it reaches that curious wheel o' the breast,
The human heart, which is never at rest:
Faster, faster, it cries, and, leaping,
Flinging, dashing, speeding away,
The wheel and the river work night and day.

I know not wherefore, I know not whither,
This strange tide rushes with such mad force;
It glides on hither, it slides on thither,
Over and over the self-same course,
With never an outlet and never a source;
And, lashing itself to the heat of passion,
It whirls the heart in mill-wheel fashion.

I can hear in the hush of the still, still night
The ceaseless hum of that mighty river;
I can hear it rushing, gurgling, gushing,
With a wild, delirious, strange delight,
And a conscious pride in its sense of might,
As it hurries and worries my heart forever.

And I wonder oft, as I lie awake
And list to the river that seethes and surges
Over the wheel that it chides and urges—
I wonder oft if the wheel will break
With the mighty pressure it bears, some day,
Or slowly and wearily wear away.

For little by little the heart is wearing,
Like the wheel o' the mill, as the tide goes tearing
And plunging hurriedly through the breast
In a network of veins on a nameless quest,
From an [illegible] unto unknown oceans,
Bringing its cargoes of fierce emotions,
With never a pause, or an hour for rest.
—Ella Wheeler, in Chicago Tribune.

BLINKS' DOG.

Mrs. Blinks declared she wouldn't have another one of those little nuisances in the house again; "for what good are they anyway?" Mrs. Blinks asked in an indiscriminate way, as she gazed in succession at the rocking chair, the French clock, and the "God Bless Our Home" motto over the hall door. As no reply was vouchsafed from any one of these, she went on: "If you're going to have a dog, you want a dog that is a dog, and not a plaything."

Mrs. Blinks had read of the watch-dog's honest bark, and numberless narratives wherein the watch-dog aforesaid was the hero, and the thief and murderer the victim, and by consequence if there was one thing more than another that Mrs. Blinks had set her mind upon having it was "a dog that was a dog," as she so happily and lucidly expressed it.

So much had she said about this thing that Blinks, one of the most devoted of husbands, could not find it in his heart to discourage, much less to thwart her ardent longing. It was some time, however, ere he could find just the dog that came up to the ideal of what a dog should be. Finally he heard through a friend of a dog up country somewhere which seemed to fill the bill to a nicety, and negotiations were at once entered into which resulted in the animal's being forwarded by express.

The day for the canine's arrival was looked forward to with joy and impatience, and when the day, which seemed so long coming, did come at last, Blinks hurried down to the express office, with many a promise to his eager spouse that he would be back just as quickly as he possibly could.

When Blinks got within a quarter-mile of his destination, a noise reached his ears such as had never reached them before. It sounded like the croaking of a legion of frogs, each with a very bad cold. It was not until he got a glimpse of a dry-goods box and a vicious-looking nose protruding through the slatted side that he could so much as guess what was the cause of it all.

It was the dog. Blinks looked at his property in the dry-goods box. He didn't go very near it. Possibly he felt it would be rude to gaze at short range upon an imprisoned fellow creature. The animal was a cross between the bull and the mastiff, and cross as both put together. To say that he was possessed of an amiable countenance would be the grossest flattery. His prison-house was littered with shreds of coat-tails, trousers, etc., formerly part of the raiment of the trainmen, which he had sampled from time to time during his trip, as opportunity afforded, and he looked as though he would like very much to add to the collection.

Blinks was in a quandary. He stood off and coaxingly remarked to the dog that he was a nice fellow; but the animal did not appear to take the compliment in the spirit that was intended, but repeatedly knocked the muzzle against the bars of his cage in a most ferocious manner, awakening the livliest fears in Blink's breast least one of those slats should suddenly give away.

Blinks, therefore, retreated in good order and set about bribing somebody to take his treasure home. He finally found an expressman whose needs were greater than his fears, and after much labor and the loss of some skin and much blood, the man succeeded in getting the ideal dog into his wagon. Excepting the frog opera which the animal indulged in, with an occasional intermission which was devoted to testing the strength of his prison bars, the journey to Blink's house was devoid of interest.

The wagoner unloaded his living and lively freight at Blinks', and with the loss of a few more square inches of cuticle and a few pints more of blood, the box and the dog were safely landed on Blinks' piazza.

Mrs. Blinks was, of course, delighted at the noble beast. "So gentle-looking," she remarked, extending her hand to pat his head through the bars. She did not carry out her intention, however. There was something in the glare of that "gentle-looking" dog's eyes and glistening teeth that made her change her mind. So she stepped back several paces, and admired him from a safer distance.

The Blinkses congratulated each other several times upon the acquisition of such a treasure. Of course, he was a little frightened now—it did not occur to them that anybody else was frightened, or if it did neither said anything about it—but he would grow accustomed to them in a little while, and would be as docile as a kitten. In the meantime it was concluded not to worry him just at present, but allow him to remain on the piazza in his dry-goods box.

So Blinks lowered some meat and drink through the hole in the top of the box, taking care to shut down the cover as quickly as possible after having done so. Blinks said some time afterward that the animal ate a whole quarter of beef that first night; but this was, of course, exaggeration born of disappointed hopes.

In the course of a week of alternate stuffing and starving, the dog began to recognize the Blinkses as his friends and protectors, and showing unmistakable signs of contrition for his previous ungrateful conduct, and a desire to conciliate, he was finally released from durance vile and allowed to roam about the Blinks domain at his own sweet will.

But although he had entered into social compact with the Blinkses, Towser (for such was his title) showed no disposition to widen his circle of friends. The first morning after his release, the milkman was seen running frantically away from the house with torn clothing and horrified visage, while Towser was peering at him over the high fence, shouting his frog opera as well as a mouthful of coat-tail would permit him.

The milkman did not come again, and he had apparently told his misadventure to all the milk-dealing fraternity; for not one of them could be induced to come within twenty rods of the Blinks residence. But this was not all. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker, and even the grocer, one and all, suddenly ceased their calls for orders, and as it was a good mile to the nearest store, the Blinkses were in danger of starvation in the midst of plenty; for Blinks was in the city all day, and Mrs. B. was a very poor walker. As Blinks trudged back from the village of an evening, heavily laden with family supplies, he more than once half-wished that Towser wasn't quite such an ideal dog, after all.

But with all these discouragements, that dog gave the Blinkses a topic for conversation that was never dull nor uninteresting. On the contrary, it was quite thrilling and always possessed something novel. One evening Mrs. B. had to tell how Towser broke through the fence and killed neighbor Jones's pet pussy; the next day his exploit consisted in making mutton of a stray sheep, and the day following was marked with the death of a goat or the maiming of a cow.

And so it went on, until not a resident of the town was on speaking terms with the Blinkses. Visiting them was, of course, long ago out of the question. Suits at law began to flow in, and before a month had passed, bankruptcy began to stare poor Blinks almost out of countenance.

It was clear that this state of things could not go on much longer. Blinks began to figure up the cost of keeping an ideal dog. In the first place there was what the animal ate, at the current rates about five dollars a week; then there was the work of doing one's own marketing and being one's own truck horse, the loss of all friends, and finally the lawsuits. Again Blinks wished, this time quite heartily, that Towser wasn't quite such an ideal dog.

The climax came at last, the turning point in Towser's career. Not content with cats and goats and such small game, he had the hardihood to attack the good minister, who essayed to call on the Blinkses in the performance of his pastoral duties. Parson Brown lifted the latch and got nearly half-way inside the gate, when there was a cataclysm. The ground was covered with dust and clergyman and dog and blood and shreds of clothing, all mixed together in the most inextricable confusion.

It took Blinks and Mrs. Blinks and three pounds of beefsteak to withdraw Towser from the combination, and much time and nursing and a good bit of Blinks' money to bring the parson and his raiment into anything near the condition they were before his interview with that ideal dog.

This was the straw which broke the camel's back, or rather the event which drove Towser from his new home. Blinks started off the very next morning after Towser's ministerial exploit, and did not rest until he found a man who could be hired to take the dog away. He did not ask the man to buy the ideal dog. He did not give the animal away; but he paid a handsome bonus for the accommodation. And he made no conditions as to what should become of his ideal dog. He merely said: "Take him away—anywhere, anywhere; only take him away!"

The Blinkses have never kept a dog since, not even "a dog that is a dog;" and if you want to make Blinks tearing mad, all you have got to do is to ask him if he has bought another dog yet.—Boston Transcript.

A Brave Girl.

The doctors are always ready to avail themselves of all the human bodies they can get to cut up in the dissecting-rooms, but there are probably comparatively few of them who would be willing to contribute their own cadaver to the use of the colleges when they get through with them themselves. We lately had a letter from a brave young woman now happily recovering, but who, at one time, thought she was pretty nearly at the gates of death. Speaking of her possible demise she remarked: "In such an event I prefer to abolish the undertaker and rob the grave yard by having my body sent to the dissecting-table, and, if possible, disclose wherein I made the mistake that forfeited my life."—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Fires in Coal-Ships.

The liability to spontaneous ignition of the cargoes of coal-laden vessels and the precautions that tend to lessen the liability form a question the full importance of which one would expect every owner of such vessels to recognize. The Board of Trade has, however, considered it necessary to once more place before agents, owners and others a recommendation of the Royal Commissioners who considered this subject, and which advises the periodical and frequent testing of the temperature of various portions of the cargo. If properly performed, this would greatly decrease the chances of ignition occurring, though it would never completely avert them. Almost all cases of spontaneous ignition are directly due to some chemical action—generally oxidation—which, acting in a confined space, gradually generates sufficient heat to set fire to the coal. The oxidizing of the impurities in the coal is almost invariably the cause of this spontaneous ignition; and of the impurities, iron pyrites are found the most dangerous. When, therefore, a coal is notoriously "brassy," as many of our English coals are, the vigilance of a shipmaster should be increased and stricter attention paid to the variation of the temperature of the cargo than when the coal is comparatively pure. It is, of course, often an extremely difficult matter to ascertain the actual temperature of the almost inaccessible interior of a great bulk of coal, and this difficulty is very frequently only imperfectly overcome, or not overcome at all. During the voyage of the Challenger a simple electrical contrivance was used for ascertaining the temperature of the sea at depths inaccessible to the thermometer, with perfect success. The question suggests itself whether a somewhat similar method could not be employed on shipboard. With a few of these electrical thermometers distributed throughout the mass of coal, a shipmaster could at any time, and with unfailing certainty, ascertain whether the temperature of the interior of his cargo was becoming too high for safety, and so would be early enabled to take the necessary steps to prevent fire and explosion.—Liverpool Mercury.

Reminiscence of the Cholera Year.

Captain Timothy Stannard, of Westbrook, who was born 1796, is one of the few surviving packet-sloop commanders who made trips from this city to New York and Albany. The round trips varied in duration from one to two and three weeks. Once Captain Stannard made the run up the North River in twenty four hours, and sometimes it would take a week. He says that at the time of the cholera panic at New York, in 1833, he left New Haven on a Thursday and the next day he was sailing up the North River. When eight miles up from New York he noticed a large number of partially-loaded vessels sailing down. "It did not take me long to find out the trouble," remarked the old mariner. "I immediately turned the sloop about and headed for New York; and loading 500 barrels of flour and other stores, I bore away for Hartford. They loaded me so hurriedly that I found my flour had overrun fourteen barrels, and this lot I carried back to the shippers on my next trip. Leaving Hartford Saturday night, I arrived at New Haven Sunday afternoon with the balance of my load of provisions. I tell you they were glad to see me, for they were fearing that they would be starved out, owing to the panic in New York. I loaded on Tuesday. A number of merchants came down to the wharf and wished to know if I was not afraid to return to New York. But I was not afraid, for I believed that God would help me. I never believed that I would take the cholera, and I did not. My crew were Westbrook men. They got scared and left the sloop. But I got a new crew and cleared. The merchants said they would give me lots of business, and offered me a 25 per cent. lay." Continuing his narrative, Captain Stannard said he made five round trips to New York during the prevalence of the cholera. With tears in his eyes the veteran told of meeting people in after years whom he had helped to escape from the city. Once he had on board fifty-five passengers who, after arriving at this port, went to the interior towns.—New Haven (Conn.) Palladium.

The Art of Mezzotint.

These attempts at revising the art of mezzotint as employed upon original work have a special interest besides that which attaches to them as experiments so far successful and promising to be still more so. They show the desire to cultivate a very beautiful and refined style in which English artists, inspired as they were by the beautiful pictures of Reynolds and Gainsborough, more than a hundred years ago, arrived at the highest perfection. That the method should ever have been suffered to fall into disuse, and be supplanted by the more mechanical and less artistic work produced in various forms by various tools used to cut into the plate in a more or less stiff and unpliant manner, is much to be regretted. It is essentially a painter's method, more pictorial than any other, and broader in treatment, and one, therefore, that enables the artist to give full expression to his feeling for the beauties of light and shade and every charm of gradation and suggested color possible to a monochrome.

A NEBRASKA preacher stopped his sermon to give a baby a chance to cry, and the young one squared himself with such vigor that he burst a blood vessel.

A Cute Yankee.

A Yankee peddler while traveling in the West became somewhat embarrassed for want of funds, and resolved to embark in his accustomed occupation. He reached a small city in one of the frontier States. After taking a survey of the surroundings he received his stock of goods and proceeded to dispose of his wares, consisting of scissors, pocket-knives, razors, spoons, etc. He had not journeyed far before an officer accosted him and called for a license. He had none and so informed the official who, finding the peddler a stranger and not familiar with the law, desired to be as lenient as possible, and simply directed him to the City Hall to receive the necessary document. The Yankee proceeded to find the proper official and inquired the price of a license to run for a week, and found it more than his surplus capital. Therefore he secured one for only a day. At night the Yankee footed up his profits, and found that he had lost money, and resolved to continue without renewing his license. Several days passed, and he was in nowise molested, but one warm day about ten o'clock in the morning, he was approached by a corpulent German, with the inquiry: "You got license." The Yankee said: "Oh, yes, certainly," and moved on. But the vigilant special was not so easily satisfied, and followed him up, saying: "Meester, you got license, I look at him." The Yankee again informed the officer that he had a license, but the little Dutchman said: "Veel, veel, you got license all right, but I look at him." The Yankee, seeing he must get out of his difficulty either legally or by his wits, said: "Are you an officer?" The Teutonic official said: "Yes, I vas an ofeecer." "Well," said the Yankee, "where is your badge, sir?" The officer was in his shirt-sleeves, and looked as if he might have been a grocer or some other tradesman. He did not say a word, but jumped into his wagon and drove rapidly away. The Yankee concluded the Western people had learned the game of bluff but thought they would have to rise early to get ahead of a down-easter. The peddler visited the next house and offered his wares as before, making a sale, and bidding the lady good day started for the street, when to his horror and surprise, he saw the persistent official standing at the gate accompanied by another gentleman. As the Yankee reached the walk the portly little German said: "You got no license, eh. you come mid me, you my prisoner." The Yankee looked somewhat frightened, and in a low voice said: "Your badge, sir." The official was now robed with coat and vest, and pulling away the lapel of his coat and patting his breast violently, said: "Dere, dere be's my badge."

"Ah," said the Yankee, "you are an officer." The official said: "That's shust what I vas," and straightened up in the usual official style and expanded his lungs as if to pounce upon his prey, when the Yankee slowly placed his fingers in his vest pocket and pulled out a document branded, signed and sealed, License. The official seeing the headline license, wilted without examination, and turned and with one leap landed in his wagon and drove out of sight.

The writer was an eye witness to the scene, and, being amused by the circus, strolled down the street to where the Yankee was, and accosted him, saying: "That was well played." "Ah," said the Yankee, with a wink of his eye, "you don't see the point. My license expired a week ago."—New Haven Register.

Boys, Go Home.

Ah, boys! you who have gone out from the homesteads into the rush and bustle of life, do you ever think of the patient mothers who are stretching out to you arms that are powerless to draw you back to the old home nest? arms that were strong to carry you once, pressed to hearts that love you now as then.

No matter, though your hair is silver-streaked, and Dot in the cradle calls you grandpa, you are "the boy" so long as mother lives. You are the children of the old home. Nothing can crowd you out of your mother's heart. You may have failed in the battle of life, and your manhood may have been crushed out against the wall of circumstances; you may have been prosperous, gained wealth and fame; but mother's love has followed you always. Many a "boy" has not been home for five or ten or twenty years. And all this time mother has been waiting. Ah, who does not know the agony expressed by that word? She may be even now saying, "I dreamed of my John last night. May be he will come to-day. He may drop in for dinner," and the poor, trembling hands prepare some favorite dish for him. Dinner comes and goes, but John comes not with it. Thus, day after day, month after month, year after year, passes, till at last, "hope deferred maketh the heart sick," aye, sick unto death; the feeble arms are stretched out no longer.

The dim eyes are closed, the gray hairs smoothed for the last time, and the tired hands are folded for everlasting rest, and the mother waits no more on earth for one who comes not. God grant that she may not, in vain, wait for his coming in the Heavenly home. Once more I say unto you boys, go home, if only for a day. Let mother know you have not forgotten her. Her days may be numbered. Next winter may cover her grave with snow.

—Rubbing the horse morning and noon with a handful of smartweed will prevent the flies from troubling him during the day.

Old Hotel Registers.

"What becomes of the old hotel registers?" inquired a Sun reporter of Jerome Leland, of the Sturtevant House.

"Got 'em all in a big safe down stairs. Come and take a look," said Mr. Leland. Then he led the way through a subterranean labyrinth of cooks, ranges, laundries, stores and wine cellars to a vault under the sidewalk next to a room where the thermometer would have registered 200 degrees, if the register had permitted. The hot room contained the stove where irons were heated for the laundry.

"You see I had this vault built on purpose to keep these books. No danger of their getting damp or mildewed here."

"Do you ever have to refer to them?"

"Very often it becomes necessary to establish the fact that a man was here at a certain time. It is a common occurrence to fix the dates of business transactions by these registers, and they are frequently used in court."

"But that must be a trouble to you?"

"Yes, of course; but we don't mind taking a little trouble for a friend."

"Are you bothered by getting your clerks subpœnaed to produce the books in court?"

"Sometimes; but it is very difficult to be certain that any of us was here at any particular time, if we can't spare the time to go and testify."

You must have a great many valuable autographs in these registers."

"Lots of 'em; but we never allow them to be cut out. There are all the registers just as we have had them for eleven-years."

Charles Stetson, of the Astor House, has preserved all the old registers of that famed resort. He has in them a series of autographs of the most distinguished public men of the last half century. These books he has kept religiously, never permitting them to be mutilated by autograph-hunters. They were taken away by him when he left the Astor House. On their pages may be found the names of Clay, Webster, Calhoun, and a long line of Presidents who visited the Astor House during the many years that it was the chief hostelry of the city. The Leland family have generally preserved their registers in the various hotels they have kept throughout the country.

At the Brevoort House the old registers contain many of the names of distinguished foreigners who have visited this country and made the Brevoort their headquarters. The late Mr. Hawk, of the Windsor, one of the oldest hotel keepers in New York, had many old registers whose names comprise some of the most noted professional men in the United States, as well as leading wealthy citizens. It is generally the rule that when a hotel changes hands the old proprietor takes away the register. When the Hoffman House recently changed hands the old registers disappeared. There are a great many old registers at the New York Hotel. Here, during the many years that it was kept by Hiram Cranston, the leading men of the South gathered and left their names. Mr. Cranston always kept his registers. His son, Hiram Cranston, Jr., does the same. There was a very interesting set of registers in the Metropolitan Hotel when it was kept by Tweed and Garvey, but they have disappeared. Mr. Henry Clair, the present manager, keeps the registers at this house as well as at the other hotels owned by the Stewart estate. The Metropolitan uses about two registers in a month. The St. Denis and the Albemarle have preserved all the old registers. The St. Nicholas, now one of the oldest hotels in town, has a big pile of registers, containing a generation of distinguished names. At the Everett House the old registers are kept, and frequently referred to by old customers.

But there is one hotel where the old registers are not regarded with much reverence. That is the Fifth Avenue Hotel, now under the same proprietorship that it was when started more than twenty-one years ago, that of Hotchkiss & Darling. For many years the old registers were kept, and often referred to. Time and again they have been lugged into court and clerks with them under subpœnas, Duces Tecum. Finally the proprietors got tired of furnishing so much testimony to courts without adequate compensation. It was found that by keeping the registers often a couple who stayed but one night and paid ten dollars into the hotel treasury might entail fifty dollars worth of bother by legal proceedings in proving the register. Therefore, about six months ago, orders were given to burn the registers as fast as they are filled. As the urbane light-haired clerk expressed it: "We don't let 'em get cold, but get 'em out of the way at the earliest possible moment. People can now look elsewhere for testimony. We can't afford to keep one clerk hunting for books and another on the witness stand all the time."—N. Y. Sun.

—The manufacture of peach-baskets has become an important industry. Years ago the baskets were made by hand, costing from 25 to 30 cents, and the loss of any considerable number of them was a serious matter. But the establishment of great factories, required by the growth of the peach trade, has reduced the price to a moderate figure, varying from $6 to $8 per 100. Along the Maryland railroads there are now eight or nine basket factories, each making from 3,500 to 4,000 baskets a day during the busy season. The bottoms and hoops are made of Maryland pine, and the staves from the Delaware gum tree.—Chicago Times.

HUMOROUS.

—A real stylish house on a good street in New York costs $100,000; just $99,999 more than we've got.—New Haven Register.

—Brooklyn, N. Y., has been counting up her lawyers, and is rejoiced to find that she has only about 1,600.—Detroit Free Press.

—Ladies when being courted ought not to object to the moderate use of tobacco. They should recollect that where there is a "flame" there must be some smoke.

—"Great Pains Taken" is the heading of an advertisement in one of the dailies. Probably some gentleman has eaten a whole watermelon.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

—Definition of loot: Student wants to know what is meant by the word "loot" in the war dispatches. Why, a lute is a thing with strings that you strum with your fingers. Hence, anything that you can get your fingers on to, that's loot. —Burlington Hawkeye.

—Water privileges: "You advertise that there is a fine stream of water on the place, but I don't see it," remarked a stranger who wanted to rent the place. The landlord said: "Just work that pump-handle a little, and you will see a fine stream of water. You don't expect to have the Niagara Falls on the place for fifteen shillings a month, do you?"—Texas Siftings.

—"They err who tell us politeness has fled," says a French paper, and calls to witness the following postscript to a letter lately received by the Duc de X—from the steward of one of his estates: "I beg that your grace will excuse for having taken the liberty of writing this letter in my shirt sleeves, but the excessive heat has compelled me to be guilty of this apparent disrespect."

—The Masher:

"What is that mother?"
"A masher, dear;
You will always find it standing here,
Posed on the corner of the street,
Proudly displaying its tiny feet,
Twirling its little ten-cent cane,
And stupefying its tender brain
With the smoke of a paper cigaret.
Don't touch it, dear—it was raised a pet."
"Will it bite, mother?"
"Well, I should shout;
It will bite a free lunch for all that's out."
—Washington Republican.

—Making pictures in the clouds just as the sun was going down, gilding the edges with gold and turning the silver lining almost inside out: "Oh, there's a great big chariot wif horses and ponies, and—and oh, it's all gone now," said little curly hair. "Huh!" said little shavey head. "I see a little angel now." "Where is it?" "Oh, it's gone now. You are the only little angel left." Needn't tell us children can't be gallant.—New Haven Register.

Death to Flies in One-half Hour.

Heretofore one of the greatest of our trials in summer has been in the keeping of our dining-room and kitchen free from flies. It is a rule with us that nets shall be in all opened windows and that the net doors must be kept closed, and there is no deviation from this. But careful as we might be the pests would get in. We have brushed until shoulders and arm were lame and hands blistered; have used various fly-catchers, sticky fly paper and poison fly paper, discarding the latter several times on account of its poisonous properties and disgusting effects, but returning to it because we did not know what else to do. We will say that our house is very sunny, light and airy—we have no blinds, and can not darken the rooms and so keep the flies out. A short time ago we became alive to the necessity of throwing away once for all the fly paper, having been convinced that it was impregnated with a solution of arsenic. Knowing the efficacy of Persian insect powder—Pyrethrum roseum or cinerafolium—in destroying insect life, we closed the windows and doors of the dining-room, sprinkled a large handful of this powder upon a few live coals and retired to await results. The smoke was quite dense for two hours, yet at the end of that time not one fly was dead, they were somewhat weak in the legs, but soon revived.

After this failure we next purchased a small insect powder bellows for one dollar, half filled the receptacle with powder and blew it all around the room, making a fine dust. Soon a buzzing was heard, as when a fly is caught in a spider's web, only louder, and in one-half hour every fly in the room was dead. The fly season is now robbed of its terrors for us, for a few puffs of the bellows each morning before sweeping keeps our rooms free from flies. The powder costs 60 cents per pound at wholesale, but with care will last some time, for gentle puffs of the powder answer every purpose, as it is only necessary to blow it once where the flies can breath it.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

Won the Wager.

Fred Flasher and Miss Florentia Flounce were discussing the mental power of controlling thought. Said Flasher:

"I will give you a pair of gloves if you can think of positively nothing for five minutes and still be awake."

"Done," she responded.

Five minutes passed.

"I've won the gloves!" she exclaimed.

"How did you manage to think of nothing for the whole five minutes?" he asked, eagerly.

"I focussed my mind firmly on your moustache and kept it there," she replied, triumphantly.

The [illegible]

—Detroit Free Press.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 5, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

Senators Brooks, of Mobile. Harrison, of Lee, and Hargrove, of Tuskaloosa, will be candidates for president of the next State senate.

Among the candidates for the speakership of the next House will be Col. R. H. Powell, of the Union Springs Journal, W. F. Foster, of Macon, and E. H. Moren, of Bibb.

A State Prohibition Convention has been called to meet in Montgomery on the 21st of November. Full representation from every county in the State is requested.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—The Picayune's Pensacola dispatch reports 55 new cases of yellow fever and 5 deaths. Grand total of cases since the epidemic began is 930 and deaths 92, a fraction less than 10 per cent.

Hon. Thomas Williams, Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, in a recent speech defined Independents in our State as "independent of the intelligence and patriotism of the country, and dependent on its ignorance and corruption."

Ashville Ægis: "We don't care a continental how many thieves the North puts into office, how much they plunder the treasury, as we can't prevent it; but one thing is certain, we will attend to our own business, and take care that none of these scoundrels get possession of our state coffers."

Capt. Samuel D. Oliver, of Elmore says he has no idea of opposing Col. Thos. Williams for Congress, and scouts the assertion that anybody in the woods up there, will stand any showing against the sledge hammer talk and universal popularity of our Uncle Thomas. —Advertiser.

On the question of the inauguration of a state immigration bureau by the next legislature, the Hayneville Examiner will find important co-operation from the state press in the position it has assumed on the subject. In other words it will find its position endorsed and sustained by the most influential local press of the state. —Southern Ægis.

Congressional.

The election for representatives in Congress will be held in this State on Tuesday, the 7th day of November.

The Democrats have nominees in the field in each of the eight districts.

In the first district they have nominated Hon. Thos. H. Herndon, of Mobile. Col. Herndon has already served two terms in Congress. He is opposed by a Republican, Judge Luther R. Smith. Judge Smith is a northern man, an ex-Circuit Judge, in which position he made a reputation for uprightness and impartiality. He will, however, not go to Congress from the first district, as that district will undoubtedly return Col. Herndon.

In the second district the Democrats have renominated Col Hillary A. Herbert, who is now serving his third term and has gained valuable experience to add to his soundness of principles. He is opposed by Judge Samuel F. Rice, who is running under the name of an Independent Liberal Repuplican. Both of these candidates live in Montgomery. The large negro vote of Montgomery will probably give that county to Rice, but the white counties of the district will each give a rousing majority for Herbert, sufficient to insure his election.

In the third district Col. William C. Oates is the Democratic nominee. A negro, G. N. Mellen, hailing from Russell county, has been placed in the field against him by the Republicans. Every county in the district is classed as Democratic.

The fourth district renominates Gen. Charles M. Shelley, of Dallas. Every county in this district has a heavy negro vote, but as there are two Republican candidates in the field for the long term, the probability is that Gen. Shelly will be re-elected. Judge George H. Craig, of Dallas, and Merritt House, negro, of Hale, are the Republican candidates. For the unexpired term from which he was ousted by a Republican majority Gen. Shelly was also renominated. His opponent is a negro, one Jones, of Lowdnes.

In this, the fifth, district the Democrats have for a third time nominated Hon. Thomas Williams, American Rev. Mr. McCoy has [illegible] from the contest, [illegible] make Mr. Williams election as certain as it was before his withdrawal.

In the sixth district, Hon. G. W. Hewitt, of Jefferson, is the Democratic nominee. He is opposed by Probate Judge Alexander Cobb, of Lamar, who is running as a sort of Greenbacker. Col. Hewitt will have something of a "walk over," as he will carry every county in the district.

In the seventh district, Gen. William H. Forney, of Calhoun, is the Democratic nominee. He is a man of marked ability, and is now serving his fourth term in Congress. Arthur Bingham, formerly Republican State Treasurer under the Lewis administration, has been placed in the field by a Republican Convention. The district is reliably Democratic.

In the eighth district the Democrats have nominated Hon. Luke Pryer, to make the race against the "renegade Lowe," who claims to be a Greenbacker. Col. Lowe has been unable to canvass the district on account of ill health, and as his chief strength is in his known ability for speech-making, Mr. Pryor's chances for election are every day increasing.

Taken all in all the probability is strong that Alabama will send a solid Democratic delegation to the next Congress—"a consummation devoutly to be wished."

Since the above was put in type, we learn that Judge Cobb, of the sixth district, has withdrawn in favor of one, Col. J. N. Carpenter, of Birmingham, who is out as a Greenback candidate.

Senator Morgan.

This distinguished citizen addressed our people at the courthouse yesterday. His appointment for that time not having been published very extensively, the audience was not so large as it otherwise would have been. He was listened to with attention by those who were present, and not a one who heard him speak, but was benefitted thereby.

He referred to the dangerous negro element of the South's population, bringing out as it does questions unanswerable, and presenting to our people a problem which only the future can solve. He advanced the idea that not a single head of a negro family in the country was endeavoring to bring that family up in a manner that would reflect credit upon and be of benefit to the race.

He spoke at length upon the rascality of Republicanism and of the Republican majority in Congress especially. He reminded us of how the Radical party in our own State had, in five years, increased the States indebtedness from $4,000,000 to $30,000,000. He stated that by the grace of Republican rule the people of the United States were being taxed to the amount of $400,000,000 annually, and that $100,000,000 was taken away from the people more than was needed to run the government. The pro rata share of every human being in Alabama was $8 paid into the treasury through the tariff. Alabama spent thus $10,000,000. He urged upon us the necessity of sending men to Congress who would do their utmost to check this nefarious system of plundering the people.

The Senator's speech occupied an hour and a half. Our limited space will not permit us to review it at greater length. It was able, logical and instructive, and the only regret is that there was not a larger number present to hear it.

Political Riot in S. Carolina.

LANCASTER, S. C., Sept. 28.—A political meeting here yesterday was addressed by [illegible] Cash. About the close of the meeting, a difficulty arose at the stand between a white Democrat and a colored man, which resulted in the former being wounded in the head by a blow with a stick or a stone. At this time two or three pistol shots were fired near the stand. Soon after this a large procession of colored persons on horseback came upon the streets. One of the number, having a large pistol buckled around his body, drew it and pointed it at a white man and said "Ther's the d—d rascal who did the shooting." The white man gave him the lie, and the colored man fired at him immediately. Several shots were fired by white men and the colored man fell dead. A number of shots were then fired by white and colored men and three other colored men killed and many wounded. The authorities soon succeeded in restoring quiet, which now prevails. It is hoped and believed that the trouble is over. The above statement is made on information of a reliable person, and it is believed to be substantially correct.

At a republican club meeting Monday night at Mobile, in connection with the Congressional canvass in that district, Gen. J. W. Burke, Collector of that port, was assaulted by Allen Alexander, a well known negro politictan who figured conspicuously in the late Repulican State convention at Montgomery.

Grand and Petit Jury.

The following is the list of jurors, grand and petit, drawn to serve at the fall term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, which begins on Monday, the 30th day of October:

GRAND JURY.

J. D. Terry, G. W. Houlditch, Nathan Smith, W. L. Parnell, J. W. Gullaborn, John Milford, Henry Candler, W. F. Lide, G. W. Patrick, B. F. Rasberry, J. H. Giffis, W. A. Marcus, Rasa Maness, R. L. Wooley, S. E. Macon.

PETIT JURY.

W. H. Gay, E. G. Rollins, W. P. Curry, Samuel Gray, A. J. Duncan, A. J. Scott, John W. Chambers, Reuben McGraw, R. J. Downs, Dolby Atkinson, B. L. Dennis, Willis Willett, M. F. McNeil, B. F. Culpepper, J. D. Higginbotham, D. C. Littlefield, M. Robinson, Jr., Anderson Raker, Jr., W. S. Thompson, J. S. Jones, Aaron Littleton, George Suttle, T. W. Motes, T. L. Eiland.

Public Speaking.

Hon. Thos. Williams, Democratic and Conservative candidate for Congress will address the people of Chilton county as follows:

Cooper's, Tuesday, October 17.
Clanton, Wednesday, October 18.
Jemison, Thursday, October 19.
Mullberry Church, Wednesday, October 25.

The ladies are especially invited to attend.

By order of the District Executive Committee.

J. H. PARKER, Chairman.

Mr. J. D. Jenkins, a brakeman on accommodation train No. 8, had the misfortune to meet with a bad accident on Tuesday evening, at our depot. He was coupling two cars, and in coming from between them, his right ankle was caught, and one of the car wheels passed over it, mashing his foot off. His sufferings were intense, and he was sent to Birmingham, for medical treatment.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 27-tf Lomax, Ala.

S. J. Heath's

Inauguration of the Fall and Winter Season of 1882 and 1883.

New Stock! New Store! And New Prices!

Better goods and more of them for the money than can be had at any other house in Chilton County

Now Being Offered

—BY—

S. J. HEATH,
THE Monarch Merchant
OF THIS SECTION.

Who has just completed a large and commodious store house at

Strasburg, Ala.

and purchased the largest and most complete stock of General Merchandise, ever brought to this market, which he has bought at

"ROCK BOTTOM" PRICES FOR "SPOT CASH,"

and which will be sold at the smallest living margin. Come and see me. Examine and price my goods and you will be convinced that it is to your interest to give me your trade. Call without delay. You cannot judge the extent and magnitude of my stock until you have seen it. Don't be governed by the past, but call and see for yourselves.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR COTTON AND COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Remember the place
HEATH'S, AT STRASBURG.
Sept. 27-tf

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

H. L. Wheeler.
GENERAL
Real Estate Agent.

Will buy and sell lands for commissions.

Wheeler & Riley,
Fire Insurance Agents
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
—AND—

Agents for the London and Lancashire and Royal Insurance Companies, of Great Britian and the Capital City, of Montgomery, Ala.

Office on First Avenue, Second Floor of Bank Building. Jun15-1y.

Ehrman Again
To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.
MEAT PER POUND 15c.
GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.
Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.
LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, HARDWARE, CROCKERY, FURNITURE, WOODWARE, and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.
Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West

Only one change of cars to ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

and the best route to BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Dr. J. P. Civhan,
(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my19-ly

J. F. MAULL. J. H. HOCKENSMITH.

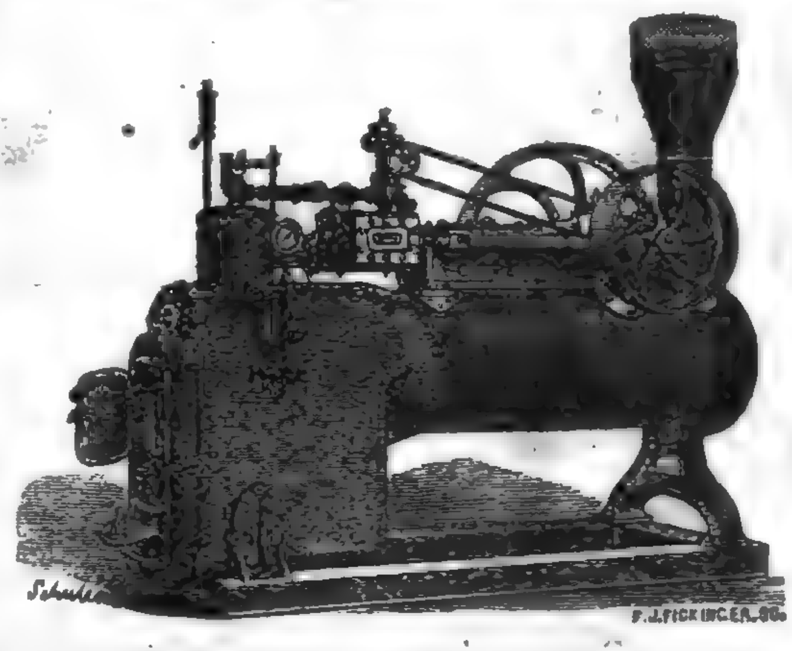
MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Lomax, Ala.
——DEALERS IN——
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HATS, Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinware, Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles and FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN. ☜

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patronage.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINES
OF ALL SIZES
FROM TWO TO TWO HUNDRED HORSE POWER,
—AND—
OF ALL KINDS

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHEELS.

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Best.
Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,
General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State. mar9-ly

A. A. CLISBY & CO.,
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
——DEALERS IN——
DRUG SUNDRIES, PATENT MEDICINES AND DYE STUFFS, SNUFF, LAUNDRY SOAPS, STARCH, PAPERS AND TWINE.
DEPOT FOR
Burning and Lubricating Oils, White Lead,
Paints, Oils, Varnishes, and Miners' Supplies.
——WHOLESALE JOBBERS IN CIGARS——
BIRMINGHAM.
Aug. 1—3m

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing House,"
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
——DEALERS IN——
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods.

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.
An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volumes.

SOME REASONS WHY
THIS WORK
is Superior to all Other
CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopedia.
It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopedia.
It embraces over 40,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.
Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork, and Binding first-class.
IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.
Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.
Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.
Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.

Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms to right parties. Send for circulars.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,
74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

Sold only by Subscription.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

LANTON, ALA., OCT. 5, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.

Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.

Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.

Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.

Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.

Representative—William A. Collier.

Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.

Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.

Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.

Sheriff—James E. Lowe.

Treasurer—James M. Parish.

Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.

Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.

Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.

Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:45 p. m.
No. 11	3:35 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	*9:00 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	8:15 p. m.
No. 12	10:35 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 6:30 a. m.	Selma	Arr 9:15 p. m.
" 9:45 "	Calera	Lve. 6:02 "
" 4:16 p m	Rome	" 11:32 a m
" 6:15 "	Dalton	" 9:40 "
" 8:13 "	Cleaveland	" 7:00 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:20 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 423, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T. meets every Friday night at 8 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

W. M. Wilson is selling ten pounds of coffee for a dollar. Give him a call.

That wholesouled old gentleman, Mr. Willis Lowe, will accept our thanks for a basket of fine apples and peaches.

W. E. Shores, of Pelham, Shelby county, has been visiting his father, Rev. J. W. Shores, at this place, during the past week.

See the advertisement of Birmingham Stove House, and get your heating stoves before cold weather sets in. Hardware and kitchen furniture can be supplied on short notice.

Wellman & Co., of the Louisville Clothing House, at Birmingham, have a bran new stock of clothing on hand to sell at low figures. See their advertisement.

A number of typograpical errors have crept in upon us of late. This is due to a new apprentice in the office, who, however, like the majority of us, is growing wiser as he grows older, and will do better in future.

A large number of delegates and visitors attended the meeting of Unity Baptist Association at Shiloh Church, which began last Friday. Delegates from Clanton church were, W. D. Sartor, J. M. Thacker, and L. F. Grace.

Notwithstanding the very dull season, the subscription list of the View has had many new names added during the past summer. This is gratifying to us, as it shows an appreciation of our efforts to give our readers a good, readable paper.

An item in the last issue of this paper read: "An Alabama law prohibits the owners of sheep killing dogs to run at large." The types were somewhat in error, not the owners but the dogs should have been so prohibited, though the country might not suffer much if both were.

Senator Morgan was unable to fill his appointment to speak at Verbena yesterday. He could only give us a speech at Clanton. It is to be much regretted that he could not fill his other appointments. He desired to speak at [illegible], on the 11th, but has changed that appointment to Randolph, Bibb Co.

All persons indebted to the View either for advertising or subscription are earnestly requested to come forward and settle. We have waited patiently during the dull season, and now, that good crops have crowned the country, we shall expect each and every one to pay the little bill long since due the View. Don't disappoint us.

The Montgomery Advertiser is responsible for the following:

"Major J. M. Falkner brought from his place at Mountain Creek yesterday, a cucumber which is a yard long and weighs forty-one pounds, which is on exhibition at Hale's drug store. It is of the Hutchings variety and is said to have that rare flavor which defies the cramp."

Merchants and others ordering from our advertisers would confer a special favor by stating that the advertisement was seen in this paper. Several of the energetic and enterprising wholesale houses of Birmingham are advertising in these columns liberally, and as they are anxious to build up a trade from this section, they will present better bargains than can be had elsewhere for the same amount of money. Our merchants especially should give them a trial.

Clanton organized a military company on last Saturday. The names of forty-two members were enrolled. Maj. J. M. Bivings was elected Captain and W. E. Stewart and W. E. Johnston, first and second Lieutenants respectively. The commission and arms have been applied for and will probably arrive this week. Any one in the county, desiring to become a member of the company, can do so by forwarding application to J. B. Boykin, Orderly Sergeant. It is to be hoped that the company will receive every encouragement.

Some changes have lately been made among the conductors of the S. & N. Ala. railroad. Conductors Flanders and Butt, of through express trains have resigned, and have taken like positions upon the Trans-Ohio Div. of the B. & O. road. Their places are filled by Conductors Brewster and Tooley. T. J. Bently formerly on accommodation is now general yard master at Birmingham, and J. S. Callahan has cut off his side whiskers, and in consequence, been promoted from the evening to the day accommodation.

A couple of tramps came down the railroad on Monday evening. They had a suspicious appearance, and a deputation of the Chilton Guards were sent out to halt them and enquire the whither and wherefore of their march. With a series of chuckles and grins the peripatetic disciples handed over a couple of recommendations, which were very plainly written in Highland Dutch and lowland slang sandwiched with Mexican "cuss" words. The chief of the brigade of enquiry seemed to be satisfied without perusing the documents, and permitted them to depart in peace.

Maplesville Dots.

Mr. Boge Broadhead died very suddenly on the 28th ult. He was picking cotton in a field with his wife, who left him for a short while to go to the house. When she returned he was dead in the cotton house, with no marks of violence on his person. He was a young man and had only been married about six months.

Thirty-six bales of cotton have been shipped from here this season.

Plenty of sorghum in the neighborhood, at 75 cents per gal.

BIJOU.

Jemison Jottings.

The school building is completed and the Institute under full headway.

Mrs. S. T. Haverland and Master I. B Smith are visiting Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. S. J. Dawson, of Clear Creek, is the happy father of a nine pound boy.

Local news is particularly scarce this week. Expected to have a wedding and a death to announce, but the old woman got mad and kicked the wedding into the middle of next December; and the doctors both having sickness in their own families they couldn't go to see the patient, and he got well.

Mr. G. W. Pierce is making syrup with a $300 outfit. HUGO.

Verbena Views.

We learn that Mr. Acre, late of Prattville, has been elected principal of the Verbena Academy. He is a graduate of the State Agricultural and Mechanical College, and is quite young, not having reached his majority. He comes highly recommended, and will, we hope, fully appreciate the trust committed to his charge. Those at a distance wishing to avail themselves of the advantages offered by Verbena for the education of their children, can find board and lodging for them near the Academy on reasonable terms. The school will open the 2d Monday in October.

The Methodist Protracted meeting closed Thursday night. The laborers of the vineyard worked faithfully. If any seed were sown on good ground, the future will reveal the fruit. OCCASIONAL.

Errata.

MR. EDITOR:—In my article on "Cheap Tuition," in your issue of last week, there are two or three slight typographical errors, which you will please allow me to correct.

In the first sentence, the expression "crying events of our county" should be "crying evils of our country." In the sentence next to the last one in the article, the expression "from the work of teaching and other kinds of business" should be "from the work of teaching to other kinds of business."

TEACHER.

Low Rates.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad will sell Round-Trip Excursion Tickets from Montgomery and all stations north and from Memphis and all stations north, to the Louisville Exposition from September 4th to October 19th, and to the Cincinnati Exposition, from September 4th to October 5th, at four (4) cents per mile for the round trip. Tickets sold any day in the week and good to return ten days from date of sale.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.
Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the
Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.
Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt. Clanton, Ala.
oct 5-3m

For Sale or to Rent.
The house and lot in Verbena, with schoolroom attached, lately occupied by Miss Watson. Also a good lot of school furniture, piano, large stove, and dining table for sale cheap. For further information apply by letter to Miss L. G. Watson, Faunsdale, Marengo co., Ala., care J. Bethea, Esq. s215t

NOTICE NO. 1813.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 6th, 1882, viz: Sip Atchinson homestead entry 12227 for the n w ¼ of section 12, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Richard McCary, Thomas Ward and Edmund Hayse, all of Maplesville, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT, Register.
Sept 27-5t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March 1881, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The N E ¼ of the n w ¼ section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. Wheeler, its attorney in fact. sept21-5t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Rail Road Company by a certain Deed of Mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Rail Road company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest didder, at the court House door in Clanton Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29 Township 22 North, Range 14 East situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said Mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Rail Road company. By Henry L. wheeler, its attorney in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by James E. Lowe and and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the ninth day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the pupose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. Wheeler, its attorney in fact.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!
THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electra-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days trial is allowed. [illegible]

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN.
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.
Over 25 years experience.
I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.
nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 22-6m

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

EAST TENN., VIRGINIA AND GEORGIA RAILROAD,
Forms the quickest and most comfortable route to Eastern Cities,
AND ONLY ROUTE
—TO THE—WATERING PLACES
—OF—
East Tennessee and Virginia
The principle inducements are
SPLENDID SCENERY, QUICK TIME AND THROUGH CARS.
The only line passing through the mountainous regions of East Tennessee and Virginia.
For information address,
JAS. R. OGDEN, G. P. A.,
A. POPE, Knoxville.
A. G. P. A., Lynchburg, Va.

NOTICE OF
COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
County Surveyor.
Nov24-1y.

Election Notice.

The qualified electors of Chilton county, Alabama, are hereby notified that an election will be held at the several election precincts, in said county on the first Tuesday in November in 1882, being the 7th day of said month, for the election of a member of the 48th congress of the United States, for the 5th congressional District of Alabama.

Witness my hand this 4th day of October, 1882.

J. E. LOWE,
Sheriff chilton county.

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD!
We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us, with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us who from, and if you want it tolled. Put your name on express card.
E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.
aug10-3m

$66 a week in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Everything new. Capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes. Ladies make as much as men, and boys and girls make great pay.—Reader, if you want a business at which you can make great pay all the time you work, write for particulars to H. Hallet & co., Portland, Maine.

BEST business now before the public.—You can make money faster at work for us than at anything else. Capital not needed. We will start you. $12 a day and upwards made at home by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. You can live at home and do the work. No one can fail to make enormous pay [illegible]

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.
Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.
We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment.
Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,
—AND—
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.
—ALSO—
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c
—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.
June 22-6m

W. & C. ROBERTS,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,
And Blank Book Manufacturers,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.
We have the largest and completest printing office in North Alabama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the larger cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send your orders to us.
Nov7-tf

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.
I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.
Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo.
B. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.
Wilson, Johnston & Wilson,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton [illegible]

Jno. S. Jemison,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
OVER JOEL WHITE'S BOOK STORE,
No. 18 Market Street.
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.
Will practice in Montgomery and surrounding counties.

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST
CLANTON, ALA.
Solicits the patronage [illegible] work:
[illegible]

MISUNDERSTANDINGS.

Scene.—New York drawing-room, 1:30 a. m.

I clasped her hand, and I held it fast,
While I gazed in her dreamy eyes,
And a far-off look o'er her features passed,
Like the twilight of vesper skies,

While, like one too happy or shy to speak,
With a throb I could understand,
She turned from my raptures her glowing cheek,
And veiled it with faltering hand;

And the gentle tremor which thrilled her frame,
And leaped from her pulse to mine,
To my thirsting soul with its message came,
Like the magic of cordial wine.

At last she pitied the hopeless smart
Of the passion she long had scorned,
And just as I felt she had opened her heart,
She opened her mouth, and—yawned!
—C. C. Carroll in Harper's Magazine.

A Cordon Around the North Polar Basin.

The cordon of international scientific stations around the North Pole basin is presumably by this time near, if not quite, complete, and the observational work they are to carry out fairly begun. The different corps of observers sent out to occupy these Arctic outposts were instructed to begin observing on August 1, inst., if possible, and continue them, if possible, till September 1, 1883. The research undertaken, in accordance with the scheme of Lieutenant Weyprecht, embraces all the phenomena of Arctic meteorology, terrestrial magnetism, auroral displays, and astronomical events, with a number of optional investigations. These observations will be taken hourly each day, and the instrumental equipment of the various expeditions, as well as their personnel, insure thorough investigation of the phenomena occurring within reach of the different stations. The United States and Russia have each opened two stations, England and Canada together occupy one, and Germany, Austria, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Finland and Denmark each occupy one—making twelve in all.

A calculation of the mean latitude of these polar observatories places them on the parallel of seventy-one degrees five minutes north. As the circumference of this parallel is about eight thousand miles, it will be seen that the average distance of the stations from each other is a little less than seven hundred miles. This, it is to be regretted, is a large interval; but, actually, there is one gap (that between Cumberland Sound, in Davis Strait, and Fort Rae, British America,) of over a thousand miles, and another between Fort Rae and Point Barrow nearly as wide. In the eastern polar area there is a third gap extending from the Dutch station, Dickson Harbor, at the mouth of the Yenisei, to the Russian station on the Lena Delta, over forty-two degrees in longitude (about nine hundred miles), and still a fourth interspace, between the Lena Delta and Point Barrow, of eighty degrees, or sixteen hundred miles. This last immense gap is not of so much consequence as the other three, as it affects the investigation of polar phenomena related to the meteorology of sparsely inhabited Northeastern Asia. But the break in the chain of observations between the German station on Cumberland Sound and Fort Rae will seriously mar the value of the meteorological data, so far as America is concerned, unless the British Government open an intermediate station on the west shore of Hudson Bay. Fort York may perhaps serve for this purpose if the observations taken there were made uniform and synchronous with those instituted at the higher stations. The results of this grand concerted research of the nations, it may be expected, will be of great moment to science, and, as it is an experiment limited in time, every practical measure should be taken to make it complete.—N. Y. Herald.

Look Out for the Sheep.

Sheep are subject to most aggravating annoyance from a fly (oestrus bovis) which seems bound to deposit its larvæ in the nostrils. It infests wooded districts and shady places where the sheep resort for shelter, and by its ceaseless attempts to enter the nose makes the poor creatures almost frantic. If but one fly is in a flock they become agitated and alarmed. They will assemble in groups, holding their noses to the ground. As they hear the buzzing of this little pest going from one to another, they will crowd their muzzles into the loose dirt made by their stamping to protect themselves, and as the pest succeeds in entering the nose of the victim it will start on a run followed by the whole flock to find a retreat from his enemy, throwing his head from side to side as if in the greatest agony, while the oestrus having gained his lodging place assiduously deposits his larvæ in the inner margin of the nose. Here, aided by warmth and moisture the eggs quickly hatch into a small maggot, which carrying out its instincts begins to crawl up into the nose through a crooked opening in the bone. The annoyance is fearful, and maddening, as it works its way up into the head and cavities of the nose. The best known remedy is tar in which is mixed a small amount of crude carbolic acid. If the scent of the acid does not keep the fly away he gets entangled in the tar, which is kept soft by the heat of the animal. Any kind of tar or turpentine is useful for this purpose, and greatly promotes the comfort of the sheep and prevents the ravages of the bot in the head. —Prairie Farmer

Rhubarb Pie.

None but the younger rhubarb should be used in making pies. Go out and kill your rhubarb with a club, taking care not to kill the old and tough ones. Take out the entrails and remove skin carefully. Rhubarb pies with the hair on are not in demand as they were when the country was new. Now put in the basement of cement and throw on your rhubarb. Flavor it with castor oil and hammer out the top crust until it is reasonably thin. Then solder it on, taking care to make it perfectly tight. Then set the pie, with zinc monogram on top, in the oven where it can be kiln-dried. W[illegible] found to be impervious to the action of [illegible] steel or acids, remove and feed th[illegible] [illegible] who reads this paper from the news [illegible] and never pays for anyth[illegible] every day —Bill Nye.

Japanese Fans.

Yesterday morning a representative of the Tribune was riding down town in a street-car, and he noticed that several of his fellow-passengers were armed with Japanese fans. The hot days when these are acceptable have been few and far between this summer, and the sight of so many of them were unusual to the reporter, who began to put in his time in contemplating the startling illustrations which some of them bore. The fat man across the way was vigorously working a fan upon which was depicted a very short-waisted Celestial with blue hair and red eyes trying to escape from a number of variegated snakes. Beneath the picture was a tea-box inscription which probably stated that the man was a victim of delirium tremens. A woman who boarded the cars at Fourteenth street exhibited a fan bearing a very pretty thing in animal life representing an impossible frog teaching a class of sawed-off frogs from a cabbage-leaf. Another fan carried by a man in front of the scribe bore a representation of a group of small Chinamen performing an operation which looked like the colored game of "craps." The study of these fans and their curious designs aroused a curiosity in the powerful reportorial mind, and he wished to find out where these articles were manufactured and how much they were worth.

After some search he struck a wholesale-house on Wabash avenue where these goods are imported and sold, and from a gentleman connected with the house he found out what he wanted to know.

"These fans," said the gentleman, "used to be manufactured solely in China and Japan, and had to be imported. Then they cost considerable more then they do now, as cost of transportation was greater. They used to come in large fancy boxes like tea boxes, carefully packed in large lots. You did not see so many of them and they were not used much for advertising."

"What has occasioned the reduction in prices?" asked the reporter.

"Well, you see, the Chinamen and Japanese began to come to this country, making their headquarters in San Francisco, and there some of them started factories for the manufacture of these fans. They imported the material in the rough from their old homes and made fans up here much cheaper. The demand for the goods increased, and now they are plenty and are sold at from twenty to thirty cents per dozen.

"Are they much used for advertising?"

"Oh, yes. Why a certain railroad company sent an agent to Japan to see if he could not get the initials of the company printed on all the fans manufactured in that country during one year. He made the factories there a fabulous offer, but they declined. Now the company has a San Francisco house do their work, and they give away a good article of fans. They are used extensively by advertisers, and are good advertising mediums, as they are preserved."

"How are they made?"

"The wood is polished or Japanned bamboo. For the open fans sticks of hollow bamboo about two feet long are used. A little more than half the stick is split into fibers which are spread out, cut into the shape of the fan, and bound with fine strong twine. A heavier cross-piece is put through the handle to strengthen the fan, and the fine paper, which has been printed in colored designs, is pasted over the frame-work. In the folding fans the same material is used and they are made on the plan of ordinary folding fans. Most of the work on them is handwork, and Chinese labor is about as cheap as machine labor."

The gentleman showed the reporter several samples of these fans, both in fine and coarse grades, and when he went away he was in reality "a Japanese young man."—Chicago Tribune.

African Superstition.

It was not long ago that I happened to be in a part of Central Africa where no white man had been before. I was separated from my companions—a hundred miles distant. War was raging around me; the road was difficult. I wished to communicate with those whom I had left behind. "Who will return," I asked of the naked savages, "to the white men and carry them something from me?" Numbers volunteered, glad to earn a yard of cloth for the job. A letter was written and offered to a man, and he was told that this piece of paper would inform my friends of all—that it would speak to them. He dropped the letter on the ground and ran away. Others were tried, but it was useless. A great crowd assembled, and, at a safe distance, gazed at the little bit of paper fluttering on the ground. "It is medicine," they said. "It is charmed." In vain I tried to reason them out of their terror. None would touch it. "Will no one," I said, "keep it and give it to the white men as they pass this way?" A yell of refusal and excited gesticulations answered my request. "Then I shall place it here in this tree," I said, moving toward it, while the crowd dispersed in flight, "and you can point it out to the white men when they come." Even this they refused to do. My friends passed close under the tree, but no one dared to show them the charmed thing; and there it is probably to this day, fluttering on the branch of that stunted fig tree, like an evil spirit, the awe and terror of the tribe.—H. B. Cotterell.

—A Kansas story is about three mice that rolled an egg down a stairway without breakage. One held the egg in a close embrace, while the others rolled him like a ball from one step to the other, always managing to let him strike on his back, thus protecting the egg. The man who says he saw it does not hesitate to add that they rolled the egg to a small hollow in the floor, which steadied it while they cut through the shell with their teeth and emptied it.—N. Y. Sun.

—A Bodie man is writing a treatise on "How to Keep the Baby Quiet." It is understood that the way is very simple; that all that is necessary is to smear the child's hands with N. O. molasses and give it a bunch of feathers to play with. The babe will, it is said, pick the feathers from one hand to the other all day in perfect content.—Denver Tribune.

A Petroleum Romance.

A fellow New-Yorker pointed out to me this morning a citizen of Pittsburgh who was at one time a salesman in a retail grocery there, at a salary of $500 a year. When the petroleum excitement became rampant, he went to Titusville without any money, and after a few weeks he fell in with a prosperous speculator and "struck oil," making $400,000 to $500,000 in a year. He increased this sum to $1,500,000, and was urged by his friends to retire from the oil region with the wages of his luck. This he refused to do, and before another twelve-month he had lost it all but a few thousand dollars. Then he returned to Pittsburgh and went to work in a legitimate way. But the fever of speculation attacked him once more and he betook himself a second time to Oil Creek. After various shifts and adventures fortune revisited him, and he was able to count his million. Trying to double this—he had fixed his figure at $2,000,000—he was again financially wrecked. This time he was so poor that he stayed among the wells, and was forced to earn a livelihood by becoming a day laborer. New opportunities opened to him, and a third time he got very rich. Reckless speculation once more brought him low, and he left for California, hoping to improve his prospects there. The fascination of petroleum drew him back. He made a fourth fortune and lost it; and finally a fifth, with the same result.

Within a few months the fickle goddess has smiled for the sixth time, and he has invested all his money in Government bonds—well nigh $1,700,000—and forsworn speculation. He sold all his oil before the recent tumble in prices, and says he has learned wisdom by experience. Having more than he will ever spend, he ought to be contended financially, and run no more risks; but I doubt if he will. The $2,000,000 he had fixed upon he has not yet reached; and he will be different from most speculators if he can resist the old greed. His wife, who is here, with four children—two grown-up girls and two boys on the eve of manhood—was the counselor that induced him to buy governments. He himself is not yet fifty.—Boston Advertiser.

A NEW YORK State man who tried a flying machine of his own invention had no advice to give to those who crowded around. All he said was: "Work in 'durned fool' somewhere on my tombstone!"

"A Drop of Joy in Every Word."

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Three months ago I was broken out with large ulcers and sores on my body, limbs and face. I procured your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Purgative Pellets" and have taken six bottles, and to-day I am in good health, all those ugly ulcers having healed and left my skin in a natural, healthy condition. I thought at one time that I could not be cured. Although I can but poorly express my gratitude to you, yet there is a drop of joy in every word I write. Yours truly, JAMES O. BELLIS, Flemington, N. J.
"Discovery" sold by druggists.

—The Chinaman in America has been slow in finding out the difference between evaporated apples and steam-dried shavings; between Zante currants and dried bluebottle flies. But at last his eyes have been opened. He now, on the Pacific coast, buys fruit on the parent stem, gathers it himself and dries it in his own peculiar style. Some of the product finds its way to China.

DR. R. V. PIERCE'S "Golden Medical Discovery cures every kind of humor, from the common pimple or eruption to the worst scrofula.
Four to six bottles cure salt-rheum or tetter.
One to five bottles cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.
Two to four bottles clear the system of boils, carbuncles, and sores.
Five to eight bottles cure corrupt or running ulcers and the worst scrofula.
By druggists, and in half-dozen and dozen lots at great discount.

—They have a way of trading out West which is very refreshing to a man who is accustomed to the old fashioned methods of the East. "That sheet is worth at least five dollars." "No, sir; it is only worth three." "I say it is worth five." "And I say it isn't." The seller at this juncture drew a navy revolver, quietly cocked it, and pointing it at the head of the purchaser, continued in tones of persuasive blandishment: "I tell you that sheet is worth five dollars." The purchaser replied with alacrity: "Well, yes, at least five dollars, and possibly more."—N. Y. Herald.

WEAK lungs, spitting of blood, consumption, and kindred affections, cured without physician. Address for treatise, with two stamps, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—There are a great many farms and fields which can never be cultivated at a profit. These if planted with forest trees, such as chestnut, oaks of different varieties, pines and larches, would produce a growth of timber which would be a source of profit, and then the energies of the farmer might be concentrated upon his best land, and his manure could be applied where it would do the most good.—N. Y. Herald.

"The Highest Anticipations."
MADISON, Ind., June 15, 1881.
H. H. WARNER & Co.: Sirs—Yours Safe Kidney and Liver Cure realized my highest anticipations, and I cordially recommend it to all who suffer with kidney or or liver diseases. J. W. LITTLEJOHN.

—An alligator twelve feet long, from New Orleans, passed through Waco the other day, en route to a California circus, and nineteen convivial Texans, who had never seen such an animal before, immediately swore off so hard that their oaths were heard at Galveston.—Texas Siftings.

IF you need toning up don't take poisonous liquors or bitters. Kidney-Wort is the perfect tonic.

—Things one would rather have left unsaid: Amiable hostess—"What! must you go already? Really professor, it's too bad of this sweet young wife of yours to carry you off so early. She always does." Professor—"No, no, not always, Mrs. Bright. At most houses I positively have to drag her away."—Punch.

—"That," said Bigglin to his wife, when she told him that a new silk dress was necessary for her health and happiness, "is too diaphanous." "Now, Bigglin," she answered, tartly, "I want you to understand that I am not to be put down by musical terms. You may call it a fortissimo or a trombolo, but I'm going to have that dress."

Southern Telegraphic College.
Male and Female Students Received.

The want of a practical school of Telegraphy upon which Telegraph and Railroad companies can depend for competent and reliable operators, has prompted the undersigned to open a school in which shall be taught all the requirements necessary to fit a person for practical service. The course of instruction embraces: 1st. A thorough knowledge of instruments, batteries, wires, books, accounts and rules governing the handling of business, etc., etc., in all well regulated offices. 2d. A thorough knowledge of transmission and reception of messages over lines of wire.

For further information address WM. W. CHAMP & Co., 37½ Peachtree street, Atlanta, Georgia.

—An Englishman sent a young girl a New Year's card with these words upon it: "Golden sunshine will be yours at last." A jury has just compelled him to pay her $5,000 for breach of promise, and the prophecy is fulfilled.—Yonkers Gazette.

MERCHANTS, PEDDLERS & AUCTIONEERS! Write to L. A. BALL & Co., 19 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga., for catalogue of prices of cheap Jewelry and Notions. Cash buyers, we want you to see the advantage.

—An Indiana man walked seven miles to find a neighbor and tell him that his barn came within ten feet of being struck by lightning. Who says the Golden Rule is a dead rule?—Detroit Free Press.

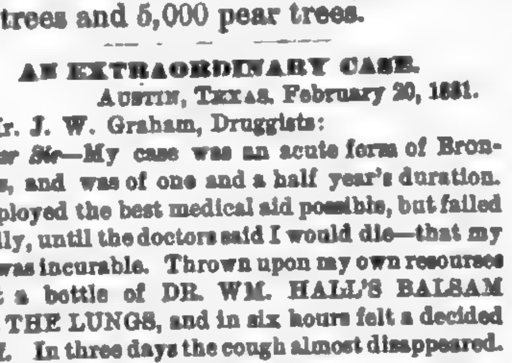
Catarrh of the Bladder.
Stinging, smarting, irritation of the bladder passages, discharges, &c., cured by Buchupaiba. $1 at druggists. Prepaid by express, $1.25, 6 for $5. E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

—Griffin, Ga., has the largest peach orchard in the South, containing 50,000 trees and covering most of 600 acres. On the same farm are 4,000 grafted apple trees and 5,000 pear trees.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.
AUSTIN, TEXAS, February 20, 1881.
To Mr. J. W. Graham, Druggists:
Dear Sir—My case was an acute form of Bronchitis, and was of one and a half year's duration. I employed the best medical aid possible, but failed rapidly, until the doctors said I would die—that my case was incurable. Thrown upon my own resources I got a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and in six hours felt a decided relief. In three days the cough almost disappeared. Now that my chances of life are good for many years, I earnestly recommend the above to every sufferer of throat or lung disease. C. G. LATHROP.

FOR dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility, in their various forms; also as a preventative against fever and ague and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED



STOMACH
BITTERS

The terrible scourge, fever and ague, and its congener, bilious remittent, besides affections of the stomach, liver and bowels, produced by miasmatic air and water, are both eradicated and prevented by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a purely vegetable elixir, indorsed by physicians, and more extensively used as a remedy for the above class of disorders, as well as for many others, than any medicine of the age.
For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

SOUTHERN MEDICAL COLLEGE,
ATLANTA, GA.
Regular Winter Term begins first week in October, and continues five months.
HOSPITAL and CLINICAL ADVANTAGES FIRST CLASS.
For Circulars or any information, address
DR. WM. PERRIN NICOLSON, Dean.
P. O. Box 231.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED!
DR. WM. HALL'S
FOR THE LUNGS. BALSAM
Cures Consumption, Colds, Pneumonia, Influenza, Bronchial Difficulties, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Diseases of the Breathing Organs. It soothes and heals the Membrane of the Lungs, inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and prevents the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it. Consumption is not an incurable malady. HALL'S BALSAM will cure you, even though professional aid fails.

MASON & HAMLIN
ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-3 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.
THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

BULBS, PLANTS, TREES, &c.
[illegible]

FAIRBANKS'
SCALES.
The World's Standard.
COTTON
SCALES.

For Weighing Seed Cotton at the Gin.

Will more than pay for itself in one Season. Don't be humbuged by the cheap and worthless Wagon Scales which are offered at any Price; they are of no use and you will be better off without a Scale.

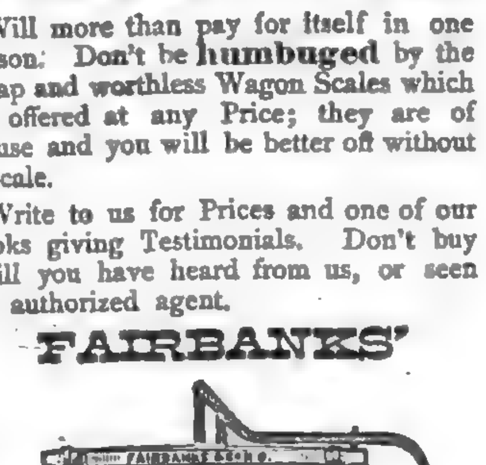
Write to us for Prices and one of our Books giving Testimonials. Don't buy untill you have heard from us, or seen our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS'



FAIRBANKS & CO.

700 Lb.
SOUTHERN
COTTON BEAM
Frame, Hooks and all other required Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE
Fairbanks' Standard.

SCALES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

☞SEND FOR PRICE LIST.☜

FAIRBANKS & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS.

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA,
Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filterer and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE HISTORY OF THE U.S.
BY ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.
It contains nearly 300 fine portraits and engravings of battles and other historical scenes, and is the most complete and valuable history ever published. It is sold by subscription only, and Agents are wanted in every county. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address,
NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.

$65 A MONTH & board in your county. Men or Ladies. Pleasant business. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., Box 79, Phila., Pa.

[illegible] ANY WATCH AND NOT WEAR OUT.
SOLD by Watchmakers. By mail, 25 cts. Circulars FREE. J. S. BIRCH & CO., 38 Dey St., N. Y.

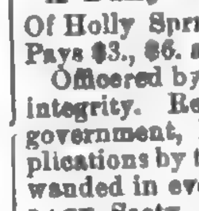
The Only Watch Factory IN THE SOUTH.
Patronize Home Industry.
WATCHES
Save the middleman's profits, and buy direct from the MANUFACTURER.
Send for Illustrated Price List, describing new improvements.
J. P. STEVENS WATCH CO.
FACTORY,
24 Whitehall St.,
ATLANTA, Ga.

QUID NUNC.
A Daily Matrimonial Association,
Of Holly Springs, Mississippi. (Chartered.) Pays $3., $6. and $10. per day to members. Officered by gentlemen of unquestioned integrity. Reference: Officers of our State government, Executive and Judicial. Applications by telegraph recognized. Agents wanted in every State. Address W. T. WALLACE, Secty., Holly Springs, Miss.

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS.
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

12 Cents buys 3 Lovely Ad. Cards and a Such Cook Book. GEO. C. HANFORD, Syracuse, N. Y.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES
OF ALL KINDS. BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.



PERPETUAL
Sorghum Evaporator.
$15. $20. $[illegible]
CHEAP AND DURABLE.
Send for Circulars. Address the only Manufacturers,
CHAPMAN & CO.,
Madison, Ind.

GOOD NEWS
to
LADIES!
Get up Clubs for our CELEBRATED TEAS, and secure a beautiful "Moss Rose or Gold Band Tea Set" (44 pieces, our own importation). One of these beautiful Tea Sets given away to the party sending a Club for $25.00. Beware of the so-called "CHEAP TEAS" that are being advertised—they are dangerous and detrimental to health—slow poison. Deal only with reliable houses and with first hands if possible. No humbug.
The Great American Tea Co., Importers,
P. O. Box 289. 31 & 33 VESEY ST., New York.

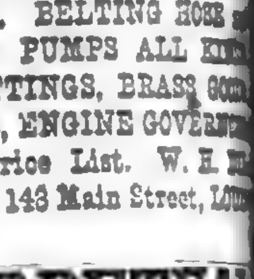
NEW RICH BLOOD!
Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps.
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

STRONG'S PECTORAL PILLS
A SURE REMEDY FOR
COLDS AND RHEUMATISM.
Ensure healthy appetite, good digestion, regularity of the bowels. A PRECIOUS BOON TO DELICATE FEMALES, soothing and bracing the nervous system, and giving vigor and health to every fibre of the body. Sold by Druggists. For Pamphlets address P. O. Box 650, N. Y. City.

THRESHERS
THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, O.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY. Prof. MARTINEZ, the Great Spanish Seer, Astrologer and Psychologist, will, for 20 cents, with age, height, color of eyes and lock of hair, send a CORRECT PICTURE of your future husband or wife, with name, time and place of meeting, and date of marriage, psychologically predicted. Money returned to all not satisfied. Address Prof. L. Martinez, 10 Mont'y Pl., Boston, Mass.

Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.......Thirty-Eight.



HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILL
Send for CIRCULARS.
Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.
Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.
DR. HARTER'S
GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made [illegible] as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice.
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 12th, 1881. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS, [illegible] Wash. Avenue.
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
IRON TONIC.
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.

PETROLEUM JELLY
Sold by All Druggists.
Used and approved by the leading PHYSICIANS of EUROPE and AMERICA.
The most Valuable Family Remedy known.
VASELINE
For the Treatment of WOUNDS, BURNS, SORES, CUTS, CHILBLAINS, SKIN DISEASES, RHEUMATISM, CATARRH, HEMORRHOIDS, Etc. Also for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Croup and Diphtheria, etc.
Try them. 25 and 50 cent sizes of all our goods.
The Toilet Articles from pure Vaseline—such as Pomade Vaseline, Vaseline Cold Cream, Vaseline Camphor Ice, Vaseline Toilet Soaps, are superior to any similar ones.
VASELINE CONFECTIONS
An agreeable form of taking Vaseline internally.
25 CENTS A BOX.
GRAND MEDAL AT THE PHILADELPHIA EXPOSITION.
SILVER MEDAL AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.
COLGATE & CO. N. Y.

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, Neuralgia, Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use
EUREKA CATARRH CURE,
A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.
[illegible]
J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atlanta, G

Probate Judge

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. 1. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1882. NO. 48.

AFTER THE SALE.

The wagon, with high fantastic load
Of house-hold goods, is at the gate;
The shadows darken down the road;
Why does the old man wait?
Bureau, bedstead, rocking-chair,
Turned table with heels in air—
Whatever the grudging fates would spare,
Is piled and heaped and tumbled there,
A motley, holy freight!

"All of his riches," the teamster said,
"Now only this precious pile remains!
A chair and bed for his old gray head,
For all his life-long pains.
Mine, I own! but they say that Pride
Must have a fall." His ropes he tied
In the chill March wind. "Hurry up!" he cried,
And gathered in the reins.

The old wife bows her stricken face
On the doorstone, weary and worn and gray;
The old man lingers about the place,
Taking a last survey;
Looks in once more at the great barn door,
The empty mow and the vacant floor:
The gains of his life have gone before,
And why should he care to stay?

A stool with a broken leg
Is left, and a bucket without a bail,
The harness is gone from hook and peg,
From the whip from its nail:
Weary shadows hang from the wall,
No friendly whinny from shed or stall,
No unmilked heifer's welcoming call;
The poultry and pigs have vanished, all
Swept out by the Sheriff's sale.

Out to the door-yard well he goes
For a parting look, a farewell drink.
How drippingly that bucket rose
And poised for him on the brink
In the summers gone, and plashed his feet
When the men came in from the harvest heat!
How blessedly cool the draught, how sweet,
The misery now to think.

The scenes of peaceful, prosperous life
Once filled the yard, so desolate now!
Then he often would say to his pleased, proud wife,
That the farm appeared, somehow,
More thrifty and cheery than other men's,
With its cattle in pasture and swine in pens,
Its bleating of lambs and cackle of hens,
And well-stored crib and mow.

The early years of their proud success,
The years of failure and mutual blame,
The past, with the toil that was happiness,
And the strife that was sorrow and shame,
Came to him hopeful and strong and fair—
She who is the sad wraith sitting there,
With her burden of grief and her old thin hair
Bowed over her feeble frame?

"Do you remember? This well," he said,
"Was sunk that summer when Jane was born.
She used to stand in the old house-shed
And blow the dinner-horn
In after years—or climb a rail
Of the door-yard fence for a cheery hail—
Then run to the curb for a brimming pail,
When I came up from the corn."

Why think of her now? against whose name
His lips and heart long since were sealed;
Whose memory in their lives became
A sorrow that never has healed.
Her step is on the creaking stair,
Her girlish image is everywhere!
He hears her laughter, he sees her hair
Blow back in the wind, as she comes to bear
His luncheon to the field.

"'Twas a terrible wrong!" The old wife spoke,
Swaying her gaunt frame to and fro.
"I say it now!" Her strained voice broke Into a wail of woe.
"It haunts me awake, it haunts me asleep!
And silence has been so hard to keep—
So long.—But there is a grief too deep
For ever a man to know!"

A quaver of anguish shook his tone,
His look was pierced with a keen remorse;
"The blame, I suppose, was all my own;
And I have no heart, of course!
Great Heaven! nor any grief to hide!"
Flung he his gloomy hat aside,
Looked up, haggard and hollow-eyed,
As one whose burning soul had dried
His tears at their very source.

"No, no! I don't mean that," she wept,
"I've felt you suffering many a day,
And often at night when you thought I slept,
And when I have heard you pray,
Till it seemed that my heart would burst.
As for the blame, you know, at first,
I deemed you were right and did my worst
To force her to obey.

"For the dream of our lives had been to make
Our Jane a lady fit for a lord;
Our schemes were all for our children's sake,
And it seemed a cruel reward
To see her with careless scorn refuse—
All the arguments we could use—
The man you most approved, and choose
The one you most abhorred.

"But when she had chosen and all was done,
You needn't have been so hard and stern;
You might have forgiven the poor dear one,
And welcomed her return.
You never could know what she was to me,
You never will know how I yearn to see
My child once—how homesickly
I yearn, and yearn, and yearn!

"She chose for herself, and who can tell?
She braved your will, it's true, and yet
She may, for all that, have chosen well.
And how can we forget?
Twas we for Alice, and unawares
Dragged with her into a rich man's snares,
He tangled us up in his loose affairs,
And dragged us down with debt."

"Well, well!"—with a heavy sigh—"Let's go!
I haven't been always wise. Ah, Jane!
Some things might not be done just so,
If they were to do again.
The babes are dead and the farm is gone;
The hopes, and all that we built them on,
Friends, wealth, are scattered hither and yon,
And only ourselves remain.

"These boughs will blossom and fruits will fall
The same! When I changed the orchard lot
And fenced it all with good stone wall,
And planned the garden plot,
And built the arbor and planted trees,
And made a home for our pride and ease,
Little thought I these were all to please
Strangers who knew us not!

"Others will reap where we have sown;
But others never can understand
The watchful care these fields have known,
Or how I loved the land.
Their maids will marry and babes be born,
The sun will shine on the wheat and corn,
Crops be gathered and sheep be shorn,
But by a stranger's hand."

IN DOUBLE DANGER.

A Strange Adventure.

I've had many a queer voyage in my time (said Captain M——), but the queerest I ever had was one that I made somewhat unexpectedly, as you will see, upon the Great Fish River, in South Africa, on my way back from a hunting expedition.

As I neared the bank I saw that the river was in full flood, more than twice its usual breadth, and running like a mill-race. I knew at once that I should have a very tough job to get across—for a flooded African river is no joke, I can tell you. But I knew also that my wife would be terribly anxious if I didn't come back on the day that I had fixed—South Africa being a place where a good many things may happen to a man—and so I determined to chance it.

Just at the water's edge I found an old Bushman that I knew well, who had a boat of his own, so I hailed him at once.

"Well, Kaloomi, what will you take to put me across the river?"

"No go fifty dollar this time, baas" (master), said the old fellow, in his half-Dutch, half-English jargon. "Boat no get 'cross to-day; water groed (great)!"

And never a bit could I persuade him, although I offered him money enough to make any ordinary Bushman jump head first down a precipice. Money was good, he said, but it would be no use to him when he was drowned; and, in short, he wouldn't budge.

"Well, if you won't put me across," said I at last, "lend me your boat, and I'll just do the job for myself; I can't very well take my horse with me, so I'll just leave him here in pledge that I'll pay for the boat when I come back."

"Keep horse for you, master, quite willing; but 'spose you try cross to-day you never come back to ask for him."

He spoke so positively that, though I'm not easily frightened, I certainly did feel rather uncomfortable. However, when you've got to do a thing of that sort, the less you think of it the better, so I jumped into the boat and shoved off.

I had barely got clear of the shore when I found that the old fellow was right, for the boat shot down the stream like an arrow. I saw in a moment that there was no hope of paddling her across, and that all I could do was just to keep her head straight. But I hadn't the chance of doing even that very long, for just then a big tree came driving along, and hitting my boat full on the quarter, smashed her like an eggshell. I had just time to clutch the projecting roots and whisk myself up on to them, and then tree and I went away down stream together at I don't know how many miles an hour.

At first I was so rejoiced at escaping just when all seemed over with me, that I didn't think much of what was to come next; but before long I got something to think of with a vengeance. The tree, as I've said, was a large one, and the branch end (the opposite one to where I sat) was all one mass of green leaves. All at once, just as I was shifting myself to a safer place among the roots, the leaves suddenly shook and parted, and out peeped the great yellow head and fierce eyes of an enormous lion!

I don't think I ever got such a fright in my life. My gun had gone to the bottom along with the boat, and the only weapon I had left was a short hunting-knife, which against such a beast as that would be no more use than a bodkin. I fairly gave myself up for lost, making sure that in another moment he'd spring forward and tear me to bits.

But whether it was that he had already gorged himself with prey, or whether (as I suspect) he was really frightened at finding himself in such a scrape, he showed no disposition to attack me, so long at least as I remained still. The instant I made any movement, however, he would begin roaring and lashing his tail, as if he were going to fall on me at once. So, to avoid provoking him, I was forced to remain stock-still, although sitting so long in one position cramped me dreadfully.

There we sat, Mr. Lion and I, staring at each other with all our might—a very picturesque group, no doubt, if there had been anybody there to see it. Down, down the stream we went, the banks seeming to race past us as if we were going by train, while all around broken timber, wagon-wheels, trees, bushes and the carcasses of drowned horses and cattle went whirling past us upon the thick brown water.

All at once I noticed that the lion seemed to be getting strangely restless, and turning his great head from side to side in a nervous kind of way, as if he saw or heard something he didn't like. At first I couldn't imagine what on earth was the matter with him, but presently I caught a sound which scared me much worse than it had done the lion. Far in the distance I could hear a dull, booming roar, which I had heard too often not to recognize at once; we were nearing a waterfall!

I had seen the great falls of the Fish River more than once, and the bare thought of being carried over those tremendous precipices made my very blood run cold. Yet being devoured by a lion would hardly be much of an improvement, and as I hadn't the ghost of a chance of being able to swim ashore, there really seemed to be no other alternative.

Faster and faster we went—louder and louder grew the roar of the cataract; the lion seemed to have given himself up for lost, and crouched down among the leaves, only uttering a low, moaning whine every now and then. I was fairly at my wit's end what to do, when all of a sudden I caught sight of something that gave me a glance of hope.

A little way ahead of us the river narrowed suddenly, and a rocky headland thrust itself out a good way into the stream. On one of the lowest points of it grew a thick clump of trees, whose boughs overhung the water; and it struck me that, if we only passed near enough, I might manage to catch hold of one of the branches, and swing myself up on to the rock.

No sooner said than done. I started up, hardly caring whether the lion attacked me or not, and planted myself firmly on one of the biggest roots, where I could take a good spring when the time came. I knew that this would be my last chance, for by this time we were so near the precipice that I could see quite plainly, a little way ahead, the great cloud of spray and vapor that hovered over the great waterfall. Even at the best it was a desperate venture, and I can tell you that I felt my heart beginning to thump like a sledge-hammer as we came closer and closer to the point, and I thought what would happen if I missed my leap.

Just as we neared it, it happened by the special mercy of God that our tree struck against something and turned fairly crosswise to the current, the end with the lion on it swinging out into mid-stream, while my end was driven close to the rock on which the trees grew.

Now or never! I made one spring (I don't think I ever made such another before or since) and just clutched the lowest bough; and as I dragged myself on to it I heard the last roar of the doomed lion mingling with the thunder of the waterfall as he vanished into the mist that overhung the precipice.

As for me it was late enough that night before I got home, and I found my poor wife in a fine fright about me; so I thought it just as well, on the whole, to keep my adventure to myself, and it wasn't till nearly a year later that she heard a word about my strange fellow-voyager.—English Magazine.

Wintergreen Oil in the Blue Mountains.

A letter from the village of Point Phillips gives us in the Confectioners' Journal, this account of a peculiar industry:

That long sandstone ridge, called the Blue Mountains, which runs past our village, is remarkably productive in huckleberries, foxes, birch and wintergreen. In the heat of summer it yields its berries to thousands of pickers; in the cold of winter the hunters track the wily fox, and during all the year the luxurious growth of wintergreen and sweet birch gives employment to numbers of earnest men, who take up their dwelling in the woods and manufacture therefrom the oil of wintergreen. Public attention has lately been called to this humble industry by the activity of the internal revenue officers, who have descended, so to speak, upon these camps, and exacted a tax. Perhaps a brief description of the process of manufacture of oil of wintergreen and the manner of life of those who make it may prove more interesting to the reader.

Two men are necessary to carry on the business, one to work by day and the other by night. They build a hut wherein to dwell and sleep. One sleeps from eleven o'clock in the morning until six in the evening, and other from eleven in the evening until six in the morning. During the forenoon they work together in collecting the wintergreen or birch. The sweet birch is generally used to produce the oil, unless wintergreen is very plentiful. Bushes and branches are cut and chopped into small pieces, while from larger pieces the bark only can be used, and must be carefully shaved off. About half a cord of this material is collected and used every day, and from it a pint of oil or thereabouts is manufactured. The apparatus consists of a furnace, a boiler, a tin pipe, a trough, into which water in continually brought from a mountain brook, a barrel, and a glass jar. The furnace is made of loose stones, so arranged that the fuel is put in at one end, and the smoke goes out at the other through an old piece of stove pipe. Over the furnace is the boiler, which is merely a wooden box about three feet wide, four long, and three deep, with the bottom covered with sheet iron to prevent burning. The boiler has a wooden lid, so that it can be tightly closed, and from the top leads the tin pipe. The pipe runs into the water-trough and through it, so that the water always surrounds and cools it. The end of the pipe, after coming out of the trough, opens over a barrel, and in this barrel, exactly under the end of the pipe, is placed the glass jar. This constitutes all the plant.

Apostrophe to an Indian Maiden.

Thou still and senseless gob of bronzed and dazzling worth, we hail thee at a comfortable distance and trill to thee our little song.

Who taught thee such untutored grace of limb, such cross-eyed footsteps and such simple trust?

Who taught thee thus to overtake the angle-worm and nail the locust in his rapid flight? Who skilled thee in the chase and showed thee how to weave the gaudy bead upon the yellow moccasin in wild, fantastic figures of rude, impossible things?

Idly thou leanest 'gainst the cottonwood, scratching thy back 'gainst its rough yet kindly trunk, while in thy dark, mysterious eye there lurks a hidden joy, a joy perchance like his who, yielding to the buckwheat cake's seductive power, hath found the hat-rack in the hall and worked it on his shoulder-blade.

Fair Alfarita! child of the dusky night, we greet thee 'cross the purple hills like other poets who have written of thy grace. Thy childlike face hath won the poet to thy side and (in his mind) he tunes his lyre to thee.

Some day the warrior of the mountain clime will come and woo thee in the guttural, melancholy style thy people love, and in the twilight's glow, when nature and the bullfrog sink to rest, with coy reluctance, like the man who meets his mother-in-law thus, Alfarita, daughter of malarious night, wilt yield thy future to the knock-kneed brave.

Caricaturists.

"Are caricaturists engaged on the illustrated journals on a regular salary?"

"Some of the best known are engaged regularly, but a number refuse to make any binding contracts, preferring to work on the outside and sell their ideas and sketches, but there are objections to doing this, inasmuch as unprincipled foremen can and often do steal an idea that has been offered for sale and refused. Of course they will not have a fac-simile of the picture offered, but the ruling idea will prevail, and in caricature, ideas are what makes them popular. On this account the best known men work regularly for one firm, and it is the best way, as they have a sure income, and can profit by the ideas of the attaches of the journal. It is not to be supposed that men like Tom Nast originate all their own pictures, for "Pro Bono Publico" and "Constant Reader" write as much to Harper's and Leslie's as they do to the great dailies, and often suggest an idea that, touched up by an artist's pencil, becomes a famous caricature, and then the editors and reporters often furnish a good subject.

"Of course Nast gets all the credit, and has thus become the acknowledged caricaturist of this country. Of course I do not wish to detract from his merit; his work proves his ability."

"What is there about Nast that would interest the public?"

"Oh, the public knows all about him; he has lectured and has been here so long, he is saving of his money, and is, therefore, very rich, for his salary has been for years $250 a week, and he has done outside work beside. He is the highest-paid artist in the profession. He has the knack of caricaturing public men and politics, and is without an equal in that line."

"What about Matt Morgan?"

"Matt Morgan is an elegant artist, with a vast fund of ideas on all conceivable subjects. He is a better general worker than Nast, but Tommie had been here so long that he knew just what the people in this country would appreciate, while Morgan had to experiment with them; he was first brought here by Frank Leslie from England to fight Nast, and he made a gallant struggle and has a reputation co-extensive with the country. He has abandoned caricaturing for the time being, and is settled in Cincinnati, with a great show-printing house, on a salary of $200 a week the year round. He apparently intends to stay there, as he is building a $40,000 house on the hills. He is very much devoted to his family, and always has kept them in elegant style. He is very fond of his six children."

"Does Joe Keppler rank next?"

"Well, I do not know that I wish to state the rank in which these artists stand. In the popular estimation Keppler would come next. He is very well known here, as he was a resident for a long time, in fact, published two or three papers, and was married to a St. Louis lady. It is a peculiarity that he made no money to speak of in this city. He left here under engagement to Frank Leslie at a salary of $100 a week, and after awhile started Puck; his partner, Schwartzmann, put up all the money. It was printed in German—a good idea, as it is the only comic paper of ability in that language. It was a success from the start, and the demand for it necessitated an English edition. It is making money fast, and Keppler will soon be rich. He deserves it, as he has worked hard and has great ability."

"Who else is there famous in this line?"

"Oh, there are a great number; it would be hard to talk about them all. The leading artists of the great papers are, of course, the best known, but there are a number of men of ability who are liable at any time to become as well known as those about whom we have been talking. It is just as in any other profession, some men are always being talked about, and others of equal ability are not even mentioned.

An Expensive Dinner.

"A thousand rubles (£150) per head for a dinner," says the London World, "seems rather a high price for even a Russian to pay, yet such is the sum which twenty-six cavalry officers each paid for their banquet at a hotel at Warsaw a week or so ago. They had determined to organize a dinner that, as nearly as possible, should imitate those of Roman Emperors who paid enormously for their luxuries, and preferred them out of season; and, to a certain extent, they succeeded. For eight hours they ate plat after plat, and among the courses appeared a ragout of African turtle, and another of stewed nightingales. And, to make the thing appear more real, these martial savages sat at the table each with a fillet of roses round his head!"

—A railroad conductor in Massachusetts was recently made the victim of a new fraud. He was paid ten dollars in several bills, which in counting appeared to be eleven dollars, whereupon he gave back a one-dollar bill and got on his train. After the train started he counted the money again, and was surprised to find he only had nine dollars. Upon examining the bills he found one which was made up of parts of a one-dollar bill and a two-dollar bill pasted together, the face showing a two-dollar bill and the back a one.

—It is proposed by some very scientific persons to tap the interior of the earth in search of natural heat for mechanical purposes, and they propose to sink their shaft and money in [illegible].—St. Louis Globe.

Corea.

The steamer Arabic, which arrived from China on Friday night, brought to this city Commodore Shufeldt and his daughter on their return home. A reporter called on him yesterday at the Palace Hotel. Commodore Shufeldt stands six feet, weighs 200 pounds, and although nearly sixty years of age is as straight as an arrow and walks with youthful energy. His hair and beard are liberally streaked with gray, his forehead high and broad, and his complexion browned with the sunshine of the Eastern seas.

"Of course you know," began the Commodore, "that Corea is a country that has long been inaccessible to the world. I believe I am the first white man who has ever trod the soil of the interior, and, therefore, perhaps I am a curiosity. So far as I saw them, the people of Corea are greatly attached to their country, have no disposition to emigrate—which accounts for their exclusiveness heretofore—but are possessed of a lively curiosity. On landing in Corea to meet the two Ministers appointed by the King to negotiate this treaty, two officers accompanied me for some distance into the interior. We were unarmed, but were not molested. The roads over which we traveled were lined with people for miles, attracted probably by their first opportunity to look upon the face of a white man. In some instances they crowded around us, and, I suppose, commented upon our strange dress and appearance, but they made no attempt to molest us. We pardoned their obtrusiveness, because we were probably a great mystery to them."

"In what respect do the Coreans resemble the Chinese?"

"I could see but little resemblance. The Chinese of different localities look very different, as you know. The Mongolians of the North do not very much resemble the Mongolians of the South, who mostly come to California, and the Corean looks much unlike either class. Their complexion is light, their hair dark, long and wiry, and their eyes black. They remind me of the North American Indian, and I believe the resemblance is sufficiently close to justify the belief that Corea furnished the material to populate this country originally. All the difference between the two races could have been produced by climate and mode of living after the immigration here. Owing to the fact that naturalists have never had an opportunity to investigate Corea, this resemblance has not been carried out to its logical conclusion.

"All the occupation the Coreans have is agriculture, and the product of the soil is mostly consumed at home. They export a little rice and a few beans to Japan, but they have no commerce and no marine. All their carrying is done on animals or by means of imperfect boats on the rivers. They appear inoffensive and not disposed to go to war with anybody, and yet the mass of the people are said to be curious in regard to outside affairs. The country is ruled by a King, who in his own dominion is an absolute despot, having complete power over the lives and property of the most noble of his subjects. He is assisted in governing by a council selected from the nobility, who have charge of the various departments—Judicial, War, Financial and Interior Departments. The person of the King for centuries has been absolutely inaccessible, and no person of his own race, much less a foreigner, has been able to get into his presence. It is sacrilege to utter the name he has received from his Suzerain, and that by which he is known in history is only given him after his death. It is high treason to touch his person with a weapon of iron. Notwithstanding the monarch's exclusiveness, however, in theory his ear is always open to the people, and an appeal to him in all grave matters is nominally permitted. The interference of the nobility in politics is also high treason, and the princes of the blood are excluded wholly from power. About a year since a plot to gain control of the Government was discovered among the nobles, and every person in any way connected with it was beheaded. This treatment of the participants in the imbroglio was a salutary lesson. Although the King wields such power, there are two political parties among the nobles of Corea. One party is called the progressists, the other by a name which implies their antipodes—those opposed to progress. The former party is at present in power, a fact which rendered the negotiation of our treaty possible."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Society Note.

A coolness, growing out of the following conversation, has sprung up between Gilhooly and his friend, Gus De Smith:

"I had a splendid time last night," said Gus. "I spent the evening at a little social gathering at the Goodman mansion."

"Are the Goodman's nice people?" queried Gilhooly.

"Well, I should say so. They are very aristocratic. To get in their circle one must have either a great deal of money or a great deal of genius."

"You don't tell me so; and you say you were there?"

"Yes."

"You were invited, were you?"

"Of course."

"And to be invited a man has to have a great deal of money or plenty of genius?"

"Precisely."

"Well, Gus, I am glad to hear you have become such all of a sudden. Lend me ten dollars."—Texas Siftings.

HUMOROUS.

—Ella Wheeler wants us to "sit down at set of sun and count the things that we have done." Can't do it, Ella. That's our busy hour; and, besides, we don't care to keep count of 'em. It wouldn't pay.—Norristown Herald.

—An esthetic invitation to dinner concluded with these words: "I have asked four minds to meet you." "Thanks," replied the uncultured one. "I am awfully sorry not to come, but have already accepted an invitation to dine with four stomachs the same night."

—Mr. Hootness has a foot as long as his life, and when a horse stepped on his toes he said he didn't care so much for the immediate pain in the toe, but it was so long to heal. Heal, you understand; see? heel, heal, heel—so long to heal—Ha, ha, ha! ho, ho, ho! he! he! he!—Burlington Hawkeye.

—A Syrian convert to Christianity was urged by his employer to work on Sunday, but he declined. "But," said the master, "does not your bible say that if a man has an ox or an ass that falls into a pit on the Sabbath day he may pull him out?" "Yes," answered the convert; "but if the ass has a habit of falling into the same pit every Sabbath day, then the man should either fill up the pit or sell the ass."

—A suddenly rich and very muscular young man from the oil regions stopped at a seaside hotel the other day for the first time, and had great difficulty in getting anything to eat. A sympathizing stranger at his elbow whispered: "You will starve here if you don't tip the waiter." Two minutes afterward the waiter found himself tipped over on the floor. The young man did not starve.—Philadelphia News.

—"What a methodical fellow you are, Brown," said Filkins, who had stepped into Brown's office during the latter's absence. "Why, what do you mean?" asked Brown, who had just entered. "Mean?" echoed Filkins; "to think that you should lock all your drawers up when you were only going out for five minutes! 'Tisn't likely that anybody would meddle with your papers." "Of course not," replied Brown; "but how did you find out that the drawers were locked?"—Boston Transcript.

—"I often cross the street to avoid meeting a man," says Mr. Beecher, "not because I have anything against him, but simply because I do not feel like speaking to him. I suppose all men are this way." Yes, nearly all men are that way, Mr. Beecher, and we are glad that you have mentioned the subject, for it gives us a chance to agree with a great man. We sometimes cross the street and climb a fence to avoid meeting a man, not that we have anything against him, but because he has something against us: a bill, Mr. Beecher.—Arkansas Traveller.

—In a Cambridge horse-car: "Now I don't believe in speaking against a man behind his back. It does not do any good and frequently injures an innocent party." "It is an excellent plan to follow," returned the other. "I've always done so," continued the first, "and found it worked well, but there is Colonel So-and-so, he is a sample of the other kind. He will backbite and malign his neighbors, will get a man into his confidence and then give him away, and do all sorts of such mean, contemptible tricks that I would be ashamed of."—Boston Sunday Budget.

Literal Oil on Troubled Waters.

A most striking experiment has been tried at the Scottish port of Peterhead. A feature of speech, for hitherto it has been little else, was turned into a literal fact. Oil was poured on the waves with the result of calming the fair way at the harbor's mouth, so that a small boat could enter in a storm. It has long been known that oil exerted this effect. It does so by simply destroying the friction of the air on the surface of the water. It smooths the way of the wind, and, consequently calms the surface of the sea. Its accidental application has probably produced the wide-spread knowledge of its effect, which has made the figure of speech universal. We are not aware that any scientific attempt has ever been made to apply oil to the waves. At Peterhead pipes were laid down and a large quantity of oil was forced through them. The oil at once rose to the surface and spread in a thin film on the water, with the effect of reducing the roughness to a mere swell. Small boats were thus able to enter the harbor which could not have ventured to do so in the rough sea which was running before the oil was spread upon it. So far, therefore, the experiment was successful. Whether it opens up the possibility that harbor mouths may be made generally safe in rough weather by the expenditure of a few hundred gallons of oil can perhaps only be decided by further trials. The machinery is, however, laid down, and further tests will, therefore, be easily applied. It is evident that the effect, as described, is one which would make all the difference between safety and danger in a harbor frequented by fishing boats, and it is in such harbors that it is likely, if anywhere, to be of permanent value.—London Daily News.

—During the trial of one lawsuit in Cairo, N. T., an old man who mistook the court-house for a church, entered and sang several hymns before he discovered the character of the place, the judge fell through the rattan platform on which his bench was perched, there was a dog fight in one corner of the court room, and a young man went out through the window, taking the glass with him.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 12, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

A negro was lynched at Jacksonville, Calhoun county, last week, for the crime of rape.

Alexander Stephens was elected Governer of Georgia, on the 4th inst., by something like 50,000 majority.

A highway robbery took place in Autauga County last week. Three white men with faces blacked robed a Mr. Wyatt of his pocket book containing $50. He saved $40. which he had in one of his boots.

Newspaper men can congratulate themselves upon the improbability of their ever losing their reason entirely. English statistics show that out of 139,143 people engaged in literary pursuits only twelve became lunatics.

The Prattville Signal thinks the great danger now is that a spirit of apathy and indifference will pervade our ranks, causing many Democrats to stay away from the polls on election day, not realizing the importance of voting, until it is too late.

Frank James, the notorious out law, has surrenderd to Gov. Crittenden, of Missouri. He throws himself upon the mercy of the public. He presented his too revolvers to Gov. Crittenden with the remark that it was the first time in twentv years that other hands had touched than his own.

"I do," said a young man at a Colorado wedding, when the minister asked if any body knew any reason why the couple should not be united. The objector explained that the bride had promised to marry him; but that was not considered a sufficient reason for stopping the ceremony, which was concluded amid the tittering of the assemblage.

It turns out that the outlaw Frank James resided eight miles from Nashville for four years. He was known as B. J. Woodson, followed the occupation of a farmer, and was well thought of among his neighbors. As a reason for thus bringing himself so near tne arms of the law, he says that he was tired of his wild and lawless life, and wished for rest and quiet.

The Democrats of Georgia might have done very much worse than in electing Alexander H. Stephens Governor. Mr. Stephens is not a particularly aggresssive man at this time, but better than many men in public life he has kept up with the progress of events. A term in the Executive chair of his native State will fitly round out Mr. Stephens' remarkable political career.

Cairo occupies an area of between three and four square miles, and contains at the present day not less than 400,000 inhabitants. The Citadel affords pleasant as well as historic and dignified quarters to the Tel-El-Kebir. Even in the hottest part of the year it is cool among the alabaster columns and upon the marbeled courts and galleries of the Mehemet Ali Mosque which is the chapel of the fortress.

Rev. H. R. McCoy informed the LaFayette Sun that he would re-enter the canvass in the 5th district, at Milltown, Chambers county, on Wednesday last. The Sun says:

We are informed by those who attended the discussion at Milltown, yesterday that McCoy made a most miserable failure; that his speech consisted of a disjointed rigmarole without point and that his effort was a sad disapointment to his friends.

In the prospectus of a Kentucky "college" for young women is the following: "The president is Southern by birth, by rearing, by education, and by sentiment; the teachers are all Southern in sentiment, and, with the exception of those born in Europe, were born and reared in the South. Believing the Southern to be the highest type of civilization this continent has seen, the young ladies are trained according to the Southern ideas of delicacy, womanhood, religion, and propriety; hence we offer a first-class female college for the South, and solicit Southern patronage."

The Tuskaloosa Gazette's plan for penitentiary reform embraces the following three remedial features:

1. The separation of felons from those working out fines and forfeitures.

2. Felons can be worked most profitably in coal and iron mines; and not necessarily with cruelty or severity. This sort of labor is in demand—it pays the contractors, the State and county.

3. A felon is not necessarily a brute, and hence the honor of the State is pledged for his care and protection—a hospital for the sick should be provided within this work prison.

TO THE POLLS.

The True State of Affairs—Requiring that Every Voter Should Vote.

EDITOR OF THE VIEW:—I am sorry there is an impression in this District, that no matter whether people go to the polls and vote or not a Republican or Independent cannot be elected.

Fellow citizens, while this District is reliably Democratic, it is only so when every man does his duty, and comes up to the polls on the day of election, and casts his ballot for the Democratic and Conservative candidate.

We are now on the eve of an election for Congressman, the importance of which is beyond any that we have had for years, and as a proof of the value which the Republicans place upon it they are spending money like water, not only to bring out their full vote, but to foster and encourage, yes buy every man they dare approach, to either vote their ticket, stay at home, or get his neighbor to do so. Friends, these are facts, and as proof of what I have asserted, Mr. McCoy, who claims to be an Independent Greenbacker, is running against Hon. Thos. Williams in our District. And how is he running? Well, he first announced himself, concluded that the Republicans were not going to endorse him, then came down. But after some correspondence, they showed him the cash and told him to go in and they would see him through. He goes in, and unless we do our duty and go to the polls to a man on the seventh of November and deposit our vote for the Hon. Thos. Williams, he will go to Congress from this District.

Fellow citizens we are not secure. We must every man do his duty, and then all will be well.

CONSERVATIVE.

We Sympathize.

An over-modest and rather timid masculine friend has written us a communication which excites our deepest sympathy for his condition. It runs: "I am on the verge of "committing matrimony," as you sometimes express it. I am strongly inclined to take such a step, but don't exactly know how to make a proposal. Would it be best to insure before or after proposing."

To our muchly-troubled friend we would suggest that he has written to the wrong party for such advice. We know as much about speculating in the matrimonial market as we know how many corns were on George Washington's toes. We have never been able to establish a matrimonial department. Hope we may some day. We may then be able to tell our friend more about such matters. We received a like communication some time since, and were forced to quote from the immortal Pickwick in reply.

There seems to be some trouble with you on the insurance question. Our plan would be to make sure of our girl before we attempted to make sure of anything else. We will give you a bit of advice quoted from an affectionate pater familias, who found one of his puerile offspring matrimonially inclined. It is probably as practical as it is poetical. He warned:

"My son, you had better tarry," Saith the old man, "and not marry,
If you do you'll catch Old Harry,
And then you'll feel forlorn.
For marriage is but a bubble,
Which bursts and ends in trouble;
Which makes the wretch see double,
Just as sure as you're born.
Tho' among the girls you are scooting,
Dazzled by their frills and fluting,
You had better mind the tooting
Of your dear old daddy's horn."

We are inclined to think that this paternal advice was given to one of those "nice young men," each one of whom might be styled a sui generis—one of a kind having, as "Mary Jane" would say, more hair under his nose than he knows under his hair. We don't know that it would suit your case exactly. But as you seem about to make a fearful leap, we give it to you as a timely warning. For when you have once made such a leap, even though it be into the veriest "wedded cussedness," you will have little or no prospect of ever climbing back into single blessedness. Selah!

A Marriage Insurance Company Fails.

Over twenty Dallas young men held policies in the Daily Cash Marriage Association, of Jackson, Miss., repsesenting an investment of nearly $4,000. The association has failed, and the policy-holders lose all. Dallas people for two months have gone wild over marriage aid business. Over two hundred companies have been represented here. A regular panic has set in among the policy-holders, and many are offering to sell their investments at a discount.

* * *

There were seventy-seven new cases of yellow fever at Pensacola, on Sunday, and two deaths. On Monday there were forty-eight cases and five deaths.

On Tuesday, fifty new cases and three deaths.

Public Speaking.

Hon. Thos. Williams, Democratic and Conservative candidate for Congress will address the people of Chilton county as follows:

Cooper's, Tuesday, October 17.
Clanton, Wednesday, October 18.
Jemison, Thursday, October 19.
Mullberry Church, Wednesday, October 25.

The ladies are especially invited to attend.

By order of the District Executive Committee.

J. H. PARKER, Chairman.

Ternanville Ahead!

Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1

A Good Pair Pants $1.

A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

My stock of GROCERIES, DRY GOODS, HARDWARE, FARMING IMPLEMENTS, and SUPPLIES is complete, and my motto is

Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,
o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

S. J. Heath's

Inauguration of the Fall and Winter Season of 1882 and 1883.

New Stock! New Store! And New Prices!

Better goods and more of them for the money than can be had at any other house in Chilton County

Now Being Offered

—BY—

S. J. HEATH, THE Monarch Merchant OF THIS SECTION.

Who has just completed a large and commodious store house at

Strasburg, Ala.

and purchased the largest and most complete stock of General Merchandise, ever brought to this market, which he has bought at

"ROCK BOTTOM" PRICES FOR "SPOT CASH,"

and which will be sold at the smallest living margin. Come and see me. Examine and price my goods and you will be convinced that it is to your interest to give me your trade. Call without delay. You cannot judge the extent and magnitude of my stock until you have seen it. Don't be governed by the past, but call and see for yourselves.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR COTTON AND COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Remember the place

HEATH'S, AT STRASBURG.

Sept. 27-4t

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 27-tf Lomax, Ala.

Clanton Academy.

:o:

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

H. L. Wheeler.

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

Will buy and sell lands for commissions.

Wheeler & Riley,

Fire Insurance Agents

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—AND—

Agents for the London and Lancashire and Royal Insurance Companies, of Great Britian and the Capital City, of Montgomery, Ala.

Office on First Avenue, Second Floor of Bank Building. Jun15-1y.

Ehrman Again

To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.

MEAT PER POUND 15c.

GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.

Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

(Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.

LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, HARDWARE, CROCKERY, FURNITURE, WOODWARE, and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.

Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

and the best route to

BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Dr. J. P. Givhan,

(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my14-1y

J. F. MAULL. J. H. HOCKENSMITH.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.

Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY

SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HAT

Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinware,

Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles an

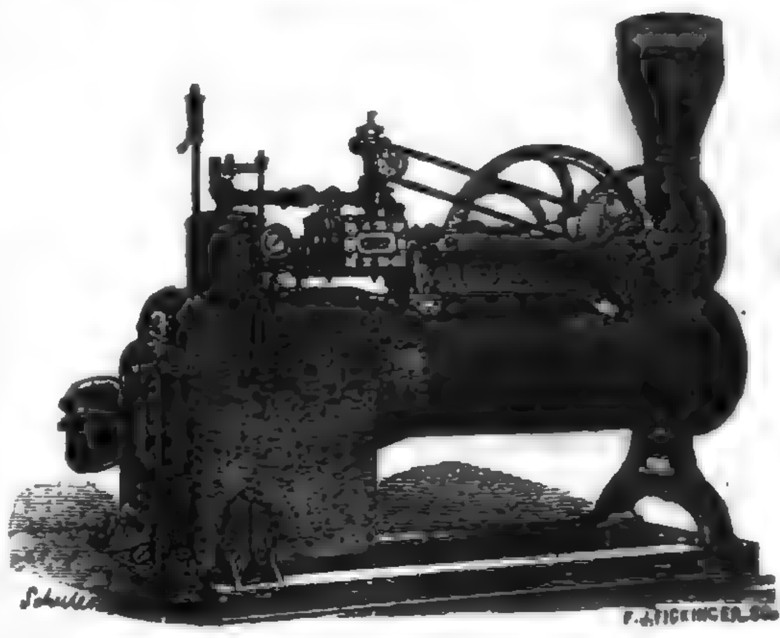
FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN. ☜

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patrona

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINE

OF ALL SIZ

FROM TWO TO T

HUNDRED HORS

POWER,

—AND—

OF ALL KIN

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHEE

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Bes

Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements,

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Ala

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State. mar8-ly

A. A. CLISBY & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

—DEALERS IN—

DRUG SUNDRIES, PATENT MEDICINES AND DYE STUFF

SNUFF, LAUNDRY SOAPS, STARCH, PAPERS AND TWINE

DEPOT FOR

Burning and Lubricating Oils, White Lea

Paints, Oils, Varnishes, and Miners' Supplies

—WHOLESALE JOBBERS IN CIGARS—

BIRMINGHAM.

Aug. 1—3m

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—DEALERS IN—

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Good

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.

An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volumes.

SOME REASONS WHY THIS WORK Is Superior to all Other CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopedia.
It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopedia.
It embraces over 40,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.
Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork, and Binding first-class.
IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.

Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.
Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.
Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.

Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms to right parties. Send for circulars.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,
74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

Sold only by Subscription.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 12, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.

Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.

Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.

Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.

Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.

Representative—J. S. Edwaads.

Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.

Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.

Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.

Sheriff—James E. Lowe.

Treasurer—James M. Parish.

Tax Asseeor—Wm. A. Smith.

Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.

Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.

Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:45 p. m.
No. 11	3:35 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	*9:00 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	8:15 p. m.
No. 12	10:35 a. m.

*Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 6:30 a. m.	Selma	Arr 9:15 p. m.
" 9:45 "	Calera	Lve. 6:02 "
" 4:16 p m	Rome	" 11:32 a m
" 6:15 "	Dalton	" 9:40 "
" 8:13 "	Cleaveland	" 7:00 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 8:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:20 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 12, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T. meets every Friday night at 8 o'clock,

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

The Chilton county school board met last Saturday.

Considerable improvement is still goingon around Clanton.

Clanton is an excellent cotton market, and a great deal is being brought here.

During one week recently Mr. R. Ehrman's sales averaged from $150 to $200 per day. Advertising pays.

Col. Thomas Williams will speak at Coopers' Tuesday, Clanton Wednesday and Jemison Thursday, of next week.

Providence Baptist Church, in this county, recently held a revival, and forty-two applicants for church membership were baptized.

There is a young gentleman at the depot who delights in singing of "Mollie Darling" during the "wee sma' hours just before the dawn."

We have reliable information to the effect that one of Clanton's merchants has thus far purchased more cotton than have all the merchants in Montevallo together.

Read the new advertisement of our energetic merchant, Mr. T. M. Ternan. He says that Ternanville is ahead in point of low prices. He has a gin, screw and mill in operation in connection with his store. Give him a call.

"Not Found." This was the return of a colored minister upon a marriage license made on Tuesday last to the Probate Judge of this county. The parties to the main contract having changed their minds, after having changed their stamps.

A white man by the name of Martin Powell was arrested and jailed last week by Sheriff Lowe. He is charged with carrying concealed weapons, which offense was committed at Birmingham. The Sheriff of Jefferson came down and took the prisoner in charge on Tuesday.

Hon. Thos. Williams, Democratic and Conservative candidate for Congress from this district, will address the people of our county on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Every body should turn out to hear him. He will speak at Mulberry Church on the 25th.

All persons indebted to the View either for advertising or subscription are earnestly requested to come forward and settle. We have waited patiently during the dull season, but now, that good crops have blessed the country, we shall expect each and every one to pay the little bill long since due the view. Don't disappoint us.

A Close Observer Says

That Clanton is shipping more cotton than any station between Calera and Elmore.

That Clanton is a good market and R. Ehrman intends to buy five hundred bales, for which he will pay the highest market price.

That Clanton would be a good point to establish a sash, door and blind factory, and that such an industry would be a paying investment for the stockholders.

That Billy Wilson is boarding a preacher and will pay the highest market price for chickens.

That Clanton is still improving and that there is room for still greater improvement.

That Clanton needs a few more merchants to make trade lively and competition healthy.

That everybody should come to court and bring $1.50 to subscribe for the VIEW.

That business is dull now, but will be on a boom this winter.

That S. J. Heath, at Strasburg, has a fine new store, and a splendid stock of goods, and that Strasburg is flourishing like unto the green bay tree.

That cotton sells in Clanton at 10 and 10½ cents.

That one of the bosses at Bachelor's Hall is thinking of becoming a benedict, and it is to be hoped that the shadows may be few that would disturb the peaceful serenity of his red-headed life.

That this is fine weather for the gathering of crops, and that fine crops will be gathered.

That he will now give our readers a rest.

Jemison Jottings.

Jemison is on a boom, and there is a greater demand for houses than ever before.

A lodge of Good Templars was organized here on Wednesday night, the 4th inst., by G. W. C. T. M. M. Sweatt. Nineteen charter members were enrolled, and the following officers were elected: A. E. Burns, W. C. T.; Miss Lizzie Langford, W. V. T.; W. E. Lowery, W. C.; S. T. Haverland, W. S.; Miss Sudie Allen, W. A. S.; D. M. Hand, W. F. S.; Mrs. J. C. Langford, W. T.; J. M. Keitt, W. M.; S. J. Manning, W. D. M.; Mrs. Mollie Bandy, W. I. G.; J. D. Hand, W. O. G.; Mrs. Mary Burns, W. R. H. S.; Mrs. H. E. Allen, W. L. H. S. The lodge will meet every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

HUGO.

The Mobile Register, of Sunday, says that at Lumberton, Ala., on Saturday night, a party of forty negroes assaulted half a dozen white men, who were night watchmen at the mills, the negroes firing at them with pistols. The white men retreated and armed themselves, and returning wounded three of the negroes, one named House being hit with ten or twelve buck-shot. The negroes before firing stated that they had "come to "raise h—l." It is to be presumed that they were dispersed, though the Register did not state how the row ended.

The man who has not heard of Oxford's beautiful photographs certainly knows little about Birmingham. Mr. Oxford takes rank among the first photographers of our country and richly merits the reputation he is now enjoying. During the late fire in Birmingham he went through a little scorching process, but luckily the flames didn't totally consume him, and we learn he is already at work again. No one should visit Birmingham without inspecting his beautiful display of fine photographs.

Rev. H. R. McCoy is again in the field as an aspirant for Congressional honors, in this district. It is said that the cause of his withdrawal was, that the Jay Hubbell committee, conceding this district to the Democracy, refused to furnish the money necessary to carry on the canvass. The local republicans having, however, made a contribution for this purpose, Mr. McCoy is out again.

Mr. M. M. Sweatt, G. W. C. T., writes us that he organized Chestnut Creek Lodge No. 86, I. O. G. T., at Coopers, on the 3d inst., with seventeen charter members. The following is a partial list of officers: P. C. Dennis, W. C. T.; Miss S. J. Weaver, W. V. T.; J. W. G. Kicker, W. C.; A. J. L. Dennis, W. S.; W. E. Ray, W. F. S.; John D. Weaver, W. T.

Col. Robt. H. Knox secured the discharge, last week, of Mr. W. C. Hendley, who was before Commissioner Barber, in Montgomery, charged with depredations upon government timber. The Advertiser says that this was a troublesome case, and that the decision of Commissioner Barber will affect many cases of this kind.

Read article of "Conservative."

R. E. R. Hicks, of this county has returned to his school at Childersburg, where he has had a fine school for some years. He is an excellent gentleman, and we are glad to know that his school is continuing to prosper.

NOTICE 1836.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on November, 21, 1882, viz: Lewis Gentry Homestead 8841 for the s e ¼ of the n w and n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 1, townsp 20 north range 16 east, and the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 6, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: James M. Stanfield, William Gray, Simon H. Gleen, and Joseph Long.

THOMAS J. SCOTT, Register.

o12

Election Notice.

The qualified electors of Chilton county, Alabama, are hereby notified that an election will be held at the several election precincts, in said county on the first Tuesday in November in 1882, being the 7th day of said month, for the election of a member of the 48th congress of the United States, for the 5th congressional District of Alabama.

Witness my hand this 4th day of October, 1882.

J. E. LOWE,
Sheriff chilton county.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt. Clanton, Ala.

oct 5-3m

For Sale or to Rent.

The house and lot in Verbena, with schoolroom attached, lately occupied by Miss Watson. Also a good lot of school furniture, piano, large stove, and dining table for sale cheap. For further information apply by letter to Miss L. G. Watson, Faunsdale, Marengo co., Ala., care J. Bethea, Esq. s215t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March 1881, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The N E ¼ of the n w ¼ section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. Wheeler, its attorney in fact. sept21-5t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Rail Road Company by a certain Deed of Mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August 1881, the Louisville & Nash- Rail Road company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest didder, at the court House door in Clanton Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29 Township 22 North, Range 14 East situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said Mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Rail Road company. By Henry L. wheeler, its attorney in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by James E. Lowe and and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the ninth day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. wheeler, its attorney in fact.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electra-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju 8-1y

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD?

We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us, with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us who from, and if you want it tolled. Put your name on express card.

E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.

aug10-3m

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

FOR YOUR

Cigars and Tobacco

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

—CALL ON—

I. FORST,

2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ The cheapest place in the city.

June 22-6m

Go to the Cheap Cash Store

—OF—

W. M. WILSON,

—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock

—OF—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,

And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.

"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

NOTICE NO. 1813.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 6th, 1882, viz: Sip Atchinson homestead entry 12227 for the n w ¼ of section 12, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Richard McCary, Thomas Ward and Edmund Hayse, all of Maplesville, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT, Register.

Sept 27-5t

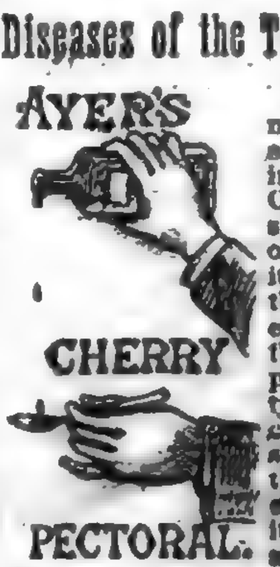
NOTICE OF COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
County Surveyor.

Nov24-1y

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.



AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,

Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor

—DEALER IN—

Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY

—AND—

NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.

—AGENT FOR—

DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO

Also Estey and Palace Organs.

No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.

☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜

Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.

Large Stock! Low Prices!

Alonzo S. Elliott,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.

Cooking and Heating Stoves,

Birmingham, Ala.

IRON MANTELS AND GRATES,
STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment.

Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,

—AND—

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.

—ALSO—

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c

—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.

June 22-6m

W. & C. ROBERTS,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,
And Blank Book Manufacturers,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in North Alabama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the larger cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send your orders to us. Nov7-tf

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual Relief Association,

OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo.
S. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton [illegible] and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-ly

Jno. G. Jemison,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

Over Joel White's Book Store,
No. 13 Market Street.

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

Will practice in Montgomery and surrounding counties.

Robt. H. Knox,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

George Hunter,

TONSORIAL ARTIST,

CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.

PRICES FOR WORK:

Shaving - - - - 10 cents.
Hair cutting - - - - [illegible]

☞ The only barber in the world who never [illegible]. Jul 7-1y

AS ONCE IN YOUTH.

Sometimes when Summer days are ripe,
And glad in groves the robins pipe,
And life is rich in things that bless
Our transitory happiness,
I feel a lightness of the heart
That gladdens me to act my part,
With such reapings of success
And such a rapture—nothing less—
As once, in truth,
I felt in youth.

But Summer days are fleeting things,
And short the hour the robin sings,
And life's gray days grow long with us
Who bend above their labor thus.
There's something wanting that was mine—
The flavor's missing in the wine,
I find my voice a little cracked,
I think I'm somewhat crooked backed,
And, in truth,
I've lost my youth.

And you, dear Muse, that sometimes made
Music for Naera in the shade,
And drew some strains of sweetness, yet
I half remember, half forget—
Have you, dear Muse, forgot to sing?
I think there's stiffness in your wing;
Your voice, I think, 's a little hoarse,
A cold? Ah, may be, nothing worse—
Good Muse, in sooth,
You've lost your youth.

And you, dear heart, whose babes about
Make such a maddening, merry rout,
Have you, too, lost, with touch of time,
Some glow that love has praised in rhyme?
Nay, dear, I find in hair and eyes
No loss of that old shy surprise,
At beauty, half bidden, half revealed,
And tenderness from all concealed,
Save me, in truth,
As once in youth.

All else is changed—my friends are gray!
Some girls I knew are dead, they say;
I find I cannot truly sing;
My Muse but feebly plumes her wing;
And marked indifference is the mien
Of cruel maidens of eighteen.
Enough if love be mine and thine,
Life still has something as divine
As once, in truth,
We knew in youth.

—Toronto Globe.

Two Little Travelers.

Little George and Harriet Grindly, the children who were shipped with tags upon their clothing from Manchester, England, to their mother in this city, sat upon a settee in No. 5 McDonald court, near Fifteenth and Race streets, yesterday morning, kicking their heels together and taking their first breaths of the air of their new home. The arrival of the children had been awaited with interest by the people of the neighborhood. They received an ovation from the dwellers in the court which rendered them speechless when questioned as to their adventures on the long journey of over 3,000 miles by land and sea. Their mother had expected them to arrive at Ninth and Green Streets Depot, but for some reason the little ones were taken to West Philadelphia, where they arrived at one o'clock yesterday morning. Later in the day a policeman brought the news to McDonald court, and Mrs. Grindly hastened to claim the children she had not seen for three years.

In the meantime the tidings spread through the court, and the people gathered in groups and talked over the great event in all its bearings. When the children made their appearance, which they did about noon, the court was crowded and No. 5 was in a state of siege. Men and women, and boys and girls were there in numbers and welcomed the infant immigrants rapturously. George, who is eight years-old, is a sturdy young Briton, and eyed his surroundings unconcernedly. He was attired in a neat corduroy suit, to whichwas attached the tag bearing the address of his mother, by means of which directions he and his six year-old sister had been shipped from point to point on the journey. Their mother came to this country three years ago. Her husband had been killed in a coal mine two years before, leaving her the burden of five children to support. She brought her eldest child, a girl of fifteen, with her, and was afterward joined by another daughter. The three worked industriously, and by dint of close economy managed to save enough money to send for two of the remaining children. A few weeks ago Mrs. Grindly sent fifty-seven dollars to the agent of the steamship company, fifteen dollars of which was to pay for their transportation to Liverpool, and the balance to go to the steamship company for their passage to this city. They received the greatest attention on board the steamship, and upon their arrival at Castle Garden created no little interest among the officials there, who promptly transferred them to the cars for Philadelphia, well supplied with sweetmeats. The boy summed up his experiences by saying: 'Hi were sick, ma, hawful sick, hall the way hover."—Philadelphia Times.

The Climate in Different Parts of the Union.

Figures gleaned from the observation points of forty-nine States and Territories show that the hottest places in the Union are Florida, Louisiana and Arizona, the mean temperature of which is 69. Texas ranks next at 67, Alabama 66, Mississippi 64, Arkansas 63, South Carolina 62, Indian Territory 60, North Carolina 59. Georgia and Tennessee stand on a par at 58, Virginia 57, Kentucky 56. The mean temperature of 55 prevails in California, Missouri and the District of Columbia; 54 in Maryland and Pennsylvania, 53 in Delaware, Ohio and Oregon, 52 in Idaho, Utah and West Virginia, 51 in Indiana, Kansas, New Mexico and Washington Territory, 50 in Connecticut, Illinois, Nevada and New Jersey, 49 in Iowa and Nebraska; Massachusetts ranks with Rhode Island, New York and Colorado at 48; Michigan and Dakota are equal at 47; Alaska is not the coldest part of the Union, as is commonly supposed, but stands with New Hampshire at 46; colder than these are Maine and Wisconsin at 45, Montana and Vermont at 43, Minnesota at 42, and coldest of all, Wyoming at 41.

—There is a good deal of fun in sleigh-riding, if you only know how to enjoy yourself as a Connecticut young lady did last winter, when two young men, one on each side of her, thrust their hands into her muff just as she withdrew the one they wanted to squeeze. They continued pressing each other's hands and looking lovingly into her face, until she said: "If you two are through with my muff, I will have to trouble you for it, as my hands are getting cold." They gave it to her without a word.

—The courts are getting so they punish people with fine or imprisonment for "borrowing" umbrellas. It's no use, we shall have to buy one.—Lowell Citizen.

The Best Side.

Everybody has a best side, and everybody has an ugly side; some people have several ugly sides. There are those so amiable or so well trained, or so self-contained, that they rarely show jaggedness on any side. But these are rare. The ideal gentleman never forgets what is due to himself, never forgets what is due to others. So of the ideal lady. We do sometimes find these ideal personages in real life, but rarely. Ordinary people make up, or try to, for coarseness in the kitchen by refinement in the parlor, and are more courteous to their betters than is due, that they may atone for scant courtesy to their inferiors, or those they deem such. There are very few natures so purged, so disciplined, so chastened by religion, or any other force, that upon greater or less provocation the unhallowed passion within them will not glare forth from their eyes, crimson in their cheeks, tremble in their limbs, quiver in their voices or gnaw silently at their vitals. For within us all slumber or lie in ambush waiting a favorable opportunity to spring forth at least ten deadly sins forbidden in the Decalogue. However perfectly one may seem outwardly to conform to the requirements of high morality and lofty virtue, where lives the human being but daily needs to utter the petition, "Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil," but needs to smite upon his breast and exclaim, "God be merciful to me, a sinner?"

Alike beneath the polished exterior of conventional courtesy and the rough exterior of "no manners at all" is the ceaseless conflict of passion, interest, duty, ambition, conscience, waging; in my lady's elegant boudoir, and in the attic devoted to menial servants. The conflict is one, though in different parts of the field, one under velvet and calico, under broadcloth and jeans.

No appetite or passion of the human mind or body is in itself wrong. Every one was planted there by the beneficent Creator for the good of the possessor, and, rightly indulged and exercised, results in good. But without the possibility of vice there can be no virtue. The greatest men that have lived have been men of large appetites and passions, who have brought them under control, who have harnessed them to the chariot of reason, subjugated them to the yoke, made them obedient to check and rein. We have inspired authority for the fact that even the Spotless One was "tempted in all parts like as we are."

It is not strange that hearts burning with hate, inflamed with resentment, torn by conflicting passion, or wearied by sorrow, by ill-health, by baffled hopes and disappointed expectations, should sometimes unconsciously or carelessly permit the gaze of the passer-by. With such hearts we are coming into more or less intimate contact all the time, and how to make that contact kindly and helpful is a question always important to the lover of his kind. We may exaggerate the woes of others by our bearing and manner, or we may soothe, restrain, heal the wounded heart. We are all our "brother's keeper," whether he accept the trust or not. If we reject it, we too may hear the voice of his blood crying to God from the ground.

The mother is continually called on to come into most intimate contact with the various members of her household, to compose disputes, to harmonize conflicting interests, to soothe perturbed spirits, to help them that have lost control of themselves to regain it, to help those who have never gained control of themselves to acquire it, to subdue the refractory, to guide the unruly, to disipline the disobedient, to distil from all the various complex elements thrown into her crucible that divine essence we call Home. She, and she only, who sedulously, from principle and by habit, cultivates that which is noblest and best in herself can call out that which is noblest and best in those around her. Only by repressing and overcoming that in herself which is evil can she compel and secure the repression and restraint of that which is evil in those under her guardian care. She is the mirror in which her household will glass themselves. As she is, such will they unconsciously shape themselves. The showing of her best side to them will infallibly compel them to show their best side to her. And how can she do those she loves and would serve a greater kindness than by habitually calling out the best there is in them?

It is wise to seek the companionship of individuals who put us on our best behavior, who call out the best impulses and aspirations and purposes within us, and to avoid those who kindle or quicken our consciousness of lower and baser impulses. Solitude is infinitely better than bad companionship. But with the multitude of cheap reprints of our best authors one never need be alone or in unworthy company. —N. Y. Tribune.

The Poisonous Mushroom.

Prof. Ponfick, of Breslau, has lately made experiments on the common mushroom of which the following are the practical results: All common mushrooms are poisonous, but cooking deprives them in a greater or lesser degree of their poisonous qualities. The repeated washing with cold water which they usually undergo to clean them, takes away a portion of the poison, and boiling does the rest; but the water in which they have been boiled is highly poisonous and should always be carefully got rid of. Experiments made on dogs showed that if a dog ate one per cent. of his own weight of raw mushrooms it fell sick, but recovered; if it ate one and one-half per cent. the poison had a more violent but not fatal affect, and if it ate two per cent. it was inevitably fatal. The water in which mushrooms had been boiled was far more poisonous than even the raw mushrooms, while the mushrooms thus boiled could be taken without hurt to the amount of ten per cent. of the weight of the dog's body. Washing with cold water does not remove all the poison, so that mushrooms thus prepared were poisonous when taken in larger quantities. Dried mushrooms are still dangerous for from twelve to twenty days, and also the water in which they have been boiled. They require to be dried for at least a whole month and are only really safe after four months drying.—London News.

Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For sick headache, constipation, impure blood, dizziness, sour eructations from the stomach, bad taste in mouth, bilious attacks, pain in region of kidney, internal fever, bloated feeling about stomach, rush of blood to head, take Dr. Pierce's "pellets." By druggists.

—A woman was bitten by a dog in Paris. She went at once and had the wound cauterized at the Hotel Dieu. She continued perfectly well until one day, when she was passing the hospital, she was recognized by one of the students, who called out to her: "Hollo! you are not dead yet then! The dog which bit you was downright mad, as they found out afterward." The woman was seized immediately with a violent spasm, and in a few hours died with symptoms of hydrophobia.

If bilious, or suffering from impurity of blood, or weak lungs, and fear consumption (scrofulous disease of the lungs), take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" and it will cure you. By druggists.

—"Yes," he said, "I'll have the plumber come to the house to-day. Not that there's any trouble with the drainage, but our cook is sort of discontented and we don't want her to leave, and maybe being courted for four hours will make her less restless.—Boston Post.

Favoritism

is a bad thing, but Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" deserves its name. It is a certain cure for those painful maladies and weaknesses which embitter the lives of so many women. Of druggists.

—The annual report of the English post-office mentions an extraordinary exhibition of confidence in the honesty of the service, which astonished even the employes of the department. A £5 Bank of England note, without any cover whatever, was folded, addressed and stamped, and posted at Leeds. On being discovered in the mail, it was inclosed in a registered-letter envelope and forwarded to its destination.

—The little white worms which sometimes make the earth in a plant-jar look as if it is alive can be driven out by stopping the hole in the bottom of the jar, then cover the earth with water in which you have dissolved a little lime. Let this stand for several hours, and it is not likely that you will be troubled with the worms any more.—N. Y. Post.

Flies and Bugs

Flies, roaches, ants, bedbugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

—Spanish boys have no pleasures. Fruit growing by the roadside in that country is free to everybody.

[illegible] cod-liver oil, from selected livers, on [illegible] shore, by Caswell, Hazard & Co., N. Y. [illegible] pure and sweet. Patients who have [illegible] it prefer it to all others. Physicians [illegible] superior to all other oils.

—A granite memorial to Elihu Burritt, bearing the simple inscription, "Friend of Peace and Philanthropist," has been set up in New Britain Cemetery, Connecticut.

Ministerial Welfare.

West End, Atlanta, Ga.,
March 14, 1881.

H. H. Warner & Co.: Sirs—Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure raised me from a bed of sickness, and made me a well man.

Rev. Robert Cunningham.

—A correspondent of the Country Gentleman says: "Having several valuable young pear trees scratched by cats, and being told that pine tar was a reliable remedy for all vegetable wounds, I applied a coat to the affected parts. The result is, I have more experience and less trees."

Kidney-Wort is nature's remedy for Kidney and Liver diseases, Piles and Constipation.

—It is understood among the Chinese in San Francisco that all Chinamen who go from America to China before the present law expires will be put to death. The Chinese bosses, who contract for labor, are charged with inculcating this belief among their countrymen in order to prevent them from going home, and thus diminish their profits.—N. Y. Herald.

Lyon's Patent Metallic Heel Stiffeners Keep new boots and shoes from running over. Sold by shoe and hardware dealers.

—By the completion of the New Orleans Pacific Railroad, the merchants of the Crescent City expect to gain the bulk of the trade of the Red River Valley, which heretofore has gone to St. Louis.—N. O. Picayune.

No scales ever offered the public can surpass in perfection and durability those offered by the Chicago Scale Company. See advertisement in this issue.

—A few feet of land in New York City, 15 by 20 feet, sold recently at the rate of $15,456,000 per acre. This is the highest price ever paid for land in this country.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time the report went around that I was dead, I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man or Beast. For use externally or internally.

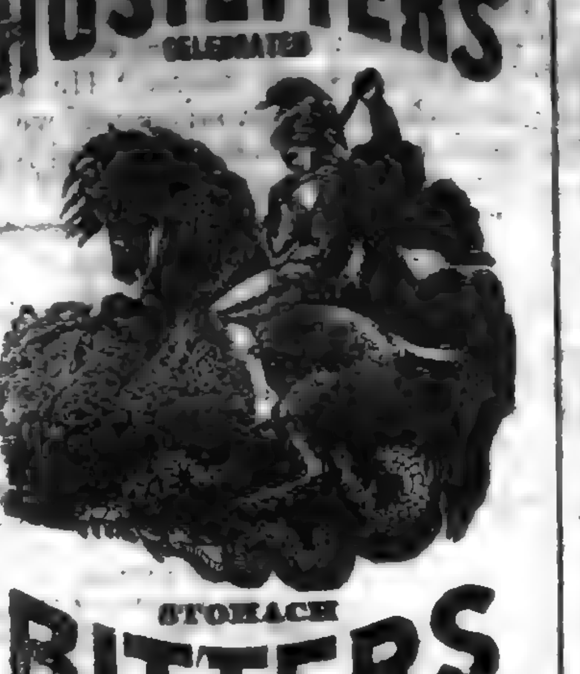
—A Kansas joker has had to pay $5,000 for destroying a man's eye with an explosive cigar.

Chapped hands, face, pimples and rough skin cured by using Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

BUGGIES [illegible]



STOMACH BITTERS

That terrible scourge, fever and ague, and its congener, bilious remittent, besides affections of the stomach, liver and bowels, produced by miasmatic air and water, are both eradicated and prevented by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a purely vegetable elixir, indorsed by physicians, and more extensively used as a remedy for the above class of disorders, as well as for many others, than any medicine of the age.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

DIAMONDS
FINE JEWELRY,
SOLID SILVER
BRIDAL PRESENTS.
LARGEST STOCK, NEWEST STYLES
and Lowest Prices.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue.
J. P. STEVENS & CO.,
FACTORY & SALESROOM,
34 WHITEHALL STREET
ATLANTA, GA.

MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM, OF LYNN, MASS.

Woman can Sympathize with Woman.
Health of Woman is the Hope of the Race.
Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

Sold by all Druggists.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-4 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.

THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Strong's Sanative Pills FOR THE LIVER.

A speedy cure for liver complaint, regulating the bowels, purifying the blood, cleansing from malarial taint. A perfect cure for sick headache, constipation and dyspepsia. Sold by all leading Druggists. For circulars and almanacs with full particulars, address, P. O. Box 650, New York City.

GOOD NEWS TO LADIES!

Get up Clubs for our CELEBRATED TEAS, and secure a beautiful "Moss Rose or Gold Band Tea Set," (44 pieces, our own importation. One of these beautiful Tea Sets given away to the party sending a Club for $25 00. Beware of the so-called CHEAP TEAS that are being advertised—they are dangerous and detrimental to health—slow poison. Deal only with reliable houses and with first hands if possible. No humbug.

The Great American Tea Co., Importers,
P. O. Box 289. 31 & 33 VESEY ST., New York.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

McBRIDE & CO.'S CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Own the Only City Natural Stone Water Filterer and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

FAIRBANKS' SCALES.

The World's Standard.

For Weighing Seed Cotton at the Gin.

Will more than pay for itself in one Season. Don't be humbuged by the cheap and worthless Wagon Scales which are offered at any Price; they are of no use and you will be better off without a Scale.

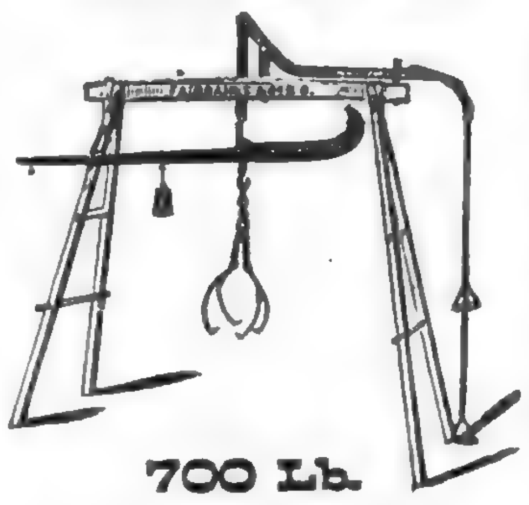
Write to us for Prices and one of our Books giving Testimonials. Don't buy untill you have heard from us, or seen our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS'



700 Lb.
SOUTHERN
COTTON BEAM

Frame, Hooks and all other required Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE
Fairbanks' Standard.

SCALES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST.

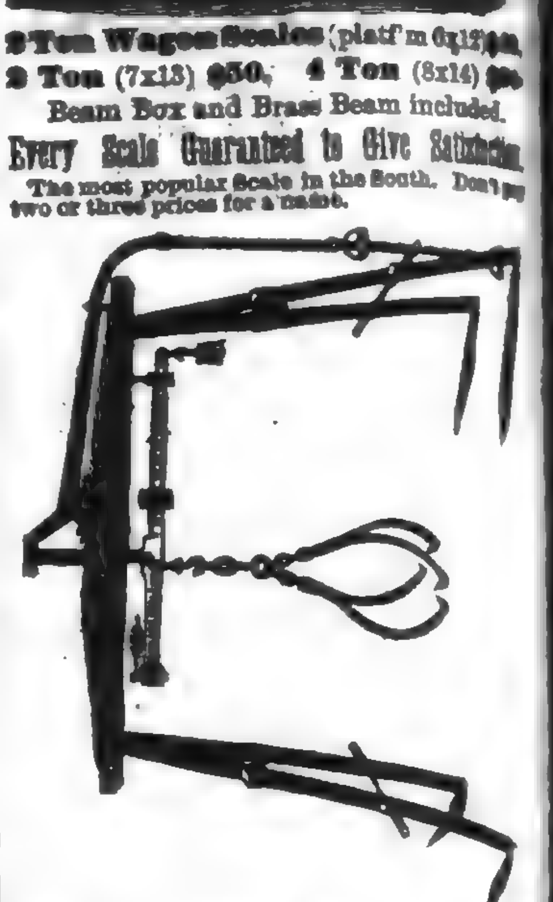
FAIRBANKS & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS.

BULBS, PLANTS, TREES, &c.

Our Illustrated and Descriptive Price List of Holland Bulbs, Plants, Seeds, Shrubs, Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Grape-vines, etc., all for Fall planting, will be mailed FREE TO ALL APPLICANTS. Address NANZ & NEUNER, Louisville, Ky.

CHICAGO SCALE CO.
THE BEST COTTON SCALES MADE AT LOWEST PRICES.

2 Ton Wagon Scales (platf'm 6x12) $40, 3 Ton (7x13) $50, 4 Ton (8x14) $60. Beam Box and Brass Beam included.
Every Scale Guaranteed to Give Satisfaction.
The most popular Scale in the South. Don't pay two or three prices for a name.



700 lb. Cotton Beam and Frame Complete $45.

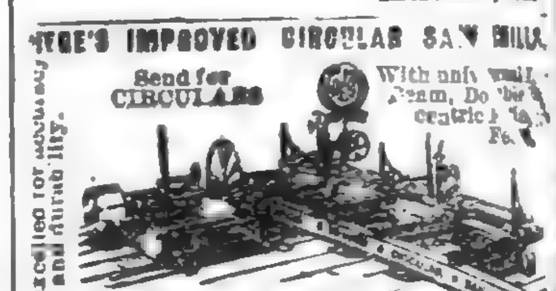
The best and cheapest Cotton Beam made, used by Weighmasters and Inspectors everywhere.

300 other Varieties of Scales.

Full Price-List Free.

BECK, GREGG & CO., Gen'l Ag'ts, Atlanta, Ga.

[illegible]'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS,



Send for CIRCULARS
With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.
Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.
Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

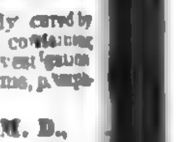
THRESHERS [illegible] THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield

OPIUM HABIT AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

SIX CTS WHY WASTE MONEY? Young man or old, if you want a luxuriant moustache, flowing whiskers or a heavy growth of hair on bald heads or to THICKEN, STRENGTHEN and INVIGORATE the HAIR anywhere don't be humbugged. Try the great Spanish discovery which has NEVER YET FAILED. Send ONLY SIX CENTS to Dr. J. [illegible], Box 1642, Boston, Mass. Beware of all imitations.



AGENTS WANTED FOR THE
HISTORY OF THE U. S.
BY ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

It contains nearly 300 fine portraits and engravings of battles and other historical scenes, and is the most complete and valuable history ever published. It is sold by subscription only, and Agents are wanted in every county. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address,

National Publishing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus, in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS, 2104 Wash. Avenue.

ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 26th, 1881.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO. 213 N. MAIN ST. ST. LOUIS

PETROLEUM JELLY

Sold by All Druggists.

Used and approved by the leading PHYSICIANS of EUROPE and AMERICA.

The most Valuable Family Remedy known.

VASELINE

For the Treatment of WOUNDS, BURNS, SORES, CUTS, CHILBLAINS, SKIN DISEASES, RHEUMATISM, CATARRH, HEMORRHOIDS, Etc. Also for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Croup and Diphtheria, etc. Try them. 25 and 50 cent sizes of all our goods.

The Toilet Articles from pure Vaseline—such as Pomade Vaseline, Vaseline Cold Cream, Vaseline Camphor Ice, Vaseline Toilet Soaps, are superior to any similar ones.

VASELINE CONFECTIONS. An agreeable form of taking Vaseline internally. 25 CENTS A BOX.

GRAND MEDAL AT THE PHILADELPHIA EXPOSITION.
SILVER MEDAL AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

COLGATE & CO., N. Y.

THE Memphis Mutual Aid Society

PRESENTS the ONLY successful NATAL DEPARTMENT known, paying a Birth Benefit in Twenty Days from date of Certificate.

PRESENTS the Best Four Months Marriage Department in existence, being the ONLY company paying ten per cent. of amount due on certificate at once upon receipt of proof of marriage.

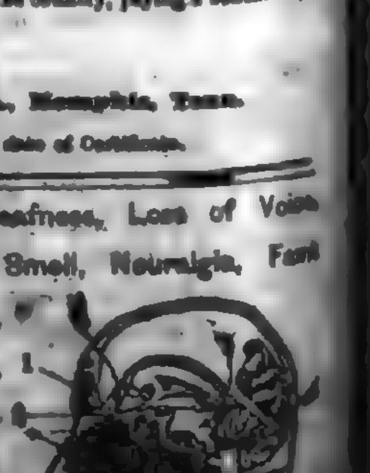
PRESENTS the best and strongest One Daily Marriage Department in the country, paying a benefit of [illegible] per day, and making the smallest assessment known.

Address, for particulars,

GEORGE F. WILLIS, Sec'y and Treas., Memphis, Tenn.

Telegraph your application and we will pay charges and hold a space for date of Certificate.

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Voice, Sense of Taste and Smell, Neuralgia, Faint Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use



EUREKA CATARRH CURE,
A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.
Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to
J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

Probai

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. 1. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1882. NO. 49.

LEARN TO WALK ALONE.

This world's a riddle hard to solve,
A puzzle hard to read;
And they who find Life's path all bright
Are precious few, indeed.
Yet don't despair, though Fortune frown,
Nor murmur at your fate;
Your aim in life by earnest toil
You'll sure win soon or late.
But walk upon your own feet, friend,
Nor trust to others' strength
To carry or to pull you up
Life's hill of weary length.
If e'er you hope to "make your mark,"
Or let your worth be known,
Take all the props from under you,
And learn to walk alone.

Men! who depend on borrowed gold
To brighten up your name,
And plead you must make such display
Your future wealth to gain,
Beware! "Pay as you go" is best.
Debt is an ugly foe;
You cannot tell what hour the fiend
Will strike a fatal blow.
Sons! stand without your father's aid;
Upon yourselves rely;
Rich fruitage in the future lies;
You'll win it if you try.
Know that the "solid man" is he
(In high or humble home)
Who has no props to lean upon,
But walks along alone.

AT THE ARENA IN SPAIN.

I have not yet ceased wondering at that peculiar state of mind an American would find himself in had he, without previous promptings, been placed among the spectators at a Spanish bull-fight. The arena is six times the size of our circus rings, and the ground is of hard, beaten-down sand, the whole circle surrounded by stone seats, one tier over the other, with capabilities of holding 10,000 people. The places for the spectators are separated from the arena by a barrier, breast high, which forms a walk between the arena and the seats. Into this place of safety the bull-fighters spring when too closely pursued by the animal. You take your place, and are at once excited. Whether it be a feeling of wonder or dread I hardly know. You conjure up all the horrible things you may have seen or dreamed of, as if to accustom yourself to a new sensation. You think you ought not to have come at all.

Half the arena, as I saw it a few days ago, is in the full blaze of the brilliant sunlight and is a carnival of color. To depict it an artist's palet would be impossible, it is so rich with the varied hues of shawls, gay dresses, startling parasols and fluttering fans. The noise is deafening, for everybody is talking or laughing, and to add to the confusion there is a band. At last the noise of the music ceases and we know that the hour has come. Two men on horseback, in costumes of the sixteenth century, enter the arena. They ride across the ring, approach the place where the dignitary who presides over the bull-fights is seated, and, baring their heads, receive permission to commence the dreadful business. Slowly, as in state, they now approach the entrance from whence the bull-fighters will come. Then out from here emerges the whole band of espadas, picadors and bandarillos. This display is superb. The men are clad in gorgeous colors. They march across the arena to the loge of the President, bow low, and then, ranging themselves about the sides of the arena, await the coming of the bull. The keys of the bull inclosure are now thrown into the arena to be deftly caught by a bull-fighter. He marches slowly along, turns the key, and a door grates on its hinges. Then you feel your nerves vibrate, your muscles contract, as you strain your eyes. There is a dead silence. In an instant a bull strides into the arena, and, with jerky motion of head and lashing of tail, glares at the sun-light. Ten thousand voices greet him. The bull for a moment seems dazed, but it is only for a moment. At once he seems to understand who are his enemies, and with a vicious movement plunges into the arena. The massacre has begun.

You have a dim conception of some fierce assault between a man on a gaunt horse and a frantic bull. You are positive that the bull has driven his horns into the poor horse. There are flutterings of cloaks and wild dashes of the bull, and then you see a bleeding, an eviserated horse, spurred and lashed in pursuit of the bull. You are sickened, you feel faint, and yet you are terribly excited. The bull dashes wildly hither and thither, and you forget about the horse. It is all the caparillos can do to elude the rapid attacks of the bull. Still they flap their cloaks in his blood-shot eyes. They lead him toward the picador. The bull is furious. Here is something he evidently thinks which cannot escape punishment. But you see the horse again, who, fallen on his side, in his agony entangles his feet in his own entrails. One brute tries to make the horse stand up, only to be hurled over again to the ground by the maddened bull. Sometimes as many as eight horses are killed by one bull, and I may remark that the more horses killed the better the Spaniard deems the show.

A trumpet sounds and the bandarillos are brought into the arena. The picadors retire and no doubt say a pater or an ave to their patron saint, praying to live to see themselves mounted on more horses whose entrails are to be ripped out by bulls. The darts are now in the bandarillos' hands. The bull has been fretted enough; the bandarillos' duty is to make him crazy. The bandarillos buzz around him like hornets, and prick him with their darts. You wonder how it is all done. The bull seems for an instant to have one man at his mercy. His horns are within a hair's breadth of the bandarillo, and next you see the man untouched, the bull's head high in the air, but his neck fringed with darts. Eight of these darts are dangling now in his hide, when the trumpet sounds once more, and the multitudes yell for the espada. The bull stands panting, with streaming sides. The espada steps into the ring, places himself before the President's seat, and says a few words to the effect that, with his permission, he desires either to kill or be killed by the bull. He takes his jaunty cap from off his head and throws it into the ring. Now, in a dignified manner, with superb strut, the espada goes forth to meet the bull, and never stops until he is within a few feet of him. The bull seems astounded at this coolness, and does not budge.

The espada takes a bit of red cloth and holds it close to the bull. This is too much of an impertinence for toro, who, with a quick, vicious dash at the espada completely dispels any idea you may have that the bull is tired. The red cloth has almost been entangled in the bull's horns, and that animal seems surprised that he is only tearing up the air with his sharp prongs. This play, which worries the bull, is continued until at last the beast is apparently tired out, for he seems hardly conscious of the presence of his enemy. The espada's sword is then slowly raised until it is on a line with his eye. He holds it there an instant, then gives a spring forward. The bull meets him half way with lowered head, and the blade is buried to the hilt somewhere in the region of the animal's heart. The man stands stock still. The bull, languidly tossing his head, slowly retreats. He seems conscious of his end. He coughs blood. For the spectators this is the supreme moment of the show, and they rise to witness his agony. He quivers, staggers and sinks. His enemies still surround him and torment him. Perhaps there is something more to be got of him. He rises unsteadily, for he is faint. The clotted blood, in a horrible stream, is cast up by the bull. The world becomes dark for that miserable beast, though God's sun is shining ever so brightly. He is on his feet for the last time. A creature comes now on the scene—some poor, abject wretch incorporated in the noble guild of bull-fighters. He treads the ground cat-like. He has a small knife as keen as a razor. It is the coup de grace he gives, the only merciful thing done, for, with a rapid motion, he cuts the bull's throat. The misery is over. A few prolonged notes of the trumpet herald the death of the first bull. While the band is playing the arena is cleared of dead bull and horses. The fine points of the fight are discussed with zest by the spectators. It is generally agreed by the critics that the bull was a game one.

The second bull is then ready for torture. It is not the same fight exactly, for there are accidental differences. There are many horses killed, but the death of the bull is certain. The last bull is dead now, and as you look into the calm, clear sky, you ask yourself, in a fearful kind of inquiry: "How did you like it?" You are half afraid of your own reply. The man who offers you tickets for the next bull-fight, which is to take place in a few days, may perchance find a customer, "just for the opportunity of studying the whole thing more calmly." As for me, I will never see another bull-fight as long as I live.—Toledo (Spain) Cor. N. Y. Times.

Why Egyptians Lack Patriotism.

During my visit to Egypt—some seven or eight years ago—there was certainly no national feeling among the Egyptians. Neither they nor their ancestors, for nearly two thousand years, had known native rulers. During all these long centuries they had been the spoil of Roman, Arab, Turk and Mameluke in turn; from none, since the Roman time, had they received protection of life and property, or any national benefits, and it was impossible that patriotism should exist among them, for there is no patriotism save in a country worth loving. The conduct of the Egyptian troops in the late Russian war is a proof of this. The few battalions I saw in Egypt were fine-looking troops—well armed, instructed and equipped, with intelligent faces and excellent physique; yet they proved utterly worthless, as it seems to me, because they were destitute of that pride which is inspired by patriotism; for them their flag had no meaning, its honor was no concern of theirs. Their conduct in Abyssinia and the Soudan was similar, and no doubt from the same cause. How can valor and patriotism be expected from men whose only knowledge of their government is that derived from the tax-gatherer, the bastinado and forced labor? The achievements of that great soldier, Ibrahim Pacha, are not in contradiction with this conclusion, because few of his troops were Fellaheen. His conquering armies were mainly composed of Arabs, Syrians, Nubians, Arnauts—in fact, of fighting men from all the neighboring parts of the East, who were reduced to discipline by his stern will and guided to victory by his great military genius.

—The Vice President of the Lyons (France) Bicycle Club has made a wonderful journey, accompanied by his wife. This happy pair have traveled 2,300 miles together on a two-seated tricycle, at an average of from fifty to sixty miles a day. The trip was from Lyons to Naples, taking Nice, Genoa and Rome en route, and returning by way of Florence and Turin.

—In Mobile a fifteen-foot tiger shark was caught recently that was believed to have devoured A. Frogert, engineer of the tug Col. Woodruff. Its stomach contained human bones and a human arm partly enveloped in the fragments of a blue woolen jumper.

—The records of war prove that a volley of 500 bullets fired at fifty men very [illegible] hit over three at the outside.

Port Said.

Port Said is distant by sea from Alexandria about 140 miles. The port is purely the recent creation of human ingenuity and labor; and the town which has sprung up behind it, though numbering now at least 10,000 inhabitants, is not less the creation of the port. As M. Le Masson, the French engineer, observed, it is a port "contre nature." At this Mediterranean extremity of the canal, indeed, the prospect might well have daunted the heart of the most courageous of projectors. The problem was to get depth upon a comparatively shallow, sandy coast; and this was practically attained by commencing the work on a sand-bank twenty-six miles from the mainland. This long bank or belt of sand, extending from the mouth of the Damietta branch of the Nile to the Gulf of Pelusium, is described in Mr. Wyld's map as being of fine gray sand, five feet only above low water mark, and varying from 109 to 164 yards in length. Behind this irregular barrier is the shallow lake of Menzaleh, through which it was, of course, necessary to make an artificial channel for the canal. The first thing to be accomplished, however, was to construct the foundations for the future town to be named after the then Viceroy, and then to project into the sea the two enormous breakwaters or moles which form the outer port and protect it against that constant tendency to the accummulation of sand, which, even as it is, demands constant dredging. The spot chosen on the sand bank, or strip of what is locally known as "slob," is described as little more than 500 feet wide.

The plan of the engineers was simple. At first a light framing of piles was run out, on which a crane and trucks laden with loose stones traveled, and in a short time a fairly substantial pier that served as a landing stage for material and machinery was constructed. Here was, in fact, the great workshop of the undertaking throughout the ten years of its construction. Encouraged by this success (says Mr. Fitzgerald) a bolder work was ventured on. Out in the bay, at nearly a mile distant, huge piles were screwed into the sands, and an oblong island was then formed with stones, the space between this island and the wooden shore pier being gradually filled in. Every day the piles settled firmly in their places in spite of the storms of the bay. This temporary structure was carried out to a distance of about 300 feet, and it was not till three years before the canal was complete and ready for opening that the work was seriously resumed and the breakwater joined to the pier. Two officers employed by the British Government to examine the port described it as formed by two rough, narrow, and low breakwaters, inclosing an area of some 400 acres, with an average depth of only thirteen or fourteen feet of water, except in the ship channel (about 300 feet wide) leading to the inner basins, where the depth is from twenty-five to twenty-eight feet. The western breakwater, which extends for 6,940 feet at right angles to the shore and is slightly curved to the eastward toward its extremity, was commenced in 1860 and carried out about 1,300 feet; beyond which point and at a short distance from it was deposited a heap of stones that was surrounded by iron piles, and from its detached position was called "the island." The work was then left untouched till 1866, when the breakwater was joined to the island, and it was continued to its present length and finished in 1868.

From the mainland to the island the breakwater is formed on its inner side of a bank of rubble-stones, surmounted by a promenade, over which the spray breaks with a very moderate northwest wind, and on the outer or sea front of concrete blocks; but beyond the island to its termination it is entirely constructed of large blocks of artificial stone, composed of one part of French hydraulic lime with two parts of sand, and some of which were transfered to it from the eastern breakwater. The latter, which is also constructed of large masses of concrete, is of more recent construction, extending to about 6,020 feet, and converging toward the western harbor. Such is the harbor of Port Said. It can not, according to these authorities, be considered as a harbor either in respect of extent or depth of vessels of large tonnage and great draft; but, slightly improved and well maintained, it has, as we have seen, nobly served its purpose. Near the commencement of the West Mole is the light-house, the tower of which, composed of a solid mass of concrete, is 160 feet high, lighted by an electric light flashing every twenty seconds, and visible at a distance of twenty miles. Three other lighthouses of the same height, though differing in construction, have been erected along the coast between the fort and Alexandria. It is interesting to know that the solid blocks of concrete or artificial stone so extensively used have, at least below water, become firmer and more trustworthy by reason of the growth of seaweed upon them. Port Said is described in the latest edition of Mr. Murray's invaluable "Handbook of Lower and Upper Egypt" as now regularly laid out in streets and squares, with docks, quays, churches, hospitals, mosques, and hotels, and all the adjuncts of a seaport, and with the most easily approached and safest harbor along the coast. Fresh water is supplied to it from Ismailia, that now famous half-way house of the canal voyage. The town no longer presents the same busy appearance which it did when it was the headquarters of the engineering work; but the increasing traffic through the isthmus always imparts a certain activity to the place.—N. Y. Herald.

Breaking Them in at West Point.

After receiving the appointment, each candidate is sent from the War Department a synopsis of what will be required of him at the academy, together with a list of the books he will use upon being admitted. This list, to many, is "frightful to contemplate;" but it does not deter the candidates, and in the middle of June something like 120 young men, dreaming of a soldier's life and its attendant glory, report at the Post Adjutant's office at West Point. In a little room situated in the west end of the building await a cadet captain and four cadet corporals. The corporals are third-class men, and, in cadet parlance, have just "shed their pleb skins," and feel in due proportion the importance born of a little brief authority. The luckless candidate knocks at the door of this official sanctum, and, hearing a gruff "Come in," opens it. Instanter every cadet jumps to his feet and yells, "How dare you, sir, come into our presence with your hat on? Go out and take it off, directly, sir!" The candidate meekly obeys, goes out, removes his hat, and re-enters, this time probably without knocking, when he is again ordered out with more abuse than before. When he finally succeeds in entering in a manner satisfactory to his tormentors, he is told to fix his eyes on a nail in the wall, and to answer all questions put to him. Upon being asked his name, he in all probability responds, Charles Lawrence or Richard Nelson, as the case may be, when another storm from the "yearling" corporals warns him that another mistake is made. "Have you no respect for yourself? If you have, just put a 'mister' before that name, and to show your respect for us, put a 'sir' after it. Now, then, what's your name?" "Mr. Richard Nelson, sir." "That's right; now remember that, from this time until next June, you are 'Mr. Richard Nelson, sir,' to all upper classmen." This farce is gone through with every candidate. This is a mild form of hazing, and the questions asked and the answers required are as old as the academy itself.

The candidates, or "beasts," as the glossary of the Point designates the new cadet before admission, remain quartered in barracks until their preliminary examinations are over. These examinations occupy three days, and at the end of that time the "beasts" are informed of the result, and those who have passed successfully are sized, assigned to companies, and marched into camp. Arrived in camp, the new cadets, who have now changed from "beasts" to "plebs," are generally met by the yearling class, armed with brooms, who present arms with mock solemnity as the plebs march by.

The new class is now divided into squads of six men each and put under the charge of the cadet corporals to be initiated into the pleasures of the "setting-up" drill. This consists of four exercises, the object of which is to straighten the body. The terrors of this drill can not be exaggerated. A corporal will frequently march his squad to a secluded place and there give the command: "Continue the motion, second exercise!" At this command the squad raise their hands over their heads, and, bending the body at the waist, endeavor to touch the ground without bending the knee. The command, "continue the motion," means that the exercise is to be gone through with time after time, without rest, until it suits the convenience of the corporal in charge to give the command to cease. A case is known where one cadet went through the second exercise 280 times without cessation. This is a species of "legitimate hazing" that may seem cruel, but the cadet thinks it is really the only course to pursue, inasmuch as, if a pleb is treated too well, he will grow lax in his attention, whereas, if he is treated harshly his every nerve will be strained to do right and thus shorten the agony.

Hazing proper is performed by the members of the yearling class who were not fortunate enough to obtain chevrons, but who constitute themselves a committee of the whole to see that the pleb's life is made miserable. Most of this hazing is carried on in the sink, which, being underground, affords security to the hazer. Here the plebs are treated to a "glimpse of Niagara Falls," which consists of standing them on their heads and allowing two streams of cold water from hydrants to run up their trousers legs, are taught "how to climb Zion's hill" to slow music, which is simply trying to walk up the wall to any tune that the pleb happens to know, are required to crow, to recite the alphabet "with appropriate gestures," and, in short, to do anything and everything that a human or inhuman brain can devise to make a man appear ridiculous. A refusal on the part of the victim invariably leads to a fight, in which the pleb always gets worsted.—Boston Herald.

—The owners of a large number of Cuba sugar estates, especially at Cardenas and Matanzas, are actively pushing the construction of narrow-gauge railways, the advantage of these roads having been satisfactorily demonstrated during the past crop for hauling the cane from the fields to the factory, and thence the sugar to the nearest railroad stations.

—Miss Wade, a young English tourist, who went out sketching on Mount Epomeo, at Ischia, Italy, was found at the bottom of a deep ravine. She died in the morning without being able to give an account of the accident.

—Eighty-eight Swiss convents contain 546 male and 2,030 female inmates. The aggregate wealth is 35,000,000 francs.

The Absurdities of Fashion.

Old Mr. Thistlepod climed up the broad stairway of marble and rosewood leading to the high-backed, Queen-Anne editorial rooms of The Hawkeye, yesterday morning. His heavy tread fell noiselessly upon the Pompadour velvet carpets, and as he sank into a costly escritoire the perfumed light fell through the stained glass tant mieux at the facade of the managing editor's ebranlement de cuir, touched the old man's face with a softened overmoulou, that seemed like an echo from the stately renaissance that looked down upon the walls. Carefully moving the elegant Louis Quinze passe-partout where the old man could not tip it over with his feet, if after his usual habit he should choose to rest them on the carved mauvis sujet, the editor asked the honest tiller of the soil how was crops in the Flint River country.

"Crops?" echoed the old man. "Well now I want to tell you about crops. Corn's all right, an' oats was better'n usual an' wheat just boomed, but you've got a crop of fools in Burlington that'll just lay over any other green thing that ever drawed the cows in the State of Iowa.

"Why, the town's full of 'em," shouted Mr. Thistlepod, who labors under the impression that he can't be heard unless he talks very loud.

"How can you tell they're fools?" asked the society editor.

"By their clothes," waved the old man, and the society editor slid as far as he could under the table and then laid his face flat on his arm in order to write more easily. "By their clothes," repeated the sturdy old agriculturist. "'Y gaul, if a boy of mine 'us to dress like the young fellers I see in this town, I'd beat some sense into him with a neck-yoke. Why it's redik'lus; I tell ye, it's redik'lus. I see a young chap down in the countin'-room with a pair o' trousers on him tighter'n candle molds—I hope to die 'f I didn't think he'd stuck his laigs into a couple o' snake skins. 'N' his coat—by jockies, it wasn't hardly long enough to cover his suspenders; it wasn't, I swanny. 'N' it fit him closter than his undershirt, and his shirt-collar sawed his years every time he turned his head, 'n' he wore his watch chain outside his coat. An' he wore a flat hat, with a round top, about as big as a cooky. An' his shoes! P'inted, do ye know, p'inted like toothpicks, 'n' they was long as pickaxes. To see him skippin' around in that git up, lookin' more like a monkey nor a white man, 'y gaul, it made me mad, 'n' I swan I wanted to lick him. I declare I did. They's no sense in a Christian man makin' such an outlandish spectacle of himself, an' if I ever ketch my boy dressed up in any such a dog-goned redik'lus, absurd, disgustin' fashion, I'll be gaul swizzled if I—hello, Jasper, are ye waitin' for me?"

And saying good-by, Mr. Thistlepod accompanied his son down stairs to the wagon. As the old man turned to go, he did not in the least degree resemble the "young feller" down in the counting-room. The big felt hat he wore had originally been of some color, but that was years ago. The blue merino band sewed on with black thread was too loose, and a twine string tied tightly around it caused the hat to bulge out above the band like the dome of a mosque. The hickory shirt fastened at the collar in severe simplicity with a big horn button, scorned a collar of any kind. The roomy brown vest had four white bone buttons and a black shawl pin, and through the irregular reticulations of its much abraded back the solitary suspender showed through, resolutely clinging to a button aft and a nail forward. The baggy blue trousers swelled out below the flapping vest into an ample dome, strangely creased and fearfully wrinkled, breaking, as the old man walked, into awful billowy bulges and humps, while one long, deep, diagonal crease showed where the trusty suspender, hauled taut from port to starboard, held everything fast on the quarter. Further down they bagged in great curving billows at the knees and wrinkled behind; they were brief, and came to an untimely end about four inches before they reached the top of the shoe, and they ended abruptly; same size all the way down and sawed square off across the ends. The shoes were not exactly pointed at the toes, and when the old man's feet were not in them you couldn't bet which way the shoes were pointed. Jasper was attired in like manner as his father, only being a much taller man his trousers were correspondingly shorter. As they passed through the æsthetic decorations of the counting-room the man in the lean pants laughed sneeringly, and Mr. Thistlepod laughed tauntingly. The managing editor sank back in his ermine cushioned fleur de terre.

"I am afraid," he sighed, wearily, "those two people are laughing at each other's clothes."—Burlington Hawkeye.

—The extreme cold of last winter, and the unusual floats of Greenland ice that have blocked the harbors and prevented navigation, have brought about a terrible condition of affairs in Iceland. They are on the verge of a great famine, and the Governor of Iceland appeals for help to other nations.—Christian Union.

—The Elmira (N. Y.) Gazette says that William Peak, formerly manager of the celebrated Peak family of bell-ringers, was recently arrested at Goshen, N. Y., as a vagrant, and sent to jail for ten days. The Gazette adds that ten years ago he was worth $100,000, but now he is a pauper, and that benevolence is the cause of his poverty, as he was always liberal to a fault.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

—There are sixty Methodist churches in New York City.

—Instruction in field and garden work is to be given in the rural schools of Russia.

—Fifty out of the seventy-three students in Jaffra College, Ceylon, have renounced paganism for Christianity.—Christian Union.

—If your son has no brains, do not send him to college. You cannot make a balloon out of a shanty by treating it to a French roof.—Whitehall Times.

—Dr. Joseph W. Taylor, a Quaker, has left $700,000 to found an institution for the education of women at Bryn Mawr, near Philadelphia, to be under the control of the Quakers.

—A religious paper makes the statement that one in every five persons in the United States is a member of some evangelical church, and one in every fifty-six is a Sabbath-school teacher.

—The will of the late Rev. Dr. George Musgrove bequeaths $30,000 to Princeton College, $12,000 to the Presbyterian Hospital of Philadelphia, and $4,000 to the Theological Seminary of Princeton.

—The authorities of Cornell University have negotiated the sale of a large part of the institution's Western lands, by which about $2,000,000 will be realized. A few months ago sales were made to the amount of $500,000. The land undisposed of belonging to the University are 130,000 acres of pine lands and 50,000 or 60,000 acres of farming lands.—N. Y. Times.

—The Baptists are extending their mission in India and Burmah. Recently the following missionaries sailed from New York: Rev. D. K. Rayl and wife and Rev. E. Chute and wife, who are to reside in Ongoil, India. Rev. B. P. Cross and wife, Rev. L. J. Denchfield and wife, Rev. J. E. Case, Mrs. M. C. Douglass, Mrs. F. H. Eveleth and Miss Bunn go to Burmah.—Christian Union.

—In Mr. Spurgeon's inexhaustible fund of illustrative stories is one of a man who used to say to his wife: "Mary, go to church and pray for us both." But the man dreamed one night when he and his wife got to the gate of Heaven Peter said: "Mary, go in for both." He awoke and made up his mind that it was time for him to become a Christian on his own account.—Chicago Herald.

—It is reported that during the three years in which Mr. Henry M. Stanley has been conducting the Belgian Exploring Expedition on the Congo in Africa, he has never had a quarrel with the natives, and has succeeded in establishing four trading stations. This affords fresh evidence that exploration among savage tribes can be conducted on Christian principles, and that the golden rule is a more potent force toward civilization than Gatling guns or steel bayonets.—S. S. Times.

Malaria.

The scientific world does not yet know what malaria is. They know the surrounding circumstances of its production or prevalence. But whether it is a subtle gas, or a poisonous compound of gases which in their separate condition are healthy and necessary to the healthy action of the human system, they have not yet clearly established. Many are disposed to imagine, without knowing why or wherefore, that malaria or miasma is caused by living bacteria, nomads, infusoria, or some other infinitisimal atoms, which are developed and set afloat in the atmosphere, when the situation is damp and rank with decaying vegetation, and the temperature is at least above eighty degrees. Whatever it is, whether a poisonous gas or an equally vicious germ, all know pretty well the surrounding conditions for its development. Newly-broken prairie, with the grass turned under to decay, damp places obscured from the sun by high weeds or thick shade, decaying vegetable matter, or animal deposits about yards, stable lots, fence corners, or the rich soil, probably manured annually on lawns, are the favorable locations for the development of malaria. But in all the places and conditions, if freely exposed to open air and bright sunshine, little or no harm arises from such conditions. While all are compelled to acknowledge the beneficent influence of the cool shade on a sultry day, and the beauty and variety given to the landscape by beautiful trees, yet when clustered so closely as to shut out the magic influence of the sun in enabling the system to withstand the poisonous influence of malaria and other morbid agencies, better part with the shade than health. Damp cellars, thickly shaded lawns, obstructed sewers, muddy streets and alleys are all exciting causes of disease, feebleness of mind and body, and premature decay. The great power to aid the system to resist these agencies for evil is a glorious flood of sunlight.

"Blest power of sunshine, genial day,
What balm, what life are in thy ray!
To feel thee is such real bliss,
That, had the world no joy but this,
To sit in sunshine calm and sweet,
It were a world too exquisite
For man to leave it for the gloom,
The deep, cold shadow of the tomb."
—Iowa State Register.

—For ten years an Italian has been proprietor of a peanut and fruit stand at the corner of Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City, in front of a shoe store. At a sheriff's sale of the store on Wednesday the stock of goods and fixtures were knocked down to the peanut merchant, who promptly handed over the purchase money, amounting to over $1,000. He will continue the boot and shoe business in connection with the peanut and fruit business. He [illegible] remarked that they had money enough left to buy another store.—N. Y. Times.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 19, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

The city of Dallas, Texas, is built over a pre-historic graveyard. For five or six years excavations of large bones and mastodonic remains have been frequent.

Whittaker, the colored ex-cadet, has abandoned the republican party and in stump speeches is urging the colored voters of South Carolina to join the democratic party and vote that ticket.

An advanced decision by the Supreme Court of Illinois in regard to the right of a State to regulate charges on a railroad beyond the limits of a State, was to the effect that the road had no right to charge more for the shorter than for the longer haul.

Col. W. M. Lowe died at Huntsville, Ala., last week. He was the Greenback candidate for Congress from the eighth district. He was forty years of age. One D. D. Shelby, of Madison, lately elected State Senator from that county, will enter the field in place of Lowe, in the Congressional race against Hon. Luke Pryor, the Democratic nominee in that district.

Miss Lowery horsewhipped Edward Orr, at Gray's Falls, Ontario, because he preferred another girl in marriage. Her two brothers and new lover held him fast while she plied the whip. That happened a year ago. Orr obtained the whip, and has since flogged each of the three men separately with it, the last to receive punishment getting so much that he was confined to his bed for a week. The girl then became frightened, and wrote to ask if she, too, was to be whipped. Orr replied that he had no such intention, but thought he might feel impelled to thrash her father and several of her cousins unless they treated him with deference.

Mrs. Stow, a San Francisco dress reformer, has informed the police that on Jan. 1 she will begin to wear trousers in public, and she demands protection in case street crowds insult her. But the Chief of Police seems to think that it will be his duty to arrest her on the ground that her conduct would be disorderly. As to the proposed garment, Mrs. Stow says: "My trousers are made with a plait, and descend just to the line of beauty in the calf of the leg, just where the dresses of young girls come; and if young girls wear their dresses so, why should not old girls adopt the same fashion?" She is advised by a lawyer that California has no law under which she can be prevented from dressing in that fashion.

Hon. Thomas Williams.

Pursuant to appointment, Col. Thomas Williams, the Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, delivered an address at the Courthouse yesterday. The speaker was accompanied by Col. Osceola Kyle, and Rev. H. R. McCoy, the Greenback candidate.

Col. Williams is a pleasant speaker, of fine presence and excellent diction. He first referred to his vote upon the river and harbor bill, which Mr. McCoy has termed a steal. He presented statistics to prove that outside of the appropriation for Mississippi river improvements, the amount of the river and harbor bill of the forty-sixth congress exactly reached the amount appropriated for that purpose by the forty-seventh congress. The river and harbor bill of the last Congress gave $6,000,000 to the improvement of the Mississippi, a matter absolutely demanding immediate attention and assistance from the national government. It was useless to find fault with the river and harbor bill of the forty-seventh congress, and not that of the forty-sixth congress, the one exceeding the other only in the amount appropriated to protect the inhabitants along the Mississippi and prevent their property being swept away by inundations.

Col. Williams referred to his opponent, who is running as an Independent Greenbacker. Greenbackism was dead, and Mr. McCoy was in a peculiar political predicament as the standard bearer of an organization long since defunct. He compared him to an old negro, whom he had seen dancing a jig to the tune of a fiddle, when the fiddle all at once stopped, yet the old jig dancer stopped not. We had stopped the fiddle of the Greenback party, and McCoy kept on dancing.

Col. W. spoke of the tariff commission and its ridiculous workings. He said that the whole commission was a farce from beginning to end, gotten up to deter legislation upon the tariff. He defended his vote against the measure. He as ably defended his vote on the anti-polygamy bill.

We could not second his defence of the present election law in this State, but in comparison with the election law of the reconstruction era, it is to be preferred.

Col. Williams' address was highly interesting, instructive and entertaining, and at its close the entire audience was ready to hurrah for Uncle Thomas, the representative of the white people of this district. Mr. McCoy next spoke.

Mr. McCoy's effort, we are forced to acknowledge, was beyond our comprehension. We were unable to get at the gist of his arguments, unable to understand his position, and we are, therefore, unable to say anything about his speech.

Senator Morgan at Randolph.

Our Maplesville correspondent having heard Senator Morgan's address at Randolph, thus succinctly reviews it:

On the 11th inst., this distinguished Alabamian, according to appointment, delivered one of his effective speeches. He explained the responsibilities of a voter and urged every one to do his duty at the polls. That by our apathy and indifference a victory, virtually within our grasp, might be snatched from us. His remarks on the tariff question, brief as they were, made a deep impression on his hearers, who had never paid much attention to the matter. He showed us that the present tariff existed only for the benefit of the monopolists, and that the labor of the country was taxed for the sustenance of these extortionists, whose greed was insatiable. That in the Democratic party was the only hope of the people for relief. He assured us that the day of deliverance was near at hand.

The audience was not large, yet he said he appreciated it as much as if a thousand heard him. There is no man dearer to the people of Alabama, than Senator Morgan. The mention of his name sends a thrill through the heart of every true Democrat and lover of constitutional government.

◆

It is a pretty will o' the wisp, this delusion about getting hordes of foreign population to come into our State; but it has never yet deluded our more thoughtful people. It is far better for a new population to filter into our political and social structure, and to be absorbed gradually and silently, than to have masses of strangers to deluge us sweeping into oblivion our proud traditions and our well enough present.—Hayneville Exam.

We say let 'em come as fast as they can. How much preferrable is it that our State should be filled with hard-working, industrious Germans, Swiss, Swedes and Danes than by the present laborers. The way they are "filtering into our social structure" now, reminds us of the traditional church supper lemonade—one lemon to every barrel of water.—Gainesville Reporter.

Yes, let them come. Let us institute immigration bureaus, and send out agents and pamphlets to proclaim to the world, from Dublin to Constantinople, from Bagdad to Amsterdam, that there is such a State as Alabama, away over in the new world, where there is room for all honest sons of toil. And let our "proud traditions" be laid aside, or swept into utter oblivion, if such will effect their coming. We are under the impression that it was from a hardy race of toilers our proud traditions sprang. We want more of such toilers to fill up the waste places, to help pay the taxes, to build up the towns, and to make this grand old commonwealth to blossom as the rose. Let them come, and let "our proud traditions" be bottled up and laid away until they shall be in demand.

How Girls Walk.

The conventional girl has to bring her adaptability into play just as much when she selects her style of walk as she does in deciding upon the style of her hat and the stuff for her gown. Congruity, too, plays an important part in her street appearance, and is an important factor in her success. The plump girl, who is all rich ripe round curves, and massiveness, can bound along with a quick, elastic step that would be ridiculously out of place in her lank and sweetly esthetic sister. The first can travel with an easy springing way that is suggestive of physical luxury and solid comfort as a pineapple fibre hammock under an apple tree; the other must glide—her very appearance suggests the frailties of her structures and the posibilities of her being jarred out of shape by the bounding process. Every woman has peculiarity that is essentially her own. To one who watches the crowd it becomes a question whether with a proper discretion of the steps and motions of the body, it would not be possible to classify each girl with a tolerable degree of accuracy. The matter-of-fact girl brings down her feet with such prosaic force that she is readily distinguished. So, too, is the romantic young lady whose step is in itself suggestive of rope ladders and moonlight. There is a go-out-among-the-heathen goodness of gate that will mark the evangelistic maiden ten blocks from a prayer-meeting, and the 'quadrupedante, patrem sonituquartit ungtila campum' step of the literary woman has an onomatopeia about it that proclaims her at once.—Courier-Journal.

Ternanville Ahead!

Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1

A Good Pair Pants $1.

A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

My stock of GROCERIES, DRY GOODS, HARDWARE, FARMING IMPLEMENTS, and SUPPLIES is complete, and my motto is

Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,
T. M. TERNAN. o12-2m

S. J. Heath's

Inauguration of the Fall and Winter Season of 1882 and 1883.

New Stock! New Store! And New Prices!

Better goods and more of them for the money than can be had at any other house in Chilton County

Now Being Offered

—BY—

S. J. HEATH,

THE

Monarch Merchant

OF THIS SECTION.

Who has just completed a large and commodious store house at

Strasburg, Ala.

and purchased the largest and most complete stock of General Merchandise, ever brought to this market, which he has bought at "ROCK BOTTOM" PRICES FOR "SPOT CASH," and which will be sold at the smallest living margin. Come and see me. Examine and price my goods and you will be convinced that it is to your interest to give me your trade. Call without delay. You cannot judge the extent and magnitude of my stock until you have seen it. Don't be governed by the past, but call and see for yourselves.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR COTTON AND COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Remember the place

HEATH'S, AT STRASBURG.

Sept. 27-4t

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Lomax, Ala.

Sept. 27-4t

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

H. L. Wheeler.

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

Will buy and sell lands for commissions.

Wheeler & Riley,

Fire Insurance Agents

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—AND—

Agents for the London and Lancashire and Royal Insurance Companies, of Great Britian and the Capital City, of Montgomery, Ala.

Office on First Avenue, Second Floor of Bank Building. Jun15-1y.

Ehrman Again

To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next

TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.

MEAT PER POUND 15c.

GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.

Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.

LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of

CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,

and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.

Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville

Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to

ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON,

and the best route to

BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Dr. J. P. Givhan,

(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my18-1y

J. F. MAULL. J. H. HOCKENSMITH.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.

Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HATS, Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinware, Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles and FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

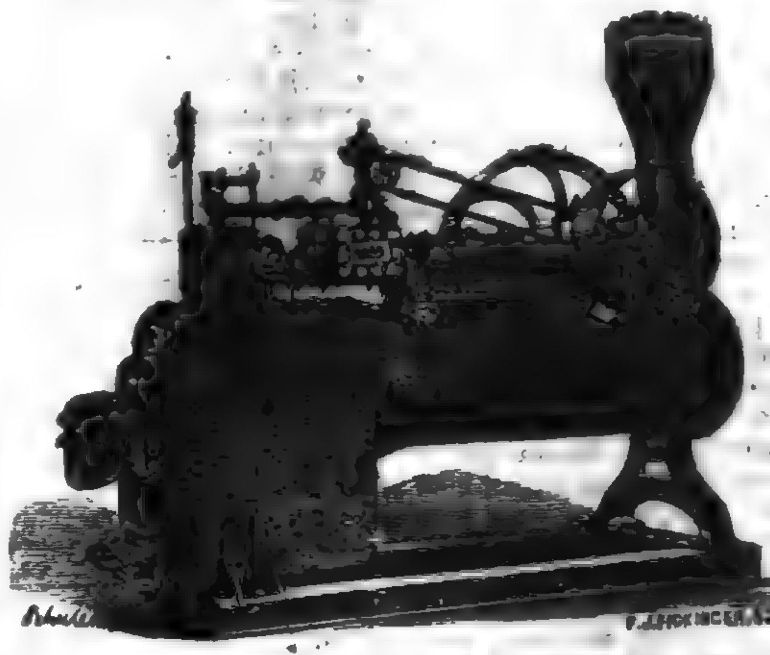
☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN. ☜

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patronage.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.

Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINES OF ALL SIZES FROM TWO TO TWO HUNDRED HORSE POWER, —AND— OF ALL KINDS

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHEELS.

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Best.

Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Agents wanted in every County in the State. mar9-1y

A. A. CLISBY & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

—DEALERS IN—

DRUG SUNDRIES, PATENT MEDICINES AND DYE STUFFS, SNUFF, LAUNDRY SOAPS, STARCH, PAPERS AND TWINE.

DEPOT FOR

Burning and Lubricating Oils, White Lead,

Paints, Oils, Varnishes, and Miners' Supplies.

—WHOLESALE JOBBERS IN CIGARS—

BIRMINGHAM.

Aug. 1—3m

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—DEALERS IN—

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.

An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volumes.

SOME REASONS WHY THIS WORK Is Superior to all Other CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopædia.

It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopædia.

It embraces over [illegible] Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.

Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork and Binding first-class.

IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.

Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.

Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.

Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.

Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms to right parties. Send for circular.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,

74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 19, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwaads.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:45 p. m.
No. 11	3:35 p. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	*9:00 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	8:15 p. m.
No. 12	10:35 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 6:30 a. m.	Selma	Arr 9:15 p. m.
" 9:45 "	Calera	Lve. 6:02 "
" 4:16 p m	Rome	" 11:32 a m
" 6:15 "	Dalton	" 9:40 "
" 8:13 "	Cleaveland	" 7:00 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:20 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES.—Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 423, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

odbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T. every Friday night at 8 o'clock,

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

To Subscribers.

THE VIEW will enter upon its second volume the third week of November. It would be well for all who subscribed at the outset and wish to renew, to do so before that time. Money can be sent by registered letter, or, those living in the county can send it by hand through parties coming to Clanton during court week.

Members of the military company are requested to meet at the court house at 2;30 p. m., Saturday, for drill.

DIED.—In this place, on the 15th inst., Lucy Caldwell Lanier, infant daughter of Dr. I. D. Lanier, aged sixteen months.

Rev. J. W. Shores requests us to announce that he will preach at Clanton M. E. Church the fifth Sabbath in this month.

Col. Thos. Williams will speak at Jemison to-day, when he will again be under the necessity of politically castigating Bro. McCoy.

Capt. W. H. Foshee, circuit clerk, paid a visit to Maplespille, his former home, last week. He reports things dull, but prospects encouraging for a boom this winter in that section of the grand old State of Chilton.

We learn from Rev. W. G. Riggins, pastor of Providence Baptist Church, eight miles southeast of Clanton, that this church has this year had fifty-three accessions to its membership. Seventeen were baptized last Sunday.

The military company is drilling twice a week. The guns have not yet arrived, but they are going through with the delectable "setting up motions." The meetings are had on Monday evening and Saturday afternoon.

Rev. J. W. Shores is at Birmingham attending a meeting of the publishing committee of the Ala. Christian Advocate, of which he is a member. The committee meets to choose a successor to Rev. Dr. Christian, the able editor, lately deceased.

The man who has not heard of Oxford's beautiful photographs certainly knows little about Birmingham. Mr. Oxford takes rank among the first photographers of our country and richly merits the reputation he is now enjoying. During the late fire in Birmingham he went through a little scorching process, but luckily the flames didn't totally consume him, and we learn he is already at work again. No one should visit Birmingham without inspecting his beautiful display of fine photographs.

Secret vs. Socratic.

Rumors to the effect that the negroes in this vicinity were holding secret meetings were scattered about promiscuously last week. An old negro, familiarly known as "Sandy," stated to a number of white men that the negroes had asked him to join them in their meetings. Sandy, who from all appearances, cut his wisdom teeth many years ago, was not at a loss for an excuse for not doing as requested. He told them that the night on which the 'siety' met, was his "regler possum huntin' night, and he wusn't gwine to miss his possum and taters fur no nigger sho."

He says also that he warned the negroes that they would get into trouble. He promised to guide a number of white men to the rendezvous, which he accordingly did on last Saturday night, when it was discovered that the meetings were those of a colored debating club. The Socratic disciples are said to have been debating all the summer on the question, "Which is it best for a man to have, one wife or two dogs?" Probably they had asked Sandy to join them in order to get the benefit of his years and experience.

Buffalo Bill and Sitting Bull.

Buffalo Bill (Hon. W. F. Cody), the renowned scout and actor, has made a decided hit for the coming theatrical seasons in employing the celebrated Sitting Bull (the Indian chief who slew Custer and his command on the Little Big Horn) as one of his chief attractions. Buffalo Bill's success as an actor adds an additional charm to the romance of his life as being the greatest of all living scouts and plainmen. The Historical Publishing Co., St. Louis, have issued a life of this remarkable man, whose fame is even greater than that of Daniel Boone or Davy Crockett, embracing also the lives of Wild Bill, California Joe, Texas Jack, Kit Carson and other great Indian fighters. It is a book of wild life on the Plains, and must meet with great popularity. The name of the author, Mr. J. W. Buel, is a host within itself. Agents wanted. Write to the Historical Pub. Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Houstonias.

I heard one say he ne'er had seen,
The lowly flowers of the green—
"Field daisies," that the children find,
"Houstonias," named by larger mind.
Yet often o'er them doth he stroll,
On mead, or vale or sunny knoll;
He sees them not, or if his view
Fall on their tiny forms or hue,
They, like the grass which spring time wakes—
So common bloom, no note he takes.

'Tis even thus with lovelier things
That nature for our pleasure brings,
She lays them down with lavish love
Before our eyes—around—above!
But blinded by ambition's glare,
Or vain prosperity, or care,
We pass them, deigning not a glance,
As if they were mere works of chance.
Their blessed message fail to read,
Their lesson sweet neglect to heed.
How great our loss can ne'er be known
Till life and gifts at last have flown.

A. M. K.

Clanton, Ala., October, 1882.

Maplesville Dots.

Two weeks dry weather. Dust terrible.

A few of our citizens went to Randolph to hear Senator Morgan.

Dennis Cooley, a negro, was killed on Howison's narrow guage railroad, the 9th inst.

Maplesville must make a new departure in the way of low prices or Randolph will soon have the bulk of the trade that properly belongs to Maplesville.

Miss S. F. Liles has charge of the Maplesville School. She is a young lady from Burnsville, a graduate of the East Mississippi Female College, at Meridian, and a competent teacher. Success to her.

The Ohio Election.

The Ohio election, last week, was a great Democratic victory. Ohio sent only six Democrats to the lower house of the forty-seventh congress. To that of the forty-eighth congress, she will send fifteen or sixteen out of a total of twenty-one. This will insure a Democratic majority in that body, which it is predicted will be greatly increased by the Pennsylvania and New York elections, to take place soon. The Republicans made considerable gains in West Virginia, which held an election simultaneously with Ohio.

Trouble in Calhoun.

From a private letter received here on Monday evening, we learn that at that time there were three hundred armed negroes at Alabama Furnace, on the E. T. V. & G. railroad, in Talladega county, and that it was expected they would march on Anniston that (Monday) night. About five hundred armed men were on guard at the latter place, and more were gathering there.

Col. Williams, we learn, was unable to fill his appointment for Cooper's on Tuesday.

Yellow fever report from Pensacola for Tuesday, was fifty new cases and three deaths. Total number of cases to that time was 1,729. Total number of deaths 144. Aid is still being called for.

NOTICE 1836.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on November, 31, 1882, viz: Lewis Gentry Homestead 3341 for the s e ¼ of the n w and n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 1, townsp 20 north range 16 east, and the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 6, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: James M. Stanfield, William Gray, Simon H. Gleen, and Joseph Long.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,
612 Register.

Election Notice.

The qualified electors of Chilton county, Alabama, are hereby notified that an election will be held at the several election precincts, in said county on the first Tuesday in November in 1882, being the 7th day of said month, for the election of a member of the 48th congress of the United States, for the 5th Congressional District of Alabama.

Witness my hand this 4th day of October, 1882. J. E. LOWE,
Sheriff chilton county.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-3m Clanton, Ala.

For Sale or to Rent.

The house and lot in Verbena, with schoolroom attached, lately occupied by Miss Watson. Also a good lot of school furniture, piano, large stove, and dining table for sale cheap. For further information apply by letter to Miss L. O. Watson, Faunsdale, Marengo co., Ala., care J. Bethea, Esq. s215t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March 1881, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The N E ¼ of the n w ¼ section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. Wheeler, its attorney in fact. sept21-5t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Rail Road Company by a certain Deed of Mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Rail Road company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the court House door in Clanton Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29 Township 22 North, Range 14 East situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said Mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Rail Road company. By Henry L. Wheeler, its attorney in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by James E. Lowe and and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the ninth day of February, 1871, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 23d day of October, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the pupose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of August, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Henry L. wheeler, its attorney in fact.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju 8-1y

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD?

We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us, with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us who from, and if you want it rolled. Put your name on express card. E. G. WALKER, aug10-3m Montevallo, Ala.

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.
nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 22-6m

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

NOTICE NO. 1813.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 6th, 1882, viz: Sip Atchinson homestead entry 12227 for the n w ¼ of section 12, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Richard McCary, Thomas Ward and Edmund Hayse, all of Maplesville, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,
Sept 27-5t Register.

NOTICE OF
COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala. J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodids of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BA
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine
Oil Paintings,
Chromos,
FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.
Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES,
STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,
—AND—
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.
—ALSO—
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c
—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.
June 22-6m

W. & C. ROBERTS,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,
And Blank Book Manufacturers,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in North Alabama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the larger cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send your orders to us. Nov7-tf

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.
Dec 29-1y A. J. HALL.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo.
R. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. M. JOHNSTON, Clanton.
Wilson, Johnston & Wilson,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-1y

Jno. S. Jemison,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
OVER JOEL WHITE'S BOOK STORE,
No. 10 Market Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.
Will practice in Montgomery and surrounding counties.

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST.
CLANTON, ALA.
Solicits the patronage of the public.
PRICES FOR WORK:
Shaving - - - - - 10 cents.
Hair cutting - - - - - 25 cents.
☞ The only barber in the world who never talks. Jul27-1y

OUT OF DANGER.

"A letter, Miss," said Sarah, Miss Barclay's maid, presenting herself at the side of the work-table, on which were heaped variously tinted crewels with which Miss Barclay was executing a composition in the Kensington outline work.

"A letter!" repeated Miss Barclay, taking it into her hand; "and from Cousin Elizabeth, to be sure!"

Then carefully cutting the envelope—for tearing a letter open was not one of Miss Barclay's habits—she perused the contents, which, after some preliminaries, ran as follows:

> And now, Hester, I want you to do me a favor. I hope it will not inconvenience you; but I am very anxious to have my daughter Abby leave home for awhile, and I should be so pleased to have her come to you. She is deep in a love affair with a man I hate. His name is Francis Cholmondly. I'd rather have her marry any other decent man on earth. I do not know why I hate him so, except that he is a puppy. He's not so poor that he could not take good care of a wife, and he is rather handsome, in his nasty, foppish way. People rather like him generally, and his social position is good. I've no doubt I'm unreasonable, but I won't have Abby marry him; and if I can get her away, I can get rid of him. So I tell you frankly my reasons for asking you to invite her, and I know how good-natured you are. It will be a thankless task, for she's terribly sulky just now, but I'll be ever grateful to your [illegible]

And then the letter wandered away again into matters that do not concern this story, and ended in the signature—Elizabeth Marsh.

"Poor Lizzie! she always had such strong whims," said Miss Barclay, going on with the folds of the purple robe of a thin blonde figure traced upon the background. "One of them was to marry Caleb Marsh. I don't believe that has turned out quite as well as it might. However, I'm fond of Lizzie, and I shouldn't mind having Abby here. I'll write at once and ask her. And—by the way—I'll invite Brother Richard's boy to come down, and bring a friend with him. Every one is glad of a week's country visit in summer. They'll both fall in love with the girl in this lonesome place; and there's no such cure for one love affair as another."

Miss Barclay was a lady of prompt and decisive action. Two letters were at the office before the next mail went out, and three bedrooms were being put into apple-pie order, and the cook was instructed as to certain provisions to be prepared for the expected guests.

"Brother Isaac and myself will be all the better for having the young people about us," said Miss Barclay; but cook, an old servant, who prided herself on being "free spoken," was of opinion that "peace and quietness would be broke up by all sorts of racket, and that she'd no doubt they'd be obliged to buy butter."

However, as cook afterward remarked, she was well aware that was not her lookout. And on Saturday the stage paused at the door, and from its top clambered down two youths; one big and rough-headed, the other small and sleek, but both armed with portmanteaus, gun-cases and fishing-rods exactly resembling each other.

"All right, driver," cried the rough-headed youth—"all right, driver."

"This is the young lady's stopping-place, too," shouted the driver. "This is Miss Barclay's."

But by this time the young lady was getting out.

She was a pretty girl, with a splendid head of black hair, which, when Miss Barclay had seen her last, she had worn in two long braids down her back. Now she was wonderfully grown—no longer a little girl, but a young lady, with a coiffure of puffs, and crimps that was a mystery to prim Miss Barclay. A coquettish hat was set very much on one side of her head, and instead of the sullen scowl Miss Barclay had expected, she greeted the lady with the most beaming smiles.

"Dear Cousin Barclay," she exclaimed, "how good of you to ask me to this lovely place! I adore the country, and I am so pleased to see you again. How sweet you look! I must kiss you. I just feel that I am going to be perfectly happy all the time I'm here."

"Is she acting, or does she mean it?" asked the spinster to herself. "It's a comfort to find her so pleasant, anyhow." But she answered heartily and merrily, and sending Sarah to show her young cousin the way to her room, that she might refresh herself after her journey, turned her attentions to the youths, with whom she had as yet only shaken hands.

"I am so glad you came at once, Fred," she said, "and so pleased that you brought Mr.—"

"Mr. Oakley," said Fred. "My college chum—Frank Oakley. My dear aunt, we're very much obliged to you, and father sent his love, and mother wonders when you intend to come to see her; and I've a letter, and some patterns and things in my bag. And, Aunt Hester, what a pretty girl that is! She's traveled all the way with us in the cars, and from the depot in the stage. Never saw such a pretty girl before."

"That's cousin Lizzie's daughter, Abby," replied Miss Barclay. "She paid a visit to your house when you were twelve years old, but you wouldn't speak to her. You said you hated girls."

"What a cub I was," replied the shock-head, gravely. "Well, I don't know, Aunt Hester. As for Frank, he adores them. Don't you, Frank?"

Frank looked modest.

"There is so much to admire in all wo— I mean in all ladies," he answered, with a little lisp.

"What a very polite young man," thought Miss Barclay.

It was a very merry tea-table. Old Mr. Isaac Barclay, to be sure, did very little but eat, after having solemnly shaken hands all round; but Fred was a host in himself, and Miss Barclay chattered as merrily as the young people. That very night she wrote to her Cousin Elizabeth:

> LIZZIE, MY DEAR:—You'd be delighted to see the success of your plan. Abby is as happy as a queen. She has found two beaux here, my nephew Fred, and a friend of his. Fred seems very much taken. I've no doubt he will cut your "puppy" quite out, and Abby couldn't make a better match; a good fellow with a little fortune, and fine prospects in his profession. I hope it will come to something. Meanwhile, comfort yourself, Abby is heart-whole. Yours truly, as ever,
>
> HESTER.

The weather was bright for the next three weeks. The skies seemed to smile upon the spinster and her guests. They took long walks, drives, excursions, and Fred was devoted to his aunt. Meanwhile, Mr. Frank Oakley did his best to please Miss Abby, who did not refuse to be pleased.

"Don't stick to me, Fred, if you want to cut Frank out," Miss Hester would sometimes whisper; but Fred always answered that he felt well contented; and, on the whole, Miss Barclay decided that Abby was too frivolous for Fred.

"But your friend is a good fellow, is he not?" she asked. You know Abby is in my care." And Fred thereupon swore that Frank was a gentleman, and a good fellow; well to do also. "As good a husband as any girl could have, if he does lisp and blush," continued Fred. "Don't trouble yourself, aunt; nothing better could happen to Cousin Abby than to marry Frank."

"Then he really means to offer?" queried Miss Barclay.

"O, he's desperate," answered Fred.

And that night another letter was written to Cousin Elizabeth, which contained this sentence:

> Now, Cousin Lizzie, I am in a dilemma. Fred and Abby are not smitten with each other, but Fred has brought a friend of his here, a Mr. Frank Oakley, who is making love to your girl. Give me my instructions. Fred assures me he is an excellent match and a good fellow, and I consider him most agreeable. But am I to foster the affair or send him packing? Abby is your daughter. I await instructions. I know your temper, Elizabeth. We quarreled once; don't let us do it again.

The answer was brief as a telegram:

> Any young man but that detestable Francis Cholmondly. Foster it.

So the young people were left to their own devices; the house rang with laughter, the orchard was robbed, the horses driven out for moonlight rides, the boat was forever on the river, and the voice of the piano told all passers-by that "Miss Barclay had company."

There were parties at the old house, too, and even old Isaac Barclay was sufficiently interested to sit up until nine o'clock, and to tell a very long story without any end about a visit he had once made to Boston, where he had his pocket picked.

The pleasantest days that had ever been known at the Barclay were these, and they had been prolonged two months, and now Fred must go home—must indeed—nor could Frank linger longer.

"And I must go, too, aunt," said Abby. "I suppose I must, but I shall never forget this happy time, and I want you to kiss me to-night and tell me that you'll always love me, for you've been kinder than ever ma was to me."

Abby said this late at night, sitting on a low stool at Miss Barclay's feet, and there were tears in her eyes. But next morning when the confiding old lady arose, Sarah met her with an ominous look, and the declaration that something must have happened.

"How you scare me, Sarah!" cried Miss Barclay. "What can have happened? Brother Isaac is well, isn't he?"

"He's well enough," replied Sarah. "But Miss Abby haint been abed all night, and her trunk is gone, and here's a note that laid on her piller."

Miss Barclay seized the missive and opened it with shaking hands. It read thus:

> DEAREST AUNTIE—Don't be angry. Remember your promise to love me always. When you read this I shall be married. I shall be Mrs. Francis Oakley Cholmondly. Fred is Frank's best man, and little Lilly Jones, from the village, my bridesmaid. You see it, don't you? Fred was in the plot, and he introduced Frank Oakley to you. You never guessed that Oakley was only his middle name. We hated to deceive you. You were so good we all adore you, but ma was cruel, and I'm of age since last week. I'm very happy, only if you don't forgive me I shall never forgive myself. Ma will have to, after awhile.
>
> Your affectionate niece, ABBY.
>
> No, I must write it all—
>
> ABBY CHOLMONDLY.

"I shall die!" screamed Miss Barclay. "I'd rather, than to face Elizabeth."

But she did not; nobody did. Everybody is alive and well at this moment, and even his prejudiced mother-in-law has come to admit that Frank is not so bad a fellow, after all.—N. Y. Ledger

The Bloat.

It is just at the time, when the bloom tingo is beginning to relieve the modest green of the clover field, that an event often occurs in connection with pasturing—too often, I feel bound in honesty to confess—which may be set down to the disparagement of clover. I tell it with that unwillingness with which I would tell of a serious blemish in a friend whom I love, and which I would mitigate by every friendly apology that truth would allow in his favor. Yet the fact is so, and must be confessed, cattle will sometimes eat themselves to death on this delicious pasturage. The bloat is a standing, undeniable, and, so far as I know, unavoidable and incurable, evil in this connection. After all, I submit the query whether the fault be in the cattle or in the clover. I do not really think the clover ought to be blamed for being so temptingly palatable to the cow. Possibly there may be with clover, as with people, such a fault as being too good. I will not argue the point. But for the information of those who may never have witnessed a case of death by bloat. I will explain the manner of the cow's death. She dies, and often, too, very suddenly, her extremity not lasting longer than a few minutes, simply from a want of breath. A gas forms inside of her like steam in a boiler, and her distress consists in being unable to get breath into her collapsed and compressed lungs; to get relief her very hide would have to give way. She gasps and gasps, and falls down dead, as I said, for want of breath. I believe the fault really is in this, that the cow has failed to sufficiently exercise her ruminating function on the clover she has eaten. In her eagerness to eat, she neglects to stop and chew her cud, and the food goes forward, or backward rather, in the alimentary channel unmasticated and, in a manner, whole. If really this be the case, it is clearly the greed and negligence of the cow, and no fault of the clover, which brings her to so untimely an end. I have never known it to bloat any other kind of stock. At certain seasons it produces an abnormal flow of saliva in horses, which is rather annoying to persons handling them, and may even cause loss of flesh to the animal; but this is not a serious objection to clover. Hogs will graze on it and keep in good condition without other food.—Cor. N. Y. Sun.

—If you are troubled with moths in your feather beds boil the feathers in water for a short time; then put them in sacks and dry them, working them with the hands all the time.—N. Y. Herald.

A Saratoga Marvel.

One of the marvels at Saratoga this season was a couple from the South, who have been regular visitors for fourteen seasons. These two have been married for twenty-four years, but the wife still addresses the husband as "dear" and he still calls her "darling," and is quite as attentive and deferential to her as he is to the wives of other men. They are both affable and sociable, fond of company, but they always are together and always enjoy everything in common. The weary husbands who are always inventing some excuse to avoid attendance on their families look at him with unbounded curiosity and surprise, while she is gazed at with unconcealed envy by her less fortunate sisters.—N. Y. Times.

IN one of the medical journals we read of a case in which the drum of the ear was ruptured by "boxing," a sort of athletic amusement of which young men are fond. It can hardly be called an innocent amusement that can produce so serious a result.

"WOMAN AND HER DISEASES."

is the title of an interesting treatise (96 pages) sent, postpaid, for three stamps. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—During the trial of one lawsuit in Cairo, N. T., an old man who mistook the court-house for a church, entered and sang several hymns before he discovered the character of the place, the Judge fell through the rotten platform on which his bench was perched, there was a dog fight in one corner of the court room, and a young man went out through the window, taking the glass with him.

A DEAD SHOT

may be taken at liver and bilious disorders with Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." Mild yet certain in operation; and there is none of the reaction consequent upon taking severe and drastic cathartics. By druggists.

—A curious and serviceable device for the protection of the tobacco plant is a porcelain flower placed on sticks through the field, with a poisonous substance inside. The tobacco fly mistakes the flower for that of the jimson, or Jamestown weed, and dies almost immediately before it lays the egg which produces the tobacco worm.

YOUNG men or middle aged ones, suffering from nervous debility and kindred weaknesses should send three stamps for Part VII of World's Dispensary Dime Series of books. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—A plant from the West Indies, called Pita or silk grass plant, is being introduced in the South. It produces a very fine and silky fiber, and as it is perennial it is thought it will rival cotton. A sample sent to the Commissioner of Agriculture at Washington produced quite a sensation.

The Atlanta Marital Association.

$105 Per Week Benefits.

We see that the above new Marital Association has been organized in Atlanta on the weekly plan, and it seems to be brought down to a more solid basis than any we have heretofore noticed. It is under the management of men who stand well at home, both in a business and social point of view. If the principle will work out, and it looks feasible—these gentlemen will work it out, and you may depend upon their honesty in administering its affairs. Any young man or woman who intends to marry within from two to forty weeks can make a good investment by becoming a member of this Association. You may insure for from $3,000 to $15,000 and receive $21.00 per week on the $3,000 or $105 per week on $15,000. Send postal card for circulars and full information. The officers are: C. T. Brockett, President; Ed C. Peters, Treasurer; W. H. Wimberly, Secretary; J. G. Zachry, Legal Adviser. Address, W. H. Wimberly, Secretary, Lock Box No. 159, Atlanta, Georgia.

—The Atlanta Constitution thinks that eight courses at dinner are enough, even if four of them are water.

Southern Telegraphic College.

Male and Female Students Received.

The want of a practical school of Telegraphy upon which Telegraph and Railroad companies can depend for competent and reliable operators, has prompted the undersigned to open a school in which shall be taught all the requirements necessary to fit a person for practical service. The course of instruction embraces: 1st. A thorough knowledge of instruments, batteries, wires, books, accounts and rules governing the handling of business, etc., etc., in all well regulated offices. 2d. A thorough knowledge of transmission and reception of messages over lines of wire.

For further information address, WM. W. CHAMP & Co., 37½ Peachtree street, Atlanta, Ga.

—Polo is a game played by thin-legged young men who smoke cigarettes. They ride sawed-off horses and try to knock a wooden ball across a lot. Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, and several other men whose memories are held in high esteem, never played polo.—Detroit Free Press.

Brought Out Perfectly.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 30, 1881.

H. H. WARNER & Co.: Sirs—I have been a great sufferer from acute kidney disease, which my physicians could not cure, but a short trial of your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure brought me out in perfect health. CHARLES H. GERHARD.

—A Kansas wheat farmer advertises that he will hire sheep, paying ten cents a head per season and their keep, for fertilizing his land.

GET Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners applied to those new boots before you run them over.

—An Indiana writer advocates the abolition of the telephone on the ground that it encourages laziness. The same objection applies to easy chairs and nearly all the comforts of modern life.—Chicago Tribune.

WHY be so fearful over disordered kidneys? Kidney-Wort will cure you.

—There is one firm in St. Louis which converts 1,400 barrels of flour into crackers daily.

—Moderation is the silken string running through the pearl chain of all virtues.

No scales ever offered the public can surpass in perfection and durability those offered by the Chicago Scale Company. See advertisement in this issue.

—The way things are going now the enterprising railroad of the future will advertise "Brand-new time-table every morning."—Philadelphia News.

Decline of Man.

Nervous Weakness, Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility, cured by "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists. Send for pamphlet to E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man or Beast. For use externally or internally.

BEST TRUSS EVER USED. Send for circular. N. Y. Elastic Truss Co., removed 744 Broadway, N. Y.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

The true antidote to the effects of miasma is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating the stomach.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

A CATALOGUE

JUST ISSUED CONTAINING

400 ILLUSTRATIONS

AND PRICES OF

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY

AND SILVERWRAE

Will be sent to any address upon application to

J. P. STEVENS & CO.,

JEWELERS,

ATLANTA, - - GEORGIA.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

HULLERS For pamphlets describing the great Aultman Clover Hulling Attachment write THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO. Mansfield, O.

STRONG'S PECTORAL PILLS

A SURE REMEDY FOR

COLDS AND RHEUMATISM.

Ensure healthy appetite, good digestion, regularity of the bowels. A PRECIOUS BOON TO DELICATE FEMALES, soothing and bracing the nervous system, and giving vigor and health to every fibre of the body. Sold by Druggists For Pamphlets address P. O. Box 650. N. Y. City.

Do Your Buying in New York by mail through A. SCHMITZ & CO., 386 Broadway. Purchasing Agents on Commission. Send for Information and Prices.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE.

$65 A MONTH & board in your county. Men or Ladies. Pleasant business. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., Box 79, Phila., Pa.

ANY WILL WIND THEY ANY WATCH AND NOT WEAR OUT. SOLD by Watchmakers. By mail, 25 cts. Circulars FREE. J. S. BIRCH & CO., 38 Dey St., N. Y.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY. Prof. MARTINEZ, the Great Spanish Seer, Astrologer and Phrenologist, will, for 20 cents, with age, height, color of eyes and lock of hair, send a CORRECT PICTURE of your future husband or wife, with name, time and place of meeting, and date of marriage, psychologically predicted. Money returned to all not satisfied. Address Prof. L. Martinez, 10 Mont'y Pl., Boston, Mass.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-3 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.

THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

McBRIDE & CO.'S

CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,

ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filters and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

FAIRBANKS'

SCALES.

The World's Standard.

COTTON

SCALES.

For Weighing Seed Cotton at the Gin.

Will more than pay for itself in one Season. Don't be humbuged by the cheap and worthless Wagon Scales which are offered at any Price; they are of no use and you will be better off without a Scale.

Write to us for Prices and one of our Books giving Testimonials. Don't buy untill you have heard from us, or seen our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS'

700 Lb.

SOUTHERN

COTTON BEAM

Frame, Hooks and all other required Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE

Fairbanks' Standard.

SCALES

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST.

FAIRBANKS & CO.,

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

OPIUM HABIT

AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,

71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

HISTORY OF THE U. S.

BY ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

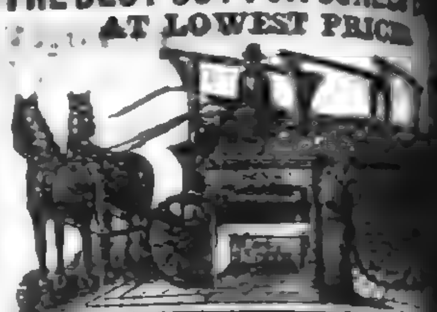
It contains nearly 300 fine portraits and engravings of battles and other historical scenes, and is the most complete and valuable history ever published. It is sold by subscription only, and Agents are wanted in every county. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address,

NATIONAL PUBLISHING Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CHICAGO SCALE

THE BEST COTTON SCALE

AT LOWEST PRICE



2 Ton Wagon Scales (platf'm

2 Ton (7x13) $50. 4 Ton

Beam Box and Brass Beam

Every Scale Guaranteed to Give

The most popular Scale in the South, two or three prices for a name.

700 lb, Cotton Beam and Complete $8.

The best and cheapest Cotton Beam by Weighmasters and Inspectors every 300 other Varieties of Full Price-List Free.

BECK, GREGG & CO., Gen'l Atlanta

HEALTH IS WEAL

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, ture Old Age, caused by over-exertion, misery, decay and death. One box will cure. Each box contains one month's treatment. box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes case. With each order received by us for companied with five dollars, we will send chaser our written guarantee to return the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantee by G. J. LUHN, Charleston, S. C. mail promptly attended to.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CU

DR. WM. HALL'S FOR THE LUNGS. BALS

Cures Consumption, Colds, Influenza, Bronchial Difficulties, Hoarseness, Asthma, Croup, Cough, and all Diseases of the Organs. It soothes and heals the of the Lungs, inflamed and poisoned disease, and prevents the night sweats, tightness across the chest which it. Consumption is not an incurable HALL'S BALSAM will cure though professional aid fails.

OPIUM HABIT CURE.

By B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. Reliable and references patients and send for my Habit and its

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW

Send for CIRCULARS.

Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.

Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS

FIVE-TON

WAGON SCALES $60

All Iron and Steel, Double Brass Tare Beam

Jones he pays the freight. All sizes equally low.

for free book, address

JONES OF BINGHAMTON,

Binghamton, N. Y.

Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

HOW TO WIN AT CARDS.

A SURE THING! Sent Free to Anyone. I manufacture and keep constantly on hand every known to the Sporting Fraternity and used by them to WIN at games of chance. Send for my mammoth circular. Address, or call on, V. D. E. SUYDAM, 65 & 67 Nassau St.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus, in a palatable form. The only preparation that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and invaluable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUEL, St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25th, 1881.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST.,

THE

Memphis Mutual Aid Soci

PRESENTS the ONLY successful NATAL DEPARTMENT known, paying a Birth Benefit Days from date of Certificate.

PRESENTS the Best Four Months Marriage Department in existence, being the paying ten per cent. of amount due on certificate at once upon receipt of proof of marriage.

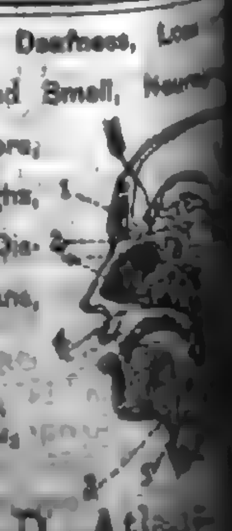
PRESENTS the best and strongest One Day Marriage Department in the country, paying per day, and making the smallest assessment known.

Address, for particulars,

GEORGE F. WILLIS, Sec'y and Treas., Memphis,

Telegraph your application and we will pay charges and hold a space for date of Certificate.

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, Neuralgic Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use



EUREKA CATARRH CURE,

A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.

Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to

J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atla

OUT OF DANGER.

"A letter, Miss," said Sarah, Miss Barclay's maid, presenting herself at the side of the work-table, on which were heaped variously tinted crewels with which Miss Barclay was executing a composition in the Kensington outline work.

"A letter?" repeated Miss Barclay, taking it into her hand; "and from Cousin Elizabeth, to be sure!"

Then carefully cutting the envelope—for tearing a letter open was not one of Miss Barclay's habits—she perused the contents, which, after some preliminaries, ran as follows:

And now, Hester, I want you to do me a favor. I hope it will not inconvenience you; but I am very anxious to have my daughter Abby leave home for awhile, and I should be so pleased to have her come to you. She is deep in a love affair with a man I hate. His name is Francis Cholmondly. I'd rather have her marry any other decent man on earth. I do not know why I hate him so, except that he is a puppy. He's not so poor that he could not take good care of a wife, and he is rather handsome, in his nasty, foppish way. People rather like him generally, and his social position is good. I've no doubt I'm unreasonable, but I won't have Abby marry him; and if I can get her away, I can get rid of him. So I tell you frankly my reasons for asking you to invite her, and I know how good-natured you are. It will be a thankless task, for she's terribly sulky just now, but I'll be ever grateful to you.

And then the letter wandered away again into matters that do not concern this story, and ended in the signature—Elizabeth Marsh.

"Poor Lizzie! she always had such strong whims," said Miss Barclay, going on with the folds of the purple robe of a thin blonde figure traced upon the background. "One of them was to marry Caleb Marsh. I don't believe that has turned out quite as well as it might. However, I'm fond of Lizzie, and I shouldn't mind having Abby here. I'll write at once and ask her. And—by the way—I'll invite Brother Richard's boy to come down, and bring a friend with him. Every one is glad of a week's country visit in summer. They'll both fall in love with the girl in this lonesome place; and there's no such cure for one love affair as another."

Miss Barclay was a lady of prompt and decisive action. Two letters were at the office before the next mail went out, and three bedrooms were being put into apple-pie order, and the cook was instructed as to certain provisions to be prepared for the expected guests.

"Brother Isaac and myself will be all the better for having the young people about us," said Miss Barclay; but cook, an old servant, who prided herself on being "free spoken," was of opinion that "peace and quietness would be broke up by all sorts of racket, and that she'd no doubt they'd be obliged to buy butter."

However, as cook afterward remarked, she was well aware that was not her lookout. And on Saturday the stage paused at the door, and from its top clambered down two youths; one big and rough-headed, the other small and sleek, but both armed with portmanteaus, gun-cases and fishing-rods exactly resembling each other.

"All right, driver," cried the rough-headed youth—"all right, driver."

"This is the young lady's stopping-place, too," shouted the driver. "This is Miss Barclay's."

But by this time the young lady was getting out.

She was a pretty girl, with a splendid head of black hair, which, when Miss Barclay had seen her last, she had worn in two long braids down her back. Now she was wonderfully grown—no longer a little girl, but a young lady, with a coiffure of puffs, and crimps that was a mystery to prim Miss Barclay. A coquettish hat was set very much on one side of her head, and instead of the sullen scowl Miss Barclay had expected, she greeted the lady with the most beaming smiles.

"Dear Cousin Barclay," she exclaimed, "how good of you to ask me to this lovely place! I adore the country, and I am so pleased to see you again. How sweet you look! I must kiss you. I just feel that I am going to be perfectly happy all the time I'm here."

"Is she acting, or does she mean it?" asked the spinster to herself. "It's a comfort to find her so pleasant, anyhow." But she answered heartily and merrily, and sending Sarah to show her young cousin the way to her room, that she might refresh herself after her journey, turned her attentions to the youths, with whom she had as yet only shaken hands.

"I am so glad you came at once, Fred," she said, "and so pleased that you brought Mr.—"

"Mr. Oakley," said Fred. "My college chum—Frank Oakley. My dear aunt, we're very much obliged to you, and father sent his love, and mother wonders when you intend to come to see her; and I've a letter, and some patterns and things in my bag. And, Aunt Hester, what a pretty girl that is! She's traveled all the way with us in the cars, and from the depot in the stage. Never saw such a pretty girl before."

"That's cousin Lizzie's daughter, Abby," replied Miss Barclay. "She paid a visit to your house when you were twelve years old, but you wouldn't speak to her. You said you hated girls."

"What a cub I was," replied the shock-head, gravely. "Well, I don't know, Aunt Hester. As for Frank, he adores them. Don't you, Frank?"

Frank looked modest.

"There is so much to admire in all wo—I mean in all ladies," he answered, with a little lisp.

"What a very polite young man," thought Miss Barclay.

It was a very merry tea-table. Old Mr. Isaac Barclay, to be sure, did very little but eat, after having solemnly shaken hands all round; but Fred was a host in himself, and Miss Barclay chattered as merrily as the young people. That very night she wrote to her Cousin Elisabeth:

LIZZIE, MY DEAR:—You'd be delighted to see the success of your plan. Abby is as happy as a queen. She has found two beaux here, my nephew Fred, and a friend of his. Fred seems very much taken. I've no doubt he will cut your "puppy" quite out, and Abby couldn't make a better match; a good fellow with a little fortune, and fine prospects in his profession. I hope it will come to something. Meanwhile, comfort yourself, Abby is heart-whole. Yours truly, as ever,

The weather was bright for the next three weeks. The skies seemed to smile upon the spinster and her guests. They took long walks, drives, excursions, and Fred was devoted to his aunt. Meanwhile, Mr. Frank Oakley did his best to please Miss Abby, who did not refuse to be pleased.

"Don't stick to me, Fred, if you want to cut Frank out," Miss Hester would sometimes whisper, but Fred always answered that he felt well contented; and, on the whole, Miss Barclay decided that Abby was too frivolous for Fred.

"But your friend is a good fellow, is he not?" she asked. "You know Abby is in my care." And Fred thereupon swore that Frank was a gentleman, and a good fellow; well to do also. "As good a husband as any girl could have, if he does lisp and blush," continued Fred. "Don't trouble yourself, aunt; nothing better could happen to Cousin Abby than to marry Frank."

"Then he really means to offer?" queried Miss Barclay.

"O, he's desperate," answered Fred.

And that night another letter was written to Cousin Elizabeth, which contained this sentence:

Now, Cousin Lizzie, I am in a dilemma. Fred and Abby are not smitten with each other, but Fred has brought a friend of his here, a Mr. Frank Oakley, who is making love to your girl. Give me my instructions. Fred assures me he is an excellent match and a good fellow, and I consider him most agreeable. But am I to foster the affair or send him packing? Abby is your daughter. I await instructions. I know your temper, Elizabeth. We quarreled once; don't let us do it again.

The answer was brief as a telegram:

Any young man but that detestable Francis Cholmondly. Foster it.

So the young people were left to their own devices; the house rang with laughter, the orchard was robbed, the horses driven out for moonlight rides, the boat was forever on the river, and the voice of the piano told all passers-by that "Miss Barclay had company."

There were parties at the old house, too, and even old Isaac Barclay was sufficiently interested to sit up until nine o'clock, and to tell a very long story without any end about a visit he had once made to Boston, where he had his pocket picked.

The pleasantest days that had ever been known at the Barclay were these, and they had been prolonged two months, and now Fred must go home—must indeed—nor could Frank linger longer.

"And I must go, too, aunt," said Abby. "I suppose I must, but I shall never forget this happy time, and I want you to kiss me to-night and tell me that you'll always love me, for you've been kinder than ever ma was to me."

Abby said this late at night, sitting on a low stool at Miss Barclay's feet, and there were tears in her eyes. But next morning when the confiding old lady arose, Sarah met her with an ominous look, and the declaration that something must have happened.

"How you scare me, Sarah!" cried Miss Barclay. "What can have happened? Brother Isaac is well, isn't he?"

"He's well enough," replied Sarah. "But Miss Abby haint been abed all night, and her trunk is gone, and here's a note that laid on her piller."

Miss Barclay seized the missive and opened it with shaking hands. It read thus:

DEAREST AUNTIE—Don't be angry. Remember your promise to love me always. When you read this I shall be married. I shall be Mrs. Francis Oakley Cholmondly. Fred is Frank's best man, and little Lilly Jones, from the village, my bridesmaid. You see it, don't you? Fred was in the plot, and he introduced Frank Oakley to you. You never guessed that Oakley was only his middle name. We hated to deceive you. You were so good we all adore you, but ma was cruel, and I'm of age since last week. I'm very happy, only if you don't forgive me I shall never forgive myself. Ma will have to, after awhile.

Your affectionate niece, ABBY.

No, I must write it all—

ABBY CHOLMONDLY.

"I shall die!" screamed Miss Barclay. "I'd rather, than to face Elizabeth."

But she did not; nobody did. Everybody is alive and well at this moment, and even his prejudiced mother-in-law has come to admit that Frank is not so bad a fellow, after all.—N. Y. Ledger

The Bloat.

It is just at the time, when the bloom tinge is beginning to relieve the modest green of the clover field, that an event often occurs in connection with pasturing—too often, I feel bound in honesty to confess—which may be set down to the disparagement of clover. I tell it with that unwillingness with which I would tell of a serious blemish in a friend whom I love, and which I would mitigate by every friendly apology that truth would allow in his favor. Yet the fact is so, and must be confessed, cattle will sometimes eat themselves to death on this delicious pasturage. The bloat is a standing, undeniable, and, so far as I know, unavoidable and incurable, evil in this connection. After all, I submit the query whether the fault be in the cattle or in the clover. I do not really think the clover ought to be blamed for being so temptingly palatable to the cow. Possibly there may be with clover, as with people, such a fault as being too good. I will not argue the point. But for the information of those who may never have witnessed a case of death by bloat. I will explain the manner of the cow's death. She dies, and often, too, very suddenly, her extremity not lasting longer than a few minutes, simply from a want of breath. A gas forms inside of her like steam in a boiler, and her distress consists in being unable to get breath into her collapsed and compressed lungs; to get relief her very hide would have to give way. She grasps and gasps, and falls down dead, as I said, for want of breath. I believe the fault really is in this, that the cow has failed to sufficiently exercise her ruminating function on the clover she has eaten. In her eagerness to eat, she neglects to stop and chew her cud, and the food goes forward, or backward rather, in the alimentary channel unmasticated and, in a manner, whole. If really this be the case, it is clearly the greed and negligence of the cow, and no fault of the clover, which brings her to so untimely an end. I have never known it to bloat any other kind of stock. At certain seasons it produces an abnormal flow of saliva in horses, which is rather annoying to persons handling them, and may even cause loss of flesh to the animal; but this is not a serious objection to clover. Hogs will graze on it and keep in good condition without other food.—Cor. N. Y. Sun.

—If you are troubled with moths in your feather beds boil the feathers in water for a short time; then put them in sacks and dry them. working them with the hands all the time.—N. Y. Herald.

A Saratoga Marvel.

One of the marvels at Saratoga this season was a couple from the South, who have been regular visitors for fourteen seasons. These two have been married for twenty-four years, but the wife still addresses the husband as "dear" and he still calls her "darling," and is quite as attentive and deferential to her as he is to the wives of other men. They are both affable and sociable, fond of company, but they always are together and always enjoy everything in common. The weary husbands who are always inventing some excuse to avoid attendance on their families look at him with unbounded curiosity and surprise, while she is gazed at with unconcealed envy by her less fortunate sisters.—N. Y. Times.

In one of the medical journals we read of a case in which the drum of the ear was ruptured by "boxing," a sort of athletic amusement of which young men are fond. It can hardly be called an innocent amusement that can produce so serious a result.

"WOMAN AND HER DISEASES."

is the title of an interesting treatise (96 pages) sent, postpaid, for three stamps. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—During the trial of one lawsuit in Cairo, N. T., an old man who mistook the court-house for a church, entered and sang several hymns before he discovered the character of the place, the Judge fell through the rotten platform on which his bench was perched, there was a dog fight in one corner of the court room, and a young man went out through the window, taking the glass with him.

A DEAD SHOT

may be taken at liver and bilious disorders with Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." Mild yet certain in operation; and there is none of the reaction consequent upon taking severe and drastic cathartics. By druggists.

—A curious and serviceable device for the protection of the tobacco plant is a porcelain flower placed on sticks through the field, with a poisonous substance inside. The tobacco fly mistakes the flower for that of the jimson, or Jamestown weed, and dies almost immediately before it lays the egg which produces the tobacco worm.

YOUNG men or middle aged ones, suffering from nervous debility and kindred weaknesses should send three stamps for Part VII of World's Dispensary Dime Series of books. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—A plant from the West Indies, called Pita or silk grass plant, is being introduced in the South. It produces a very fine and silky fiber, and as it is perennial it is thought it will rival cotton. A sample sent to the Commissioner of Agriculture at Washington produced quite a sensation.

The Atlanta Marital Association.

$105 Per Week Benefits.

We see that the above new Marital Association has been organized in Atlanta on the weekly plan, and it seems to be brought down to a more solid basis than any we have heretofore noticed. It is under the management of men who stand well at home, both in a business and social point of view. If the principle will work out, and it looks feasible—these gentlemen will work it out, and you may depend upon their honesty in administering its affairs. Any young man or woman who intends to marry within from two to forty weeks can make a good investment by becoming a member of this Association. You may insure for from $3,000 to $15,000 and receive $21.00 per week on the $3,000 or $105 per week on $15,000. Send postal card for circulars and full information. The officers are: C. T. Brockett, President; Ed C. Peters, Treasurer; W. H. Wimberly, Secretary; J. G. Zachry, Legal Adviser. Address, W. H. Wimberly, Secretary, Lock Box No. 159, Atlanta, Georgia.

—The Atlanta Constitution thinks that eight courses at dinner are enough, even if four of them are water.

Southern Telegraphic College.

Male and Female Students Received.

The want of a practical school of Telegraphy upon which Telegraph and Railroad companies can depend for competent and reliable operators, has prompted the undersigned to open a school in which shall be taught all the requirements necessary to fit a person for practical service. The course of instruction embraces: 1st. A thorough knowledge of instruments, batteries, wires, books, accounts and rules governing the handling of business, etc., etc., in all well regulated offices. 2d. A thorough knowledge of transmission and reception of messages over lines of wire.

For further information address, WM. W. CHAMP & Co., 37½ Peachtree street, Atlanta, Ga.

—Polo is a game played by thin-legged young men who smoke cigarettes. They ride sawed-off horses and try to knock a wooden ball across a lot. Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, and several other men whose memories are held in high esteem, never played polo.—Detroit Free Press.

Brought Out Perfectly.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 30, 1881.

H. H. WARNER & CO.: Sirs—I have been a great sufferer from acute kidney disease, which my physicians could not cure, but a short trial of your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure brought me out in perfect health. CHARLES H. GERHARD.

—A Kansas wheat farmer advertises that he will hire sheep, paying ten cents a head per season and their keep, for fertilizing his land.

GET Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners applied to those new boots before you run them over.

—An Indiana writer advocates the abolition of the telephone on the ground that it encourages laziness. The same objection applies to easy chairs and nearly all the comforts of modern life.—Chicago Tribune.

WHY be so fearful over disordered kidneys? Kidney-Wort will cure you.

—There is one firm in St. Louis which converts 1,400 barrels of flour into crackers daily.

—Moderation is the silken string running through the pearl chain of all virtues.

No scales ever offered the public can surpass in perfection and durability those offered by the Chicago Scale Company. See advertisement in this issue.

—The way things are going now the enterprising railroad of the future will advertise "Brand-new time-table every morning."—Philadelphia News.

Decline of Man.

Nervous Weakness, Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility, cured by "Wells' Health Renewer," $1. Druggists. Send for pamphlet to E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man or Beast. For use externally or internally.

BEST TRUSS EVER USED. Send for circular. N. Y. Elastic Truss Co., removed 744 Broadway, N. Y.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

STOMACH

BITTERS

The true antidote to the effects of miasma is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating the stomach.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

A CATALOGUE

JUST ISSUED CONTAINING

400 ILLUSTRATIONS

AND PRICES OF

DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY

AND SILVERWRAE

Will be sent to any address upon application to

J. P. STEVENS & CO.,

JEWELERS,

ATLANTA, - - GEORGIA.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS. BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

HULLERS For pamphlets describing the great Allonez Clover Hulling Attachment write THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO. Mansfield, O.

STRONG'S PECTORAL PILLS

A SURE REMEDY FOR

COLDS AND RHEUMATISM.

Ensure healthy appetite, good digestion, regularity of the bowels. A PRECIOUS BOON TO DELICATE FEMALES, soothing and bracing the nervous system, and giving vigor and health to every fibre of the body. Sold by Druggists. For Pamphlets address P. O. Box 650, N. Y. City.

Do Your Buying in New York by mail through A. SCHMITZ & CO., 558 Broadway. Purchasing Agents on Commission. Send for Information and Prices.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE.

$65 A MONTH & board in your county. Men or Ladies. Pleasant business. Address, P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., Box 79, Phila., Pa.

ANY WILL WIND THAT ANY WATCH AND NOT WEAR OUT. SOLD by Watchmakers. By mail, 25 cts. Circulars FREE. J. S. BIRCH & CO., 38 Dey St., N. Y.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY. Prof. MARTINEZ, the Great Spanish Seer, Astrologer and Psychologist, will, for 50 cents, with age, height, color of eyes and lock of hair, send a CORRECT PICTURE of your future husband or wife, with name, time and place of meeting, and date of marriage, psychologically predicted. Money returned to all not satisfied. Address Prof. L. Martinez, 10 Mont'y Pl., Boston, Mass.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-4 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE. THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

McBRIDE & CO.'S

CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,

ATLANTA, GEORGIA,

Own the Gate City National Stone Water Filters and Cassity's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Drier. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

FAIRBANKS'

SCALES.

The World's Standard.

COTTON

SCALES.

For Weighing Seed Cotton at the Gin.

Will more than pay for itself in one Season. Don't be humbuged by the cheap and worthless Wagon Scales which are offered at any Price; they are of no use and you will be better off without a Scale.

Write to us for Prices and one of our Books giving Testimonials. Don't buy untill you have heard from us, or seen our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS'

700 Lb.

SOUTHERN

COTTON BEAM

Frame, Hooks and all other required Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE

Fairbanks' Standard.

SCALES

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

☞SEND FOR PRICE LIST.☜

FAIRBANKS & CO.,

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

OPIUM HABIT

AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,

71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

HISTORY OF THE U. S.

BY ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

It contains nearly 800 fine portraits and engravings of battles and other historical scenes, and is the most complete and valuable history ever published. It is sold by subscription only, and Agents are wanted in every county. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address

NATIONAL PUBLISHING Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CHICAGO SCAL

THE BEST COTTON SCA

AT LOWE

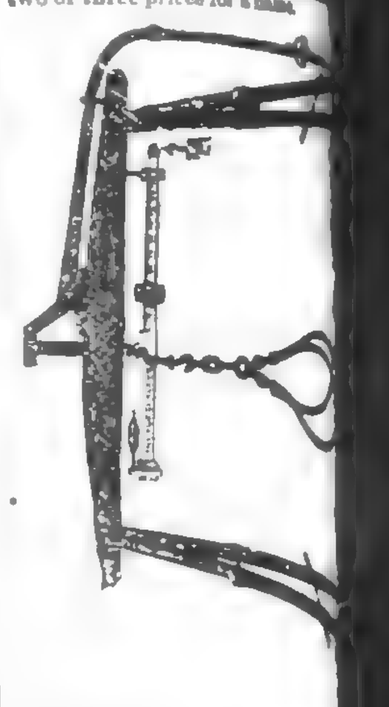
2 Ton Wagon Scales

2 Ton (7x13) $50. 4 T

Beam Box and Brass B

Every Sca'e Guaranteed

The most popular Scale in the two or three prices for a name.



700 lb. Cotton Beam

Complete

The best and cheapest Cotton by Weighmasters and Inspectors

305 other Varieties

Full Price-List Free.

BECK, GREGG & CO.

HEALTH IS WE

Dr. E. [illegible] West's Nerve and Bra [illegible] G. J. LUHN, Charleston, CONSUMPTION CAN BE C

DR. WM. HALL'S

FOR THE LUNGS. BALS

Cures Consumption, Colds, Influenza, Bronchial Difficulties, Hoarseness, Asthma, Croup, Cough, and all Diseases of the Organs. It soothes and heals of the Lungs, inflamed and poi disease, and prevents the night tightness across the chest wh it. Consumption is not an inc HALL'S BALSAM will cu though professional aid fails.

OPIUM HABIT CURE.

HEGE'S IMPROVED

Send for CIRCULARS.

Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

Manufactured by SALEM IRON W

FIVE-TON

WAGON SCALES

All Iron and Steel, Double Brass Tare

Jones he pays the freight. All sizes

for free book, address

JONES OF BINGHAMTON,

Binghamton, N. Y.

Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

HOW TO WIN AT CARDS

A SURE THING! to Anyone.

DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus, a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some remarkable cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation ever made. In short, such a preparation as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SLOAN

ST. LOUIS, MO., Nov. 2d, 1881.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONI

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO.

THE

Memphis Mutual Aid Soc

PRESENTS the ONLY successful NATAL DEPARTMENT known, Days from date of Certificate.

PRESENTS the Best Four Months Marriage Department in existence, paying ten per cent. of amount due on certificate at once upon receipt of proof of PRESENTS the best and strongest One Day Marriage Department in the per day, and omitting the smallest assessment known.

Address, for particulars,

GEORGE F. WILLIS, Sec'y and Treas., and we will pay charges and hold a space for date of

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Sense of Taste and Smell, Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use

EUREKA CATARRH CURE,

A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.

Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to

J. W. GURLEY, M.D.

Probate

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL I. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1882. NO. 50.

AND NOW COMES AUTUMN.

And now comes Autumn—artist bold and free
Expending rich in brightest tints that be—
And with a skill that tells of power divine
Paints a vast landscape wonderfully fine.
O'er the chestnut cloth of gold he throws,
Turns the ash purple, cheers with scarlet glows
The lonely sumac, that erewhile was seen
Clad in dull foliage of a somber green,
Where daisies bloomed gives golden-rod instead,
Stains every oak leaf with the darkest red,
Sets all the woodbine's waving sprays on fire
And leaves them flaming from the cedar's spire.
And clustering berries hangs he here and there
Some like the rubies, some as round and fair
As pearls, some blue as sapphires, some as brown
As the fast-fading leaves that rustle down
Beneath the trees that gave them life, to die,
Or else away with roving winds to fly.
And when at last all's finished—hill and dale,
Wildwood and field—he drops a misty veil
Over the picture, and a few glad days
The world looks on with wonder and with praise,
Till faint and fainter all the colors grow,
And Winter hides it all beneath the snow.
—Margaret Eytinge, in Harper's Weekly.

ARABI'S EARLY HISTORY.

It is worth while, I think, to give your readers a connected and truthful account of the early years of Arabi Pasha's history, since so many improbable things have been printed about him in Europe. He has been set down for a native of Spain, and been declared to have lived long in the Peninsula, while he has even been said to have served in the warehouse of a merchant in Liverpool. Whence he came and how he rose are, however, as I shall relate in this letter. Arabi admits that he does not know in what year he was born, and although this may appear singular to the uninitiated, it is easily and satisfactorily explained by Orientals or by those acquainted with the East. In Egypt and Turkey time is not reckoned from one fixed point, but various events, such as a great fire, an earthquake, or an extraordinary rising of the Nile—in the way that Americans often say that this or that took place "during the war." Arabi says he was born just after the indecent Sheik was murdered in the mosque at Cairo, which event is supposed to have taken place in the year 1835, or thereabouts, so that he is between forty-seven and forty-eight years old, although he maintains that he is only forty-two. There is nothing remarkable about his appearance. He resembles the ordinary middle class Egyptian one meets here every day in the streets of Cairo. He stands five feet seven inches high, is inclined to be corpulent, has very small black, bloodshot eyes sunken deeply into his head, a heavy black and gray mustache, and the high cheek bones, wide nose and lips denoting the African. His father was a laborer on a State farm at Tautah, on the Delta of the Nile, and it was here that Ahmed-el-Uraby was born. This farm was managed by a Swiss gentleman named Jean Ninet, and, curiously enough, the only European now in Arabi's camp is M. Ninet, who is in danger of being summarily dealt with by the English if he could be caught. Arabi received no education whatever. The little Arabic he can read and write he taught himself after he was grown. In his youth, however, he had learned to repeat many verses of the Koran, which he now uses freely, and being a powerful speaker he has always found eager listeners to his discourses. He worked upon the farm until the age of twenty, when one day a recruiting company dashed through the village, and, as he was not fast enough in getting away from them, was seized, put in irons, and taken off to Cairo, this being the ordinary Egyptian method of filling up the ranks.

Arabi Pasha remained a private soldier for over twelve years, and was only promoted to the rank of Lieutenant through the influence of M. Ninet, whom he met accidentally at Thebes, where his regiment was hunting down some Bedouin robbers. This was the turning-point in Arabi's life. Gratitude is a great virtue among Arabs, and he became, so to speak, the slave of M. Jean Ninet. This gentleman soon after the event was dismissed by the late Khedive, Ismail Pasha, because he was known to favor Halim Pasha, the only surviving son of Mehemet Ali, and from whom Ismail had practically usurped the throne. M. Ninet had protested against the wrong done to Halim, and actually went to Constantinople in hope of persuading the Sultan to reinstate him, but to no effect. M. Ninet returned to Egypt and has ever since acted as Halim Pasha's secret agent, and the eventful period through which Egypt is now going is due very largely to his intrigues. He is seventy-two years old, but looks remarkably young for his age; he is tall, handsome and of commanding appearance, and having lived all his life-time in the country, knows the language and people well. He is known and respected by the majority of the natives, over whom he has an enormous influence, and he is, after Arabi Pasha, the most noteworthy man of the revolutionary party. Lieutenant Arabi was devoted to Ninet, and the latter not only persuaded him to espouse Halim Pasha's cause, but used him also as an intermediary in getting other officers to do the same. He saw that if anything was to be done it could only be done through the army, and the only way of getting at the army was through Arabi. Rumors were ingeniously spread that this officer was inspired by the Prophet, and this had such an effect upon the army and the people that the Government thought it wise policy to promote him. He was therefore, promoted a Major. M. Ninet, when in Alexandria, lived with Mr. Douglas Gibbs, the agent of the Eastern Telegraph Company, but when in Cairo was the guest of the Princess Toussoun, who favors Halim. The Princess' palace soon became the rendezvous of Arabi, Ninet, [illegible] their followers.

The great point was to enlist the sympathies of the lower classes, and this could only be done through the press, but how and where to print this revolutionary paper was a matter for serious consideration. It was attempted once or twice in Cairo, but the enterprise was discovered by the secret police, and all who were proved to have any connection with it were severely punished. It was then resolved to issue the paper abroad, and the Princess Toussoun provided the necessary funds. The paper was called Abou Nadara, and was printed by James Sanua, of No. 48 Avenue de Clichy, Paris, and was smuggled into Egypt, tightly packed in sardine boxes. Once in the hands of the revolutionary, or Young Egypt party, it was easily distributed. It was written in common Arabic, so as to be understood by the people, and contained wood-cuts which to us would appear ridiculous, but which have had a great effect on the multitude. One represented the Khedive in the act of being baptized by an English clergyman; in another he was selling the country (a slave in chains) to England; and in another the Khedive's eldest son (the present Khedive) was represented as falling from his horse while reviewing his troops—such an accident being, of course, highly disgraceful to any Arab. The papers were eagerly sought by Arabi's partisans, and did not fail to produce the desired effect; but as ninety-nine per cent. of the villagers could not read emissaries were sent all over the country, traveling from village to village, where they were surrounded by the people, who eagerly listened to promises of free grants of land, exemption from taxation and from the dreaded military service, if they would only support Arabi. The Khedive had mortgaged every inch of Egypt and every possible source of revenue to the bondholders, and what he did with the money will never be known. The tax-payers refused to pay the extortionate sums demanded of them; the interest on the foreign loans could not, consequently, be paid, and, to the delight of Arabi's party, England and France semi-officially interfered. Pressure was put on the Khedive, who foolishly allowed all the high positions of trust to be filled by men sent from the English and French Foreign Offices. The management of the post-office, custom-house, inland revenue, Ministry of Finances, light-house and port dues, and, in fact, every source of revenue, was handed over to these foreigners, to the exclusion of natives, thousands of whom were dismissed the service, and, as was to be expected, joined Arabi's party.

Up to this time Major Arabi was unknown to Europe; in fact, his name had never been mentioned, but now he boldly asserted himself, and foreign politicians found out that all was not milk and honey in the Valley of the Nile. Mr. Charles Rivers Wilson, the English Comptroller, not content with handling all the revenue of the country, made himself obnoxious to all Egyptians by interfering with internal politics. Representations were made to the Khedive that this must be stopped, and the British Consul-General was informed that if Mr. Wilson did not exclusively attend to his own business the people would take the matter into their hands, which they shortly afterward did. The Sultan had by this time heard of Arabi, and, like a keen Oriental, promoted him to the rank of Colonel, wishing to become popular with the popular party. On the very day upon which he received his commission of Colonel, which entitled him to the rank of Bey, Arabi held a review of the troops in Cairo, which was attended by thousands of the inhabitants. He told the troops that he was inspired by the Prophet to fulfill a holy mission, the motto of which was "Egypt for the Egyptians," and that he would see that all the Europeans who were drawing enormous salaries were dismissed and their places filled by natives, who were now starving. The proceedings of this eventful day did not end here, as a few officers, followed by an enthusiastic crowd, went to the Ministry of Finances, where they violently assaulted Mr. Charles Rivers Wilson, his Secretary, Blum Pasha, and other Europeans. The officers were arrested by order of the Khedive, but were liberated the same day by Arabi Bey, who marched his regiment to the prison, demanded the release of the officers, and, upon being refused, ordered his men to break open the jail. After releasing the imprisoned officers they marched back to barracks, the band playing: "See the Conquering Hero Comes." The next day all the world knew who Arabi Bey was, and within a week British, French and other men-of-war were dispatched to Alexandria. The foreign Consuls advised the Khedive to arrest Arabi and send him to the Soudan. Ismail Pasha desired no better advice, as once Arabi was in his power he could give him the usual poisoned cup of coffee, which he had hitherto so successfully administered to others. A message was sent to him stating that the Khedive required his advice, and on his arrival at the palace he was placed in the guard-room a prisoner, where, however, he did not long remain, as one of the soldiers who were guarding him sent word to M. Ninet, who now acted as Arabi's Lieutenant, and in half an hour the palace was surrounded by a mob, who threatened to murder the Khedive and every European in Cairo if their leader was not liberated. Arabi was allowed to go, the mob cheered, the Europeans took refuge in their houses, and politicians discovered for the first time that the fellaheen was not a man of straw, but quite a dangerous and strong element. The recall of Mr. Rivers Wilson, who was knighted by the Queen, the bankruptcy of the Egyptian Government, the dismissal of the Khedive by the Sultan, the appointing of his son Tewfik in his place, the Rias Pasha Ministry, the surrounding of the palace by four thousand troops with two batteries of artillery headed by Arabi, the Khedive's submission, the appointment of Arabi to the Ministry of War, his new title of Pasha, the two imperial Ottoman missions to Egypt, the massacre at Alexandria, Arabi's defiant attitude, the bombardment of the forts and the present war closely follow one another, and are fresh in the memory of the public. —Alexandria Cor. N. Y. Times.

Writing Compositions.

The juvenile bugbear of school is writing compositions, putting ideas into words by the use of the pen, for the inspection of the teacher. Were it only to say, for private satisfaction, assured that it would meet no other eye, the very things they think and feel, it were not so difficult. It is the frightful specter of an audience, the haunting presence of a critical mind, that stands between the pupil and his task, and robs him of the power of expression. Were it your good fortune to listen, unobserved, to the talk of children, when they suppose they have only themselves for audience, you would find them possessed of a volubility that might shame their elders, and a power of graphic description not a little surprising after the pitiful cry: "I can't say anything; I don't know how to describe anything; I shouldn't know what to write!"

We know a youth—now, alas, no more (a youth!)—who sat alone in a dusty attic, when other boys were at play or asleep, weaving in words such dreams as thronged through his young brain, and carefully locking the results away in a rude, home-made desk, scarcely daring to trust the sacred secret to one sympathetic soul. When the exigences of the school made it necessary to write a composition he was helpless. "A composition! Horrid! What a thing that is for a boy! And I must choose a subject; what's that? I never heard of any subjects but the subjects of King George, and they are dead and gone; and I'm glad of it—and that's all I could say about them! I don't know how to write a composition!" And this, sincerely felt, and uttered in a way that would make a composition of itself, were it only written as it was spoken, is the attitude of every child who has not been trained to social expression. What did I do with that boy? I encouraged him to take one of those sacred writings—hieroglyphs in more senses than one—from that mysterious desk copy it into something like English script, and deliver it to the "master."

"What? will that be a composition?" Yes, and the very best you can offer, for it is free from the consciousness of an audience; it is simply thought and feeling verbalized, untainted by fear, or shame, or vanity. The haunting specter that looks over our shoulders when we know we are writing for other eyes, and so vitiates our best expression, will not be discernable here.

With some trepidation, some sneaking desire to put a few phrases into starched linen and patent leather, but bravely subdued, the advice was taken, and with the marked success of the experiment the fiend of composition was laid. Henceforth the way was clear of all goblins—he was only to think through his pen, just as before, and do his selecting when called for. And herein we touch the key to the first secret of success. By such easy and natural exchange of thoughts and feelings with the boy as to win his confidence; so come into unity with him that he can as readily think into your mind as into his lock-up, and the thought of your presence will not disturb his privacy. To do this you will need much reticence. The prudent do not pour their best wine into leaky jugs. A secret judiciously shared may be kept even better than when attempted alone. The two bottles of an hour-glass, communicating only tip to tip, are really closer than if separately corked. They have mutual inlets which are their only outlets. The child's confidence must be respected, or it will be lost; he must feel that with you he is alone, with the advantage of a larger experience included with his, to give, do and correct without exposure. Sympathetic criticism becomes a kind of wider self-examination, it comes not from the judgment-seat, but from the mercy-seat. With this sympathy established, his freedom of expression is gained; he thinks through the pen, as readily as through the tongue, and forgets that he is not a recluse. A motor nerve runs from the brain to the finger-tips, and carries the motions of the mind to the paper, that holds the idea as a phonograph holds talk. Writing is only thinking through a conductor, and use makes it just as simple as thinking into the air.—Geo. S. Burleigh.

The Head Waiter.

Oh, no, my son, that dignified gentleman who looks down upon you with such majestic complacency, who possesses the grace of Apollo Belvidere, the proud front of Jove and the equanimity of the mummified remains of Rameses the First—that sublime personage, my son, is not an Emperor, King, Prince or President of some powerful nation, neither is he the owner of countless millions, nor the landlord of this caravansary. He is far above all thrones, dominations, princedoms, virtues, powers. He is mightiest in the mightiest. Look at him, my son, and tremble. Behold the head waiter, and shrink into nothingness before his transcendent grandeur and—cheek.—Boston Transcript.

The City Girl on Horseback.

Spending her summer in a remote country place, she is tempted daily by a thousand shady lanes and by-ways, to learn to ride on horseback. On the eventful day on which she makes her first attempt, our young lady stands before her glass, contemplating with considerable satisfaction the braid and buttons adorning her trim figure, and the soft felt hat, whose long plume droops against her hair. She tiptoes about a little, putting a curl or so into place, gathering over her arm the folds of the long skirt she wears, and lashing the toe of her dainty gaiter boot with a riding-whip. She even, in the privacy of her chamber, perches sidewise on the arm of a big easy-chair, and energetically whips up the foot-stool, viewing the effects in the mirror from the corner of her eye.

At last some one cries from the hall below that the horses have come, and she hastens down stairs. She stumbles once or twice on the way, and at the last step catches her foot in her dress and plunges headlong, only rescued from a fall by one of the members of the household, who is, of course, present to see her off.

Regaining her balance, she advances more cautiously and inspects her steed. She is not wholly satisfied. It is true that she requested a quiet animal, but there are degrees of quietness, and she would have been content to stop short of absolute dejection.

She conceals her disappointment, however, and wonders how she is to get on the animal's back. The good-natured stable-man, who is to accompany her, has dismounted, but does not show the slightest intention of offering his hand for her to put her foot in, according to all traditions of the courtesies of horsemanship.

There is a pause. Some one suggests that she better have a stool. Her soul revolts at the thought. Nevertheless the stool is brought, and from its summit she makes a desperate leap for the saddle, fully expecting to fall over the other side. A clutch at the mane of her steed saves her, however, and in another moment they are off.

Her sensations are peculiar. She never knew before that a horse was so tall. How very tall the animal is! She was not aware that he had such a longitude of backbone, or that it heaved so when he walked. She has not long to reflect on those marvels, for presently her companion chirrups, and the animal she is on starts into a trot. She gasps, clutches her saddle and bids good-bye to earth.

When she returns to her country home an hour later, she is pale but effusively cheerful, and tells her friends it was "perfectly lovely," but she thinks she shall like it better when she is used to it.

The next day she spends upon the sofa in the house with a novel, and she smiles a faint but bitter smile when she reads that the heroine of the novel "touched her black mare lightly with the whip, and took a five-barred gate with the fearless ease of a practised horseman."—Youth's Companion.

How to Save Water.

Few towns in European Turkey—or, for that matter, we should imagine, elsewhere—are as fortunate as Salonica in the possession of a Mayor at once enlightened and thrifty, an earnest votary of science and a shining example of economy. A short time ago, while presiding over a meeting of the Salonica Town Council, he astonished that assembly by soliciting its authorization to purchase a barometer for his private room at the municipal offices, having previously explained the nature and uses of that instrument to the conscript fathers at great length and in language the erudition and eloquence of which all but took away their breath. After an animated debate, in which the "party of progress" gave utterance to several stirring orations, a majority of the Council voted in favor of granting his Worship's request, and he was accordingly empowered to lay out moneys belonging to the town, amounting to the equivalent of seven shillings in Turkish currency, upon the purchase of a barometer. This he promptly did; but his first care, after hanging up the instrument in a conspicuous position upon the wall of his bureau, was to modify its internal arrangements in such sort that the indicators should be exclusively limited to pointing out the words "Much rain" on the dial. Now, when the citizens of Salonica beseech their Mayor, upon exceptionally hot and dusty days, to give orders that the streets be watered, he shows them the barometer, softly murmurs: "It must rain heavily in a few minutes," and sends them about their business. Thus is the water rate of Salonica kept down to an abnormally low figure by the ingenuity of its astute chief magistrate.—London Telegram.

Which is the Weaker Sex?

Females are called the weaker, but why? If they are not strong, who is? When men must wrap themselves up in thick garments, and encase the whole in a stout overcoat to shut out the cold, women in thin silk dresses, with neck and shoulders bare, or nearly so, say they are perfectly comfortable! When men wear waterproof boots over woolen hose and encase the whole in India-rubber to keep them from freezing, women wear thin silk hose and cloth shoes, and pretend not to feel cold. When men cover their heads with furs, and then complain of the severity of the weather, women hang an apology for a bonnet at the back of their heads, and ride or walk abroad in the northeast winds, professing not to suffer at all.

Accumulated Horrors.

Since electric lights have come into use several persons in different parts of the country have been killed by constituting themselves the "missing link" between the two poles of the battery. We would not wish to cause unnecessary alarm, but in seeking to warn the public against the wrath to come, if this thing keeps on, we can only feel that we are discharging a solemn duty. Accidents have been few hitherto because this high-pressure ninety-eight per cent. electricity is only in its infancy, and the people are careful about it. But as it comes into more general use, it will be an old story, and people who place their ear to a telephone are liable to have the ear blown off and walk lop-sided the rest of their lives. Another new thing is also about to come into use, water gas. At Appleton they are even now using hydrogen gas, made out of water, and it is only a question of time when oil, coal, wood and coal-gas will be done away with and every house contain a machine by which warmth and light will be supplied by simply turning on the hydrant. Water, it has long been known, is composed of two parts of hydrogen to one of oxygen, and a method has now been devised by which these elements are disintegrated, the oxygen driven off about its business and the hydrogen placed on file for future reference. Now, when all these explosive and shocking things are aggregated under one mammoth pavilion, in a house or hotel, and a hired girl who is a little rusty on her knowledge of chemistry and electricity goes plunging around among the pots, kettles and pans, bouncing the billowy bed and pitching the dyspeptic biscuit on a curve, there is going to be trouble. When that time comes, a house with all the modern improvements, with sixty-four stops, will be nothing more or less than a chamber of horrors. But that is what it is coming to. Country people are even now getting afraid to come to the city, as they feel that they can not be sure of themselves. There are fire bells, church bells, bridge bells, street car bells and whistles, tug whistles, fog horns, the street full of vehicles and everybody on the keen scoot, and when their heads begin to swim and they seek the seclusion that a hotel grants, there are telephone wires, telegraph wires, electric light wires, gas retorts, magnetic buttons of a half dozen kinds, and the result is, they get lost. Reason begins to totter, and they grope their way to the sample room and take a drink. They would feel safer in a powder factory smoking a burnside cigar, but the hotel proprietor does not provide this convenience for the comfort of his guests. And so, fortified by an occasional drink, they transact their business, go home, and for years relate to their children and grandchildren how they once passed a whole day and night in a first-class hotel, fitted up with all the modern improvements, where death seemed to be lurking for them in every hidden spring, and got back alive. This is no figure of speech, no anti-fat that we are giving; it is what we as a people are rushing on to at the rate of 600 revolutions a minute. Since that terrible explosion of orange peel last week, scattering destruction far and wide, death seems to be careening on the gale.—Peck's Sun.

The Speed of Thought.

Helmholtz showed that a wave of thought would require about a minute to traverse a mile of nerve, and Hirsch found that a touch on the face was recognized by the brain, and responded to by a manual signal, in the seventh of a second. He also found that the speed of sense differed for different organs, the sense of hearing being responded to in a sixth of a second; while that of sight required only one-fifth second to be felt and signaled. In all these cases the distances traversed was about the same, so the inference is that images travel more slowly than sounds or touch. It still remained, however, to show the portion of this interval taken up by the action of the brain. Professor Donders by very delicate apparatus has demonstrated this to be about seventy-five thousandths of a second. Of the whole interval forty thousandths are occupied in the simple act of recognition, and thirty-five thousandths for the act of willing a reponse. When two irritants were caused to operate on the same sense one twenty-fifth of a second was required for the person to recognize which was the first; but a slightly longer interval was required to determine the priority in the case of the other senses. These results were obtained from a middle-aged man, but in youths the mental operations are somewhat quicker than in the adult. The average of many experiments proved that a simple thought occupies one-fortieth of a second.

—"I declare, Julia," exclaimed Mrs. Marrowfat, as her eldest daughter seated herself at the breakfast table, "your lips are all broke out in a rash." "Yes," returned Julia, with bashful candor, and a heightened color that looked as if the rash was spreading all over her face, "Charley has begun to let his mustache grow again."—Brooklyn Eagle.

—The new opera-house in Frankfort-on-the-Main illustrates the manner in which electricity enters into the conveniences of daily life. It there serves as a fire alarm, a door-closer, a heat indicator, a life measurer for the ventilator, a general illuminator and a time beater for the orchestra.

—The richest man in Mexico is an Irishman named Patricio Milmo, who owns a 400,000 acre farm, and is reputed to be worth $10,000,000. When he went to Mexico he had not a dollar, but got a start by a fortunate marriage.—Chicago Journal.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—Good qualities are the substantial riches of the mind; but it is good breeding that sets them off to advantage.

—A Nevada woman, if she happens to be feeling just right, can gain thirty-five feet on a bear in a race of an even mile.

—A Hartford firm has turned out a belt four feet wide and ninety-six feet long, and a woman with a waist to fit it can secure a bargain.—Detroit Free Press.

—There is not in all China a native surgeon who can set a broken leg or arm. People in that country are supposed to break their necks when they meet with an accident.—Detroit Free Press.

—"A constant reader" makes inquiry as to the authorship of "Patience." As in the case of the letters of "Junius" and the poem on "The Beautiful Snow," the author's name is not positively known, but it has generally been attributed to Job.—Courier-Journal.

—A girl from Cincinnatah
Kept on growing fat, and fattah,
Though she dieted on battah
For a yeah.
In vain she tried to scattah
All the adipose mattah,
Till the doctor said she'd bettah
Stop her beah.
—Baltimore American.

—A New York belle met with a sad loss while returning from a summer resort the other day. By some means her diary, containing the names of all the gentlemen she had become engaged to, dropped out of the car window, and now she can't tell which of her male friends have a right to kiss her.

—While a tourist was in Palestine he took a sail on the Sea of Galilee. After visiting the different places of interest he returned to the landing and asked: "How much for the trip?" "Ten shekels!" responded the smiling boatman. "Ten shekels!" said the traveler, "why, that is an outrageous price." "Well," replied the skipper, "that's what they've been paying ever since the sea was here." "Thunderation!" growled the voyager, "I don't wonder that Peter tried to walk it."

—"How are the colored voters coming on, out on Onion Creek?" asked an Austin candidate of a darkey with a load of hay. "Dar's a heap ob sickness out dar among de colored fo'ks." "What is it, malaria?" "I reckon dat's de name ob de stuff. Hit am sumfin what he got from de druggery-shop." "What stuff are you talking about?" "De stuff a white man out dar puts in his watermillions to keep de colored folks from mistakin' em from dar own watermillions."—Texas Siftings.

—A scientist says: "Segregation is a process tending ever to separate unlike units, and to bring together like units, so serving continually to sharpen, or make definite, differentiations which have been otherwise caused." This seems plain enough, and satisfactorily explains why the homogeneity of the contaction of the nebulosity and the evolutionism of the subsequentiation and individualism are in antipathy to the hereforeness and primordialism of the cosmos in its relation to the unseenness of the vacuity. And yet some persons may doubt it.—Norristown Herald.

Striking Excerpts from Emerson's Writings.

The publisher of the Literary News recently offered prizes for the six most striking and characteristic sentences from Emerson's writings, those four persons whose sentences were the most frequently quoted by all the competitors to have a prize. There were forty-nine competitors. The highest number of votes given to the same sentence was twenty-four. The following seven sentences received from twenty-four to eleven votes each in their order:

1. "Character is higher than intellect. * * A great soul will be strong to live as well as to think."—The American Scholar.

26. "His heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong."—On Lincoln.

43. "The fountain of beauty is the heart, and every generous thought illustrates the walls of your chamber."—Society and Solitude.

48. "The ornament of a house is the friends who frequent it."—Essay on Domestic Life.

10. "Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm."—Essay on Circles.

7. "There is no beautifier of complexion, or form, or behavior, like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us."—Essay on Behavior.

54. "The finest and noblest ground on which people can live is truth; the real with the real; a ground on which nothing is assumed."—Essay on the Superlative.

The Ulster.

The young men of this country, who have been flouncing the edges of their ulsters with the mud from their heels, will be pained to learn that it is not a street or walking garment at all. English authority—which, in consideration of the English origin of the ulster, should be final—says that it is purely and simply a traveling coat. Its place "is not the pavement, but outside the coach or carriage, or inside the railway carriage when the air is nipping." The mortification of the gilded youth of America over this revelation will be equal to that of the Emperor of Brazil when he first discovered that high silk hats were intended to be worn on the head, and not, as he first supposed, to break the violence of his fall, should he be so unfortunate, as he sometimes was, as to slip and sit down in the neighborhood of a broken [illegible].

HE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 26, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

John E. Thompson, of Rome, Ga., has entered suit for the possession of 80 acres of land claimed by the Elyton Land Company, lying within the city of Birmingham, valued at $175,000.

Judge Sam Rice, Independent candidate for Congress in the second district, in a published card, denies that he has received any pecuriary aid from the Hubbell committee.

The report of the uprising of negroes around Alabama Furnace and Anniston, probably put a check to the proceedings of the murderous gang, as nothing further has been heard of them.

Revivalist Penn prayed fervently for the death of two Texas ruffians who disturbed his campmeeting, and, as one died next day, the followers of Penn believe that the prayer was answered.

Brilliant Tom Baine, of the Hayneville Examiner, has been elected First Lieutenant of the Lowndes County Rifles. He was a "brass button" boy, at Tuskaloosa, for several years, and will make an excellent officer.

In Harvey county, Kansas, many hundred buxom Mennonite girls may now be found in the extensive broom-corn fields. They appear to like the work, and present splendid pictures of good nature and robust health.

The immense cost of living in Egypt is a very serious matter for the British troops who will have to remain there. The prices for everything are enormous, and the whole day's pay of a subaltern will purchase him but one meal at a hotel.

Kate Thompson was so eager to marry Andrew Van Horn, at Hope, Ind., that she eloped with him; but when, within an hour of the ceremony, he got hilariously drunk, she was so eager to get rid of him that she went home alone, and has sued for a divorce.

A few days ago the State Libarian of Minnesota was surprised at St. Paul by receiving fifty-one bags, weighing several thousand pounds, filled with Congressional documents, dating back to 1820, and intended as a contribution to repair the loss by the late fire.

In the old times, when people travelled by diligence in France, one traveler was killed in every 335,000 and one wounded in every 30,000. Now, when they travel by rail, one is killed per 5,178,490 and one wounded per 580,450. Railway traveling is thus nearly twenty times as safe as traveling by diligence.

A difficulty occurred in Talladega last week, between a Mr. Duncan and two brothers by the name of Hancock. The Hancocks assaulted Duncan with dirk knives, stabbing him in nine different places. Duncan shot both of them, one in the hip, and the other in the arm. Duncan's condition is critical. The Hancocks received only flesh wounds, and were not much hurt.

Mr. Lucien Walker, the able editor of the Eufaula Times & News declines to be a candidate for the position of assistant Secretary of the State Senate, for which position his name has been frequently and favorably mentioned. He says he is not a candidate for any office, and that to him "the click of type is the sweetest melody and the rattle of the printing press the grandest music." A wise man is Lucien.

A difficulty in Knoxville, Tenn. last week, resulted in the death of all three participants. Maj. Thos. O'Conner, President of the Mechanics' National Bank, shot and killed Gen. Joseph A. Mabry. Joseph A. Mabry, Jr., coming upon the scene at the time, shot Maj. O'Conner through the heart, who just lived long enough to fire upon his last assailant, sending a load of buck shot into his breast and killing him instantly. None of the three spoke after being shot.

Well Done.

The Germans in Ohio voted almost solidly against the river and harbor statesmen. An Indianapolis dispatch says that fully a thousand Germans in that city who voted for Garfield in 1880 will vote the Democratic ticket this fall.

Nor are the Germans in Connecticut behind their Western brethren. In open convention they have denounced the Robesonian party, and have pledged their support to Waller and his associates on the Democratic ticket.

Here in New York there is a similar feeling. It will be a great day for our fellow citizens of German birth when the party whose name is synonymus with fraud and corruption is swept from power.—N. Y. Sun.

Repeal the Crop Lien Law.

The Eutaw Mirror, in a three-column article, in its last issue, hits the merchants, farmers, and the crop lien law, some pretty hard licks. We believe the Mirror is right in its denunciation of the present system of mortgaging crops, and it is to be hoped that the Legislature will look into and remedy the matter. The Mirror zealously advocates the repeal of the crop lien law. It says:

What makes lands sell high in a farming country? They are high just in proportion as there is an intelligent population controlling them and making improvements on them from year to year. Is there any one, then, who will say that our present laws tend to bring about this condition? We do not pretend to say that a general repeal of all these laws would bring peace and plenty forthwith, but we do believe that if all this crop lien business was put an end to that the general effect would be to lessen the amount of cotton made, increase the provision crop, elevate the business of farming, put a stop to a great deal of stealing, make it an inducement for young men to go to farming, get married, live happy and build up a good society; would be in the interest of good merchants, build up a creditable honor among men, turn out a good deal of poor land into grass to raise stock on that is now being run in bumble-bee cotton to buy western bacon and Yankee notions, keep industrious farming white men from moving off, and would give black men a chance to work for hire for men who have the intelligence to direct their labor in such a way as to insure them a plenty to eat, good clothes to wear and some money to spend, instead of belonging to a store, half starved and thinking about nothing but politics and preaching.

The Nonsensicality of Spiritualism.

The following extract is from a sermon on "Modern Spiritualism" recently preached in Pittsburg by the Rev. D. Lichliter. "Trouble drives some men to Spiritualism. The loss of a loved one makes men frantic. And they are deluded into consulting a medium to hold communication with the departed. "The speaker here related the story of a father who had lost his son by death." The young man was the finest penman at the school. Yet the medium had the audacity to present the parent with a scrawl, which he said was a note sent from Heaven. The father sent word to the medium to tell the spirit to go to school. After all Spiritualism is nonsensical in the extreme. Think of a spirit coming from mansions of bliss playing the acrobat, under the table rapping like a drummer, breaking dishes and playing a tune on the guitar. Whereas, perhaps the departed while in the flesh could not tell one note from another. How is it that Spiritualism is always practiced in the dark, either in a darkened room or after sundown? Because the mediums, like their master, satan, love, not the light; they cannot bear inspection without revealing the imposition. Like the wolf, the mediums sneak away at the first dawn of day. Last week a spiritualist, after being exposed in Erie, fled to Canada. He gave a seance. Every time he was bound the ropes came loose. At last an Irish sailor asked leave to bind him. This was granted, and the Irishman made such a complicated knot that the medium couldn't conjure up a spirit expert enough to set him loose. He was exposed and fled to parts unknown."

Five Negroes Hung in Georgia.

EASTMAN, GA., Oct. 20.—At one o'clock to-day Riddick Powell, Simon O. Guain, Joseph King, Robert Donaldson, Ella Moore, negroes, were hanged in the jail yard for complicity in the riot which occurred at this place on August 6th, during a camp-meeting, in which an innocent young white man named James Howard was set upon by an infuriated mob, and after being shot by one of them was beaten almost into a jelly by others. The woman raised the first howl which excited the mob to desperate work. No attempt was made to rescue them, and not more than fifty negroes from whom violence was expected were in town. A detachment of military from Macon were present for protection.

A Providence woman found that whipping did not subdue her son, and so she made him drink a quart of dish water. As he was still obdurate, she burned his tongue with a red-hot poker, and he succumbed. He is now in a hospital, and she in jail.

An announcement of general importance has been made by Gen. Hazen, that it is a fact not generally known that stamped envelopes, when spoiled through misdirection or other causes, can be exchanged for a postage stamp of the same denomination, at the nearest post-office.

Ternanville Ahead!

Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1.

A Good Pair Pants $1.

A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

My stock of GROCERIES, DRY GOODS, HARDWARE, FARMING IMPLEMENTS, and SUPPLIES is complete, and my motto is

Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,

o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

NOTICE NO. 1870.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Lula G. Martin, Homestead 7126 for the s e ¼ of the s e ¼, section 22, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John M. Runnels, Jasper Y. Friday and Luther R. Friday, of Maplesville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville, Ala.

o26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1871.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: John W. Runnels, Homestead 7127, for the e ½ of the n w ¼ sec 28, township 20 north, range 11 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, Luther R. Friday, Henry J. Cole, Jasper Y. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, o26 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1872.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Luther R. Friday, Homestead 7208 for the w ½ of the s w ¼ section 28, township twenty north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, John M. Runnels, and Jasper Y. Friday, of Plantersville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville.

otsix THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1883.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November twenty-five, 1882, viz: Sampson Friday, Homesteads 7562 and 11984, for the n ½ of the n w ¼ and n w ¼ of n e ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 30, township twenty north, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: George E. Reid, William Barnes, John Reynolds, and William Terry, all of Callierville, Ala.

ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1884.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: George E. Reid, Homestead 11896, for s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 30, township twenty, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Barnes, Sampson Friday, John Reynolds and Luther R. Friday, all of Callierville, Ala.

ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 1st-tf Lomax, Ala.

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

H. L. Wheeler.

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

Will buy and sell lands for commissions.

Wheeler & Riley,

Fire Insurance Agents

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—AND—

Agents for the London and Lancashire and Royal Insurance Companies, of Great Britian and the Capital City, of Montgomery, Ala.

Office on First Avenue, Second Floor of Bank Building. Jun15-1y.

Ehrman Again

To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next

TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.

MEAT PER POUND 15c.

GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.

Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.

LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of

CLOTHING, BOOTS, SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, HARDWARE, CROCKERY, FURNITURE, WOODWARE, and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.

Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville

Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to

ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON,

and the best route to

BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Dr. J. P. Civhan,

(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my15-1y

J. F. MAULL. T. H. HOCKENSMITH

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,

Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HATS, Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinware, Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles and FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

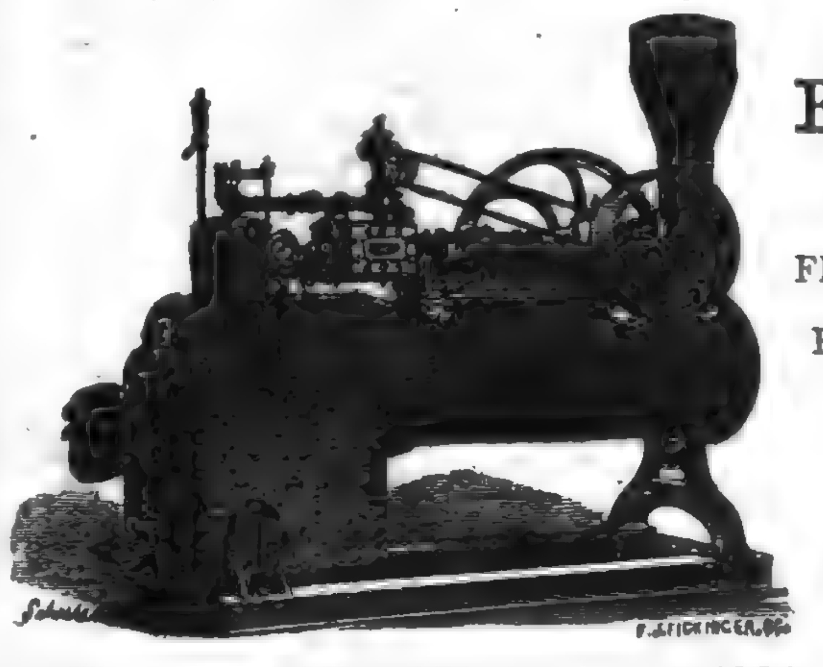
HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN.

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patronage.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.

Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINES

OF ALL SIZES

FROM TWO TO TWO HUNDRED HORSE POWER,

—AND—

OF ALL KINDS

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHEELS.

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Best. Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

Agents wanted in every county in the State. mar8-1y

A. A. CLISBY & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

—DEALERS IN—

DRUG SUNDRIES, PATENT MEDICINES AND DYE STUFFS, SNUFF, LAUNDRY SOAPS, STARCH, PAPERS AND TWINE.

DEPOT FOR

Burning and Lubricating Oils, White Lead, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, and Miners' Supplies.

—WHOLESALE JOBBERS IN CIGARS—

BIRMINGHAM.

Aug. 1—3m

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—DEALERS IN—

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods.

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.

An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volumes

SOME REASONS WHY

THIS WORK

Is Superior to all Other

CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopædia.

It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopædia.

It embraces over 40,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.

Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork and Binding first-class.

IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.

Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.

Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.

Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.

Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms to right parties. Send for circular.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,

74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

Sold only by Subscription

HE CHILTON VIEW.

ANTON, ALA., OCT. 26, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

ancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
udge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. h. olicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J.
ty.
ember of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams. enator Fifteenth Senatorial District
William P. Oden. epresentative—J. S. Edwards.
robate Judge—H. J. Callen. ircuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee. egister in Chancery — Dr. W. E. wart.
heriff—James E. Lowe. reasurer—James M. Parish.
ax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
ax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
upt. Education—James M. Corderie.
ommissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Hon-ut, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

HEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.
rains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

	6:33 a. m.
o. 1 at	7:15 p. m.
o. 3	11:45 p. m.
o. 9	3:35 p. m.
o. 11

GOING NORTH.

	*9:00 a. m.
o. 2	*9:42 p. m.
o. 4	8:15 p. m.
o. 8	10:35 a. m.
o. 12

Don't stop.

HEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

ng North	Daily Mail		Going South
. 6:30 a. m.	Selma	Arr	9:15 p. m.
9:45 "	Calera	Lve.	6:02 "
4:16 p m	Rome	"	11:32 a m
6:15 "	Dalton	"	9:40 "
8:13 "	Cleaveland	"	7:00 "
11:35 "	Knoxville	"	3:30 "
1:01 a m	Norristown	"	1:45 "
4:15 a m	Bristol	"	10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

ward	Daily Mail		Westward
. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv.	4:20 p m
ve 8:30 "	Demopolis	"	7:00 "
ve 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive	10 p m

ODGES.—Regular communications nton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. first Saturday in each month at 7 ock p. m.

egular conventions Chilton Lodge K. of P. every second and fourth rday nights in each month, at 7 ock p. m.

Voodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T. ts every Friday night at 7 o'clock,

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

To Subscribers.

E VIEW will enter upon its second me the third week of November. ould be well for all who subscribed e outset and wish to renew, to do efore that time. Money can be sent registered letter, or, those living in county can send it by hand through ties coming to Clanton during court k.

Mrs. J. B. Boykin is prepared to e boarders during court. 1t young lady, lately from Selma, a flourishing school at Lomax.

ur young people enjoyed a sant sociable at Dr. J. P. Robin-s, last Tuesday evening.

n entertainment was given at bena last Tuesday night for the efit of the fever sufferers at he agent for the sale of the L. railroad lands did not put in appearance here on last Mon- to sell lands as advertised.

t the August term of our comsioners' court, a petition asking t a new voting place, be estabed at Macedonia church, in t 3, was granted.

Ir. W. A. Child, of Montgomery, in Clanton Sunday. He was to look after his property at arlton," the name of the village ng up at Bivings, Duke & Co.'s tch.

r. R. Aycock, living near Clan- with one horse during the year made twelve bales of cotseventy-five bushels of wheat, bushels of oats and plenty of n to do him, besides splitting 0 rails during the year. How that for a Chilton county far-r? Such men will do to brag on.

he young friends of Benny ith, son of Mr. J. O. Smith, of nison, will be glad to learn that hearing has been completely ored by Dr. Calhoun, of Atlanta. ny attended Clanton Academy session. Becoming deaf, he ld not return, and he went to anta, in hopes of getting relief. are glad to know that his pes have been realized, and his ring fully restored.

ol. Thomas Williams, in his ch at Jemison, on last Thurs-, said that he had been made standard bearer of the Demotic party in this district, not by solicitation on his part—and d upon his hearers that it was uty they owed themselves as ll as their party to stand by him, e they had chosen him as their der. If they intended to stand him, they should vote for him.

Everybody's Going to Birmingham

To see the handsomest woman in the world, and 22 performing elephants, 1,000 wild beasts, colossal circus in two rings, and grand free procession of industry. The great Forepaugh Show exhibits at Birmingham, Saturday, Nov. 4. In addition to a grandly great circus in two great rings, and a monster menagerie of wild beasts, all transported by four great railway trains, there is to be a great, grand, free procession on the day Forepaugh exhibits there. Every town in this county will be represented in this huge, highway, holiday parade. In addition to this, the great pageants of "Cleopatra" and "Lalla Rookh" will be presented in the show parade. This latter spectacle is described as being the most georgeous ever seen upon the streets of an American city. The loveliest lady in the land has been secured to personify the beautiful Eastern Princes, Lalla Rookh, whom poets describe as "more beautiful than any of those heroines whose names and loves embellish the songs of Persia and Hindostan; more perfect than the divinest images of the House of Azor." In this georgeously glittering, Oriental pageant, Lala Rookh is seen reclining in her sumptuous howdah, borne aloft upon the back of a ponderous and kingly elephant, the largest on this continent, whose embroidered velvet trappings touch the ground: a fair young female slave sits fanning the Princess through the rose-colored veils, with feathers of argue-peasant's wings, and the lovely troupe of Tartarian and Cashmerean maids of honor ride upon each side of the Princess upon small Arabian horses. Remember, this superbe spectacle is presented daily, between hours of 9 and 10 A. M., and is a great, gorgeous, free public festival for all to look at and admire.

Joseph M. Williams, M. D.

We are pained to announce the death of DR. JOSEPH M. WILLIAMS, of Montgomery, which event occurred on October 15.

When such a man dies, something more than a passing notice is due. Dr. Williams was eminent in his profession, and enjoyed up to the time of the failure of his health, perhaps the largest practice in the Capital City. Before the late war, he was possessed of large estates, which, by its results, were in the main, swept away. Then it was, when surrounded by what we call misfortune, we most admired him, animated by a lively sense of his own dignity, abounding in activity, perseverance, energy, and the simultaneous development of all his great faculties. His devotion to his profession, his gentleness and constancy, his admirable conscience: rich in maxims of sublime morality, in sentiments of honor and dignity. Trusted, admired and beloved by his clientele, he had always impulses to care for the weak, and to succor the unfortunate—impulses which always pursued their course with generous ardor. His great heart forbade unkindness and his great soul knew only generosity.

But he is dead now! And only a beautiful memory is left.

Mr. McCoy on a Still Hunt.

ED. VIEW:—It is now a well defined fact that McCoy has been used as a tool by the Republicans to work up the canvass in this Congressional District, and that they will vote for one of their own party, hoping that McCoy may draw enough misguided Democrats to his support, to enable them to beat Mr. Williams in this District.

Let every voter do his duty on the 7th of November, and we can and will elect Tom Williams to Congress. In him we have a man who will represent his people and one who never deserts the post of duty. ALERT.

Maplesville Dots.

Have had good rains the past week.

Mr. W. D. Larwence has accepted a position with Messrs. Ed. Ekelheimer & Co., of Selma.

Cannot Maplesville maintain a better Sunday School. We have a new organ and yet find little use for it.

I think Maplesville merchants would find it to their interest to advertise in the county paper. BIJOU.

Colored Lady and Gentleman.

"Is this woman your wife?" asked the justice of a colored man, and pointing to a woman.

"Is what my wife?"

"Is that woman your wife?"

"I don't see no 'oman. I sees a lady an' de lady is my wife."

"Is this man your husband?" asked the justice of the woman.

"Dat gen'leman is my husband."

"Well, ladies and gentlemen, I have investigated this case and have decided to send this lady and gentleman to jail for six months."

A communication from a prominent and well posted gentleman, which we publish elsewhere in this issue, states very plainly Mr. McCoy's true position, in his candidacy for Congress in this district. Let the truth be read and acted upon. Mr. McCoy, like the traditional "old dog," is no doubt unable to comprehend the many new tricks of the wily Republicans.

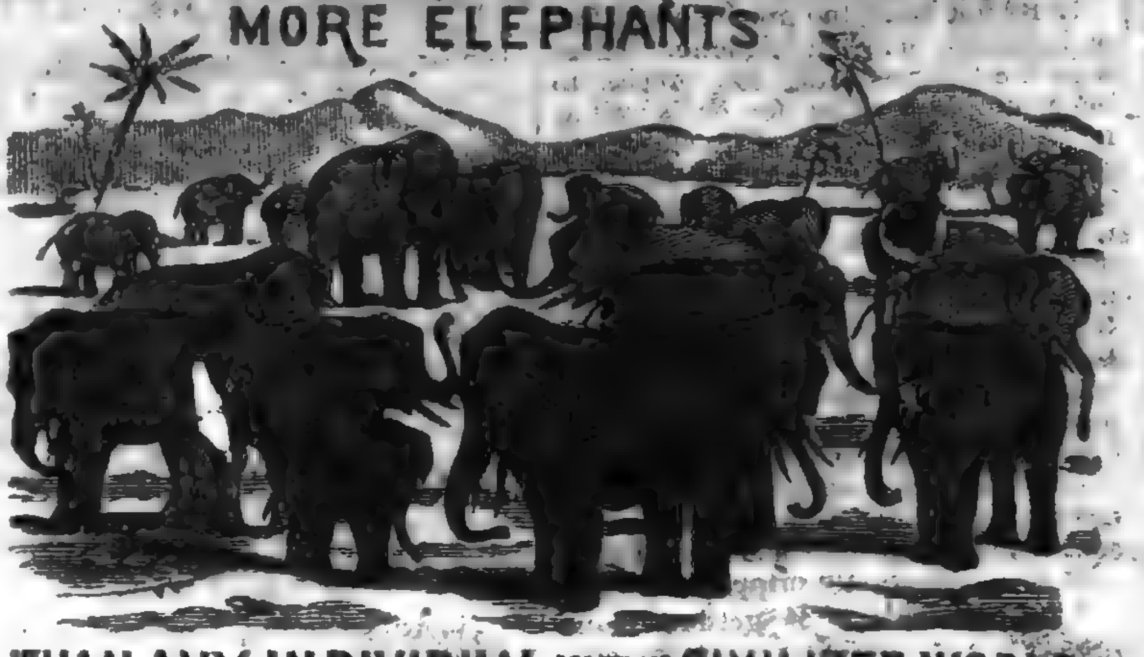
HO! For Birmingham!

To See the Wonderful Twenty-two

Trained Elephants and "Bolivar,"

THE LARGEST ELEPHANT IN THE WORLD.

ADAM FOREPAUGH EXHIBITS MORE ELEPHANTS



THAN ANY INDIVIDUAL IN THE CIVILIZED WORLD.

Coming, and Eighteenth Annual Tour, and will Exhibit Afternoon and Evening at BIRMINGHAM, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4.

GREATEST OF ALL,

The Great Forepaugh Show.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED WILD BEASTS, FOUR RAILWAY TRAINS

Colossal Two-Ring Circus

1,000 men and horses, Great Pageant

Illustrating the beautiful Eastern Romance of "LALLA ROOKH" Departing from Delphi. The Princes personated by

The Handsomest Woman in the World!

Who gets Ten Thousand Dollars for her Beauty and appearing in this Grand Parade, and the Greatly Grand Egyptian Pageant, as CLEOPATRA, QUEEN OF EGYPT.

THE GRAND PROCESSION OF INDUSTRY,

Free Street Pageant & Greatest

SHOW ON FARTH!

Extra Trains! Low Rates! To and from Birmingham to see the Great Forepaugh Show. Don't forget the DAY and DATE, it is never changed. ADAM FOREPAUGH, Sole Proprietor.

Election Notice.

The qualified electors of Chilton county, Alabama, are hereby notified that an election will be held at the several election precincts, in said county on the first Tuesday in November in 1882, being the 7th day of said month, for the election of a member of the 48th congress of the United States, for the 5th congressional District of Alabama.

Witness my hand this 4th day of October, 1882. J. E. LOWE, Sheriff chilton county.

NOTICE NO. 1856.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 27, 1882, viz: Roda Klener, Homestead 12198, for the s w ¼ of section 24, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Milton Fuller, Jesse B. Hardy, James L. Williams, and William F. Roebuck, all of Maplesville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, ots Register.

NOTICE 1836,

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on November, 31, 1882, viz: Lewis Gentry Homestead 3841 for the s e ¼ of the n w and n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 1, townsp 20 north range 16 east, and the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 6, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: James M. Stanfield, William Gray, Simon H. Gleen, and Joseph Long.
THOMAS J. SCOTT,
o12 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1833.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 6th, 1882, viz; Sip Atchinson homestead entry 4227 for the n w ¼ of section 12, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Richard McCary, Thomas Ward and Edmund Hayse, all of Maplesville, Ala.
THOMAS J. SCOTT,
Sept -5t. Register.

H. Houpt,

WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN.

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store

—OF—

W. M. WILSON,

—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock

—OF—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,

And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.

"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR

Cigars and Tobacco

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

—CALL ON—

I. FORST,

2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The cheapest place in the city.

June 20-6m

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"

W. A. CHILD, Proprietor

—DEALER IN—

Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY

—AND—

NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.

—AGENT FOR—

DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO

Also Estey and Palace Organs.

No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.

WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE.

Nov24-ly

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.

Large Stock! Low Prices!

Alonzo S. Elliott,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.

Cooking and Heating Stoves,

Birmingham, Ala.

IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c,

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,

—AND—

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.

—ALSO—

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c

—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.

June 20-6m

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest

FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-3m Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE OF

COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, ala. J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor,

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. jn4-1y

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD?

We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us who from, and if you want it rolled. Put your name on a separate card. R. G. WALKER, aug18-3m Mott ville, Ala.

A JEWELER'S STORY.

It was on the 25th of October, 1859, that I was returning to England, having taken the steamer at Dublin for Holyhead. Business had taken me to Ireland —I am a jeweler—and it had been necessary for me to visit a branch of my own firm in Dublin. I was bringing back certain valuable jewels which required resetting—diamonds of great value, and some other things of less importance, but still valuable.

I carried the jewels which I have already mentioned in a small black hand-bag, and so long as I knew that it was safe I was free from care. Arriving at Holyhead, I took my seat in an empty first-class railway carriage. Just as the train was moving off, however, a gentleman suddenly got in. He sat down nearly opposite to me, so I had a good opportunity of observing his appearance. I noticed that he was young, apparently not more than four-and-twenty, that he had a broad black band round his hat, and that on his face were traces of recent sorrow, almost, in fact, of agitation. He seemed relieved at having caught the train; and being, like myself, quite disinclined for conversation, we proceeded on our journey in silence.

My bag lay beside me and quite under my eyes. I was tired after my crossing, and fell into a sort of doze. On waking I instantly glanced at my bag. There it lay, quite safe. My companion, however, had moved his seat. We stopped at Chester, and here I thought I would get out and walk about a little, as we had ten minutes to wait. I took my bag and got out. On my return to the train there was my companion, apparently asleep. I got into the carriage without disturbing him, and we continued on our journey. At Crewe, our next stopping-place, he got out and did not come back. I was very tired now, and fell into a sound sleep, with my hand holding the handle of my black bag. I did not wake until I reached London; then getting into the first hansom I saw, and still carrying my precious bag, of which I was heartily tired, I drove home. On my arrival, with a method which I suppose is habitual to a man in my trade, I instantly went to the safe in which I kept valuable jewels, unlocked it, and depositing the bag on the table, I opened it. Imagine my dismay at finding that, instead of my diamonds, it contained only some rusty bits of iron, and wooden debris. My bag was gone; this other bag was cleverly substituted for it, so cleverly, indeed, that even the weight, as well as the appearance, had been judged.

"I put the affair into the hands of the police, giving them exactly every particular as I have written it. The bag was lost.

II.

A year after the events narrated in the last chapter I was again traveling on the line which takes passengers to Holyhead. It was in the beginning of October, as well as I remember.

I traveled first-class, my usual custom when I have a long journey before me. During the year not a sign had been given of my missing bag or the jewels, but I had not really despaired yet of recovering it and them, for I had a certain unaccountable feeling about the whole thing; that there was some mystery about it I felt sure.

Regularly every Wednesday in every week I had called at Scotland Yard, and always had the same answer: "Nothing yet, sir." The reward I had offered was sufficient to insure a certain interest, and the police, I firmly believe, were as keen in the matter as I could wish.

On this October morning in 1860, I traveled with a lady who was in deep mourning. The day was chilly, and she wore several wraps; but, getting warm in the carriage, she presently threw aside a fur cloak she was wearing, and my eye was instantly attracted by a handsome brooch she had on, in which was a portrait.

Without appearing to do so, and with a sudden feeling of interest and curiosity for which I can not account, I managed to get a nearer view of the portrait. It was the face of the young man who had traveled with me the year before when I lost my bag. I was so certain of this that I resolved not to continue my journey until I had acquainted the police with this fact.

The train stopped at Crewe, the place where I remembered the young man left the train on our up-journey the previous year. Here the lady alighted—I did also. A carriage awaited her at the station—I secured a fly, and directing the driver to follow the carriage, I discovered where the lady drove to. Her own house, evidently. She appeared to be in excellent position, and to be wealthy.

I was not deterred by this discovery, for I felt I could not be mistaken about a face, which, though I had certainly noticed it only in a casual way at the time, had nevertheless been stamped upon my mind, and connected in such a manner with the loss to me of several thousand pounds.

I went to the police station, told them what I had seen, and what my suspicions were. They listened attentively to what I said, and told me that I must be mistaken; that the lady in question was well known, the widow of an officer who had died just after coming into a large property in the country. She had had two sons. One had been in the navy, and had lost his life in the wreck of the Royal Charter about a year previously. The other was expected home every day, and had been away almost ever since the end of last October.

It was impossible, they said, to make inquiries in such a direction. Ill-satisfied and disappointed, I found myself compelled to leave matters as they were; but on my return to London I wrote to the head of police once more, and I reiterated my convictions so forcibly that he evidently was impressed by what I said. The result of my letter came, after a brief acknowledgment from the inspector, in the visit of a gentleman four days afterward.

III.

I was standing in my shop; it was a dull morning in November, and the visitor who came in spoke first to my assistant, who referred him to me, and then in a moment I recognized my fellow-passenger. Not wishing to make everything quite public, I led the way to the inner room I reserved to myself, and handed the gentleman a chair. He was too excited to sit down, but began his story at once.

"You remember the day I traveled with you from Holyhead, sir," said he.

"Perfectly," I replied, I have too good reason to remember it."

"So have I. I had been on the Anglesea coast all the night before, searching for some relic, perhaps the body of my drowned brother. I had only twenty-four hours, and was obliged to hurry back, with only a few bits of wood and iron gathered from the wreckage which strewed the beach; these I put into a small black bag."

"A black bag!" said I; "had you a black bag."

"Listen," said the gentleman. "I saw that you had one, and I remarked that it was like mine—so much so that at Chester, where you got out and I did not, you may remember you took my bag with you instead of your own. I felt sure you were coming back, for you had left your coat and umbrella in the carriage, so I did not follow you."

"Yes," said I, getting excited, "but that does not account—"

"Wait a moment," said the gentleman. "I know perfectly well what you would say; 'it does not account for my not advertising your bag, or making some sort of a sign all this time'—quite so; you will understand presently how it happened."

I sat down and begged him to do the same.

"When I got out at Crewe, I took, as I supposed, my bag. When I reached home I found that my poor mother, whom I had left in the most utter grief and prostration at my brother's death, had not rallied at all. I told our doctor, who was there, that my search for any personal relic of my brother had been fruitless, but that I had a few bits of iron and wood from the wreck."

"The doctor advised me to say nothing to her about it; not to tell her even that I had these sad relics. I put the bag just as it was into a cupboard in my own room and locked it up. That very day I had to leave England. I had a business engagement which took me to Australia. If I had broken the engagement it would have involved my mother in considerable pecuniary loss. She knew I had to go, and as she did not urge me to stay, and as my sister and her husband were with her, and could take care of her, I left the house that very day, and journeyed back north to Liverpool, just in time to catch my steamer, bound for Melbourne.

"I only returned yesterday morning. The first thing I heard after greeting my mother was, 'Where is the bag you brought with you from Moelfra?'

"'In my room,' I said.

"'Get it for me,' said she.

"Without another word, though I wondered how she had heard of it, I went to my room, unlocked the cupboard, found the bag just as I had left it, and took it down stairs.

"I was just going to open it, when, to my still further surprise, my mother said, 'Are you quite sure that this is your bag, Arthur?'

"I looked at her in astonishment. 'Well, mother,' I said, 'I am as sure as a human being can be of anything.'

"'Did you open it after you came home, dear?' I thought for a moment, and then said, 'No I am certain I did not. I could not bear it.'

"'Then,' said my mother, 'be prepared for a surprise. I think that you will find that you have some one else's bag.'

"I did not answer, for I was trying to unlock the bag. 'It is very odd,' I said, 'my key won't open it.'

"My mother rang the bell, and in walked the inspector." Here my visitor ceased speaking, and walking hastily to the shop door, he beckoned to some person seated in a hansom cab close by. It was my friend, the Inspector of Police at Crewe. He continued the story. But first he placed on the table my "black bag." "There, sir," said he, "is your bag—you were quite right—this gentleman took it by mistake. That morning when Mrs. Banks sent for me I found the bag unopened. I forced the lock and found your name inside the bag. The contents are intact, as you will see."

I opened my safe, and before I would allow them to open my bag, I took his from the shelf, and placing it beside my own, we all three saw that in size, make, indeed in weight, they exactly resembled each other.

Although I felt that I had really made the discovery myself, I cheerfully paid the inspector the check he deserved for the clever and prompt manner in which he must have conveyed my suspicion—a decidedly awkward one—to Mrs. Banks.—English Magazine.

Brigandage in Sicily.

A man who recently made a business trip through the interior of Sicily has written an account of his experiences, which go to prove that this small and thickly-settled island is much more dangerous to travelers that the most lawless districts in our Western Territories. During a part of the trip made in a stage an armed escort of twelve men was in attendance, and even with this guard the liability to robbery was not removed. At one of the railroad stations a wealthy man came to take the train, surrounded by a body-guard of forty mounted men, and at the end of his journey another guard of fifty was at the station to meet him. This man was not loaded down with ready money but was simply going to look at a sulphur mine that he owned. The Italian Government tries to put down brigandage, but the work is hard, from the fact that centuries of misrule have had the effect of making nearly all of the country people look upon robbery as a perfectly legitimate occupation; hence the military and police authorities have not the least moral support from the community. The brigands are not professional thieves, but farmers, miners and the like turn their hands to pillage whenever an opportunity presents itself.—London Times.

—It has been our practice for years to dig pits in some out-of-the-way place of our garden, wherein we could bury broken crockery, worn-out shoes, rusty tin cans, pans, etc., and we have yet to learn of a better plan of disposing of unburnable rubbish.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Friendliness.

What a world this would be if everybody were the enemy of every other body! It would be a realized hell. Again, what a world this would be if every one were the friend of every one! It would be heaven upon earth. Who is he that relishes the thought of having personal enemies? Such a one must be viler than a stoic. It is natural for us to want friends. How may we get them? Solomon says: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." In what manner should we show ourselves friendly in order to get many friends?

1. By not being too precise about formal rules of personal etiquette. There is such a thing as being too precise to be comfortable either for one's self or for others. The spirit of friendliness is sometimes killed by precision; for some people will not speak to others because they have not been honored with a polite introduction. Hence they resolve to be strangers forever for this reason. Now a personal and formal introduction has its proprieties and usages; but he who is determined to stand on the technicalities of a formal introduction in every case will not make much advancement in the act of cultivating a friendly disposition. Should a pastor pursue such a course his influence and usefulness would be greatly crippled.

2. Another way of getting many friends is by manifesting courteous conduct towards all classes of persons. Some persons are very friendly toward some classes of persons—the rich, the fashionable and the cultured. They are very friendly toward Assemblyman A. and Senator B. They lavish their smiles upon the aristocratic and render hearty salutations to the glittering "butterflies of society." But they will not condescend to say "Good morning" to the village blacksmith, or a hod-carrier, or a humble tiller of the soil. Now, it is almost needless to say that such ones would never win their way to the great popular heart of the race. He who would get friends and maintain his grip upon the friendship of the masses must show courteous conduct to all classes, whether rich or poor, educated or uneducated, high or low. He can retain self respect and the dignity of his position and rank and yet be truly friendly toward all classes. He is none the less a man for being friendly to all.

3. True friendship is shown by regularity of conduct toward all classes. Some people are very friendly toward a certain person one day and quite the reverse the next day. They act as though they had never seen that person before. When they meet certain ones in private they are quite sociable; but upon seeing them in public they are as mute as a mummy, though having an opportunity to converse with them. Such people do not show themselves to be very friendly in the true sense of the term; nor will they gather around them a host of friends. They are decidedly too irregular in the manifestations of their friendliness.

4. True friendliness is also shown by something besides words. I would not undervalue the worth of a kind word; for a friendly word, spoken at the right time, in the right place, has frequently accomplished much—much more than the person who uttered it conceived. A kind word has won many a person from the path of vice to the way of virtue. It has cheered hundreds of disconsolate hearts that felt they were forsaken by the merry multitude. But, after all, he who would show himself friendly in the truest fashion and most effective manner must get beyond mere words into the power and passion of living deeds. He must not hesitate to put the hand of ready help to the assistance of those who suffer the need of it. When a person is groaning under the burden of crushing distress a pound of lifting is more than a ton of talk. "A friend in need is a friend in deed." There was a man who in trying to cross a stream with his team and wagon got stuck in the mud. He was a stranger to that place and a distance from any house. Soon a man came along who said he was sorry to see him in such a fix and then went on. Another came along and asked the unfortunate man how old he was and what were the ages of his horses and different members of his family. After satisfying his curiosity and expressing a regret that the man had met with such bad luck, he passed on. Presently a third man came along and taking in the situation at a glance he put his shoulder to the wheel and lifted with all his might, as the horses pulled hard, and soon the difficulty was overcome. That was friendliness which bore its fruit in season, and was sweet to the taste.—R. C. H. Wetherbee, in Baptist Weekly.

—Whatever else may survive in the future, Dr. Seimens is certain that the steam-engine is doomed. Its fate is first to be confined to the driving of large dynamo machines, which will distribute force at present supplied by a myriad of small and wasteful steam-engines, and then to be superseded altogether by the gas-engine. Gas and electricity may be mutually hostile, but they are to unite their forces in order to extirpate the steam-engine.

LADIES, send 25c. to Strawbridge & Clothier, 8th and Market sts., Philadelphia, and receive their Fashion Quarterly for six months. New music and 1,000 engravings in each number.

—Soiled white fur can be nicely cleaned by rubbing it thoroughly in white flour. It should then be hung out of doors for about thirty minutes. Repeat the process several times, and it will be equal to new.

BAD temper often proceeds from those painful disorders to which women are subject. In female complaints Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is a certain cure. By all druggists.

—A little glue dissolved in skim-milk and water will restore the stiffness and luster to crape, and make it look like new.

YOUNG or middle aged men suffering from nervous debility, loss of memory, premature old age, as the result of bad habits, should send three stamps for Part VII of Dime Series pamphlets. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—Scientific men in Japan are discussing the possibility of utilizing the internal heat of the earth.

—Even when the course of true love does run smooth, so weak and contrary is human nature that the jealous swain is apt to plague his mind with imaginary perils, as the following correspondence will show. His belief—"If you shud desurt me dearest mary I beleeve i wood do like joner throw miself overbored and be swallored by a whaile." Her suggestion—"That would be very foolish. Remember that Jonah only stayed down a short time. Alligators have stronger stomachs than whales. Try an alligator."—Brooklyn Eagle.

IF you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated have sallow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth internal heat or chills alternated with hot flushes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from "torpid liver," or "biliousness." In many cases of "liver complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal, as it effects perfect and radical cures. At all drug stores.

—A Chicago man kicked his wife and two children into the street, knocked down his five-year-old daughter with a blow in the face, locked them all out of doors, and then went to bed. The best of the husbands will occasionally exhibit a little temper.—Indiana State Sentinel.

Our School Books.

[Danville Register, September 21st.]

The Board of Education has adopted McGuffey's Readers, as will be seen from their notice in to-day's paper. After experimenting with two other series they come back to McGuffey's with the conviction that in all essentials of a reader they have never been surpassed and never will be. In this they are sustained by the action of Richmond, Petersburg, Lynchburg, and the largest cities in the United States. Albemarle and Rockbridge counties, Charlottesville, Lexington and Staunton, the great centres of higher education in Virginia have adopted McGuffey. Along the Midland and Western Railroads, county after county has come back to McGuffey with a unanimity that would be incomprehensible did we not know the book.

From Danville to Alexandria, from Bristol to Norfolk, every county, but four or five, has acted, and every one changed the series in use for McGuffey. And this action is based in every instance on the recommendation of the leading professional teachers of each county without consultation with those of any other. Indeed, we find McGuffey on the lists of New York and Brooklon in the East; exclusively used by San Francisco in the West; leading all others in Missouri and Wisconsin on the North, and exclusively used in Louisiana in the South, and St. Louis and Cincinnati in the centre. Thus they are truly National in character, and unparalleled in success.

Every Virginian feels a pride in the success of McGuffey's readers. During life his distinguished schollarship assisted to render illustrious our University where he labored, and to-day, in every State of our National Union, the name of the great Virginia teacher is lisped by a million children, before they hear of our Washinton, our Jefferson, our heroes or our statesmen.

—An ardent disciple of the late Mr. Trask, of anti-tobacco fame, has arisen in the person of "Meta Lander," who wages vigorous war against the "monstrous evil" through the columns of Eastern papers.—Indianapolis Journal.

WHEN exhausted by mental labor take Kidney-Wort to maintain healthy action of all organs.

—The News, of Augusta, Ga., says that Georgia mosquitoes prefer smoke to sunshine, and instead of trying to force their way through wire screens they descended by way of the chimney.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

—A Vermont Justice of the Peace fined everybody in the room two dollars each because a dog fight interrupted proceedings.

ONE pair of boots or shoes saved every year by using Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners.

—The birthplace of Whittier, near Haverhill, Mass., is now the property of Mr. George Elliott, of Boston, who has rescued it from decay and is reserving it for future generations as a memorial of the great Quaker poet.

Kidney Diseases.

Pain, Irritation, Retention, Incontinence, Deposits, Gravel, etc., cured by "Buchupaiba." $1. Send for pamphlet to E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J.

"Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" We don't know who should, but we know that the undertaker generally does.

FOR dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility, in their various forms; also as a preventative against fever and ague and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, February 20, 1881.

To Mr. J. W. Graham, Druggist:

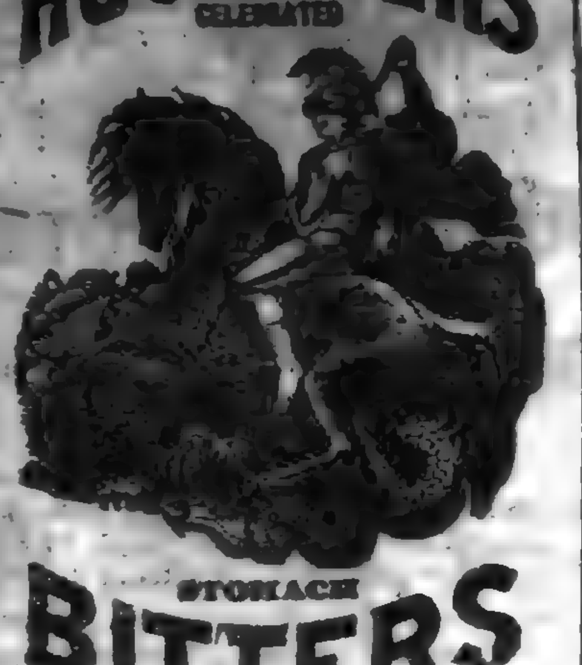
Dear Sir—My case was an acute form of Bronchitis, and was of one and a half year's duration. I employed the best medical aid possible, but failed rapidly, until the doctors said I would die—that my case was incurable. Thrown upon my own resources I got a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and in six hours felt a decided relief. In three days the cough almost disappeared. Now that my chances of life are good for many years, I earnestly recommend the above to every sufferer of throat or lung disease. C. G. LATHROP.

FIVE-TON WAGON SCALES $60

All Iron and Steel, Double Brass Tare Beam. Jones he pays the freight. All sizes equally low. For free book, address

JONES OF BINGHAMTON, Binghamton, N. Y.

AGENTS wanted for the best selling book in the United States. Write, and LOOK at the inducements offer. Salary and commissions to the right men. J. M. CHAMBERS & CO., Atlanta, Ga.



HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

The true antidote to the effects of miasma is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating the stomach.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

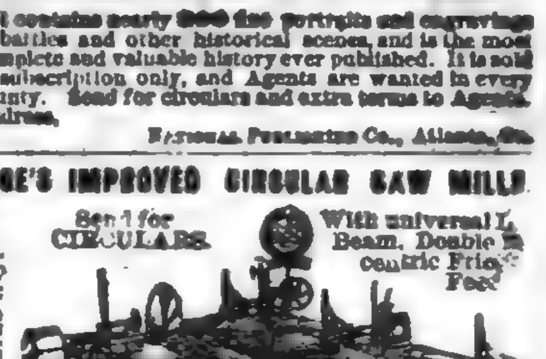
MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-3 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, free. THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE HISTORY OF THE U. S. BY ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

It contains nearly 800 fine portraits and engravings of battles and other historical scenes, and is the most complete and valuable history ever published. It is sold by subscription only, and Agents are wanted in every county. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address,

NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.



HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS

Send for CIRCULARS.

With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.

Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.

Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

SIX CTS WHY WASTE MONEY? Young man or old. If you want a luxuriant moustache, flowing whiskers, or a heavy growth of hair on bald heads, or to THICKEN, STRENGTHEN and INVIGORATE the HAIR anywhere don't be humbugged. Try the great Spanish discovery which has NEVER YET FAILED. Send ONLY SIX CENTS to Dr. J. GONZALEZ, Box 2042, Boston, Mass. Beware of all imitations.

OPIUM HABIT CURE. By B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. Reliable evidence given and reference to cured patients and physicians. Send for my book on The Habit and its Cure. Free.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT; a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by G. J. LUHN, Charleston, S. C. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

ASTHMA CURED. German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00 of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. DR. R. SCHIFFMANN, St. Paul, Minn.

SAWMILLS The Best is Cheapest. For Descriptive Circular & Prices write THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, Ohio.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS. BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

OPIUM HABIT AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D., 71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

FAIRBANKS SCALES

The World's Sta

For Weighing Seed Cotton at

Will more than pay for itself Season. Don't be humbugged cheap and worthless Wagon Scales are offered at any Price; they no use and you will be better a Scale.

Write to us for Prices and Books giving Testimonials. until you have heard from us, our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS

700 Lb. SOUTHERN COTTON BEA

Frame, Hooks and all other Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE Fairbanks' Standa

SCALES OF EVERY DESCRIP

SEND FOR PRICE LISTS.

FAIRBANKS & CO. NEW ORLEANS.

A CATALOGU JUST ISSUED CONTAINING 400 ILLUSTRATI AND PRICES OF DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JE AND SILVERWARE

Will be sent to any address upon app

J. P. STEVENS & C JEWELERS, ATLANTA, - - GEORGIA.

McBRIDE & CO.'S CHINA AND GLASS PALA ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filter and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. lished on application.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. Enterprise Carriage Co. Territory Given.

Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

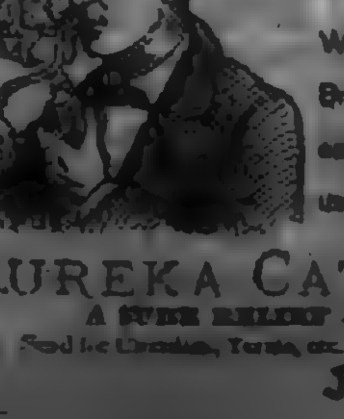
DR. STRONG'S PI THE OLD WELL TRIED WONDERFUL HEALTH REMEDIES. Sold by leading druggists. For circulars with full particulars, address

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in my twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. [illegible] IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, [illegible] Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and [illegible] able remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, [illegible] as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUEL. ST. LOUIS, [illegible]

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., ST. LOUIS.



FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, Neuralgia, Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use

EUREKA CATARRH CURE, A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.

Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to

J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atlanta

Probate Judge

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION!" TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. I. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1882. NO. 51.

A KING IN DISGUISE.

My brain is dull, my hands are tired,
I have no heart for work or play;
Just let the hours go as they will,
I can do naught at all to-day.

Life's battle does not need my aid;
I'll lay aside my sword and shield;
To-morrow, perhaps, with better heart
I may be glad to take the field.

What is To-day? A few short hours
In which men toil, or think, or weep.
I'll let them idly drift away,
And sleep and dream, and dream and sleep.

"What folly!" cried my better self.
"Lift up thy drowsy heart and eyes.
What is To-day? He is a king.
A mighty monarch in disguise.

"His hands are full of splendid gifts—
Honor and wisdom, wealth and fame.
Haste thee!" perchance this very hour—
This only hour—he calls thy name."

Then anxiously, with eager haste,
I went and stood in Duty's place;
And just at noontide's weary hour
Fortune and I met face to face.

She said: "I've waited here for thee,
And half I feared thou would delay.
Now what the Past has still denied
Is thine with tenfold grace To-day."

What is an hour? Oft fortune, fame,
Of weary years the goal and prize;
What is To-day? Go serve it well,
Perchance a monarch in disguise.
—Lillie E. Barr, in Harper's Weekly.

RIVER-DRIFT MAN.

In a paper read before the British Association for the Advancement of Science at its recent annual meeting in Southampton, Prof. W. B. Dawkins said: "The geographical change in Northern Europe at the close of the forest-bed age was very great. The forest of the North Sea sunk beneath the waves, and Britain was depressed to a depth of no less than 2,300 feet in the Welsh Mountains, and was reduced to an archipelago of islands, composed of what are now the higher lands. The area of the English Channel also was depressed, and the "silver streak" was wider than it is now, as is proved by the raised beach at Brighton, at Bracklesham, and elsewhere, which marks the sea line of the largest island of the archipelago, the southern island, as it may be termed, the northern shores of which extended along a line passing from Bristol to London. The northern shore of the continent at this time extended eastward from Abbeville north of the Erzgebirge, through Saxony and Poland, into the middle of Russia, Scandinavia being an island from which the glaciers descended into the sea. This geographical change was accompanied by a corresponding change in climate. Glaciers descended from the higher mountains to the sea level, and icebergs, melting as they passed southward, deposited their burdens of clay, sand and erratics, which occupy such a wide area in the portions then submerged of Britain and the continent. This depression was followed by a re-elevation, by which the British Isles, a part of the continent and all the large tract of country within the one hundred fathom line again became the feeding grounds of the late pleistocene mammalia.

An appeal to the animals associated with the river drift implements will not help us to fix the exact relation of man to these changes, because they were in Britain before, as well as after the submergence, and were living throughout in those parts of Europe which were not submerged. It can only be done in areas where the submergence is clearly defined. At Salisbury, for instance, the river-drift hunter may have lived either before, during, or after the southern counties became an island. When, however, he hunted the woolly and leptorhine rhinoceros, the mammoth, and the horse, in the neighborhood of Brighton, he looked down upon a broad expanse of sea in the spring, flecked with small icebergs such as those which dropped their burdens in Bracklesham Bay. At Abbeville, too, he hunted the mammoth, reindeer and horse to the mouth of the Somme on the shore of the glacial sea. The evidence is equally clear that the river-drift hunter followed the chase in Britain after it had emerged from beneath the waters of the glacial sea. The river-drift man is proved by the implements he left behind, to have wandered over the whole of France, and to have hunted the same animals in the valley of the Loire and the Garonne as in the valley of the Thames. In the Iberian peninsula he was a contemporary of the African elephant, the mammoth, and the straight-tusked elephant, and he occupied the neighborhoods both of Madrid and Lisbon. He also ranged over Italy, having traces of his presence in the Abruzzo, and in Greece he was a contemporary of the extinct pigmy hippopotamus (Hippopotamus Pentlandi.) South of the Mediterranean his implements have been met with in Oran and near Kolea, in Algeria, and in Egypt in several localities. At Luxor they have been discovered by General Pitt-Rivers in the breccia, out of which are hewn the tombs of the Kings. In Palestine they have been obtained by the Abbe Richard between Mount Tabor and the Sea of Tiberias, and by Mr. Stopes between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. Throughout this wide area the implements, for the most part of flint or of quartzite, are of the same rude types, and there is no difference to be noted between the hatches found in the caves of Creswell, in Derbyshire, and those of Thebes, or between those of the valley of the Somme and those of Palestine. Nor is our survey yet ended. The researches of Foote, King, Medlicott, Hacket and Ball establish the fact that the river-drift hunter ranged over the Indian peninsula from Madras as far north as the valley of the Nerbudda, [illegible] him forming part of a fauna in which there are species now living in India, such as the Indian rhinoceros and the arnee and extinct types of oxen and elephants. There were two extinct hippopotami in the river, and living gavials, turtles and tortoises. It is plain, therefore, that at this time the fauna of India stood in the same relation to the present fauna, as the European fauna of the late pleistocene does to that now living in Europe.

We are led from the region of tropical India to the banks of the Delaware, in New Jersey, by the recent discoveries of Dr. C. C. Abbott in the neighborhood of Trenton. The implements are of the same time as those of the river gravels of Europe, and occur under the same conditions as those of France and Britain. They are found in a plateau of river gravel forming a terrace overlooking the river, and composed of materials washed down from the old terminal moraine which strikes across the State of New Jersey to the westward. The large block of stone and the general character point out that during the time of its accumulation there were ice-rafts floating down the Delaware in the spring, as the Thames, the Seine, and the Somme. The physical evidence is clear that it belongs to the same age as deposits with similar remains in Britain. The animal remains also point to the same conclusion. A tusk of a mastodon is in Dr. Cooke's collection at Brunswick, N. J., obtained from the gravel, and Dr. Abbott records the tooth of a reindeer and the bones of a bison from Trenton. Here, too, living and extinct species are found side by side. Thus in our survey of the group of animals surrounding man when he first appeared in Europe, India and North America, we see that in all three regions, so widely removed from each other, the animal life was in the same stage of evolution, and "the old order" was yielding "place unto the new." The river-drift man is proved by his surroundings to belong to the pleistocene age in all three.

It remains now for us to sum up the results of this inquiry, in which we have been lead very far afield. The identity of the implements of the river-drift hunter proves that he was in the same rude state of civilization, if it can be called civilization, in the old and new worlds when the hands of the geological clock pointed to the same hour. It is not a little strange that his mode of life should have been the same in the forests to the north and south of the Mediterranean, in Palestine, in the tropical forests of India, and on the western shores of the Atlantic. The hunter of the reindeer in the valley of the Delaware was to all intents and purposes the same sort of savage as the hunter of the reindeer on the banks of the Wiley or of the Solent. It does not, however, follow that the identity of implements implies that the same race of men were spread over this vast tract. It points rather to a primeval condition of savagery from which mankind has emerged in the long ages which separate it from our own time. It may further be inferred from his widespread range, that the river-drift man (assuming that mankind sprung from one center) must have inhabited the earth for a long time, and that his dispersal took place before the glacial submergence and the lowering of the temperature in northern Europe, Asia and America. It is not reasonable to suppose that the Straits of Behring would have offered a free passage either to the river-drift man from Asia to America or to American animals from America to Europe, or vice versa, while there was a vast barrier of ice or of sea, or of both in the high northern latitudes. I therefore feel inclined to view the river-drift man as having invaded Europe in pre-glacial time along with the other living species which then appeared. The evidence, as I have already pointed out, is conclusive that he was also glacial and post-glacial. In all probability the birthplace of man was in a warm, if not a tropical, region of Asia, in "a garden of Eden," and from this the river-drift man found his way into those regions where his implements occur. In India he was a member of a tropical fauna, and his distribution in Europe and along the shores of the Mediterranean proved him to have belonged either to the temperate or the southern fauna in those regions.

A Remarkable Career.

A remarkable career was that of the Hon. John Tod, who died recently at Victoria, B. C., aged ninety-one years. In 1807 he entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Company, and within a few years had visited almost every portion of the vast territory from Hudson's Bay to the Columbia River. He visited Montreal in 1812, and Astoria, Ore., in 1818. Afterward in the Peace River country he spent nine years without hearing his mother tongue or seeing the face of a white person. Forty years ago he was in charge of old Fort Kamloops, and one day, when almost alone, was surprised by a large party of Indians, who invaded the fort for the purpose of plunder, and, perhaps, murder. Quickly knocking out the head of one of several barrels of powder, he deliberately lighted a match and threatened to blow up the fort and every one in it if the Indians did not instantly leave the neighborhood, which it is needless to say they did. He was a member of the first Executive Council of Vancouver's Island, and held that position several years, but retired to private life about fifteen years ago. He retained full possession of all his faculties to the day of his death.—Chicago Tribune.

—Since the first oil-well began to flow, $1,500,000,000 have been added to the wealth of this country by the product of petroleum.

Balky Horses.

We have received a note from a subscriber in Michigan, in which he says that he owns a most stubbornly balky horse, and that he has inflicted every variety of punishment within the pale of human limits, but as the vice is not yet remedied, he appeals in despair for advice. The treatment of the animal and the tone of the letter sent us, plainly shows that our correspondent has lost all patience, and that in consequence, what he does to the horse is done under extreme excitement, which is the very worst condition in which a man can approach and attempt to handle a balky horse. That balking is one of the most exasperating things with which men have to deal, is freely admitted, but excitement not only does no good, but it does very much harm. It is impossible to say why some horses balk, and knowing no other cause, it is fair to presume that it is the result of pure natural cussedness, and if that presumption is correct, the horse when refusing to go is something like a stubborn child or even a stubborn man. the more you scold and the more you chastise, the greater is the stubbornness developed. We have seen horses refuse to budge an inch though a fire had been kindled under them, and we remember one horse that would lie down when he balked, and submit like a martyr to being gouged with a pitchfork. There can scarcely be any species of punishment which we have not seen inflicted upon balky horses, and there are few instances in which it has done any good, because the man was excited, and the horse was excited, and the harder the man struck and the louder he swore, the more distinctly the animal said: "I won't." There may be no grounds for the suspicion, and it is, perhaps, attributing to the horse too much of the reasoning faculty, to think that when he balks he deliberately sets about irritating the driver, and that if he finds he cannot irritate him, he will quietly give up the undertaking, but really it often appears to be so. We have noticed that if the driver is deliberate in his actions, and moves about as if nothing in all the world could suit him better for the time being, than to have the animal balk, and then in a quiet sort of a way, as if he were amusing himself, inflict punishment, the horse appears to be nonplussed, and to conclude that he is playing a game in which the fun is all on the other side. We were greatly amused at the recital of the manner an owner treated a balky horse by tying up one of its fore legs, and then sitting down where the horse could see him and quietly reading a paper. We have not the slightest doubt that such a course would result most satisfactorily. It does not require much stretch of imagination to picture that horse as utterly disappointed and utterly disgusted. Standing upon three legs, while his owner was comfortably seated in the shade, the outcome of that little enterprise was so entirely different from what the horse had expected, that any amount of disgust was pardonable.

We had some years ago a horse that had this irritating vice, but we had little difficulty in breaking him of it. When he would balk we would approach his head calmly, pretend to arrange some portion of the harness, stroke his face kindly, and then clasping his nose, twist it in such a manner as to inflict severe pain, pulling him forward at the same time, but being careful to give him the impression that the whole thing was a matter of course, and that it would have been a dreadful disappointment if it had not happened. A few times of this sort of treatment was quite sufficient to effect a cure. In the management of horses the animal must be taught to respect the man, and no horse will respect any man that shows no more sense than the animal itself shows when it becomes angry and stubborn. If the horse knows that any neglect of duty on his part will insure punishment, but that it will not be given in the spirit of revenge, but in the spirit of dignified love, he will be careful not to merit it. The animal feels toward its master, under such circumstances, something as men feel toward the law. They respect the law and know that it will not harm them so long as they are obedient to its commands, but they know if they violate it, they must feel its penalties, not savagely inflicted, but inflicted without anger and with dignity.

Thus far we have been speaking of horses in which the habit of balking is confirmed. If the animal balks for the first time while in your possession, a careful examination of the harness should be made, in order to see if drawing is not painful to the animal. We once witnessed a numbskull beat a horse unmercifully for balking at the foot of a hill, when the whole trouble was that the collar was too small, and it was utterly impossible for the animal to draw the load and breathe. It is sincerely to be hoped that not many such idiots as this man will ever have the handling of horses, but the case serves as an exaggerated illustration of many things that may be the causes of such trouble. There are stubborn and desperately wicked horses, but as a rule this animal is a faithful and intelligent servant of man, and will perform his duties if his driver will perform his. If the horse refuses to do what is required of him, his usually noble, willing nature merits a close scrutiny of all attending circumstances before he is wholly condemned for apparent neglect or stubbornness.—[illegible]

—The young man who wants to look [illegible] will have to get something different from the other. A red and white blanket, buttoned under the chin, would attract attention.—Detroit Free Press.

About Plums.

A plum tree is usually a delusion and a snare to the unfortunate owner. It gives promise of fruitfulness in bud and blossom and may set abundance of fruit. But while the owner sleeps the enemy descends upon his cherished tree and marks it for its own. Its mark and sign manual is a little half-moon, a crescent, which it stamps upon every little plum. Then the plums fade and drop from the tree, and although a few may hang on, yet before they reach maturity the sap oozes from their wounds and they perish. And not a plum remains to fulfill all the promises of its blossom. This is why a plum tree is a delusion. The enemy is a most insignificant creature; a small, puny, sneaking beetle that, when disturbed, falls to the ground and lies curled up and motionless, so that it escapes detection. It has a disagreeable name, too, which seems to mean mischief as soon as we try to read it. Conotrachelus nenuphar may mean everything mean, sly, treacherous, and destructive, and this is precisely what this weevil is. And it is a wee-evil, too, for one can never see it upon his, or its, plums, it is so small, nor upon the ground, where it falls and "plays possum." Near a hundred of them could be placed in a square inch, and a hundred will easily destroy the fruit of a whole orchard. It is a little, brown, long-snouted beetle, belonging to a bad family, in which are found the grain weevil, the chestnut weevil, the plum gouger (another pest, which goes into the center of the fruit), the cranberry weevil, the grape curculio, the rice weevil, the potato-stalk borer, and a number of wood destroying pests. Fortunately, like some evil persons, its own smartness is its own destruction, for its deceptive, sly trick of falling to the ground when disturbed, and lying "perdu" (lost—which this word means—is an excellent term to apply) helps us to capture it by spreading a sheet under the tree and jarring the latter, when the insects fall and are easily seen and gathered.

A better way, however, is to set the fowls to do this for us. If one must go out to his plum trees three times a day for three months, spread the sheet under each tree, jar it, carefully put the beetles in a pail of water with some kerosene upon it, and so go from tree to tree, he had better retire to a desert where the curculio and he could starve together quickly, and not linger three months. In this case each plum might cost him a dollar, if his time be worth as much as that of an Italian rag-picker. But the fowls will do the work very cheaply. Only put a fence around the plum trees or plant them in the chicken-yard, and the curculio will have no chance. Last year I enlarged my chicken-yard and inclosed in it a young plum tree, but five years planted. It was one of a dozen trees, all of the same age and all well grown. The tree in the yard has borne this year half a bushel of fine plums; some limbs bent to the ground with the weight. Not a plum has been gathered from the other eleven, although they were set full of fruit. Now I have inclosed the whole of the trees in a fence of wire netting and made a poultry-yard of it. Next year I expect plums.

I ought to say that one plum tree is too much for this pest, or was last year, when it bore a bushel of fruit. It is the wild goose plum, and an extraordinary tree. It was set out five years ago; it is now eighteen inches round the stem, has a spread of twenty-four feet in diameter, and is sixteen feet high. It bore a few plums the second year after planting. It is a wild seedling, no doubt, for it is in every respect of bark and leaf like a wild plum from the woods. The fruit is round and red, with some small yellow dots, one and a half inches in diameter, has greenish-yellow flesh, of good flavor when ripe, and is equal to the green gage for preserving. I don't know of a plum beside this that will resist the curculio, and this it does, not because the insect will not sting it, but that from some cause—probably its unsatisfactory flavor and the texture of the flesh—it disagrees with the young maggot.—N. Y. Times.

Manure Under Cover.

Of course all the advantage of making manure in covered yards may be secured by box feeding, with less outlay for roofing, since more space must be allowed for a given number of animals turned loose together than when confined in stalls. It is the protection from rain and sun, the abundant use of litter and its thorough incorporation with the excrements, and the exclusion of air by compact treading, which go to make the superior manure. All these features of the method work against the loss of valuable plant food. Nor does box feeding and constant accumulation of manure under the feet of the animals necessarily imply offensive stalls.

One method or the other, box feeding or covered yards, should be adopted by every farmer who lives where manure is worth saving, and who finds himself compelled to supplement his stable manure with commercial fertilizers. Stable manure must not be lost sight of, in this increasing interest in these concentrated fertilizers, for we can not produce our crops, and have enough for ourselves and others, without its aid; and there is nothing in all the list of commercial mixtures which gives so good an average return for the money invested in it as well-made stable manure.—Lancaster Farmer.

—We carry all our neighbors' crimes in the light and throw our own over our shoulders.

About Bed-Room Carpets.

I need hardly insist on the fact that the old-fashioned plan of covering every part of the bed-room with carpet stuff, so as to make the carpet hug the wall, is as bad a plan as can possibly be followed. In these days everybody is beginning to recognize this truth, and the change which has taken place within the last ten years, in the matter of carpets for bed-rooms, is quite remarkable. In some instances, I notice that an extreme change, which is neither wanted nor warranted has been instituted; that is to say, instead of the carpet that at one time covered all the surface of the floor with the greatest nicety of adaptation, there is no carpet at all. This extreme change is not at all desirable. It is good to have carpets in every part of the room where the feet must regularly be placed. It is bad to have carpets in any part of the room where the feet are not regularly placed. These two rules govern the whole position, and the most inexperienced housewife can easily remember them. By these rules there should be carpets all around the bed, carpet opposite the wardrobe or chests of drawers, carpet opposite the washing-stand, and carpet opposite the dressing-table, but none under the beds, and none for a space of two or three feet around the room—that is to say, two or three feet from the walls of the room. The carpets that are laid down should be loose from each other, each one should be complete in itself, so that it can be taken up to be shaken with the least trouble, and each one should be arranged to lie close to the floor, so that dust may not easily get underneath.

Carpet stuff for bed-rooms should be made of fine material closely woven, and not fluffy on the surface. There was a form of Brussels carpet called "tapestry," which some years ago was very largely used. It was as warm as the thickest blanket, and it was almost like wire in fiber; in fact, it was tough enough to last half a life-time, and it was the best carpeting for bed-rooms I ever remember

The advantages of small carpets in the bed-room are many. They cause the footsteps to be noiseless, or comparatively noiseless, they prevent the feet from becoming cold while dressing and undressing, they make the room look pleasant, and when used in the limited manner above suggested, they save trouble in cleansing, by preventing dust and dirt being trodden into the floor.—Dr. Richardson, in Good Words.

Repulsed by Factory Girls.

At Kirby & Brothers' canning factory, Burlington, N. J., there is employed a young girl named Sallie Cook, who resides with her guardian, David Hughs, in that city. She had previously made her home with Mrs. Gill, who keeps a saloon in Philadelphia, until ordered to go behind the bar and wait upon customers, when she left the house one morning and fled to her lawful protector. A few days ago a strange man appeared at the canning factory making inquiries for Miss Cook. The other employes in the factory took it into their heads that the unwelcome visitor was an emissary of Mrs. Gill, who had come to carry the girl off, and they determined upon a repulse. Forming themselves into a solid phalanx, the factory hands began the assault by bombarding the intruder with decayed tomatoes and such other ammunition as was at convenient disposal. It took but a few minutes to convince the visitor that the "Skinners," as they are termed in Burlington, were in earnest, and would probably knock him out before they finished their fusillade. When he retreated out of the factory yard loud and triumphant shouts rent the air, and a motley collection of old tin cans, worn-out shoes, and various odds and ends were hurled at the retreating stranger, who, as soon as he gained the street, ran down the railroad track in the direction of Beverly.—Philadelphia Record.

What Are Clouds?

Though the clouds are such familiar objects, very little is known about them, and the processes by which they are formed and give back their moisture to the earth are unsolved mysteries.

They can not be classified as belonging to the solid, fluid, or gaseous form of matter. Yet they are defined as being "a collection of watery particles in the state of vapor, suspended in the air." If they are ordinary vapor, they must be governed by the laws which affect vapors. Brande defines vapor thus: "When liquids and certain solids are heated, they become converted into elastic fluids or vapors, which differ from gases in this respect, that they are not under common circumstances permanently elastic, but resume the liquid or solid form when cooled down to ordinary temperature." According to this definition, clouds can not be composed of ordinary vapor, for under all conditions their temperature must be below the condensing point of water-vapor.

At the elevation at which clouds are often seen, they are in the regions of perpetual congelation; and as they float above the highest mountains they must be exposed, even in the sunshine, and certainly in the night, when the solar heat is not poured upon them, to temperatures colder than those of the frigid zones.—C. Morfit, in Popular Science Monthly.

—A young fellow asked another at a ball if his girl was there. "Yes," said he. "Do you see that girl dressed in pink?" "What, that splendid woman with such magnificent eyes? You don't say. How lucky you are!" "Just so. Of course I am. Well, my girl is the one next to her."

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—An Ohio dairyman, who claims to have weighed the skimmed milk fed to swine, and the gain in flesh thereof, says 100 pounds of skimmed milk will produce three pounds of pork.

—Molasses Custard: One cup of molasses, one cup of sugar, two and one-half cups of flour, one cup of sour milk, and one teaspoonful of soda. Bake in shallow tins.—The Household.

—The man who takes advantage of air, soil and fertilizers, and studies how to manufacture grain and roots, meat and fruits out of these raw materials, is the one to succeed.—San Francisco Chronicle.

—Probably the youngest farmers in the country are two children living near Shreveport, La., who had eight acres in cotton and ten in corn, and had good crops. The children are brother and sister, aged respectively thirteen and ten years, and have done most of their own work.—Chicago Times.

—Mosquitoes may be kept away, it is said, by using oil made as follows: "Oil of tar one ounce, olive oil one ounce, oil of pennyroyal, spirit of camphor, glycerine, of each one-half ounce, carbolic acid two drachms. Mix and shake well before using. Rub the face and hands while fishing."—N. Y. Tribune.

—An item for the household says: "If the water in which new cabbage is boiled is changed once or twice it is less apt to be indigestible." Perhaps it is; and persons who are in the habit of drinking water in which new cabbage is boiled should heed the suggestion; but as long as water is so cheap we shall continue to take ours raw.—Norristown Herald.

—To Clean Marble: Mix one quarter of a pound of soft soap with the same of pounded whiting, one ounce of soda and a piece of stone blue the size of a walnut. Boil these together for fifteen minutes, and then, while hot, rub it over the marble with a piece of flannel, and leave it on for twenty-four hours; then wash it off with clean water, and polish the marble with a piece of coarse flannel or a piece of an old felt hat.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

—Poultry-breeders do not seem to appreciate the great value of bones for their fowls, and but a limited few ever make use of them for this purpose. No matter whether the birds are confined or not, they are sure to be benefited by a moderate quantity of bones, though those which are kept in close confinement need them most. Nearly every family of any size have refuse bones enough from the kitchen to afford the poultry quite a treat from time to time.—Exchange.

—Chicken Pie: Wash and cut the chicken into pieces as above. Boil about a half hour. Take up, then wash out the kettle. Fry two or three slices of salt pork and put them in the bottom of the kettle; then put in the chicken, about three pints of water and a piece of butter the size of an egg. Sprinkle in a little pepper and cover over the top with a rich biscuit crust. Cook about three-fourths of an hour, or till the crust is done. Cut several holes in the center of the crust.—Country Gentleman.

Fashionable Wrinkles.

Two new wrinkles are charged upon the fashionable women of New York City by a correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. The first is fiddling. "It is not rare now to meet a finely-dressed girl with a boy carrying one of those black, coffin-shaped boxes which formerly were lugged by professional musicians only. She is on her way to or from her violin-lesson. Pretty soon she will stand up before the guests in her papa's parlor, tuck one end of a fiddle under her chin, and torture the company's ears while delighting their eyes. However horrible may be the noise produced she will look well during the process of making it." The second freak of fashion is represented to be to pray on genuine prayer-rugs from the East, such as a Mohammedan uses. "They are usually about three by four feet in size, and can be distinguished by the design, which always represents some large figure at one end, and pointed at the other. Places are indicated for the hands and knees. Devout women procure the real things from an importer, and, without facing Mecca, bumping their heads on the floor, or removing their shoes and stockings, like the sons of the Prophet, still actually do use them to kneel on while praying. They are said to be a great comfort."

—"No, sir," said the shopkeeper, "I don't think you will do. We want a man who understands the rules of orthography, and you have spelled 'situation' in seven different ways, at least, in your application." "Well, what o' that? Ain't that a mark of genius? Doesn't it show versatility? I want you to understand that I ain't one o' them fellers that has to spell a word the same way every time. No, sir! If that's the kind of a man yer want, you'll have to take somebody else. I ain't the feller to pin himself down in that way. Good mornin', so long." And the versatile speller walked out, with the jaunty air of a third-class actor.—N. Y. Mail.

—"Yes," said the gilded youth of his friend, "Jack has a [illegible] for proposing to girls. Why, I've known of his proposing to six girls in a week, [illegible] a farm." "Doesn't he run a terrible risk of being accepted by somebody he doesn't want?" "Not a bit. He hasn't got a dollar!"—Boston Post.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. E. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 2, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

Birmingham is soon to have a cotton factory. The necessary machinery is being purchased in the north.

Senator Harris, of Tennessee, and ex-Gov. Hendricks, of Indiana, at last accounts, were both dangerously ill.

Bishob Robert Paine, of the M. E. Church South, died at Aberdeen, Miss., on the 18th ult. The funeral sermon was preached by Bishop McTyeire.

Says a Mississippi planter: "You might as well attempt to explain to the average negro the length of the comet's tail, as to try to explain to him the necessity to work on Saturday."

Forty-seven hats were found lately at the home of a Paris hat stealer, who used to enter caves hatless and leave with the best hat he could find. He pleaded absence of mind, but went to jail for six months.

At Schwalbach, in Germany, some Englishmen got up lawn tennis. After a day or two the Mayor requested that the gentlemen would play with their coats on, as the ladies of the place were shocked at the want of decency shown by the foreigners.

The matriculations at our State University already number 160, and no term of this noble institution since 1860, has opened under more favorable auspices. We regret to know that our county has no representative on the roll this year.

The Nashville Banner, of Monday, says: "The excitement in regard to marriage anniversary associations in the city to-day was great. A great many country people were in town investigating the institutions in which they held policies and each claiming that his or her claim ought of right to be paid."

If there ever was a time when the south should be united and solid it should be so on this 7th of November, against Jay Hubbellism, radicalism and independentism which are synonyms and express and represent the most utter and reckless corruption ever known in the history of American politics.
Birmingham Age.

Numbers of German emigrants who landed in this country last spring and summer have already returned home to Germany much wiser than when they went away. They state, according to the London Times, that they found New York and other large cities swarming with their own class, and that all available labor was already monopolized. They should have come to Alabama.

While a newspaper has no right to assail a private citizen, it is the duty of the press to watch closely the conduct of those who hold or seek office. Newspapers are supposed to be the guardians of public interests, and as such they are compelled to enter into personal discussions that are far from pleasant. And in serving the people they make bitter enemies of sycophants and political humbugs.—Eufaula Times.

The Responsibility.

The responsibility of the voter is such as demands that he judiciously and thoughtfully exercise his prerogative on every occasion afforded, when he can consistently and conscientiously do so.

The right to vote is the most important trust confided in the individual citizen by the government, and each citizen should feel that upon the exercise of this right, may depend the safety and well being, the peace and prosperity of his country and his countrymen. More than this, the conscientious exercise of his elective privilege, is a duty which he owes to his family and to his neighbor, as well as to his country. Would that every citizen might thus look at the matter.

In a republic such as ours, each citizen is an independent ruler, and is given the prerogative of expressing his choice at the ballot box as to the proper servants to fill the various offices which are to be administered for his welfare and protection. It is no less the duty of each and every citizen to exercise such prerogatives with thoughtfulness, with caution and with circumspection. Good servants and good servants only should be chosen. The right man in the right place will be an honor to the section, and a living evidence of the superior intelligence and sound judgment of his constituents. Let us all be sure that we are right, then go ahead; and if the citizens of this district act upon this maxim, the election of Hon. Thomas Williams to represent us in the halls of Congress will be an assured fact; and if we would be well represented, let us work for him and vote for him.

The Next Congress.

The next House will certainly be democratic. So much has been decided by the Ohio election. The Senate will certainly be either squarely republican or anti-democratic. So much was decided by Virginia in 1881 and Oregon in 1882. The next congress will, therefore, consist of a democratic house, a republican senate and a stalwart president.

It seems idle for the Republicans to hope to recover from the Ohio disaster in the election of congressmen. The present house consists of 155 republicans, including 4 republican greenbackers and 2 republican-Mahone readjusters; 136 democrats, and 2 independents. The republican margin, counting all sorts of allies, is very narrow, even after admitting all republican contestants, and the whole majority is swept away by Ohio. There will be a few republican gains in the south but they won't reach half a score in all, while the great northern states and Texas must greatly increase the democratic membership. Illinois now has 6 democrats and 19 republicans, and there must be democratic gains, if any, in that state. Indiana has 8 republicans and 5 democrats, with the certainty of a Democratic gain of from 2 to 4. Michigan, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota and New Hampshire have solid republican delegations, so that no republican gains are possible there. New York has 20 republicans and 12 democrats, and 5 to 8 democratic gains may be confidently expected in that state. Pennsylvania has 19 republicans and 9 democrats; and of the 28 to be chosen in November not less than 14 will be democrats, with a chance for several more. New Jersey has 4 republicans to 3 democrats, and any gains must be democratic, and Massachusetts, Michigan Minnesota and Wisconsin, are each likely to give one or more democratic gains.

The political tide is now against the republicans, and that is fatal in all close contests. With the bulk of the congressmen to be chosen just on the heels of the Ohio revolution, there is little to give promise of republican gains and much to warrant the belief in general democratic gains. Judging from the present outlook, a democratic majority of not less than twenty is a reasonably safe estimate and one peculiar feature of the new house is the probable increase of democratic protectionists and the increase of republican free traders. The democrats of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio and Indiana and throughout the south are growing in devotion to protection, while the republican influences of New York and of the west are steadily drifting toward free trade. The south wants factories and the west wants cheap manufactured articles, and both sections are rapidly tending to their respective protection and free trade theories, regardless of old party lines. It is safe to say that the next congress will be democratic, and that it will be the strongest democratic tariff congress ever chosen by the people.
Philadelphia Times.

Why He Refused to Run.

There was a very important private consultation day before yesterday between Col. Percy Yerger and a delegation of influential friends, who want him to come out as a candidate for a local office. Col. Yerger hesitated about allowing his name to be used in connection with the office, but his friends were very urgent that he should run.

"The salary is only about a thousand dollars a year, I believe."

"That's about it," responded his friends.

"And if I run I'll have to charter several saloons."

"Just so," said his friends, looking wistful and smacking their lips.

"And if I want to be re-elected I'll have to keep on treating my friends, so that they may not become a prey to the rival candidate."

"That's it! How he catches on! Hurrah for Col. Yerger, the poor man's friend! Let's have a tonic!" were the exclamations of his enthusiastic friends.

"Gentlemen, I have listened to your arguments; I have become convinced there is something in them."

"Then you will be a candidate before the people."

"Not much, but I have determined to go into the saloon business on a cash basis."

Then they filed out into the street, as sick looking a crowd as ever was seen on Austin Avenue.
—Siftings.

To the Voters of Chilton Co.

The following circular has been issued by the county congressional executive committee and ordered published:

The election of Congressman for this district is upon us, and as the control of the Forty-eighth Congress of the United States depends upon the voters of the South, our duty is plain. Ohio has spoken, and our gains have been beyond the expectations of the most sanguine; but this will nerve the Republicans to a grand and desperate effort to capture Congressmen in the Southern States. And in order that the conservative element may control and shape our future legislation, we must be up and doing; if we sit passively by and do not go to the polls, either McDuffie or some one less worthy will be elected from this District.

We are now and have been for the last four years represented by the Hon. Thos. Williams, of Elmore county. He has made us a faithful, watchful, energetic member—one of whom we ought to be proud. We can re-elect him by a handsome majority, if we will only be true to ourselves and to our country. Go—go to the polls on the 7th of November, rain or shine, cold or hot, sick or well, and cast your vote for Tom Williams for Congress.

Do not make a mistake by thinking the enemy will not be at the polls to a man; they will be there. Forty-eight hours is enough for them to organize. Then don't fail to be there yourself.

By order of the Chairman of the Cong. Executive Committee.

Ternanville Ahead!

Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1

A Good Pair Pants $1.

A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

My stock of GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS,
HARDWARE,
FARMING IMPLEMENTS,
and SUPPLIES
is complete, and my motto is

Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,
o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

NOTICE NO. 1870.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Lula G. Martin, Homestead 7126 for the s e ¼ of the s e ¼, section 22, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John M. Runnels, Jasper Y. Friday and Luther R. Friday, of Maplesville, Ala., and Henry J. Cote, of Callierville, Ala.
o26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1871.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: John W. Runnels, Homestead 7127, for the e ½ of the n w ¼ sec 28, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, Luther R. Friday, Henry J. Cole, Jasper Y. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT,
o26 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1895.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 9, 1882, viz: Cyrus M. Culp, Homestead 7553 for the s w quarter of s e quarter, section 14, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: Stephen Baker, Peter S. Prim, James M. Bivings and Gus Gordon, all of Clanton, Ala. Thomas J. Scott, Register.
nov2

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, every [illegible]. Board due monthly, in advance.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

Ehrman Again

To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next

TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.

MEAT PER POUND 15c.

GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.

Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eighths) 6½c per yard; Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.

LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of

CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE

and a general assortment, which [illegible] in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES
FURNISHED TO FARMERS
AT COST.

R. Ehrman.
Clanton, Ala., August 21

Louisville & Nashville

Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON,
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

NOTICE NO. 1872.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Luther R. Friday, Homestead 7208 for the w ½ of the s w ¼ section 28, township twenty north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, John M. Runnels, and Jasper Y. Friday, of Plantersville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville.
o26tx THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Dr. J. P. Civhan,

(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my18-1y

---

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

J. F. MAULL. J. H. HOCKENSMITH.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,

Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HATS, Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinware, Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles and

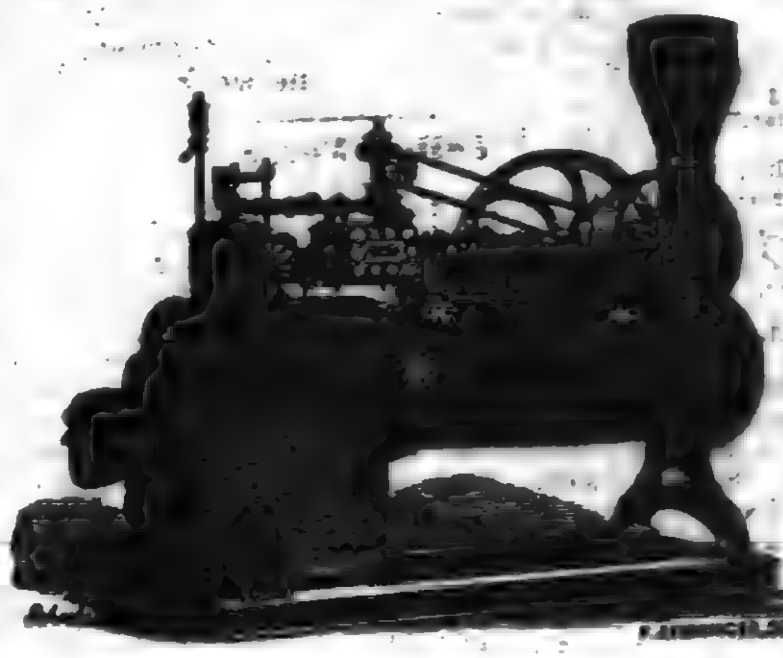
FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN. ☜

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patronage.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINES
OF ALL SIZES
FROM TWO TO TWO HUNDRED HORSE POWER,
—AND—
OF ALL KINDS

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHEELS.

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Best.

Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State. mar8-ly

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—DEALERS IN—

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods.

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.

An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volumes.

SOME REASONS WHY

THIS WORK

Is Superior to all Other

CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopædia.
It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopædia.
It embraces over 40,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.
Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork, and Binding first-class.
IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.
Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.
Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.
Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.
Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal terms to right parties. Send for circulars.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,
74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

Sold only by Subscription.

NOTICE NO. 1884.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: George E. Reid, Homestead 11896, for s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 30, township twenty, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Barnes, Sampson Friday, John Reynolds and Luther R. Friday, all of Callierville, Ala.
ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1883.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November twenty-five, 1882, viz: Sampson Friday, Homesteads 7562 and 11984, for the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of n e ¼ and se ¼ of sec 30, township twenty north, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: George E. Reid, William Barnes, John Reynolds, and William [illegible] of Callierville, Ala.
ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 20x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to
J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 5-tf Lomax, Ala.

H. L. Wheele

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

Will buy and sell lands for commission.

Office on First Avenue, [illegible] of Bank Building.

CHILTON VIEW.

NTON, ALA., NOV. 2, 1882.

OUNTY DIRECTORY.

ncellor Eastern Chancery Division—S. S. Graham.
ge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E.
citor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. nber of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams. ator Fifteenth Senatorial District—lliam P. Oden. resentative—J. S. Edwards.
bate Judge—H. J. Callen. uit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee. ster in Chancery — Dr. W. E. rt.
riff—James E. Lowe.
asurer—James M. Parish.
Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
. Education—James M. Corderie. missioners—K. Wells, J. J. Hon... R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

EDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.
ins pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

1 at	6:33 a. m.
3	7:15 p. m.
9	11:45 p. m.
11	3:35 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

2	*9:00 a. m.
4	*9:42 p. m.
8	8:15 p. m.
12	10:35 a. m.

on't stop.

EDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

North	Daily Mail		Going South
7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr	7:73 p. m.
10:36 "	Calera	Lve.	4:40 "
5:40 p m	Rome	"	10:10 a m
7:18 "	Dalton	"	8:05 "
8:45 "	Cleaveland	"	7:03 "
11:35 "	Knoxville	"	3:30 "
01 a m	Norristown	"	1:45 "
4:15 a m	Bristol	"	10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

ward	Daily Mail		Westward
11:00 a m	Selma	Lv.	4:30 p m
8:50 "	Demopolis	"	7:00 "
5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive	10 p m

on. — Regular communications on Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. irst Saturday in each month at 7 k p. m.

ular conventions Chilton Lodge K. of P. every second and fourth day nights in each month, at 7 k p. m.

odbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T. every Friday night at 7 o'clock,

OCAL DOTTINGS.

For Thirty Days.

ry one subscribing for this paper een now and the first of December, receive it until January 1st, 1884, e years' subscription price ($1.50). ear and two months for $1.50. We this offer in order to increase our lation, though old subscribers can advantage of it as well as new. ember the offer will be open for days only.

ite a crowd in attendance upon ircuit court.

tton in Montgomery 9¾ to 9⅞. In Clanton, 9½.

ou can get your cotton ginned packed at Clanton.

good rain on Monday, served ttle the dust effectually.

ext Tuesday is election day. 't fail to vote for Williams.

erbena's entertainment last for the benefit of the Pensafever sufferers, netted $16.

ext week we will give our readmore reading matter to the exon of Forepaugh's circus "ad."

wo applicants for church memhip were received into the M. hurch at this place last Sabisses Judkins and Cain, two tiful young ladies of Wetumphave been visiting relatives at bena.

number of cases have been disd of during the present court. list in full will be published week.

State Temperance Convention alled to meet in Montgomery he 21st inst. Clanton Lodge send several delegates.

he members of Mountain Creek tist Church have contributed towards the building of a new tist Church at Birmingham.

new and beautiful chandeleer been placed in the Clanton tist Church, and other imements are shortly to be added.

rom our Maplesville correspont, we learn that Col. Williams present at Mulberry Church to his appointment for the 25th ev. O. N. Dobbs preached in Baptist church at this place on Sunday morning. He will n preach at Clanton on the nd Sunday in November.

ev. V. P. Stewman, of the Cumand Presbyterian Church, from kford, preached in the Metho Church at this place, on Tuesnight, to a large congregation.

Mr. W. F. Claughton, of Verbena, has placed upon our table, a sample of an excellent homemade syrup from cane grown by himself. He made 96 gallons from 4,000 stalks.

A protracted meeting at Mountain Creek Baptist Church, which closed last week, we learn, was very successful in the number of accessions to the membership of the church.

A number of highly esteemed friends have called in to renew their subscriptions, and to give us pleasant chats. They have our thanks, and a standing invitation to call again.

There is some talk of telephonic connection between Birmingham and Montgomery. We hope it will prove no idle rumor, as Clanton would be greatly benefited by such an enterprise.

His Royal Highness, Capt. Billy Wilson, the boss of Bachelors' Hall, says give him chickens or give him death. Sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish, he must have chickens, so carry them to him and get a good price.

The Fifth Division, of the Supreme Court of Alabama, composed of the cases from the counties of Chilton, Chambers, Elmore, Lee, Macon, Russell and Tallapoosa, will begin on Monday, February 19th, and continue one week.

Yellow Fever.

The fever is subsiding. Fifteen new cases and four deaths were reported at Pensacola, October 31. No new cases were reported at Brownsville. Total number of cases to date at Pensacola 2,227, total number of deaths 174.

Clear Creek Dots.

Clear Creek is again on the rise. J. M. Norwood has sold his farm to Mr. Pair, of Georgia, who will put up another store.

Messrs. F. T. Lowery and J. K. Smith with their families have located here. The former is now engaged in merchandising.

A good deal of talk of the new railroad.

Messrs. Waldrop and Dawson each have lost a horse. Two many peas.

Mr. L. N. Waldrop, son-in-law of G. W. Houlditch, lost his little boy last week. Gone to heaven.

P. M.

Maplesville Dots.

Hon. Thomas Williams addressed our citizens at Mulberry Church on the 25th ult. He exposed the tricks of the Republicans in this district, and exhibited the record of the Democratic party on Greenbacks as enough to satisfy the most astute Greenbacker. He spoke at length upon the dangers of the centralizing power of the Federal government, and warned every liberty loving citizen to stand by his rights while he could.

Died, at the home of his father near Benson, on the 28th ult., Mr. G. W. Rasberry, of consumption, from which he had been suffering for a long time. He was a young man, highly respected, and leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn his death.

Prof. J. R. McArthur whose inability to build up a high school at this place is to be deeply regretted by our citizens, has removed to the rising and flourishing little village of Tankville, some distance below here.

BIJOU.

A Card.

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Oct. 30, 1882.

EDITOR CHILTON VIEW:—We, the undersigned citizens of Macon county, having been maligned in a circular industriously and secretly circulated in this district, purporting to be signed by citizens of Tallapoosa and Coosa counties of this district, charging us with wilfully violating the election laws in discriminating against one H. R. McCoy, hereby pronounce the said circular a wilful and malicious slander, its authors scoundrels, and and its supporters liars.

P. S. HOLT,
Judge of Probate,
W. P. THOMPSON,
Sheriff.
A. S. HARPER,
Clerk.

An Editor's Business.

An editor is a mule whose biznes it is to investigate a nuspaper. He writes editorials, grinds out poetry, inserts deaths and weddings, sorts manuscript, keeps a waste basket, blows up the "devil," steals matter, fites out other people's battles, sells his paper for a dollar and fifty centsa year, takes white beans and apple-sass for pay when he can get it, raises a large family, works nineteen hours out of twenty-four, nose no Sunday and gets damned by everybody, lives poor, dies middle-aged, and often broken-hearted, leaves no munny, is rewarded for a life of toil by a short free obituary puff in the newspapers.—Billings.

HO! For Birmingham!

To See the Wonderful Twenty-two

Trained Elephants and "Bolivar,"

THE LARGEST ELEPHANT IN THE WORLD.

ADAM FOREPAUGH EXHIBITS MORE ELEPHANTS

THAN ANY INDIVIDUAL IN THE CIVILIZED WORLD.

Coming, and Eighteenth Annual Tour, and will Exhibit Afternoon and Evening at BIRMINGHAM, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4.

GREATEST OF ALL,

The Great Forepaugh Show.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED WILD BEASTS, FOUR RAILWAY TRAINS

Colossal Two-Ring Circus

1,000 men and horses, Great Pageant

Illustrating the beautiful Eastern Romance of "LALLA ROOKH" Departing from Delphi. The Princes personated by

The Handsomest Woman in the World!

Who gets Ten Thousand Dollars for her Beauty and appearing in this Grand Parade, and the Greatly Grand Egyptian Pageant, as,
CLEOPATRA, QUEEN OF EGYPT,

THE GRAND PROCESSION OF INDUSTRY,

Free Street Pageant & Greatest

SHOW ON EARTH!

Extra Trains! Low Rates! To and from Birmingham to see the Great Forepaugh Show. Don't forget the DAY and DATE, it is never changed.
ADAM FOREPAUGH, Sole Proprietor.

Election Notice.

The qualified electors of Chilton county, Alabama, are hereby notified that an election will be held at the several election precincts, in said county on the first Tuesday in November in 1882, being the 7th day of said month, for the election of a member of the 48th congress of the United States, for the 5th congressional District of Alabama,

Witness my hand this 4th day of October, 1882.
J. E. LOWE,
Sheriff chilton county.

NOTICE NO. 1856.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 27, 1882, viz: Roda Kiener, Homestead 12198, for the s w ¼ of section 24, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Milton Fuller, Jesse B. Hardy, James L. Williams, and William F. Roebuck, all of Maplesville, Ala.

THOS. J. SCOTT,
Register.
ots

NOTICE [illegible]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on November, 31, 1882, viz: Lewis Gentry Homestead 3341 for the s e ¼ of the n w and n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 1, townsp 20 north range 16 east, and the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 6, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: James M. Standfield, William Gray, Simon H. Gleen, and Joseph Long.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,
Register.
ol2

NOTICE NO. [illegible]

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 27, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 9th 1882, viz: Elbert Walker, Homestead 12966 for the n ½ of n w ¼, s e ¼ of n w ¼, n e quarter of s w quarter, sec 18, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James M. Standfield, Allen Sims, and A. M. Edwards, of Mountain Creek, and [illegible] Crenshaw, of Wadsworth, Ala.

nov2 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

H. Houpt,

WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store

—OF—

W. M. WILSON,

—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock

—OF—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,

And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.

"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR

Cigars and Tobacco

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

—CALL ON—

I. FORST,

2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

The cheapest place in the city.

June 29-6m

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"

W. A. CHILD, Proprietor

—DEALER IN—

Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos,

FANCY STATIONARY

—AND—

NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS,

—AGENT FOR—

DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO

Also Estey and Palace Organs,

No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.

WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE.

Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.

Large Stock! Low Prices!

Alonzo S. Elliott,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.

ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.

Cooking and Heating Stoves,

Birmingham, Ala.

IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c,

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment.

Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,

—AND—

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.

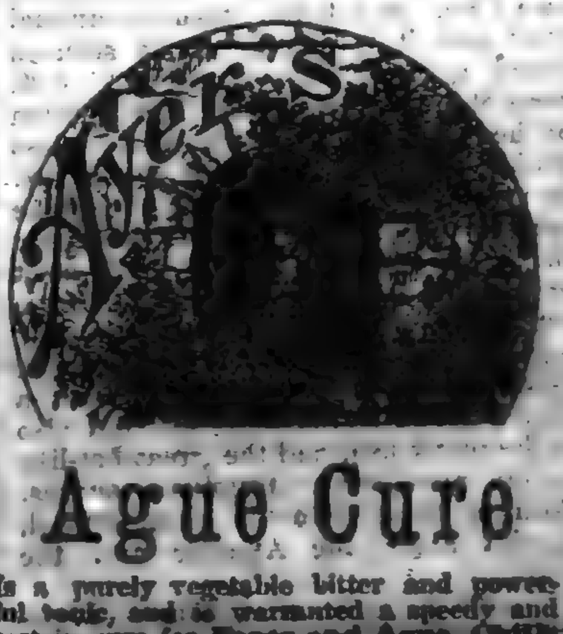
—ALSO—

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c

—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to,

June 20-6m



Ayer's

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual

FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest

FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 6-6m Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE OF

COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor,

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. jul8-1y

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD?

We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us, with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us where from, and if you want it rolled. Put your name on express card.

E. O. WALKER,
aug17-6m [illegible], Ala.

AN AUTOGRAPH.

I write my name as one
On sands by waves o'errun,
Or winter's frosted pane
Traces a record vain.

Oblivion's blankness claims
Wiser and better names,
And well my own may pass
As from the strand or glass.

Wash on, O waves of time!
Melt noons the frosty rime!
Welcome the shadow vast,
The silence that shall last.

When I and all who know
And love me vanish so,
What harm to them or me
Will the lost memory be?

If any words of mine,
Through right of life divine,
Remain, what matters it
Whose hand the message writ?

Why should the "crowner's quest"
Sit on my worst or best?
Why should the showman claim
The poor ghost of my name?

Yet, as when dies a sound
Its specter lingers round,
Haply my spent life will Leave some faint echo still.

A whisper giving breath
Of praise or blame to death,
Soothing or saddening such
As loved the living much.

Therefore with yearnings vain
And fond I still would fain
A kindly judgment seek,
A tender thought bespeak.

And, while my words are read,
Let this at least be said:
"Whate'er his life's defeatures,
He loved his fellow creatures.

"If, of the Law's stone table,
To hold he scarce was able
The first great precept fast,
He kept for man the last.

"Through mortal lapse and dullness
What lacks the Eternal Fullness,
If still our weakness can Love Him in loving man?

"Age brought him no despairing
Of the world's future faring;
In human nature still
He found more good than ill.

"To all who dumbly suffered,
His tongue and pen he offered;
His life was not his own,
Nor lived for self alone.

"He loved the scholar's quiet,
Yet, not untempted by it,
Or poet's dream of beauty,
He strove to do his duty.

"He meant no wrong to any,
He sought the good of many,
Yet knew both sin and folly—
May God forgive him wholly!"
—John G. Whittier, in Our Continent.

The "Good Old Times."

In opening the Limekiln Club Brother Gardner thus discoursed of the good old times:

"De odder night de ole man Saleratus Brown drapped ober to see me," began the old man, as Pickles Smith got through swallowing a ten-penny nail which he was holding in his mouth to cure the backache. "He sot down with a grunt, shoved out his feet wid a groan, and remarked dat times had so changed dat he didn't car' to lib anoder day. It made me narvous to h'ar him take on an' tell how modern folkses war dyin' off—modern houses no better dan coffins—modern food a pizen to de system—an' dat ninety-nine men out of ebery hundred war' liars, cheats an' thieves.

"Almos' ebery day I h'ar some of you takin' on 'bout de good ole times when nobody died an' de front doah of ebery house stood open. You doan' know what yer talkin' 'bout! In de good ole times de common house was 'bout as comfortable as de common hog pen. More people had to ride ten miles fur a doctor dan a less distance, an' when he arrove he didn't know bran from broomsticks. Any sort of a man who knew Moses from Aaron was good 'nuff fur a preacher, an' de man wid de loudest voice an' de loudest bellow was de bes' lawyer. Women war' freckled, an' men went bar'futed to church, an' de fadder who didn't bring up his sons wid a great deal of stern dignity an' blue-beech gad mixed togeder expected de boy to turn out a pirate.

"In the good ole times men stole an' cheated an' lied an' played hypocrite, jist de same as men do now, an' if de women didn't gad quite so often dey gossiped jist as much. De man who sighs fur de good ole times am frowin' away his breaf, an' dar am a dim suspishun in my mind dat he am lazy an' shiftless. De pusson who can't play his hand wid de world of to-day am either light in de head or wobbly in de knees. I furder desire to add dat de nex' time I h'ar a member of dis club wishin' for a return of de days when only one fam'ly on a road ten miles long had an umbrella to lend, an' not one family outer sixteen could lend a cupful o' sugar widout scrapin' de bottom of de box, I I shall proceed to read him a lecktur dat will slant his ears at an angle of fo'ty-seben degree."—Detroit Free Press.

A Grindstone Homily.

If there was anything that made us wish our boyhood's days were over, it was turning a grindstone on which a dull scythe was being sharpened. That was before the days of friction rollers and treadles—and how our arms and back did ache! We would wonder if the thing ever would be sharpened, and if we began in the morning it seemed as if we had turned long enough to have it be dinner time. Then we would try to distract attention from the ache, and think perhaps a hundred more turns would finish the job, and count one—two—three—and when the hundred were counted, felt really disappointed because another had to be commenced. There were moments of relief when the scythe was examined and its edge felt from point to heel. These moments were precious to us for they gave an opportunity to straighten up and take the kinks out of our back and arms, which were soon put in again by turning the crank. But there is an end to all things, and finally the scythe was pronounced sharp. Did the owner ever look at us and observe how tired and sweaty we appeared? Not a bit of it. We do not believe he imagined turning a grindstone could tire any one. The first thing would very likely be: "Now, Johnnie, run to the field and get those hay cocks shaken out as soon as possible." We made a vow that if ever we had a farm to manage, we would try to find some machine to turn the grindstone, or, at any rate, to lessen the labor, and, further, that we would try to remember how we felt then, and make it easier for the boys.—N. Y. Sun.

—A great many young ladies are taking lessons upon the violin. One of them recently remarked she wanted to learn just how to handle a beau.—Ex.

Neglected Lands in Use for Pasturage.

It is a common practice on many farms to improve the more inviting portions of the homestead, converting these into tillage fields and meadows, apparently condemning for use as pasture the remainder. This remainder, many times, presents a sorry sight. If the farm is upon land formerly covered with timber, the pasture ground is likely to be thinly set in dwarf blue grass, with patches here and there of white clover, mullein, and possibly a little sorrel. Rotting logs and stumps are scattered around. The stock, after having hunted in vain to obtain their fill, retreat to the shade, of which there is liable to be a superabundance, made up of worthless trees, which encumber the ground they stand upon. The animals grow but little, are always small and lean, and are never expected by the owner to be otherwise; and under this kind of management, drag out a life about on a par with the cattle of South America, having, individually, about as much merit.

A farm provided with grazing ground of the kind refered to should never be made the home of improved stock. If bought in good condition, and the transfer be made from good pasture to those of the kind described, they will inevitably shrink. It is not surer that water will find its own level than that well-bred and meritorious stock will, in a few years, upon such pasturage, get down towards the level of the scrub, for upon soil that grows only poor grass and weeds, the best of stock will become stunted and less valuable. Nor will liberal feeding during winter compensate for the half year of such summer treatment as that referred to, for the reason that the best part of the year in which to secure growth and condition is frittered away.

All neglected, cast-away lands, whether in timbered districts or otherwise—and the kind mentioned is equally common to prairie farms—should be reclaimed, by being thoroughly broken up, planted to a suitable crop, and afterward seeded down; if for pasture alone, not to one kind of grass, but to two or three. It is not often enough remembered that it should be a leading object, in growing any grain crop, to pave the way for grass. It is folly to expect good pasture without some preliminary preparation of soil for it. At any rate, as a rule, no good yield can be had until the land is tilled in such a manner as will insure good growth.

Pastures should not consist of one kind of grass only, because (1) stock prefer a variety, going from one to the other, thus keeping their appetites whetted; (2) because the grasses having different periods at which they mature, one kind having passed its best stage another comes to its best and takes its place, and (3) because grasses vary in the degree of standing wet and drought, hence if one sort is injured, by vicissitudes of the weather, another may be to an equal degree benefited. It should be more the practice to stimulate pastures with special manures. This is as necessary a thing to do as to feed a particular animal freely because it is falling off in flesh. Among the best stimulants to tardy-growing grass is nitrate of soda; and this may be used freely on pastures without great outlay, and with prompt and beneficial results.—National Live Stock Journal.

A Shark's Peculiarities.

A singular thing about the shark tribe, and about skates and rays also, is the number of the gill openings. A sunfish, salmon, catfish, flounder, or any ordinary fish, has one gill opening, guarded by an ingeniously contrived bony door, or gill cover, inside which may be seen the gills, usually five rows. But all sharks have a gill opening to each row of gills and are entirely unprovided with a gill cover. The position of the mouth is another external peculiarity that will strike any one who looks even casually at a shark, be it only a dogfish eighteen inches long. No mouth can be seen from above. It is not at the end, with a gap reaching along the side of the head, as in a cod or a pike. It is below; turn the animal over and it is plainly to be seen—a broad, more or less curved slit, with rows of cruel teeth inside. This position of the mouth is due to the more or less projecting nose or snout of the shark. In the hammerhead the front edge of the hammer hides the mouth; some other sharks have a pointed snout, while most of the skates have quite a large triangle running out ahead of their masticatory organs. Only the peculiarly ugly shark—something between a shark and a skate, known as the angel fish and also as the monk fish, and the great bat-like eagle rays—have terminal mouths. Both of these, like the hammerhead, inhabit alike the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Sharks have no true bones. Backbone, skull, jaws and fin-rays are all cartilaginous—the boniest things about them are their teeth; but the hardest things, harder than bone, for they are enamel, are the small tubercles that stud the skin. In most sharks these are very small, simply causing the surface to feel delicately rough, but in some of the skates spines of considerable size are scattered among the fine shagreen. The hammerhead is decidedly not the most graceful of his tribe. The white shark and the smaller blue shark may lay claim to grace of form, but the hammerhead cannot; yet he is interesting from his very strangeness—one out of many singular forms that inhabit the vast ocean and are little known even by sight, save to the fishermen whose arduous toil leads them to their haunts. Utterly without fear, blindly ravenous slaughterers, without sense enough to be scared, are all the shark tribe. They will snap right and left as long as they live, and danger from them, if they are large, is not over when they are safely landed on the deck of a vessel. Axe and club are needed to keep them quiet, or they might do mischief ere they died, for they die hard.—Philadelphia Times.

—"I suppose when women get their rights," said the young man in the flat hat, "you girls will be making love to the fellows. It must be awfully nice to be made love to, you know." "Yes," replied Angelina, "only one wants to choose one's lovers." The next moment the young man in the flat hat was standing alone, feeling flatter than his flat hat.

Spoopendyke as a Sailor.

While I sat talking with the fisherman, who, [illegible] had become extremely voluble, my attention was attracted to a terrible splashing under a tree a short distance down stream.

"Pull it toward ye! Don't ye hear? Pull ye dod gasted imitation of a [illegible]! Par is gondoling! Pull toward [illegible] tell ye!"

And a small skiff with a leg of mutton sail swung out from under the tree and bumped along the bank. Seated amidship was a middle-aged gentleman with a plug hat set on the back of his glistening head, pulling hard on the main sheet, while a lady in the stern [illegible] had braced her foot against the combing, and was doing her best to pull the tiller out of the rudder head.

"Don't ye know which is toward ye? Want to wreck this ship on an inhospitable coast, and be eaten up by a lot of heathen, half full of gin? Toward ye! Pull it toward ye, before this measly ark is dashed to a million splinters!"

By this time the boat was hard aground, a fact that neither the lady nor the gentleman appeared to be aware of.

"I can't pull it any harder, Mr. Spoopendyke!" moaned the lady. "It seems to be stuck here somehow and won't come."

"Luff her, then! Luff her, I tell ye!" roared Mr. Spoopendyke, half buried in the flapping sail, and struggling to retain his hat. "Luff her, I tell ye!"

"That's all very nice," muttered Mrs. Spoopendyke, flopping down on a seat, "but I'm a heap more apt to bale her! Say, dear, ain't we doing pretty well now?"

Mr. Spoopendyke fought his way into fresh air, and glared around him.

"Want to sink us," he yelled, slamming the little boom from side to side in the hope of catching some wind in the sail. "Want to run us down in six thousand fathoms of water? Hard down, I tell ye! Put her hard down!"

"I guess she's about as hard as she'll go," fluttered Mrs. Spookendyke, looking over the stern and seeing that it was high and dry. "It's the other end that isn't hard down, dear, and I guess you'll have to turn it around sideways."

"That's what we want to do!" fairly shrieked Mr. Spoopendyke, clasping his arm around the mast and banging his head against it in a fury of desperation. "It took you to get the idea! Holy frog! if I only had time to fit you out with a President's flag, and an appropriation, what a navy you'd make!" and Mr. Spoopendyke again dashed his head against the mast. "You hit it!" he yelled. "That's the scheme! All you want now is a foreign flag and a political custom-house to be the whole American merchant marine!" and Mr. Spoopendyke dashed aft, seized the tiller and jerked away at it with one hand, while with the other he hauled away at the main sheet in a vain hope that he might get some headway from some direction.

"What are you trying to do, dear?" timidly asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, dodging the flying boom.

"Do!" yawped Mr. Spoopendyke, growing madder and madder. "I'm trying to reconcile this tail to the idea that a traveling idiot asylum in white skirts and a red shawl isn't dangerous! What d'ye s'pose I'm trying to do? Think I'm hauling my arms out of the sockets to amuse the children? Think I'm flopping this dod-gasted sail around to keep it from getting sunburned? Well, I ain't," he howled, seeing that the tide was drifting his boat around and setting him in shore broadside on. "And I ain't wiggling this business to keep the moths out! I'm sailing, I am! Here's where you get your canned seamanship! Hear me?" and Mr. Spoopendyke rammed around in the boat, now kicking the tiller and then the broom. "See how proudly we cut the dod-gasted waves!" and just then the rudder came out of the stern post and hung in his hands. "Notice how we dance across the measly billows!" and Mr. Spoopendyke plunged head foremost into the canvas like a sail needle, and helplessly sank into the bottom of the boat.

"How nicely we are going!" cooed Mrs. Spoopendyke, who could afford to flatter, seeing that she was safe in the mud. "Upon my word, it is quite like a ferryboat!"

"More desiccated marine information!" squealed Mr. Spoopendyke, angling for himself around in the bottom of the boat, and wondering who had nailed a church across his back. "That's your notion of sailing! I s'pose you've got some kind of a dog-house idea that this packet goes by steam! Well, it don't, I tell ye!" and his voice arose as he found that it was a thwart and not a church. "It goes by wind, when the measly wind knows enough to blow. Hear that? Ferryboat! Oh, ferryboat!" At this point his voice sank into the bitterest sarcasm. "You've got it down fine! You see through this business! All you want is a foghorn and a State Central Committee indorsement to be a Secretary of the Navy! If I had your intelligence on maritime affairs, I'd buy a cocked hat, apply for a pension and advertise myself as an admiral in search of a respectable job, and offer the best city references! How are we going to get ashore?"

"We are ashore, dear," replied Mrs. Spoopendyke.

Mr. Spoopendyke ducked under the sail, which had all along prevented him from seeing the situation, and discovered for the first time that his boat was well up on the land.

"Dod-gast the measly shore!" he yelled. "Why didn't you tell me there had been a land slide? Why didn't you let me know that the channel had shifted? Why——!"

"But we've been here all the time!" remonstrated Mrs. Spoopendyke.

Mr. Spoopendyke looked at her helplessly for a moment. Then he stepped ashore, and hauled his wife after him. The next instant he sent the boat into the stream with a vigorous kick, and jamming his hands into his pockets led the way to the railroad bridge, without a word.

"I don't care," panted Mrs. Spoopendyke, struggling along after him, "we had a pleasant sail, and the only time the thing didn't go sideways was when it was stuck in the mud."

"That's the worst of them skiffs!" muttered the fisherman, who had watched the sailing exploit with profound interest. "They ain't got any keel nor center-board, and a man may sit all day high and dry on a lee shore and think he's making ninety knot an hour until the wind changes, jibes his sail and shows him to himself half way up a tree!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Marriage Insurance Policies.

The speculation in marriage insurance policies is raging in the South as "graveyard insurance" did in Pennsylvania. A young man who had bought $12,000 worth of policies on a young lady was very anxious to know if she would marry in the time appointed. If she married within the time—five months—he would get his money, if not he would fail. The conditions are that the young lady must be engaged, but the policy is not payable until five months after it is taken out. It is not really a marriage policy. The insurance company bets that the young couple will be [illegible] five [illegible] the engagement will be "off;" those taking out the policy bet on five [illegible] In other words, the [illegible] the probability of [illegible]

[illegible] would be [illegible] to take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" if you are [illegible] suffering from impure blood, or fearing consumption (scrofulous disease of the lungs.) Sold by all druggists.

—"I am sorry that you did not bring your poem sooner," said an Arkansaw editor to a troublesome contributor. "Why, am I too late for this issue?" "No, not particularly. "Then why are you sorry?" "Because, if you had brought your poem sooner, I would have had an earlier opportunity of rejecting it."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. By druggists.

—The men of Tarshish could not have made much out of the voyage in which Jonah accompanied them, for they were obliged to throw the prophet overboard.

Functional derangement of the female system is quickly cured by the use of Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." It removes pain and restores health and strength. By all druggists.

—A mortgage on a house is like a worm-hole in an apple. Before you know it, there is more worm-hole than fruit.—N. Y. Independent.

[illegible]

Buchanan, Ga., July 5, [illegible]

H. H. Warner & Co.: Sirs—I have been taking your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure for Bright's Disease, and find it the best I ever saw or heard of. David Bowling.

—In home government unite firmness with gentleness, and let your children always understand that you mean what you say.

Ladies, send 25c. to Strawbridge & Clothier, 8th and Market sts., Philadelphia, and receive their Fashion Quarterly for six months. New music and 1,000 engravings in each number.

—Class in Geography.—Teacher: "Name the great bays." Small boy: "Bay of Fundy, Bay of Biscay, Arabi Bey—" Teacher. "Oh! Pa-shaw."—N. Y. Post.

Sediment or mucous in the urine is a sure indication of disease. Take Kidney-Wort.

—The Rue Garibaldi of Paris is the new name of the heretofore Rue Bonaparte.

Straighten your old boots and shoes with Lyon's Heel stiffeners, and wear them again.

—Don't take a dose of medicine without first looking at the label and making sure you are not getting a poison or an overdose.

"Rough on Rats."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bedbugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

—The following drink for relieving sickness of the stomach is said to be very palatable and agreeable: Beat up one egg very well, say for twenty minutes; then add fresh milk one pint, water one pint, sugar to make it palatable; boil, and let it cool; drink when cold. If it becomes curds and whey, it is useless.—Exchange.

Chapped hands, face, pimples and rough skin cured by using Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time the report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

Baker's Pain Panacea cures pain in Man or Beast. For use externally or internally.

Pure cod-liver oil, from selected livers, on the sea shore by Caswell, Hazard & Co. N. Y. Absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians declare it superior to all other oils.

Best Truss ever used.—Send for circular. N. Y. Elastic Truss Co., removed 744 Broadway, N. Y.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS. BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., [illegible] [illegible]

OPIUM HABIT CURE. By H. H. Kane, [illegible] [illegible] and references to cured patients and physicians. [illegible] The Habit and its Cure. Free.

OPIUM HABIT AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no loss of system. Truth [illegible] investigation. Reference [illegible] in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
7½ Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH
BITTERS

[illegible] Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating [illegible]

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

AGENTS wanted for the best selling book in the United States. Write, and at the terms we offer. Salary and commission to the right men. J. H. CHAMBERS & CO., Atlanta, Ga.

LOOK

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filterer and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

Strong's Sanative Pills for the LIVER.

A speedy cure for liver complaint, regulating the bowels, purifying the blood, cleansing from malarial taint. A perfect cure for sick headache, constipation and dyspepsia. Sold by all leading Druggists. For circulars and almanacs with full particulars, address, P. O. Box 650, New York City.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment: a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by G. J. LUHN, Charleston, S. C. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been awarded at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3½ octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.

THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. Y.; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS

Send for CIRCULARS.

With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.

Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.

Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

FIVE-TON WAGON SCALES $60

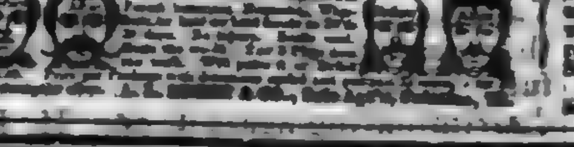
All Iron and Steel, Double Brass Tare Beam. Jones he pays the freight. All sizes equally low. For free book, address

JONES OF BINGHAMTON, Binghamton, N. Y.

KOCH'S discovery of the parasitic nature of CONSUMPTION was promptly followed by the DISCOVERY of a remedy based on Koch's theory, a rational means of CURE, which has already proved itself so very successful that a FREE TRIAL is offered to all afflicted with symptoms of lung disease. Address, Box 7[illegible], N. Y. City.

$65 A MONTH & board in your county. Men or Ladies. Pleasant business. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & CO., Box 73, Phila., Pa.

ANY WILL WIND THEM ANY WATCH AND NOT WEAR OUT. SOLD by Watchmakers. By mail, 25 cts. Circulars FREE. J. S. BIRCH & CO., 38 Dey St., N. Y.



DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR [illegible] A. L. SMITH & CO., Sole Agents, [illegible]

Dr. HARTER'S

GENTLEMEN: I have used Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and invaluable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is a necessity in my practice. Dr. ROBERT [illegible]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 2[illegible]th, 188[illegible].

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO. 213 N. MAIN ST. [illegible]

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, [illegible] Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, [illegible]

EUREKA CATARRH CURE, A SURE RELIEF AND A [illegible] CURE [illegible]

J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atlanta

FAIRBANKS' STANDARD SCALES. The World's [illegible]

For Weighing Seed Cotton [illegible]

Will more than pay for [illegible] Season. Don't be humbugged [illegible] cheap and worthless Wagon [illegible] are offered at any Price; [illegible] no use and you will be better [illegible] Scale.

Write to us for Prices and [illegible] Books giving Testimonials [illegible] until you have heard from [illegible] our authorized agent.

FAIRBANKS'

700 Lb. [illegible]
SOUTHERN
COTTON BEAM
Frame, Hooks and all other [illegible] Attachments.

BUY ONLY THE GENUINE Fairbanks' Standard

SCALES OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

SEND FOR FREE [illegible]

FAIRBANKS & CO.
NEW ORLEANS

A CATALOGUE JUST ISSUED CONTAINING 400 ILLUSTRATIONS AND PRICES OF DIAMONDS, WATCHES, [illegible] AND SILVERWARE Will be sent to any address upon application.

J. P. STEVENS & [illegible]
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - [illegible]

AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices [illegible] per cent. National Publishing Co., Atlanta, [illegible]

ENGINES [illegible] write THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO. [illegible]

TRUTH IS MIGHTY. [illegible]

Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW RICH BLOOD

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. [illegible] will take one pill each night [illegible] restored to sound health, if such [illegible] Sold everywhere or sent by mail [illegible] I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, [illegible] formerly Bangor, Me.

Probate Judge

The Chilton View.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

W. E. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor.

VOL I. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1882. NO. 52.

A FLOWER IDYL.

was a maiden nobly born,
name was Lily, beauteous she,
of beaux came her to woo,
other band with bended knee.

William was her choice, and when sued, she said, as her eyes grew dim,
't refuchsia, William, dear," [illegible] accepted him.

ue love's course ne'er did run smooth, her o'd man forbid the bans.
ain rascal," said the sire,
William went to fern lan ls.

after many daisy wrote:
I'll love thee, darling, till I rot, ep my mem'ry evergreen, darling! Sweet! forget-me-not!"

Leander," thus the father cries, weet William's gone, and you're my choice."
Leander rose to seek the maid,
d thus he lifted up his voice:

Lily-of-the-valley, sweet,
e gold and land, and wealth untold;"
-o-um! what a look she gave,
d said: "I will not marigold."

t, sweet maid you maple-leaf my word, eet William's dead, passed in his chips.
buttercup; O, say thou'rt mine!
l the honey-suckle from those lips."

he blue Lucifer," she said;
He dead! Just hear that dandelion;
now he comes on yon swift steed—elcome, thrice welcome, sweetheart mine."

ips and hearts were fondly pressed, er sire stood by, and saw the fun, ded and gave them his consent,
d a Jack-in-the-pulpit made them one.

S.—As they emerged from the portals of paternal mansion a lady's slipper was own after them, as usual.—The Judge.

OSTRICH PLUMES AND TIPS.

The fortunate lady whose new Fall dazzles the eye with its rich mass nodding ostrich plumes probably has e or no idea of the laborious process which her much prized plumes are veloped from the stiff feathered quills ucked from the long-legged bird of e desert. Could those votaries of hion whose taste and money have sed the trade in ostrich feathers to crease, in the New York market se, during the last five or six years, m about $500,000 to nearly $5,000,-0 per annum, see the raw feathers as ey are brought to the factories, they ould certainly be surprised and perhaps disgusted. In their natural state e feathers of an ostrich look very uch like good sized quills pulled from e wing of a goose or a hen, and some f them have a grayish or dirty white olor which is anything but agreeable. requires patient and skillful work to ive ostrich plumes and ostrich tips the uch admired fluffiness and richness of color that they display the milliner's show cases. This ork is growing into an important industry in New York. It already ives employment to more than 5,000 en, women and girls, and the business spreading with wonderful rapidity. everal importers and manufacturers f ostrich feathers are clustered within he territory lying just west of Broadway between Houston and Canal streets. ne of these, the largest importer of strich feathers in this country, informed a Times reporter that he expected his importation of ostrich feathers for 1882 alone would amount to bout $2,000,000. "There has been a onderful increase in the demand or this class of goods during the ast few years," he remarked. "The ladies are wearing more feathers on their bonnets and hats than formerly. Two or three years ago a single ostrich feather was thought to e sufficient for one hat, but now fashion demands at least a double plume, and in some cases as many as six or seven feathers for each hat. This extraordinary demand has not only had the effect of increasing the price of ostrich feathers, but it has induced the ostrich farmers of South Africa to pluck their birds prematurely, thereby putting on the market an inferior quality of feathers. We seldom get large feathers now, and in order to make a good-sized plume we are obliged to sew two or more feathers together."

The ostrich feathers that come to the New York market are purchased in London. The farmers in South Africa who make a business of raising ostriches for their feathers carry or send their products to Port Elizabeth, where they are consigned to commission merchants who sell them at auction at stated periods. The buyers, as a rule, subsequently dispose of them in the principal European markets. Under the stimulus of a brisk demand the ostrich raisers have mostly gotten into the habit of breeding by artificial incubators. With rare exceptions all of the feathers sold in this country are the feathers of domesticated ostriches. There are but few wild ostriches left in what is known as the ostrich raising country. A few years ago an idea prevailed that the "bird of the desert" could be raised in this country, and some elaborate experiments were tried in the State of Texas. These experiments, however, were not practically successful, and their failure has been attributed to various causes. By some it has been claimed that the climate was unfavorable, while others have asserted that the ostrichers were not supplied with such food as was needful. However that may be, the New York dealers in ostrich feathers say that they will continue to look to the African products for their purposes.

After the raw feathers arrive at the factory they are taken out of the packages in which they are sent from London, and "string." That means that the feathers are firmly attached to strings a yard or two long, in order that they may be handled more readily and quickly. Of plumes about fifty are usually strung together, and of tips there are seventy-five and eighty, and sometimes one hundred and fifty, according to size. These feathers represent varied values. The lowest priced are worth from $20 to $40 per pound, while the choicest occasionally command from $350 to $400 per pound. When properly "strung" the feathers are ready for washing, and they are given into the hands of men or stout boys who rub them vigorously on ordinary wash-boards placed in tubs of water in which there is some solution of soda. A fine quality of white soap is also used in this washing process. After being thoroughly washed the feathers are dried in starch in a room having a temperature of 140° Fahrenheit. Next they are beaten out on smooth-top tables, the infinitesimal particles of starch clothing the beaters in white and filling the room with a dense cloud of dust that renders breathing somewhat difficult to those not used to such atmosphere. This beating, it is said, not only rids the feathers of the starch, but it brings out the "glue," and in the hands of skillful beaters none of the feathers are ever injured. The strings of feathers are taken from the beating-room to the dyeing-room, where they are colored to suit. White and black have become staple colors, and the former of these, like other hues, is produced by dyes. The fashionable fancy shades this year are terra cotta, bronze, cardinal and garnet.

"We dye feathers now-a-days to match the newest shades of imported silks," said a busy manufacturer in West Houston street.

After being dyed the feathers are taken into a large work-room where young girls scrape the quills with glass to make them pliable. Next the stems are papered and wound, and the feathers are held over steam pots to fluff them out. After that they are combed and curled by hand. The curling process is done with a small, flat knife, and to the uninitiated it appearsto be very delicate and laborious work. Curlers are paid so much per dozen, and they earn from $15 to $50 per week. The utmost skill and care are also required on the part of the girls who sew together the various pieces of which the long and beautiful plumes are made. The scarcity in the market of the genuine long ostrich feathers, such as are obtained at the proper time of the year from the full-grown wild ostrich, imposes upon manufacturers the task of making their plumes by piecing. Sometimes a plume will be composed of five or six pieces, and sometimes it will consist of two fair-sized feathers sewed together. When the feathers are entirely finished they are looked over by a competent judge and laid out in different grades. Plumes are rated at from $5 to $96 per dozen, and tips from $3 to $108 per dozen. The tips are bunched in dozens and half dozens, and are neatly sewed in boxes for the wholesale trade, while plumes are laid loosely in their boxes, each box containing from three to seven, according to size.

"More ostrich feathers have been sold in New York in the last two years," said a well-informed dealer, "than were sold in the previous eight years. Western dealers are now sending in some very large orders. I know from experience that the demand has been greater than the supply. Orders have come from St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati this fall for thirty, forty and five thousand dollar lots of ostrich feathers. The prices have slightly advanced in consequence of the scarcity of the goods."

"What has caused the milliners to trim bonnets and hats so much more profusely with feathers this season than heretofore?"

"Paris sets the fashions. Ostrich feathers have been an article of Court dress in Europe for a great many years, and the middle classes of people over there may now be said to have an ostrich feather craze. That craze has now found its way into the United States, and is spreading very rapidly. Ladies nowadays think that in order to be in fashion they must have their hats completely covered with tips and plumes. Several new shades are noticeable in the ostrich plumes this year—particularly the cadet blue, crushed strawberry, and mahogany. Accompanying the ostrich feather furor there is also a great demand for other bright colored feathers and very large birds. The fashionable milliners are putting birds as large as pigeons on some of their most stylish winter hats."

"Did the war in Egypt affect the production or price of ostrich feathers?"

"Not to any appreciable extent. There was a slight advance in prices on everything in London, and some of the New York importers of feathers had to pay from ten to twenty per cent. more for their goods this year than last. The trouble in Egypt, however, did not extend down into the ostrich-growing country, and it did not last long enough to affect the business."—N. Y. Times.

—The Augusta (Me.) Journal thinks that Dr. William E. Gorham, Jr., of Windsor, in that State, deserves a little notoriety. He is about thirty years of age, unmarried, and a vegetarian. He has not tasted meat for twelve years, nor pork for eighteen years; enjoys excellent health, and is a pedestrian of considerable note. On the day of a recent political mass-meeting, Dr. Gorham walked from his home to the meeting, listened to all the addresses, and then walked back—a distance of forty miles. He had three horses in his stable, but preferred to accomplish the distance on foot.

TEACHER—"Who was the first man?" First boy—"George Washington." Teacher—"Next." Second boy—"Adam." First boy (indignantly)—"I didn't know you meant foreigners."

A Sorrowful Romance.

A merchant of Allegheny has in his possession the following note:

APRIL 12.

It will not be possible for me to keep the appointment for this afternoon. I regret it much, but business interferes. J. W. B.

The note was written by John Wilkes Booth in 1865, two days before Lincoln was assassinated. In April, 1865, the Allegheny merchant went to Baltimore to endeavor to find some traces of his brother, who had gone from Pittsburgh as a soldier in the early part of the war. "The second day after my arrival in Baltimore," said the merchant, "I called at the house of Mrs. ——. The family consisted of Mrs. ——, her daughter Estelle, and Robert, a boy about twelve years old. Miss Estelle was between eighteen and twenty years old, and was rather pretty. She was tall and slender, and talked with great spirit. She was very graceful and quick witted, and sang well. When I had told Mrs. —— what my errand was in Baltimore she expressed a great deal of sympathy for my mother, and insisted upon my occupying the room which belonged to her son who was in the army.

"Mrs. —— told me that her daughter had formed a fancy for a man who did not care for her, and who was an actor. She said that nothing had ever come out of the matter, and she did not think there was anything to fear, but she did not like the man's profession, although she took pains to assure me that he was a gentleman; had always acted in the most honorable way, and never seemed to notice that Estelle cared for him, but talked to her about music and the stage, and took an interest in her musical studies.

"One morning Miss Estelle and I were at the breakfast table, Mrs. —— having excused herself, as she had some household duties to attend to. The young lady's attention was evidently preoccupied about something, for she talked at random and seemed to be thinking. At last she said, with a rather odd exrpession of face:

"'I expect a friend to call on me this afternoon. I think you will like him. He is very fond of music.'

"I asked who he was, and she looked rather disturbed at my question, but replied:

"'He is my best friend. He is an actor, and is coming over from Washington.'

"I remembered what her mother had told me, and I changed the topic of conversation. In the afternoon, about four o'clock, I was sitting in the parlor with Estelle, when her brother Bob came in with a letter for her. She blushed when she saw the handwriting on the envelope, and tore it open hastily. Then her expression changed, and she showed that she had been disappointed. She read the letter two or three times and then exclaimed:

"'It's too bad. He isn't coming. I think he might have written more than that, don't you?'

"She tossed the letter to me, and turning around to the piano, began playing. I absently folded and refolded her note until I had it in a crumpled little roll, and when she started to go upstairs to dress for supper, the note could not be found. She was a little vexed at my carlessness at first, but soon recovered her temper and did not allude to it again. Three days after that I was to go home. I got up early to make arrangements and went out on the street, where I heard of the assassination of Lincoln. When I returned, Mrs. —— and Estelle were awaiting my appearance to sit down to breakfast. I wat greatly excited, and exclaimed as I entered:

"'President Lincoln was murdered in Washington last night!'

"Both ladies screamed and looked frightened, and Mrs. —— cried out: 'Oh, they will kill all of us who are friends of the South. Who did it?'

"'A scoundrelly actor named Booth—John Wilkes Booth.' The words were scarcely out of my mouth before Estelle gave a scream and fell forward upon the table, and from there to the floor, dragging the breakfast things about her with a crash. The mother seemed to be almost as much affected as her daughter, but she loosened Estelle's dress and lifted her up, while I bathed her head with water. I was terribly confused, but I suggested that I should go for a doctor. Mrs. —— at the mere suggestion almost screamed.

"'No! no! No one must know it!'

"'Know what?' I asked.

"'Why, don't you know? Don't you know that John Booth was the man I told you about—the man she is in love with?'

"Then I remembered the note, and the fact that it was signed 'J. W. B.' Estelle had not mentioned the name, and that was why I did not understand it. Mrs. —— was wild with terror, and feared that her daughter might be suspected of having some connection with the plot of Booth and his companions. Estelle was ill, and did not leave her room, and I never saw her after that awful morning, poor girl!

"On my way home I found Booth's note in my pocket, where I must have put it without knowing it after I had rolled it up in a ball. I kept it then as a memento. The business Booth refers to was evidently that of the plot.

"I don't know whether Estelle is living or not. She was when I was in Baltimore two years ago. Her mother was dead, and Estelle was living with some relatives near Bowling Green, Va., and not far from Garrett farm, where the man she loved was shot in a barn twelve days after he had murdered the President of the United States."—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

Raising Children.

When very young they should be kept quiet, not too much exposed to the light. It is usual to engage some old and experienced expert to attend to this, and the direction in which the "twig is inclined" at this stage is generally the ruin of the parents' peace of mind for two years.

Milk is said to be good for babes, but there are so many "patent foods" now sold at the drug store that milk may as well be done away with. Give the child something that you don't know anything about and it will thrive—possibly.

Don't cross the child when it is small. It will take so kindly to having its own way that it is really cruel to insist on parental rights in the matter.

Learn the little coots to "crow" as early as possible. Take them in your hands and toss them up as high as you can and jounce their digestive organs all out of place. This is a genuine "raise" of children.

As soon as possible put the green baby into a baby carriage and push it along the sidewalk, running into everybody with it and gathering admiring crowds at the crossings to worship it. This will give the little one some idea of the way of getting on in the world in later years.

It is a good plan to hurry up a child in the matter of walking. The sooner a child walks, the more bow-legged and irrepressible he will be when he grows up.

Just the moment the child lets go its mother's apron strings plant it in the neighbor's front yard. This will save your own lawn, while the little fellow digs up the turf and carries away the lawn of the neighbor in his little pot wheelbarrow.

Train the child to "appear" in company. Urge him forward. There is nothing like it. Visitors so much admire to have children climb and crawl all over them in their gentle, prankish way.

A good share of dirt makes a child grow. Soap and water is useful, however, once a week, to enable parents to recognize their own children when they call them in to dinner.

Let them have their own sweet way always. They will retaliate in the future by not letting you have yours; but what matters that?

Never allow neighbors' children on your premises. The hateful things will influence your own children for bad. Allowing your children to play with the neighbor's children on their premises, however, has a salutary effect on those benighted little frauds, and it is your Christian duty to see that your children mingle in this manner as much as possible.

The best dressing for children is the sole of a slipper. It should be gently swayed in the air above them and applied vigorously—once in a while.

Good clothes, pretty clothes, are an elaborate necessity for little ones. If you are an eighteen-dollar-business-suit man, you can afford to dress a child on a thirty dollar silk-velvet, brass button basis.

When children get big enough to go to school—well, you will be astonished at the remarkable unanimity of the school teachers and Board of Education in relieving you of all rights, privilege and authority. You won't have anything more to do but sit with your hands folded, and see these "servants of the public" make precious little prigs of your darlings.—New Haven Register.

The Military Forces of Turkey.

The Politische Correspondenz publishes an account, "from a very well-informed military source," of the present military forces of Turkey. According to official statements, says the writer, the largest number of troops which Turkey had at any time in the field during the war of 1877-78 was 490,000 and it took her three years to obtain that number, as her levies were raised very gradually in Bulgaria and Asia Minor, first for action against the small Slavonic States, and then against Russia. The military reorganization law of 1880 provides that the army of Turkey is to be raised to 1,200,000 men, without exceeding the limits of age fixed during the Russo-Turkish war. How this can be done it is difficult to understand, seeing that Turkey has lost 2,000,000 subjects by the cessions of territory made under the Berlin Treaty, and that her Mohammedan population, both in Europe and Asia, is only 9,000,000. The question of admitting Christians to the army is only just beginning to be considered, and is not likely to be settled for another five years to come; and even if Christians were employed on non-combatant duties, such as the commissariat, transport, etc., they would certainly not increase the army to anything like 1,200,000 men. To do this a holy war would be necessary, supported by all the power of Islamite fanaticism.

SOME weeks ago we read an attempt at suicide in Paris by a man who had driven a small dagger to the depth of nearly four inches through the top of the skull into the brain. Powerful machinery had to be brought into use to remove it. The man then walked some distance to a hospital, where he remained a few days, though suffering neither from pain nor fever, and finally resumed his regular occupation. The story read like a sensational report, and we didn't care to publish it as it seemed hard to believe. We now find it in the London Lancet, and can not doubt its authenticity.

The Codfish.

This tropical bird very seldom wings his way so far west as Wyoming. He loves the sea breezes and humid atmosphere of the Atlantic Ocean, and when isolated in this mountain clime, pines for his native home.

The codfish can not sing, but is prized for his beautiful plumage and seductive odor.

The codfish of commerce is devoid of digestive apparatus and is more or less permeated with salt.

Codfish on toast is not as expensive as quail on toast.

The codfish ball is made of the shattered remains of the adult codfish mixed with the tropical Irish potato of commerce.

The codfish has a great wealth of glad, unfettered smile. When he laughs at anything he has that same wide waste of mirth and back teeth that Mr. Talmadge has. The Wyoming codfish is generally dead. Death in most cases is the result of exposure and loss of appetite. No one can look at the codfish of commerce and not shed a tear. Far from home with his system filled with salt, while his internal economy is gone, there is an air of sadness and homesickness and briny hopelessness about him that no one can see unmoved.

It is in our home life, however, that the codfish makes himself felt and remembered. When he enters our household, we feel his all-providing presence, like the perfume of wood violets or the seductive odor of a dead mouse in the piano. Friends may visit us and go away to be forgotten with the advent of a new face, but the cold, calm, silent corpse of the codfish can not be forgotten. Its chastened influence permeates the entire ranch. It steals into the parlor like an unbidden guest and flavors the costly curtains and the high-priced lambrequins. It enters the dark closet and dallies lovingly with our swallow-tail coat. It goes into your sleeping apartment and makes its home in your glove box and your handkerchief case.

That is why we say that it is a solemn thing to take the life of a codfish. We would not do it. We would pass him by a thousand times, no matter how ferocious he might be, rather than take his life and have our once happy home haunted forever by his unholy presence.—Nye's Boomerang.

Rapid Eating.

To boast of special skill—as some do—in the matter of eating "with dispatch," is to claim a relationship to the swine, hyena, and scavengers in general, supposed to be the most rapid eaters among the brutes. Such eating not only requires no special intellect, no superior physical ability, but is decidedly prejudicial to health, not to say unrefined.

When food is thus eaten, especially the more solid and tough, it is utterly impossible to chew it sufficiently, while it can not be properly combined with the saliva, a solvent prepared to an extent to indicate its use and importance from three and a half pounds to six in twenty-four hours. The primary object of chewing is to so divide the food that this juice may be mixed with every part, the fineness presenting an increased surface, the act of chewing acting on the salivary glands, in a kind of milking process, which, in addition to the excitement of the food, causes it to ooze out, thus affording all the liquids needed, without any artificial drinks. By this mouth-digestion, so to speak, reducing all to a moist and fine pulp, and only by such processes, can food be properly fitted for the stomach. If not well prepared for the stomach, in the mouth, the labor of that organ must be increased, doing its own, with a part pertaining to the mouth. It is proper to add that even the liquid foods cannot be so prepared unless they are retained in the mouth long enough to allow the saliva to be incorporated with them. It is also true that such masses of food as are thrown into the stomach by rapid eaters, cannot be well combined with the stomach juice (gastric,) from which fact the stomach digestion must be imperfect. The outer surface only being dissolved by the gastric juice, a part of the solid mass is likely to pass into the bowels, in an unprepared state, of course deranging them, and increasing their labors.

To say the least, rapid eating is but a preparation for our national disease—dyspepsia—as we may be the most rapid eaters of the civilized world.—Golden Rule.

HERE are two illustrations of matrimonial felicity: In Leicester, England, a man went with another woman to a place of amusement the evening of the day his wife died, and just before the funeral the woman having come to take charge of the house, the dead wife's mother turned her out of doors, a large crowd pelted her with flour and black lead and hooted the husband on the way to the church.

Another man eloped with his wife's sister from Rochester, New York, taking with him $900 of his wife's money. He was taken with the smallpox, when his paramour deserted him. His former wife heard of his sickness and came on at once, but too late. He died before she reached him.

—A young man in a Western Illinois town advertised for a wife. His own sister answered the "ad," discovered the identity of the advertiser, and, without betraying her own identity, led the enamored young man along till he proposed marriage. The joke was too good to keep and now there's another young man who hates women with a cruel, bitter hatred.—Chicago Herald.

RELIGIOUS AND EDUCATIONAL.

—Greek and French have been added as optional studies to the course of the Indianapolis high school.

—The English Church has established a Christian mission at Sara, a town which reaches further back than the call of Abraham.—N. Y. Examiner.

—The Philadelphia Board of Education estimates its expenses for the next year at $1,715,909.05. Of this sum $1,136,095 will go for teachers' salaries.

—The net numerical growth of the United Presbyterian Church last year was, to the very unit, double that of the year before, viz.: 1,636 to 818.—The Interior.

—The census of the world, according to its religions, has been figured out by some Scotch statisticians. Its results are: Protestants, 120,000,000; Oriental Christians, 80,000,000; Roman Catholics, 200,000,000; Jews, 10,000,000; Mohammedans, 176,000,000; Pagans, 80,-000,000.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

—Mr. Flod, a German missionary and captive in Abyssinia, writes: King John has taken advantage of the troubles in Egypt to regain his lost provinces, and he has subdued and baptized the Galla tribes as far as Gurogne. He also states that the slave trade flourishes along the Blue Nile, and will continue to do so as long as the country is in the hands of Mohammedans.

—The Detroit Post and Tribune says there are nine Presbyterian churches in Detroit, with a membership of 2,872, paying $20,000 in pastors' salaries, and owning property worth $496,000, entirely out of debt, except some $10,000 or $15,000 still owing by the Fort Street Church on its rebuilding after the fire, and which its members can wipe out in any twenty-four hours that they will set about it.

—The well-known condition left on Girard College by its founder, excluding ministers from its doors and forbidding all sectarian religious teaching, is said to have been violated for many years. "The officers of the Girard estate," it is explained, "have always felt that while sectarianism was to be excluded from the college, religion as a principle of life was to be inculcated in the minds of the youth who received the benefit of the institution."—N. Y. Sun.

—That American parents are educating their children to be idlers is the complaint of the Boston Herald. "Not long ago," it says, "it was shown that the drift of representative schools in Boston and Quincy was in the direction of occupations which are beyond the rank of the common laborer, beyond the limits of common industries. None of the boys, none of the girls, expected to really work for a living. They were to do what was nice and genteel, but not to soil their hands, not to wear overalls or scrub floors; not, in short, to do anything that did not belong to a superior race.

PITH AND POINT.

—People learn wisdom by experience. A man never wakes up his second baby to see it laugh.

—The Agricultural Bureau reports a short broom-corn crop this year, but the supply of mop-handles is unprecedented. No occasion to be alarmed.—Detroit Free Press.

—A Vermont man found a pocketbook with $60 in it just before the war, and recently his conscience compelled him to restore the funds. Conscience is pretty thick down East.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—In a Paris shop devoted to feminine wearing apparel: "You ought to take this pair of stays, madame. They can not be worn out. None of my customers to whom I have sold a pair have ever wanted another."

—"Pa, are we going to have any girlvanized iron on our new house?" "Any w-h-a-t?" "Any girlvanized iron?" "Galvanized you mean, don't you?" "Yes, pa; but teacher says we mustn't say gal; it's girl!"—Chicago Journal.

—You can put "ten million oysters, when they are only two days old, into a four-quart pail filled with water." We believe this because we saw it in a newspaper, and we suppose if you took out about a pint of water you could get in about thirty million more oysters.—New Haven Register.

—"Is dis heah letter all right, boss?" asked an Austin darky, handing the clerk a letter he wanted to send off in the mail. The clerk weighed the letter and returned it, saying: "You want to put another stamp on it. It weighs too much." "Ef I puts another stamp on de letter dat won't make it no lighter. Dat's gwine ter make it weigh more."—Texas Siftings.

—"My wife," says Wigglesworth, abstractedly lifting a handful of prunes from the box, "is one of the most economical women I ever saw. Whenever I smoke a cigar in the house she makes me blow the smoke on her plants to kill the bugs, and stands ready to catch the ashes for tooth powder, while the stub that is left she soaks in water and treats the flower-pots to a Turkish bath with it."—New Haven Register.

—Enthusiastic Teetotaler—"Dear Miss Madge, I am so delighted to find you have such an admiration for our cause." Æsthetic young lady—"No, I've an admiration for Sir Wilfrid, that's all. When you see in print such epithets applied to him as 'peregrinating pump-handle,' 'peripatetic squirter,' 'driveler of dreary dreariness,' it makes one really feel that he has done something to advance the poetry of literature in this country."

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 9, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

It is estimated that ninety-nine-one hundredths of the children of America, kept out of school are children of drunkards.

It is asserted that in the three years ended 1880 there were no fewer than 252 theatres destroyed by fire, or partly so, resulting in 4,370 deaths and about 3,400 injuries.

Simmons's Gap, Va., has a patriarch of 80 years, living with his ninth wife, who is father of fifty-three children. At a recent reunion over 300 descendants wished him long life.

Bob Toombs is said to be failing rapidly, his eyesight has almost entirely failed him, and he can neither read nor write. In other ways he is fast breaking, and can hardly be considered to have a firm lease on life.

A. C. Soteldo, the Washington journalist, accused of the murder of his brother while attempting to shoot Barton, managing editor of the Washington Republican, was yesterday acquitted in the district court.

Thursday at Chattanooga a train of cars and engine built in that city at the shops of the Alabama Great Southern railroad made a successful trial trip. This is the first complete train of exclusive Southern build ever constructed.

A San Francisco amature thief robbed a drunken man, whom he found lying in the street, and ran off just in time to escape being caught by a policeman. Next morning his dead body was found in an area near by. The fright had killed him.

Three hundred dollars a year gives a spacious and elegant residence in the Azores. Servant wages are $2 to $5 a month; one cent a pound buys the finest grapes; meat and chickens cost about 50 per cent. less than here, fish is excellent and abundant, and vegetables are plenty and cheap.

It is estimated that from 450,000 to 500,000 tons of charcoal are annually made in the United States. No better way to get through forests. It was this which, more than anything else, deprived Ireland of hers. Few countries are now more barren of timber, although tradition avers that a squirrel could once travel from tree to tree from Antrim to Kerry.

Mme. Modjeska's opinions of her beautiful sister artist, Mrs. Langtry, are published in England. She says she is a very charming woman, and, considering how short a time she has been acting, it is wonderful how she has succeeded on the stage. She does not, however, dwell much on her histrionic powers, but says she admired her because she was so beautiful.

A woman of Charlestown, Mass., while nursing her dying father, began to abuse the five other children, and vowed that they should never have a cent of the old man's estate, as she would control him in making a will. He bequeathed all his property to her, as she had said, but her own words have been accepted in court as proof that she unduly influenced his enfeebled mind, and the will has been set aside.

In the sixteen Southern States and the District of Columbia the white school population is 3,899,961 and the colored 1,803,257. There are 16,669 colored public schools. 44 normal schools, 36 colored institutions of secondary instructions, 15 colored universities and colleges, 22 colored schools of theology, 3 colored law schools, 2 colored medical schools, and 2 colored deaf and dumb and blind institutions.

While Neal and Craft, the prisoners charged with the murder of the Gibbons family at Ashland, Ky., were being carried from Catlettsburg to Ashland after their trial, in which a change of venue had been granted, the troops guarding them were fired upon by a mob and upon returning the fire three of the mob were killed and twenty wounded. Only two of the militia were wounded and they but slightly.

Arabi's guards are anxious about their prisoner, and watch for fear of suicide, though that is unlikely with a moslem. He has sunk into a profound sadness, speaks only when strongly urged, and looks out aimlessly at the wall of the little back yard, which is his only prospect, thinking, of Tel-el-Kebir the impregnable and that ride for life on horseback. His malady of body may increase his despondency of mind, but at present his condition is that of a profoundly hopeless and spiritless man. Toulba, on the other hand, is full of life, discussing pros and cons with his janitor through his interpreter.

Fall Term Circuit Court.

CASES DISPOSED OF.

State vs. J. T. Wilson. Keeping open doors on Sunday. Guilty and fined $10.

State vs. Charles J. Jones and Amanda Busby. Adultery. Nol. pros. on motion of Solicitor.

State vs. Charles Jones. Keeping open doors on Sunday. Guilty and fined $10.

State vs. J. T. Wilson. Carrying concealed weapons. Guilty and fined $50.

State vs. Andrew Osburn. Carrying concealed weapons. Guilty and fined $50.

State vs. Thomas Cutts. Grand larceny. Guilty and sentenced to twelve months' hard labor for the county.

State vs. Tobe Walker. Selling liquor to minor. Not guilty.

State vs. Tobe Walker. Selling liquor to minor. Guilty and fined $50.

State vs. H. C. Jones. Assault and battery. Guilty and fined $50.

State vs. H. C. Jones. Carrying concealed weapons. Not guilty.

State vs. Frank Lawrence. Assault and battery with weapon. Guilty and fined $25.

State vs. Frank Lawrence. Assault and battery. Nol. pros. on motion of Solicitor.

State vs. Sim Williams. Carrying concealed weapons. Not guilty.

State vs. Barney Nobles. Abusive language. Not guilty.

State vs. James Barnett. Disturbing public worship. Guilty and fined $20.

State for Chilton county vs. Charles J. Jones, et als. Two cases. Sci. Fa. Forfeiture final for $25 in each case.

State for Chilton county vs. Thomas J. Boyd et als. Sci. Fa. Final as to parties served.

State for Chilton county vs. Austin Goodwin et als. Sci. Fa. Forfeiture set aside.

A number cases taken up were continued.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

To Hon. James E. Cobb, Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit:

We, the Grand Jury of Chilton county and State of Alabama, beg leave to submit this our general report. We have examined the county jail, and find it secure and in good condition, and the prisoners well cared for. We also find the courthouse in good condition.

We have examined into the condition of the public roads, and find them in good condition, except one or two which have been provided for. We have examined the bonds of the county officials and deem them good and sufficient. We have also examined the books and accounts of the officials of the county, and find them neatly and we believe correctly kept. In regard to the finances of the county, we are pleased to state that we find the county out of debt, and with a cash balance of nine hundred and seventy dollars; and thirty-six dollars of fine and forfeiture funds.

We have examined dilligently into all the cases presented to us, and have found bills where we were satisfied they could be sustained.

We take pleasure in reporting that we believe, from all we can learn that crimes and misdemeanors are on the decrease in our county, having found only twelve bills.

We regret to be under the necessity of calling attention to the bad condition of the streets at our county site and recommend that your Honor call the attention of the proper officers to the same.

We herewith attach a communication of Dr. J. P. Robinson, health officer of this county, and respectfully ask that the Commissioners' Court take such steps in this matter as they may deem proper.

After expressing our thanks to your Honor, the Solicitor and other officers of the court for their kind assistance, and having finished all business before us respectfully beg to be discharged.

J. B. BOYKIN, Foreman.

DR. ROBINSON'S COMMUNICATION.

I would respectfully request the Grand Jury to recommend my position to the consideration of the Commissioners of Chilton county, for a remuneration of services in organizing and putting the sanitary laws into execution for the county, in order that I may procure a place for persons attacked with diseases of an epidemic nature, as I have been forced to do in this county for small pox. My reports of births, deaths and diseases of all character, I make out once a month as health officer of the county.

Respectfully,
J. P. ROBINSON.

Scoville Insanity Case.

CHICAGO, October 28.—The sealed verdict in the Scoville insanity case, delivered last night, was received by the clerk this morning. It declares Mrs. Scoville insane. The court-room was crowded. Mrs. Scoville was not present, and cannot be found.

The verdict declares she has been insane about six months, and that her insanity is hereditary.

Tuesday's Elections.

Though all of the States holding elections on last Tuesday, have not been heard from, it is conceded that the Democrats have gained enough Congressmen in New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois to give them a good working majority in the next House. The Democrats gain one Congressman in Alabama, and several in other Southern States.

It is now certain that New York, Pennsylvania and Indiana, have elected Democratic State officers, and the Democracy is hopeful that the official count will give them control of the Legislatures in New Hampshire and Colorado, which Legislatures will elect United States Senators.

Withal, Tuesday's election was a great Democratic cyclone which has swept the rottenness of Republican rule from many heretofore unfortunate States, which can now "rejoice and be glad" at their fortunate redemption.

In the case of Dick Liddle, who was recently tried at Huntsville, Ala., for complicity in the Muscle Shoals robbery, the court suspended sentence until the next term, and fixed the bonds for appearance at $1,500. The purpose of suspending sentence is to prevent the disqualification of conviction and sentence from attaching to Liddle, who is an important witness in the Missouri and other courts against other members of the James gang. It is expected that Liddle will either be pardoned or his sentence indefinitely suspended.

The case of Mr. R. M. Goodgame, charged with killing of Mr. Robert Mullins was continued on the motion of the prosecution at the last week's term of court.

The telegrams tell of a fracas between negroes and a body of white men at Barnwell, S. C., in which the latter were considerably worsted.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to me by J. A. McNeil and his wife, Mary McNeil, on the 7th day of July, 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Ala., "in Vol. 12 of Deeds, on pages 153 and 154." I will proceed to sell at the Courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on the following described property, to-wit: The N E ¼ of N W ¼, N ½ of N E ¼ sec. 34, township 23, range 13, S ½ of S E ¼ and E ½ of N E ¼ of S E ¼ sec. 27, township 23, range 13.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 22, 1882,

W. A. COLLIER.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 9, 1882. 2t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March, 1884, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e quarter of the n w quarter, section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company. By Smith & Cullman, its attornies in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it, by James E. Lowe, and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the 9th day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the eighth day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: "The n w quarter of the s w quarter of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of Nov., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, by Smith & Cullman, its attornies in fact. nov9

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife, Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August, 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Smith & Cullman, its attornies in fact.

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month $2.00
Intermediate 3.00
Academic 4.00
Music 4.00
Board (washing extra) 10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

Ehrman Again
To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.
MEAT PER POUND 15c.
GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.

Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.

LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of

CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,

and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.

Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West

Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

NOTICE NO. 1872.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala, Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Luther R. Friday, Homestead 7208 for the w ½ of the s w ¼ section 28, township twenty north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, John M. Runnels, and Jasper Y. Friday, of Plantersville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville.

otsix THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Dr. J. P. Givhan,
(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. myl6-ly

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

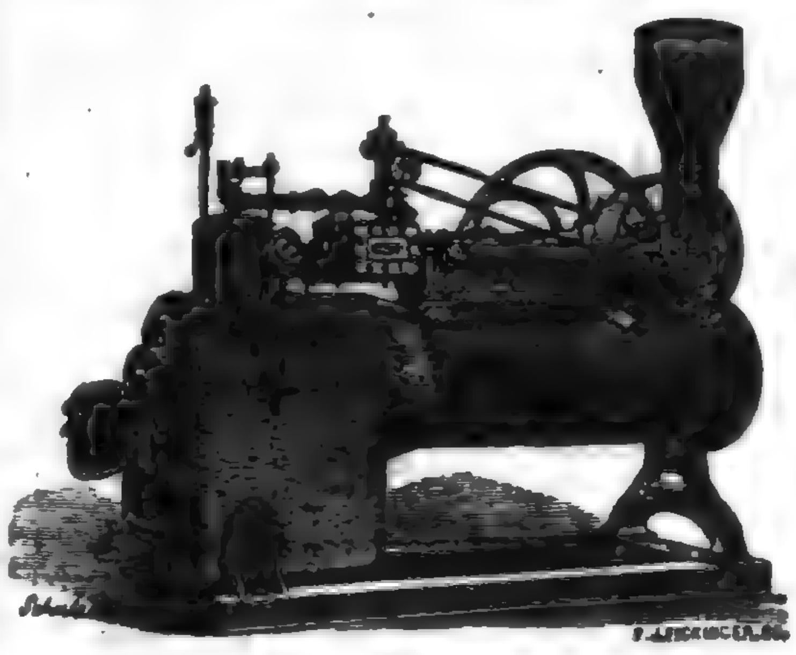
J. F. MAULL, J. H. HOCKENSMITH.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Lomax, Ala.
——DEALERS IN——
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY
SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HAT
Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinwar
Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles a

FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.
☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN.
We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public patro

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882. tf

The Eclipse Leads the World!



ENGINE
OF ALL SIZ
FROM TWO TO T
HUNDRED HOR
POWER,
—AND—
OF ALL KIN

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHE
The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Bes
Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and all kinds of Agricultural Implements.
For Catalogue and Prices address
MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,
General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham, Al
☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State. mar8-ly

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing House,"
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
——DEALERS IN——
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Good

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall and Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA.
An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 Volum

SOME REASONS WHY
THIS WORK
Is Superior to all Other
CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopædia.
It is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopædia.
It embraces over 40,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.
Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork, and Binding first-class.
IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.
Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.
Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.
Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.
Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms to right parties. Send for circular.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,
74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

Sold only by Subscription.

NOTICE NO. 1884.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: George E. Reid, Homestead 11886, for s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 30, township twenty, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Barnes, Sampson Friday, John Reynolds and Luther R. Friday, all of Callierville, Ala.

ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40, A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 28-tf Lomax, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 1883.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 188

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November twenty-five, 1882, viz: Sampson Friday, Homesteads 7562 and 11984, for the s ½ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of n e ¼ and sec 30, township twenty north, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: George E. Reid, William Barnes, John Reynolds, and William Terry, all of Callierville, Ala.

ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

H. L. Wheeler
GENERAL
Real Estate Agent
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Will buy and sell lands for commission.
Jun15-ly

HE CHILTON VIEW.

LANTON, ALA., NOV. 9, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Divis-
n—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. bb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J.
rdy.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congres-onal District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District
William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwards.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. ewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderic.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Hon-cutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

HEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.
Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

Don't stop.

HEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

ing North	Daily Mail	Going South
e. 7:40 a. m.	Selma Arr	7:73 p. m.
10:36 "	Calera Lve.	4:40 "
5:40 p m	Rome "	10:10 a m
7:18 "	Dalton "	8:05 "
8:45 "	Cleaveland "	7:03 "
11:35 "	Knoxville "	3:30 "
1:30 a m	Norristown "	1:45 "
4:15 a m	Bristol "	10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

ward	Daily Mail	Westward
11:00 a m	Selma Lv.	4:30 p m
ve 8:50 "	Demopolis "	7:00 "
ve 5:35 a m	Meridian Arrive	10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications nton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No.
, first Saturday in each month at 7
lock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge
2 K. of P. every second and fourth day nights in each month, at 7
lock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T.
ets every Friday night at 7 o'clock,

L DOTTINGS.

For Thirty Days.

Every one subscribing for this paper
ween now and the first of December, ll receive it until January 1st, 1884, one years' subscription price ($1.50).
year and two months for $1.50. We ke this offer in order to increase our culation, though old subscribers can e advantage of it as well as new.
member the offer will be open for rty days only.

Commissioners court was in ses-n last Monday.

A white frost at this point on t Monday morning.

See notice of mortgage sale by W.
Collier, Esq., which will take ce on Wednesday, the 22d inst.

There is said to be a considerable ount of money in the country is season. Wonder why we can't any of it.

The State Legislature will cone in regular biennial session next Tuesday, the 14th inst.
se who wish to keep up with doings of that body should sub-ibe for the VIEW.

Mr. A. Eiland, of Strasburg, has d on our table a fine sweet potato which he has given the name alf-Breed." It is mixed—yam d red—and presents the peculiar pearance of being red on one e and yellow on the other.

We have received from Mr. W.
Wood, of Maplesville, a sample cane raised by him this year.
e stalks sent us are each seven d a half feet high, and Mr. Wood s he made one hundred gallons syrup from 400 stalks which he nted, and that he has 400 stalks seed.

Rev. T. J. Rutledge, of the Ala-a Christian Advocate, died in rmingham, last week. The de-sed was well known throughout State. He delivered several y forcible sermons during the mp meeting at this place recent-and not a few of our people will pained at his death.

y reference to the head of our al column, it will be seen that a ange of schedule has been made on the L. & N. railroad. Pasgers for Birmingham can now ve Clanton at 8:48 a. m., on the il train No. 2, which will here-er stop at this point, and return the evening mail train, at 7:15.
sengers for Montgomery can e express train No. 1, at 6:33 a.
and return on accommodation in No. 6, which now reaches nton at 7:05 p. m. Mr. W. J. pson, the agent, says always rchase your tickets fully ten nutes before the arrival of trains.

The Election

Passed off very quietly in our county. Col. Williams, the Democratic nominee, had a walk over, though the vote polled was light.

Clanton box solid for Williams with 150 votes.

Jemison box solid for Williams with 121 votes.

Providence box solid for Williams with 71 votes.

LATER.—So far as heard no opposition votes were cast with one beat (Mullins') to hear from, with the exception of 10 votes for McCoy in beat 5. The vote for Williams at the other boxes stands:

Verbena, 148, Cooper's 82, Wells' 66, Maplesville 65, Dixie 79, Benson 81, Mascedonia 29. A total of 892 votes only, which is evidence of considerable apathy and lack of interest in the election.

LATER.—Mullins' gives Williams 47. McCoy none.

Education.

Why do our people take so little interest in the work of educating their children? The amount of illiteracy in our sunny south is fearful. This is the condition of our own beloved Alabama, and of our own county, Chilton. Why is it so? Is it because of financial inability? Is it really true that our people are too poor to give their children a common school education? Surely it cannot be so—or would not—if our people would but properly exert themselves, and use the advantages of which they are possessed. There is hardly any other country in the world that possesses greater or more numerous advantages than our own. If our people would only go to work to utilize these advantages, and develop the various resources that lie at their very doors—at the same time using proper economy, avoiding all extravagance and waste — they would be abundantly able to educate their children. The following, from a religious journal speaks volumes: "Our people pay more for amusements than for the education of their children. A single circus will carry away from a town money enough to build the Academy it has so long needed." Then, again, some families spend enough for tobacco and snuff to educate their children; they could do it if they would — "where there's a will there's a way." The trouble is, they do not recognize the importance of the thing; and are not willing to make the necessary sacrifices and exertions.

If, as individuals, as families, as communities, and as a county, we would rise to a position of respectability and of honor in the estimation of other portions of the State, we must educate our children. It is better for us to work day and night —to live on bread and water—to wear the coarsest kind of clothing —than to let our children grow up without education.

The advantages of education are numerous and great. It qualifies one for business, for society, and for usefulness. The educated men of the world are the controlling element of society. They do the thinking for the masses; they mould the opinions of men; they exert a greater influence upon men than others do; they control the destinies of the world, as far as they are controlled by men. They fill the offices of honor, of trust, of emolument; while as a general rule, the uneducated are mere "hewers of wood and drawers of water," doomed to occupy the lowest positions, and perform the drudgery of life.

Would that higher and nobler aspirations could be enkindled in the minds and hearts of the people all over our land! Would that they could be made to realize that education is a necessity—something that we cannot get along without! Then might we expect to see something like a proper interest manifested in this great work. Then would our halls of learning be crowded with students, the office and work of teaching be exalted to their proper rank; and such remuneration be made for the work of teaching as would induce men and women of thorough competency to engage in this, one of the noblest of callings. OBSERVER.

Sorrows of a "Masher."

There were plenty of seats in the car, but as he walked down the aisle he looked sharply to the right and left until he reached a pretty girl who was sitting alone.

"Seat engaged, Miss?" he asked with a knowing wink.

"N-no, sir," stammered the girl, looking around in dismay.

Down he plumped and braced himself for the campaign. He was a regular passenger, and held his commutation ticket in his hand.

"Shall I open——"

"Tickets!" roared the conductor, who had watched him from afar.

The regular passenger smiled sweetly at the pretty girl and put up his paste board, out of which two rides were promptly nipped.

"Tickets!"

"Hold on!" protested the regular passenger, "you punched this twice. This lady isn't with me."

"Sorry," replied the conductor, "but you walked in, sat down and went to work in the regular married style. Supposed, of course, it was your wife. Too late now. Take a vacant seat next time. Tickets!"

And the passengers went to the conductor and offered him cigars and bought out the train-boy for him.

"I knew they weren't married," said he, "I've seen him before, but this is the first time it cost him a couple of dollars to play it."

"Do you know who the lady is?" asked an inquisitive man.

"My wife, gentlemen," replied the conductor.—Travelers Magazine.

Mr. W. W. Wadsworth, the duke of Wadesworth, and Mrs. Taft, of Mountain Creek, who are members of the Methodist church, have each contributed $50 toward the building of the new Baptist church in Birmingham.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

NOTICE NO. 1898.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 27, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 9th 1882, viz: Elbert Walker, Homestead 12305 for the n ½ of n w ¼, s e ¼ of of n w ¼, n e quarter of s w quarter, sec 18, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: James M. Stanfield, Allen Sims, and A. H. Edwards, of Mountain Creek, and Eli Crenshaw, of Wadsworth, Ala.

nov2 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1895.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 9, 1882, viz: Cyrus M. Culp, Homestead 7553 for the s w quarter of s e quarter, section 14, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Stephen Baker, Peter S. Prim, James M. Bivings and Gus Gordon, all of Clanton, Ala. Thomas J. Scott, Register.

nov2*

NOTICE NO. 1856.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 27, 1882, viz: Roda Klener, Homestead 12198, for the s w ¼ of section 24, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Milton Fuller, Jesse B. Hardy, James L. Williams, and William F. Roebuck, all of Maplesville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, ots Register.

NOTICE 1836.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on November, 31, 1882, viz: Lewis Gentry Homestead 3241 for the s e ¼ of the n w and n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 1, townsp 20 north range 16 east, and the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 6, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: James M. Stanfield, William Gray, Simon H. Gleen, and Joseph Long.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,

o10 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1870.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Lula G. Martin, Homestead 7126 for the s e ¼ of the s e ¼, section 22, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John M. Runnels, Jasper Y. Friday and Luther R. Friday, of Maplesville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville, Ala.

o26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1871.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: John W. Runnels, Homestead 7127, for the e ½ of the n w ¼ sec 28, township 20 north, range 11 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, Luther R. Friday, Henry J. Cole, Jasper Y. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, o26 Register.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju7-1y

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 20-6m

Ternanville Ahead!
Low Prices and Fair
Dealing Will Win!
I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:
A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1
A Good Pair Pants $1.
A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.
My stock of GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS,
HARDWARE,
FARMING IMPLEMENTS,
and SUPPLIES
is complete, and my motto is
Low Prices.
My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.
Respectfully,
o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

HAVE YOU WOOL TO CARD?

We are now carding and are fully prepared to card all wool brought or sent us, with dispatch. We will give you satisfaction every time. Mark your wool, tell us who from, and if you want it rolled. Put your name on express card. E. G. WALKER, aug10-3m Montevallo, Ala.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine
Oil Paintings,
Chromos,
FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.
Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES,
STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,
—AND—
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.
—ALSO—
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS,
PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c
—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.
June 20-6m

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIA-TION,
Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage
by fire, and is the
Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.

oct 5-3m Clanton, Ala.

NOTICE OF
COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala. J. L. WILLIAMS,

Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo. S. P. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. S. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-1y

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST,
CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.

PRICES FOR WORK:

Shaving - - - - [illegible]
Hair cutting - - - - [illegible]

☞ The only barber in the world who never talks. Jul[illegible]

What a Policeman Saw.

THE FIRST SCENE.

Just a wee bit of a sweet-faced child, with wonderfully [illegible] brown eyes shining through [illegible] of tangled hair that drifted over [illegible]. A pair of red lips quivering with the sobs that shook her slight frame. Soft cheeks, down which the [illegible] falling like April rains. That was what a policeman saw.

"I want my mamma," she sobbed, in reply to a question from him. "She lives in a big house way off, Daisy said. I'm going to find her. They put her in a [illegible] box and shut her up tight and [illegible] just cried and said she was with the angels. Do you know where they are? I want to go to her. Can't you take me?"

Something in the officer's eyes made indistinct the objects around him as he took the little one in his arms and asked her name.

"Oh, it's only Mamie," she said. "Mamma's Mamie, and I know she wants me. Won't you take me too her?" He started with the light burden toward the station, but before he reached it she had fallen asleep, talking of mamma and the angels. At the station, her father, anxious and startled, was waiting to greet her, and as he took her she opened her eyes just long enough to see who he was and whisper: "Papa, mamma wants me. I know she is lonely; let us go to her;" and then the tired eyes closed again and the dainty head drooped to a broad shoulder, fast asleep.

It may be that the smile which made bright her face as she dreamed, was only the reflection of her angel mother's as it shone into that of her child. In a lonely ward in the worst part of the city last night, a brawny policeman forgot the long hours as he remembered the sweet face of a dainty bit of a girl seeking her mother who is a dweller with the angels.

THE SCENE CHANGES.

A red, bloated face over which the unkempt hair strayed as if to hide the marks of sin and shame that marred every feature. Eyes that were once beautiful, bleared with nights of debauchery, wandering half questioningly around the apartment. "Say, captain, don't put me in a cell, I'll be quiet. Let me sleep outside the bars to-night. I'm not very well, and the cells are close and ill-smelling."

They granted her wish, and soon she was fast asleep. But in her slumber she talked of a tender-faced mother who bended above her and taught her childhood's prayer. Gradually the hard look faded from her face, and even as she slept a tear forced it's way from her eyes, and glistened on that seamed cheek like a jewel.

Her dream must have been a happy one, for after the tear came smiles that brought back some of the girlish fairness of a face that in other days had made a picture of beauty in a happy home. She stirred in her slumber and put out her hands appealingly as she murmured "Mother!" The turnkey turned away and busied himself with the lights that were already shining their brightest. Perhaps there were tears in his own eyes that made them seem dim to him. Who knows?

He remembered when this wretched wreck was an innocent girl with every prospect of a happy life, and here to-night a thing of shame, battered and weary from her contact with the world, a bloated, disgusting object she lies asleep on a prison floor, talking in her dreams of mother. To-morrow in the court-room she will stare grimly at the mocking crowd, and receive her sentence with unconcern. But when again the gray shadows wrap in sombre hues the city's streets, and the night hides in its mantle of blackness the outlines of hill and valley, the softly gleaming stars will peer with tenderest glance through the iron bars that guard the dingy window and see a kneeling woman, with flying hair and tear-wet eyes, gazing steadily Heavenward, while her drawn lips, bloodless and thin, shape and utter in pitiful tone, the dearest name on earth—Mother.—M. Quad.

Baby Alligators.

Mr. L. I. Stephens has made a discovery. To begin at the beginning let us say that during the centennial he carried about seventy-five alligator eggs to Philadelphia, securely packed in moss, intended as Florida curiosities. When he went to open his box, lo! seventy-five alligators beamed upon him. Since then Mr. Stephens has been buying alligators' eggs and placing them in a large box over his store sandwiched between layers of damp straw. He says that this makes a hot-bed, the temperature of the attic being considerably over 100 degrees during a warm day. Whenever the straw becomes dry he sprinkles a little water over it. The period of incubation, he says, is about two months. He has had a nest of 800 eggs undergoing this treatment for the past seven or eight weeks, and the young alligators are beginning to come forth. On Wednesday about twenty of them came to time, and eight more on Thursday. Whenever they are almost ripe the eggs turn dark, and he can hear the youngsters wobbling about trying to effect an exit. If the incipient saurian is unable to smash his pent up Utica by himself, Mr. Stephens renders him the necessary assistance. And so our resources continue to develop.—Florida Times.

—A curious sale took place in Detroit recently, Coup's circus being sold by the Sheriff to satisfy numerous judgments of creditors. Quite a number of circus proprietors and representatives of the zoological gardens at Toronto, Ont., were present. The hippopotamus brought $2,960; the gnu $625; a pair of porcupines, for the Cincinnati Gardens, $56; monkeys, $14 each; eight cockatoos, $72; a pair of lions and one leopard, $1,250; three hyenas, $90; a couple of Malayan sunbears went to the Cincinnati Gardens for $220; a South American jaguar, $136; a kangaroo, $100.—Detroit Free Press.

—Dr. Deaker, of St. Petersburg, treats diphtheria by first giving the patient a laxative, and when its operation has ceased he gives cold drinks acidulated with hydrochloric acid, and then a gargle of lime-water and hot milk in equal parts every two hours. His method has been very successful.

Why are Ministers Funny?

A man was arrested in New York for laughing at a meeting of the "Salvation Army," and when brought before the judge and asked why he laughed he said at the close of the services a man said, "A collection will now be taken up. Trade dollars will be accepted." The judge decided that the remark was made to create laughter, and acquitted the prisoner. This incident may be food for thought on the part of certain ministers who are in the habit of making "cunning" remarks in the pulpit. What do they do it for? Do they want people to laugh, or do they want them to come as near laughing as possible, and not laugh. Every attendant at churches can remember remarks made by ministers that were evidently intended to touch the risibles, and yet if the audience laughed, the minister would be offended. Beecher often makes remarks that cause a broad smile all over the house. Suppose a hundred people in the audience could not stop at a smile, but that they should laugh so as to shake the roof, wouldn't Beecher be the one to blame? We have heard a Methodist ministers in Wisconsin, who is now President of a college, say funnier things in the pulpit than we ever wrote—which isn't saying much for the fun of his remarks—and it was all we could do to keep from brusting into a laugh. If we had laughed as hard as we did next day, in conversation with the same minister, when he said things not half as funny, he would very likely have instructed his sexton to fire the red-headed man out of the church. What did he say the funny things for, in the solemn church? Certainly it was not to make his hearers cry. We have heard an eminent preacher, formerly of this city, say things in the pulpit that were as full of humor and sarcasm as words could be, and yet his face was as mournful as the tune, "Hark from the Tombs a Doleful Sound." Let him say the same things in camp, while the boys were sittings around a trout dinner, and the woods would ring with laughter. Now, what was he driving at? Did he want his hearers to laugh, or did he want them to smile and look around at friends in other pews as much as to say, "Well, he's a trump." There ought to be an understanding about this thing. If preachers want us to laugh, when they say a funny thing, let them say so. We do not suppose the minister who started his prayer, "O Lord, we come before thee under the auspices of the Rock County Agricultural Society," wanted anybody to laugh, though he might just as well have added, "Admission twenty-five cents. Children half price." Guess the next time we go to church and a minister says something funny we will laugh, and get arrested.—Peck's Sun.

A Horrible Beast in a Sewer.

One of the most remarkable incidents that has yet come to light—or rather to darkness—in North St. Louis is recorded, and although the hero in the case escaped with his life, he is not particularly anxious to go on any more exploring expeditions, even when they are in the interest of home comforts and requirements. Billy Prant is a well known meat-shop keeper, doing business on Ninth street, near St. Louis avenue. He resides at Elliot and Sullivan avenues, and the Rocky Branch sewer carries away the offal and refuse of the locality. For some time Mr. Prant has had trouble with his sewerage, and the other afternoon he took his younger brother with him to investigate matters. The sewer is a natural one, and large enough to allow a wagon with a double team to drive through it. From the surface the depth is something over twenty feet, and a rope and a ladder was brought into requisition. Mr. Prant descended through the main hole, which was barely large enough to allow of his descent. He had scarcely entered the sewer when he heard a rushing through the rushing stream of water and offal, which sounded as one might imagine the breaking out of a menagerie, and by the uncertain light he saw plunging toward him a monster dog, with eyes bloodshot and emitting sparks of phosphorescent fire. The animal was about two and a half feet high, and was heavy set, of the bloodhound species with a crossing of mongrel blood, and probably weighed as much as a deer or a colt. He was howling madly, and his white, gleaming fangs were bared in a manner which evidently meant business. The beast was covered with short white and black hair, and was endowed with other characteristics which were peculearly interesting and worthy of research. Mr. Prant, however, remembered an important end of the ladder, and, after breaking the paralysis of fear, he moved up the rungs as quickly as possible, and not a moment too soon, leaving the beast howling fiercely at the foot, and expressing its rage in canine shrieks, which were fairly blood-curdling. The younger Prant heard the noise below, and felt the ladder shaking violently, and his heart stood still until his brother appeared in daylight, looking blanched and agitated. Mr. Prant soon got back to terra firma, and postponed investigations of that nature. Mr. J. Kurtzelom, a gentleman who is particularly well posted in matters in that locality, expressed his opinion that the dog must have been carried into the sewer when a pup, and had lived there all of its life. It was too large even to get in through any man-hole, and as for its getting out at any time, that is simply absurd. The only exit is by way of the river, and the animal would be drowned instantly if he ever attempted to get out that way.—St Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Wells in Sahara.

French enterprise is steadily persevering in the work of redeeming the Desert of Sahara by means of artesian wells. A large number of wells have been sunk along the northern border, more than 150 in the province of Constantine alone, and the work is advancing into the interior. One of the curious phenomena which the digging of these wells has brought to notice is the existence of fish and crabs at great depths. The learned engineer, M. Jus, who for twenty years has directed the work, avers that he once boiled and ate a crab which had been drawn up from a depth of 250 feet, and that, moreover, it was of an excellent flavor.—Exchange.

He who always respects himself will always be respected.

Late Fashion Notes.

New silver bracelets are made in exact imitation of the handcuffs worn by criminals.

A pretty dress stuff for children's suits is a crape-finished serge in broken Scottish plaids.

Carnations, marsh-mallows, poppies and ox-eye daisies are the most fashionable flowers for trimming fall round hats of dark straw.

Handsome "Roman" and "Egyptian" pens, clasps, jeweled bands and buckles, made in the United States, are a prominent feature of millinery and cloak garniture this season.

Small capotes of white or tinted satin, completely covered with soft fluffy white ostrich tips, are worn. They are very pretty and becoming to youthful ladies. For their elders the same fashion in black, bronze, brown, garnet and dark green is much followed.

Black silk stockinet jerseys are very stylishly worn with skirts of black velvet and broad sash drapery to cover the joining over the hips, made of moire or black surah deeply fringed on the ends. To the jersey are added a velvet shoulder cape and velvet cuffs which reach to the elbows.

Ribbon, in velvet, moire or satin, is worn in great profusion on dresses and mantles as sashes, bows for draping scarfs and tunics, papillon bows, scattered over flounces and puffings, and loops pendant over kiltings, appearing amid folds of lace, or as edges to bodice and tunic.

Silk batiste, broches and silk grenadines will continue to be worn for some weeks to come. These dresses are always made up over silk to give them a certain rich and firm appearance, which otherwise they would lack, and for this reason they can be worn until late in the year.

The Jeanne d'Arc corsage, open on one side and laced with silk cords, and corslets laced under the arms, alluded to early in the summer, will be much worn with full evening dress this and the coming season. These corsages are cut square, heart shape, or in a V point in the neck, and accompanied by a guimpe and sleeves of white lace, or a chemise Russe of white muslin, embroidered in the varied colors of the dress.

Thick, soft, all-wool serges in heavy distinct twill are brought out this autumn in dark, stylish cloth colors, olive and laurel green, ruby, scabieuse, garnet, putty color, royal blue, wood brown, and in many shades of gray. An attractive material also for the season is wool sateen, a fine fabric, corresponding to the cotton sateen worn all summer, but much more durable and appropriate to the cooler weather. It answers the same purpose as cashmere, but has more body and a smooth satin-like surface.

A pretty street dress of dark olive brown merveilleux is made very short with a close shirring reaching from the waist downward to the depth of twelve inches. Below this are narrow ruffles edged with olive-brown velvet, which extend to the foot of the dress; over this skirt is laid a graceful scarf drapery of the merveilleux arranged à l'Écharpe—higher on one side than the other, and held at the left side with a large bronze enamel slide. The bodice is short on the hips, with long points front and back and is open at the chest over a gauged plastron of the merveilleux. At each side of the opening are wide revers of bronze-brown velvet.

The English walking-coats of hunter's green, admiral blue, mastic, or amber-colored cloth, fastened with silk cords, and brandebourgs or frogs, are more than ever the fashion this season. These chic-looking coats are infinitely more becoming to graceful figures than a cape, dolman, or short visite, setting off the form to fine advantage. The stylish "Dorsay" polonaise of plain cloth in monochrome colors, or of cheviot in miniature checks and stripes, is also highly popular for traveling purposes or promenade dress, overskirts of velvet, silk, satin, or velveteen of a deeper shade than the fabric composing the polonaise.

For autumn wear the very richest lampas velvet, embroidered satins, moire antique, and moire Francais, with satin stripes brocaded in velvet, silk, satin, or velvet raised on gold or silver cloth, are to be used in the composition of the most elegant toilets. These rich fabrics can be employed for jackets, plastron fronts, tabliers, or panels, and in some cases for very grand toilets they are to be used for dresses cut en princesse. Such materials should never be draped, but allowed to fall in long, unbroken folds, with as few loopings as possible; and as to trimming, there should be none except upon the bodice, and here it should be of lace of the richest description.—N. Y. Evening Post.

The Secret of Beauty.

The secret of beauty is health. Those who desire to be beautiful should do all they can to restore their health if they have lost it, or to keep it, if they have it yet. No one can lay down specific rules for other people in these matters. The work which one may do, the rest he must take, his baths, his diet, his exercise, are matters for individual consideration, but they must be carefully thought of and never neglected. As a rule, when a person feels well he looks well; and when he looks ill he feels ill, as a general thing. There are times when one could guess, without looking in the glass, that one's eyes are dull and one's skin is mottled. This is not a case for something in a pretty bottle from the perfumers, or for the lotion that the circulars praise so highly. To have a fresh complexion and bright eyes, even to have white hands and a graceful figure, you must be well. Health, and the happiness that usually comes with it, are the true secrets of beauty.—Prairie Farmer.

There is nothing in this world so pure and undefiled as the love of a lawyer for his client. A recent case in this city proves this. The lawyers won a big case for their client and got him a pile of money, and, with a generosity never before heard of, they have insisted upon not keeping above half of what they recovered, for their own use, and have compelled their client to take the other half. Never again let it be said that it is better to lose all than to go to law and recover everything.—Fall River Advance.

To Paris by Rail.

To those who object to visit Europe on account of sea sickness, the proposition to build a railroad by which one can go from New York to Paris in fifteen days, by an all-rail route, except forty miles on a steamer, or two hour's ride, will be interesting. It hardly seems possible that such a thing can be done, until you read the scheme, which is as follows: "His line of route, starting from the commercial capital of the States, passes through Canada, New Georgia and Alaska to Cape Prince of Wales, whence the passengers are to be conveyed by steamer to East Cape, on the opposite Asiatic coast of Behring's Straits and distant about forty miles from the northwestern extremity of the American continent. From East Cape the iron road to be constructed will cross Russian territory in Northern Asia until it joins the Siberian railway system, already in direct connection, through Moscow and St. Petersburg, with all the European capitals. Mr. Gregory calculates that the distance from New York to Paris, the American paradise, can be traversed by this route in 372 hours, and at a cost of about thirty pounds to each passenger." The thing seems feasible and will do away with two weeks' sea sickness, but probably the danger from railroad accidents and corns from fifteen days' riding in the cars would more than overcome the objection to ocean travel. Still, the chances of discovering the North Pole, by rail, would be worth something. The cost of the proposed railroad would be more millions of dollars than could be carried on all the cars of the present railroads, but that is nothing. People who are thinking of going to Europe, though, should not wait for the new road, as it may not be completed for some months.—Peck's Sun.

IN THE New York Herald we lately observed mention of the speedy cure of Thaddeus Davids, Esq., of the great ink firm, 127 Williams Street, New York, of rheumatic gout by St. Jacobs Oil.—St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer-Press.

—Mr. Woodward, in the Country Gentleman, says if he should plant a new orchard with what he knows now of peach growing, he would "astonish the natives." He would plant wholly of white varieties, and exclusively for drying. For this purpose the white varieties are worth at least fifteen or twenty cents more than other sorts; they come out of the evaporator as white as paper. White dried peaches have sold for forty-two cents a pound when yellow ones brought only twenty-eight cents.

WE LIKE St. Jacobs Oil and observe too that the Rt. Rev. Bishop Gilmour indorses the remedy.—Baltimore (M.D.) Catholic Mirror.

—A wise but forgotten philosopher has said that there are four important boxes in the world—the cartridge box, the jury box, the ballot box and last, but not least, the bandbox.—N. Y. Herald.

"SIGH NO MORE, LADIES!"

for Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is a prompt and certain remedy for the painful disorders peculiar to your sex. By all druggists.

—A gentleman, whose vocabulary was mixed, wished to praise a certain lady reader. "Yes," said he, "besides being a very fine elocutionist, she has a great deal of ejaculation.

WOMAN AND HER DISEASES,

is the title of a large, illustrated treatise, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., sent to any address for three stamps. It teaches successful self-treatment.

—E. M. Hotchkiss, of Westville, Conn., has a Maltese cat which has adopted a mouse, and the cat and her kitten play with the mouse without any appearance of antipathy, and the mouse likes them.—Boston Post.

ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVES.

On the appearance of the first symptoms, as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night-sweats and cough, prompt measures of relief should be taken. Consumption is scrofulous disease of the lungs; therefore use the great anti-scrofulous or blood-purifier and strength-restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections it has no equal. Sold by druggists. For Dr. Pierce's treatise on Consumption send two stamps. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

—To remove fruit stains mix two teaspoonfuls of water and one of spirits of salts and let the stained part lie in this or two minutes and rinse in cold water.

"Deserves and Should Receive."

LOUISVILLE Ky, March 19, 1881.

H. H. WARNER & Co.: Sirs—Your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has been used in my family with good results. The remedy deserves and should receive the highest recommendation.

JUDGE ROBERT J. ELLIOTT.

—A hogshead of ale exploded in front of Park Row, New York, a few days ago. Though the force exerted was great enough to throw the head of the cask seventy-five feet into the air, no one was injured.

TWENTY-FIVE cents buys a pair of Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners and makes a boot last twice as long.

—An Alabama man has invented a patent tail for cows which knocks the flies into the middle of next summer.—Detroit Free Press.

"Buchupaiba."

Quick, complete cure, all annoying Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases. $1. Druggists. Send for pamphlet to E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS TO LIVE.

From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in "perfect health," we have the following: "One year ago I was to all appearance in the last stage of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which considerably benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine.

DR. DEWITT C. KELLINGER'S LINIMENT is an infallible cure for Rheumatism, Sprains, Lameness and Diseases of the Scalp, and for promoting the growth of the Hair.

—The law enforcing compulsory vaccination in Switzerland has been defeated by 265,000 majority.

A MAN who eloped with a Wisconsin wife left a note for the husband: "I have tooked your woman; but yu is welcum to my last week's wages, which I didn't draw, and I hoap that squares things."

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED

STOMACH
BITTERS

The true antidote to the effects of miasma is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating the stomach.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

AGENTS
wanted for the best selling book in the United States. Write, and LOOK
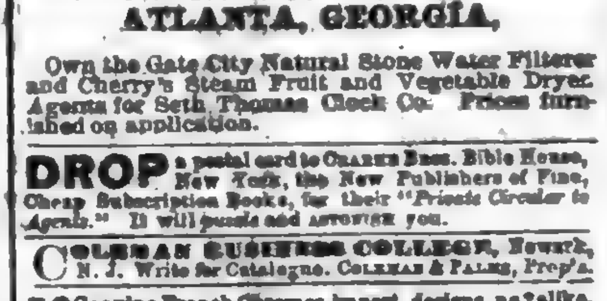
at the terms we offer. Salary and commission to the right men. J. H. CHAMBERS & CO., Atlanta, Ga.

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS.
Send for CIRCULARS.
With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.
Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.



Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

KOCH'S discovery of the parasitic nature of CONSUMPTION was promptly followed by the more important DISCOVERY of a remedy based on Koch's theory, a rational means of CURE which has already proved itself so very successful that a FREE TRIAL is offered to all afflicted with symptoms of lung disease. Address, Box 788, N. Y. City.

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA,
Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filterer and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

DROP a postal card to CHAMBERS BROS. Bible House, New York, the New Publishers of Fine, Cheap Subscription Books, for their "Private Circular to Agents." It will puzzle and ASTONISH you.

COLEMAN BUSINESS COLLEGE, Newark, N. J. Write for Catalogue. COLEMAN & PALMS, Prop's.

50 Genuine French Chromos, import. designs, no 2 alike, with name, 10c. C. H. BRILEY & Co., Meriden, Ct.

PEEKSKILL (N. Y.) Military Academy. Col. C. J. WRIGHT, B. S., A. M., Principal.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!
DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT; a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by C. F. LUHN, Charleston, S. C. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

FIVE-TON
WAGON SCALES $60
All Iron and Steel, Double Brass Tare Beam.
Jones he pays the freight. All sizes equally low, for free book, address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
Binghamton, N. Y.

STRONG'S PECTORAL PILLS
A SURE REMEDY FOR
COLDS AND RHEUMATISM.
Ensure healthy appetite, good digestion, regularity of the bowels. A PRECIOUS BOON TO DELICATE FEMALES, soothing and bracing the nervous system, and giving vigor and health to every fibre of the body. Sold by Druggists. For Pamphlets address P. O. Box 650, N. Y. City.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 146 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

SIX CTS [illegible]

OPIUM HABIT CURE. By B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. Reliable evidence given, and references to cured patients and physicians. Send for my book on The Habit and Its Cure. FREE.

AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest-selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING Co., Atlanta, Ga.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE

DR. HARTER'S
GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in my experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that [illegible] IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some [illegible] cures that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this [illegible] able remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In short, such a [illegible] as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT [illegible]
St. Louis, Mo., Nov. [illegible]
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.
IRON TONIC
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., [illegible]

A CATALOGUE
JUST ISSUED CONTAINING
400 ILLUSTRATIONS
AND PRICES OF
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY
AND SILVERWARE
Will be sent to any address upon application.
J. P. STEVENS & CO.
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - GEORGIA

FAIRBANKS'
SCALES
The World's Standard

COTTON
For Weighing Seed Cotton at the [illegible]
Will more than pay for itself in a Season. Don't be humbuged by cheap and worthless Wagon Scales that are offered at any Price; they are no use and you will be better off [illegible] Scale.
Write to us for Prices and one of our Books giving Testimonials. Don't buy untill you have heard from us, or our authorized agent.
FAIRBANKS'

700 Lb.
SOUTHERN
COTTON BEAM
Frame, Hooks and all other [illegible]
Attachments.
BUY ONLY THE GENUINE
Fairbanks' Standard
SCALES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION
SEND FOR PRICE LIST.
FAIRBANKS & CO.
NEW ORLEANS.

MASON & HAMLIN
ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-2 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, free.
THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

THRESHERS [illegible]
See THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO. [illegible]

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES. [illegible] no form of Opium. Truth invites [illegible] References best in the State. [illegible] tors and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, [illegible]
7 1-2 Broad St., Atlanta [illegible]
Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW RICH BLOOD
Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for [illegible]. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., formerly Bangor, Me.

Probate Judge

The Chilton View.

W. E. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1882. NO. 1.

REST.

will be sweet in the evening, when the day's long labor is done—
I must be up and doing, for my work is scarce begun!

may be dear to the veteran, grown weary of war's alarms—[illegible] longing for battle, the clash and [illegible] of arms!

by and by will be welcome, if I have been faithful and true—there is life to be lived, and I have so much to do!

in the early morning, when the dews were not yet dry, misty summer morning, or ever the sun was high, looked along the road whereby I must presently go, how great was the journey, how fiercely the noon would glow, felt too heavy a burden, and I so weary and worn, before I had labored, and longing for night at morn.

before I had labored; but labor has brought me rest, now I am only eager to do my work with the best.

right have I to be weary, when my work is scarce begun?
right have I to be weary, while aught remains to be done?

be weary at even, and rest will the sweeter be;
blessed will peace be to them that have won the victory!

now is the time for battle—now I would strive with the best:
is the time for labor; hereafter remaineth a rest.

CROCODILES IN FLORIDA.

r Immense Size—Attacking a Boat—les and Teeth—A Ride on a Cayman.

I shot that crocodile in Key Bis- a, Florida, last month," said a er in curiosities to a couple of cus-Alligator, you mean," said a by- er.

No; crocodile."

Never heard of one in Florida."

Well," was the reply, "I won't go the particulars of your ignorance, u re perhaps excusable. Crocodiles lorida certainly are a late discovery, to-day there is not one man in a sand that knows they can be found

How is it they have never been ?" asked one of the group of listen-

In the first place," said the croco- hunter, "they ain't so common; in the second place, when the aver- sporting man sees an ugly critter him ten or fifteen feet long, he apt to examine into specific differ- s. The first crocodile brought from da is in the Smithsonian Institution Washington. Any one can see it, there's a big difference between and alligators. Even the Indians 'Crackers' know the difference. call the crocodiles 'long-nosed ors,' and that's just where the rence comes in. The scientific e is Crocodilus acutus, from their p nose. Their habits are unlike the ors'. These lie around up the riv- n fresh water, but the crocodiles in the salt marshes. The way we across them was all by accident. d been a sponging on the reef, it coming on to blow from the ward, we put into Key Biscayne, ay in the lee of the key. It blew three days, and then we went ashore water, and put the dingy up a creek and of bay that set in. The place narrower as we pulled in, and was grown with bay cedars and man- es. I was just thinking about jump o.e.board to haul the dingy ashore we ran into something. The knocked me over onto the bows, before I could get up I heard a as my mate yelled 'Down e!'—he used to be skipper of a boat—and all hands ducked, ping oars and everything, and the a gater came over the boat and ked out the row-locks, and would knocked a man's head off. We close, I tell you. The boat half The creature made three or four at us with its tail, and then made When we looked over the rail was the biggest 'gator I ever saw. boat was eight feet long, and the was longer than the boat. As as we recovered we—" followed him up, eh?"

o," replied the story teller, "we for the shore in short meter. The got off into deep water, but the day we came back and I had a shot n. He got off and up the creek further, but I put a bullet into this I have here. As soon as we picked up all hands noticed the difference, most of us didn't think it was a odile. It was, however, and there's of them right there waiting to be . But no more crocodiles for me; satisfied with 'gators. They ain't ty, and there's a savage look about ocodile that ain't pleasant. Now, a will come up, lay her eggs, and off, but with a crocodile it's an- story. She stays right near the and pays it a visit four or five times to see if things are going on all She sort o' stands by to see fair while the sun does the hard work. they do come out, the old one scratch around in a clumsy way, try to help them out, all the time ng a kind of barking sound as if was encouraging them to break gh, and it does have that effect.'

I never heard of the voice of a croc- " broke in the objectionist.

Well, voice they have," continued speaker. "A man that lives on the n River told me that he heard a ing and barking one day on the key, thinking a pack of fox hounds had ut he followed it up, to find it was the crocodile; and that's the sound make, a kind of yelping bark. the young come out, she gives the word and off they go after her like chickens after a hen. The young crocodiles are ever fed by the old ones by food disgorged. The males show a great taste for their own kin, and some big fights are seen between the male and female over the young. Anybody to see one on land wouldn't think they could get around, but that's their strong hold. They don't lie around like a 'gator, but stand erect on their legs and jump bodily, and in doing so, they crook up their backs in a curious position."

The crocodile from Florida is similar to those found in the swamps of Jamaica, and should not be confused with the cayman of Northern South America. The specimen in the National Museum at Washington is perfect, and was set up by Prof. Ward, of Rochester. The upper part is dark brown, with a yellowish white under surface: the upper parts of the legs are of deep yellowish tints, green and white. The eyes show a curious membrane analogous to that found in birds, which are not so far from the reptiles as is generally supposed. The mouth is extremely large; the teeth are sharp, those in the middle being the largest and formed for hard work. It is said that though the alligator grows with extreme rapidity, the crocodile grows at the rate of twelve inches in nine months. The cayman and gavial are relations of the above, the latter being the largest, specimens of which having been seen in the Nile twenty-five and even thirty feet long, their long, narrow jaws containing 120 sharp teeth. The marsh crocodile of India is much dreaded, and, judging from the skull of one in the British Museum, which is nine feet long, it is safe to promise for its owner a total length of thirty-three feet. In taking food the crocodiles are much livelier than the alligators, and those of the West Indies have been seen to toss their food in the air, catching it skillfully. They rarely attack people out of water, but there is a case on record in which a priest was followed, the reptile gaining on him by taking the most surprising leaps, bending its back after the fashion of a cat, and making such good time that the bewildered clergyman, after rushing round in a circle in vain attempts to avoid it, was obliged to take to a tree, where he was watched for some time.

Waterton, the naturalist, has probably the unenviable distinction of being the only person who ever rode a cayman barebacked. In his "Wanderings" he says:

"I placed all the people at the end of the rope and ordered them to pull until the cayman appeared at the surface of the water. He plunged furiously as soon as he arrived at these upper regions, and immediately went below again upon their slacking of the rope. I saw enough not to fall in love at first sight, and now told them we would have him on shore immediately at all risks. They pulled again and out he came—'Monstrum horrendum informe.' By this time he was within two yards of me. I saw he was in a state of fear and perturbation, and I instantly dropped the mast, sprang up, and leaped upon his back, turning half around as I vaulted, so that I gained my seat with my face in a right position. I immediately seized his forelegs, and by main force twisted them on his back; thus they served me as a bridle. He now seemed recovered from his surprise, and, probably fancying himself in hostile company, he lashed the sand with his long tail. I was out of reach of the strokes by being near his head, but he continued to strike and plunge, making my seat very uncomfortable. It must have been a fine sight for an unoccupied spectator. The people roared out in triumph, and were so vociferous that it was some time before they heard me tell them to pull me and my beast of burden further inland. I was apprehensive the rope might break, and then there would have been every chance of going down to the regions under the water with the cayman. The people now dragged us above forty yards on the sand; it was the first and last time I was ever on a cayman's back."

By a decree of fashion the crocodile and alligator have become familiar, and the demand for their hides exceeds the supply. Boots, shoes, bags, trunks, belts and innumerable articles are made from it. It is dyed in many tints, but the natural shade is the most desirable, assuming with age a rich chestnut tint. Not only are the hides valuable, but the teeth are made into jewelry, and it is a common sight to see, awaiting the Northern express at Baldwin, Fla., a youth with shirt studs, neck-tie pin, sleeve-buttons and cane head of crocodile teeth, while his grip-sack is perhaps from the same unfortunate reptile. Certain African tribes also affect the teeth, only they are worn in the nose and around the neck.—N. Y. Sun.

—A soldier confined in an English prison for desertion has written a plea for pardon based wholly on the ground that his absence from duty was much lengthened by inability to surrender himself, as nobody would take him back. He says he walked from London to the headquarters of his regiment, and presented himself to the guard, who growled that he "knew nothing about deserters." At the main guard-room he was told that he could not be taken in; he must give himself up to the police. So he started toward London again, meeting a constable in Lewisham road, who told him: "You're no use to me, anyway, now." Finally he gave himself up at a police court.—Chicago Herald.

—When necessity ends, curiosity begins, and no sooner are we supplied with everything that nature can demand than we sit down and contrive artificial appetites.

Lathrop's Disgrace.

Dwight S. Lathrop entered the employ of the Central Railroad of New Jersey two years and a half ago. Judge Francis S. Lathrop, recently deceased, was at that time managing the company under his powers as Receiver. The young man was his nephew, and he gave him a comfortable position at about $1,500 a year, making him nominally an assistant to the Treasurer of the company, having, however, duties of his own and not liable to orders of supervision from any superior officer. He had entire charge of the sale of commutation tickets. This is a source of especially great revenue to the Jersey Central, and the moneys handled by the young nephew of the Receiver aggregated enormous sums. But he was implicitly trusted and there was no one to demand of him any official accounting. Neither was he under any bonds. His manners were pleasant and he quickly became a favorite with everybody in the office. Since his disgraceful departure various stories have been publicly circulated picturing his manner of life in wretched colors. The fact is that he was always rated as an exemplary young man. So far as known, his habits were all to his credit. He did not swear, he never drank, and only smoked when it was necessary to oblige some generous friend. He was held up to the other clerks as an ideal, a virtuous, reliable, moral young man. No extravagances were charged to him. He lived modestly in a Staten Island boarding-house, and seemed to care absolutely nothing for the small vices which are so easily acquired in a great city. Now that he has turned out as he has, the opinion is held by those best informed as to his conduct that he was a cool, calculating thief, and that the greater part of the $20,000 he stole is safely stored away and at his command. His thefts, so far as they can be traced, extend back nearly a year. He had a very simple plan of operation. From day to day he kept out a certain sum from all commutation ticket receipts and certified to the company that the amount of income received by him was the reduced sum. If the receipts for a certain day aggregated $1,000, he turned over to the company say $800, and the other two gravitated into his own pocket. The company's books would show sales of commutation tickets amounting to $800. So he carried things at the dictates of his own sweet will, and so about $5,000 was stolen.

When Receiver Little was recently elected President of the company he decided upon a change of routine management at the main office. He appointed an auditor and the clerks were notified that their books were to be officially examined. A little more than a month ago this intelligence reached young Lathrop. He was at that time doing special work for a sick clerk, whose duty it is each afternoon to deposit in bank the funds of the company. Three days he did this duty, and then suddenly he announced his desire to make a little visit to his parents at Northampton. He left the city for this avowed purpose four weeks ago yesterday, promising to return to work on the following Tuesday. This promise he broke, and a week passed by with no word from him. By accident almost a casual examination was made of his books. There were found the evidences of crime, and a little later it was discovered that the deposits he made at the bank had been for much less sums than had been given him. He had simply changed the face of deposit tickets and added $15,000 or so to his personal fortune. His father had been informed of the sad facts so far as they were known before the final revelations as to the manipulations of the deposits. When he learned of the further crime he was obliged to confess that he could not make the deficit good from his own fortune except by impoverishing himself and family, but the old man did not give up all hope. He did all he could to prevent publicity, and secured the consent of the railroad officers to allow him to try to find his missing son, believing that on his person would be found the greater part of the stolen $20,000. Two weeks have gone by, however, and no trace has been secured of the embezzler.—N. Y. Times.

A Judicious Wife.

A judicious wife, says Ruskin, is always nipping off from her husband's moral nature little twigs that are growing in wrong directions. She keeps him in shape by continued pruning. If you say anything silly she will affectionately tell you so. If you declare that you will do some absurd thing, she will find some means of preventing you from doing it. And by far the chief part of all the common sense there is in this world belongs unquestionably to women. The wisest things a man commonly does are those which his wife counsels him to do. A wife is a grand wielder of the moral pruning knife. If Johnson's wife had lived, there would have been no hoarding up of orange peel, no touching all the posts in walking along the streets, no eating and drinking with disgusting voracity. If Oliver Goldsmith had been married he never would have worn that memorable and ridiculous coat. Whenever you find a man whom you know but little about oddly dressed, or talking absurdly, or exhibiting eccentricity of manner, you may be sure that he is not a married man, for the corners are rounded off, the little shoots pared away, in married men. Wives have generally much more sense than their husbands, even though they may be clever men. The wife's advice is like the ballast that keeps the ship steady.—Rural New Yorker.

Failures at School.

A boy named William Elner died not long since in New York under circumstances of terrible significance to every parent. He had passed into the grammar school in the autumn or winter, and was ambitious to reach a high grade in the next June examinations, in order that his portrait might appear in a certain school journal.

He studied out of school late into the night, giving himself but two hours in the day for recreation. As the examinations approached, the nervous strain upon him became more exhausting, until one day he sank down at his desk, and was carried home to die with cerebro-spinal meningitis.

During his delirium he recited his lessons unceasingly, or scribbled problems on his pillow. The strain must have been terrible, as he was not a weak or sickly boy, which was proved by the fact that he lingered for weeks in the grasp of a disease which often proves fatal in a few days.

In the same week in which this boy died, a young girl in a New York grammar school, failing to pass in her examinations, and made insane by her mortification and disappointment, threw herself into the North River.

Now the dullest observer must see that a system of education which produces such destructive effects upon the immature brains of children, is faulty. The object of education is to strengthen the mental faculties, not to cripple them by loading them with burdens which they cannot carry.

Instead of this, the purpose too often seems to be to force in the briefest time the greatest amount of undigested facts into the pupil's mind, that he make a brilliant show at examinations. By this course dull boys are urged into a course of study possible only to exceptionally clever boys. Unfortunately, the majority of boys are not exceptionally clever, and the boys who are dull at their books should be considered, for they may have other capabilities which will be quite as useful in the world as those of their more scholarly fellows.

It is the duty of every parent to watch and control the training of his child. If he has a quick brain and strong ambition, like this poor boy, Elner, let him be taught at home that there are higher and broader aims before him than class-honors, or the publication of his portrait in a school paper.

Accurate knowledge, sound physical health, a cheerful temperament, and a clear, calm, reasonable mind, should be the real objects of youthful training, and any feverish competition or petty prizes which destroy these should be avoided.

If a boy is naturally slow, and cannot keep pace with his fellows, let him take heart; learn what he can; learn that thoroughly, and go forward toward the manhood that awaits him. Out in the big world where he is to play his part it matters little whether his school average was two or ten. If he is truthful and honest; if what he has learned he has well digested, and he has shown that he is not a sluggard if he is slow; his work is ready and waiting for him there, and the very qualities of slowness and thoroughness may help him to a higher place among men than if he had been Dux every year at school.—Youth's Companion.

Waste in Feeding Corn-Fodder.

The amount of corn-fodder annually wasted on every farm through carelessness is very large. To throw it loosely over the fence into the barnyard in hopes that it may be eaten in place of other provender is only to place it where it can be picked over and finally trampled under foot. It saves time and labor, of course, to feed it in that manner, but it depends on the supply whether such usage will enable the farmer to carry his stock over winter and bring them out in the spring in good condition. The stalks are never eaten when the fodder is given directly from the shock, but, after the blades are selected from them, are wasted. It is the judicious use of corn-fodder that aids the hay to last till grass, and as labor in winter is expensive, in a certain sense, owing to the fact that but little out-door work can be done, the preparation of the corn-fodder for feeding should be made an object on every farm. For this purpose, the cutters used should be of a kind that not only cut stalks into short lengths, but also crush and tear them to pieces after they are cut. As most cutters do this, the manner of doing the work is well known. As to the importance of so doing, it can be safely stated that horses and cattle will eat them when so cut and crushed, especially if they are moistened and sprinkled with bran or meal and seasoned with a little salt. The crushing tears the outer hard covering of the stalks in such manner that stock will not reject them. In fact, they become easily digestible, and when fed in connection with good hay will take the place of it in proportion to the quantity used. It is not claimed that corn-fodder is a complete food, for neither is hay, if animals are to be wintered with the expectation of the best results; but as all stock men make a practice of feeding concentrated food in addition to coarse provender, corn-fodder answers a good purpose when it is prepared, and, while the item of labor is to be considered, it should be remembered, also, that it is much cheaper to keep laborers at work on a farm than to purchase hay, and, as the whole of a corn-stalk can be made serviceable, there is no reason why we should allow any portion to go to waste, especially at times when the stock of hay is insufficient for the winter's demand.—Indiana Sentinel.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Philip Phillips, the "singing pilgrim," has been giving "song sermons" in Exeter Hall, London.

—"Sophie May," whose fresh and animated stories for children have long delighted the little readers, is Miss Rebecca S. Clarke, of Norridgewock, Maine.—Detroit Post.

—The Treasurer of the Norwich & Western Railroad, Colonel George N. Perkins, is ninety-four years of age, and works daily. For seventy-five years he has seen active service.

—Mr. William Thomas, the oldest graduate of Harvard College, died at Plymouth, recently, aged ninety-three years and six months, from paralysis. Mr. Thomas was graduated in the class of 1807.—N. Y. Post.

—Alva Noyes is the only survivor of the war of 1812 soldiers in Brockton, Mass., and the only soldier now living who went to the defense of Plymouth at that time. He was but a lad of fifteen when he enlisted.—Boston Post.

—Joshua Miller, of Madison County, Va., is seventy years old, has had but one spell of sickness in his life, never took a drink of whiskey, coffee or tea, never smoked a pipe nor cigar nor took a chew of tobacco, and has not eaten supper for twenty years.

—Peter Cooper, who was born in New York February 1, 1791, when the city had a population of 27,000, has spent the past few months in preparing his autobiography. His health is excellent, and his mental machinery unimpaired.—N. Y. Graphic.

—The old nurse who rocked Horatio Seymour in his cradle lives on the reservation near Syracuse, N. Y., and is 108 years of age. She has just succeeded in getting a pension of eight dollars a month, with $400 back pension. Aunt Dinah is totally blind.—Buffalo Express.

Counting Up His Loss.

The claim for "indirect damages" at the Geneva Conference made more discussion than anything else, when England was trying to settle with the United States—and the energy with which the point was pushed and resisted made the phrase famous. The principle of "indirect damages," which are often more than one's direct loss by injury or accident, is amusingly illustrated in the following from one of our exchanges:

There was a slight blaze on the roof of a house on a side street a few days ago, and when the assurance adjusters went up to make their survey they found that about two dollars would cover all the loss.

"Two tollar!" exclaimed the owner, when he heard the decision; "I can't take no two tollar."

"But you see for yourself that a few shingles and an hour's work will make good all damages."

"Gentlemens, you don't put me off like dot. Vhen my vhife finds dot der house vhas on fire she screams boleece und falls down sthairs. Would you let your vhife fall down sthairs for dot sum?"

"We do not insure husbands and wives, but buildings," was the reply.

"I know, but mine oldest poy he runs for der fire-box und falls a picket fence ofer, und breaks his good clothes all to pieces. Two tollar! Dot don't pay me for coming op here."

"Yes, but we only pay for actual damages."

"Dot's all I vhant. Who stole my dog vhen my house vhas on fire? Dot dog ish gone, und he vhas ten tollars vort."

"We didn't insure the dog."

"Und may be you don't insure dem poys who sat on der fence und called out: 'Dot old Dutchman's red nose haf set his house on fire!' Do you I expect take such sass like dot for two tollar!

"Und vhen der fremens come here dey break my clothes-line down mit ter ladders, und dey spilt vasser all ofer my carpets.

"Two tollar! Vhell, vhell, you go right avhay from here, und I takes dot old insurance policy und puts him under der mudt!"—Youth's Companion.

Anæsthetic Bullets.

A German chemist has invented a new kind of bullet which, he urges, will, if brought into general use, greatly diminish, if not altogether remove, the horrors of war. The bullet is of a brittle substance, breaking directly it comes in contact with the object at which it is aimed. It contains a powerful anæsthetic, producing instantaneously complete insensibility, lasting for twelve hours, which, except that the action of the heart continues, is not to be distinguished from death. A battle-field where these bullets are used will in a short time be apparently covered with dead bodies, but in reality merely with the prostrate forms of soldiers reduced for the time being to the state of unconsciousness. While in this condition they may, the German chemist points out, be carefully packed in ambulance wagons and carried off as prisoners. Whole cities may in like manner be reduced to hopelessness by means of shells charged with the compound. The anæsthetic bullet is also strongly recommended to the burglar and to the householder, no risk of hanging being involved by its use.—St. James's Gazette.

—A new composition for the piano is called "The Cyclone." It must have a very violent "air," and should be adapted to the hand organ, to enable the Italian patriot who manipulates the crank to "raise the wind." It is said that after a young lady played the stormy piece fifteen minutes, she discovered that it had tornado-or off the hinges.—Burlington Hawkeye.

HUMOROUS.

—Christine Nilsson wears a sad and troubled expression, with two rows of pearl buttons down the center and shirred around the bottom.—People's Weekly.

—Late in the day, but better late than never, it has just been discovered that the reason why the Siamese twins got married was because they could not remain single.

—A dummy engine ran over a deaf man in California recently. The deaf man couldn't hear, and the dummy couldn't speak. Hence the catastrophe!—Detroit Free Press.

—On the Rue St. Lazare the other day a chair was seen on which lay a hat with the following notice: "Please don't forgot the poor beggar, who is just taking his breakfast."—Le Figaro.

—It looked very gloomy Monday morning. The sky was heavy overcast and a mist was falling, the air was chill. But before noon an organ grinder appeared. How much we doubt, how little we trust.—Danbury News.

—The neighbors of a woman living on State street, Hackensack, were unable to ascertain how she sprained her wrist until her six-year old son said: "There was a noise in the house last night and pap thought it was burglars, and he kept mam in front of him, and she fell down stairs."—Newark (N. J.) Register.

—The poet wrote that she had a lovely form, and the German compositor got hold of it—the poem, not the form—and informed the world that she had a lovely farm. And that is why a lot of young men of an agricultural turn commenced to woo her for all they—or, rather, all she was worth.—Puck.

—"I believe you are a fool, John," testily exclaimed Mrs. Miggs as her husband unwittingly presented her the hot end of a potato dish, which she promptly dropped and broke. "Yes," he added, resignedly, "that's what the clerk told me when I went to take out my marriage license."—Brooklyn Eagle.

—A dry-goods clerk with a very affected gait had to go to a distant part of the store for some goods for a party of feminine customers. "Walk this way, ladies," he called, as he swung himself off. "But we can't walk that way," cried a pert miss, "we never learned that style, you know." The clerk is now drilling on a more common method.—Chicago Tribune.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—Amarantus retroflexus, a weed which has secured a foothold over wide areas, is cultivated by Arizona Indians for its seed, which is quite prolific, and has been fed to poultry in this State with, it is thought, good fattening effect. A recent analysis by Mr. Babcock shows its root to be "particularly rich in potash."—N. Y. Tribune.

—It is quite commonly believed that in running a man descends at each stride upon the ball of the foot, so that the arch of the foot may serve as a spring to break the shock. In his instantaneous photographs, however, Mr. Muybridge shows that either in walking, running or jumping, man—like all other animals so far observed—alights upon the heel.—St. Louis Globe.

—Prof. Ponfick, of Breslau, has been clearing up some of the popular doubts concerning mushrooms. He says that all the common ones are poisonous, but cooking deprives them of much of their poison, though the water in which they are boiled should be carefully thrown away, and the esculent washed in two or three waters. Dried mushrooms are only safe after four months' keeping.

—The Staked Plains are fast losing their reputation for being a barren desert. Says the Crosby County (Texas) Sun: "We learn from a gentleman just in from that section that the colony of Quakers who are settled on the Staked Plains, in Crosby County, have the finest crops this year that were ever in Northern Texas. They have sent word to the stockmen in that country that they will sell corn at ten cents a bushel less than it can be bought on the railroad, and they will be prepared to furnish any reasonable amount."

—A man in Oregon has invented a way to easily remove sand out of a river. He removed 22,000 cubic yards at a cost of $1,000, while by dredging the cost would have been $10,000. The process is to land a steamer by the stern, anchor her head up stream, and then let her turn her propeller. This loosens the sand, which is carried away by the current. A steamer in that way deepened the channel of the Columbia River eighteen feet, by a width of seventy-five feet, in twenty minutes.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

—Some scientific journals propose that men of science should be called "scientiates, and not "scientists," and that instead of using the phrase "scientific studies," we should rather employ "sciential studies." No doubt these changes would harmonize our expressions very closely with the Italian scienziati and scienziali, but it is exceedingly questionable whether the adoption of these new words would add much to precision of statement, when the words now in use have very definite meanings attached to them.—Philadelphia Press.

—The St. Louis Republican says that the wheat crop of Missouri this year will be about 40,000,000 bushels, raised on 2,000,000 acres of land. In the best counties farms are held at from $[illegible] to $[illegible] per acre, but in others from $[illegible] to $[illegible] per acre. By this it will be seen that the wheat crop of the State is worth as much as the land it is grown on.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 16, 1882.

VOLUME II.

With this issue the VIEW enters upon the second year of its existence.

There are in every community some morose beings who are always prognosticating rain. We have learned to heed them not, and can say, with some degree of pride, that the VIEW has met with the success which was assured from the start.

The paper was established under not a few difficulties. Many of our people were prejudiced against newspapers. This prejudice has subsided, and is no longer a drawback. In our work for an honest living we have labored for the good of the county, and have been sustained and upheld in our labors by her best citizens. Our thanks are due them; and a continuance of their patronage is respectfully solicited.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

The dome of the Washington Capitol is being painted and it will take fifteen tons of white lead.

All the Southern cities which have suffered in the past from yellow fever are contributing generously to victims of the present scourge in Pensacola.

Building operations in St. Augustine, Fla., are unaccountably active, nearly every one being engaged in putting up new houses or altering old ones.

Pawtucket, R. I., with a population of 20,000, is the largest town under town government in the United States, and its citizens by a majority of ninety-six have refused to accept a city charter.

A passage from a Chicago speech by Emory A. Storrs: "We must put the city of our soul where it belongs—away up on those shining eminences where robed in white and throned above the clouds, it shall be bathed in the perpetual sunshine of an eternal fame."

A mob took Andrew Elliot out of jail at Grand Forks, Dakota, and adjusted a rope round his neck; but he argued convincingly that his crime did not merit a death penalty, suggested that a coat of tar and feathers would be about the right punishment. The lynchers took his view of the matter.

Miss Thompson, of Indianapolis, was forbidden by her parents to encourage Van Horn as a suitor, as he was a drunkard. She would not give him up, and eloped with him. He got drunk on the night of their marriage at a Columbus hotel, and she took a train for home convinced that the old folks were right.

It is told of a well known colored preacher of Morgan City that while marrying a couple recently he asked the man? "Wilt thou take this woman to be thy wedded wife and vote for Hon. Taylor Beattie for Congress?" The man readily assented and "the twain were made one flesh." And thus the good work goes on.

Herbert Spencer says Americans have diverged too widely from savages. The savage thinks only of present satisfactions, and leaves future satisfactions uncared for. Contrariwise, the American, eagerly pursuing a future good, almost ignores what good the passing day offers him; and, when the future good is gained, he neglects that while striving for some still remoter good.

The difference of character between the Prince of Wale's two sons says the London World was very remarkably evidenced at a dinner given in their honor in Queensland by the Governor sir Arthur Kennedy Prince Albert victor was silent and thoughtful Prince George all vivacity. The waiters were all Chinamen, and whenever the governor was not looking Prince George gave hard tugs at their pigtails. The Chinamen with true oriental politeness maintained an imperturbable gravity.

Old Maggie Parker was a Cincinnati beggar. She got food in scraps, from restaurants, and did not scorn bits from garbage barrels. Her clothes were given her, and she lodged in a shanty for which no rent was demanded. When the site was needed she secured another free hovel, and implored a poor teamster to move her scant effects. He devoted an evening to the charity, and, in handing a heavy box, thought he heard the chink of coin. Opening the cover, he found bags containing about $6,000 in gold and silver. He declined to finish the job without pay.

A Democratic Deluge.

The result of the elections last week was a veritable Democratic deluge. Our own State again elects a solid Democratic Congressional delegation. Every district in the State had opposition candidates in the field, but the only real contests were in the second, the fourth and the eighth districts.

In the first district Herndon's majority over Smith, Republican, will probably reach 1,800. In the second district, Herbert's majority over Rice is 3,500. In the third district Oates' majority over Millon is 3,000. In the fourth district, where there were two Republican candidates, Gen. Shelley, Democrat, is re-elected to fill the unexpired term from which he was ousted, and is elected to the forty-eighth congress by 3,000 majority over both candidates. In this (the fifth) district Williams' majority over McCoy will probably go beyond 8,000. In the 6th district Hewitt runs ahead of Carpenter, Greenbacker, by some 1,800. In the 7th district, Forney's majority over Bingham will be 3,000. In the 8th district, the majority for Pryor over Shelby, Greenbacker, is in the neighborhood of 1,000.

Indiana is Democratic by 15,000 majority, with a Democratic gain of four congressmen.

Delaware elects a Democratic Governor.

The Democrats gain three congressmen in Massachusetts.

Missouri is Democratic by 60,000 majority.

Michigan elects a Democratic Governor.

Arkansas, Tennessee and the rest of the Southern States have gone Democratic.

The States carried by the Republicans are Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and New Jersey.

In Wisconsin the Democrats gain three congressmen, and in New Hampshire the contest is very close, and the result not yet determined.

Grant, a former Alabamian, is elected Democratic Governor of Colorado. Kansas also elects a Democratic Governor. In Iowa the Democrats elect three Congressmen. Beast Butler is elected Democratic Governor of Massachusetts by 13,000 majority. California send a solid Democratic delegation to the 48th Congress. Pennsylvania goes Democratic by 25,000 majority, while the Democratic majority in New York is something unprecedented in the history of the States. It is near 200,000. The only bad news is from the South: Virginia is still in the hands of the Readjusters; Kellogg is elected to Congress in Louisiana, and Fort Pillow Chalmers in Mississippi.

The forty-seventh Congress contains 154 Republicans, 132 Democrats and 5 Independents. The 48th Congress will consist of 325 members, and its political complexion will be: Democrats 197, Republicans 128. Democratic majority, 69. The Senate will have a bare Republican majority.

The Legislature.

The next event of importance in Alabama is the assembling of the Legislature. This event will come to pass on Tuesday next. Its duties are enough to keep it busy for fifty days, the limit of its sitting. Some provision must be made for the gradual extinction of the credit system as passed on crop liens and crop mortgages. There is a general demand for reforms in the criminal jurisprudence of the State. The prohibition question will be pressed in various ways. The wants of the University must be looked into and its just demands granted. The several counties which are paying no tax must be gotten out of their difficulties. The county convicts should be kept in their counties, as an experiment, and the penitentiary convicts be provided with down to sleep on, roses to smell, and candy to eat. For the latter half of this suggestion we make due acknowledgment to the Selma Times.—Advertiser.

Editor Keller of the Tuscumbia Alabamian is a Southern journalist who deserves a medal for good sense. To a hot-headed politician who invited him out to shoot and to be shot at on the so-called field of honor, Mr. Keller replied through his newspaper: "While I do not intend to reverse the principles, practices, and professions of my life to stand upon the code duello, I am ready and willing at all times to right any wrong I may do to any human being, and equally ready to protect myself in the exercise of all my rights and privileges." A little more such talk would work a needed revolution in Southern society.—N. Y. Sun.

A steady current of imigration towards the South has fully set in. It is not so much from abroad as from the older settled States. The good time so long expected is coming. Northern emigration and capital are pouring in like a flood. We hope the current will not be checked nor the tide cease to flow until the South is overrun by both. Men and money is what the South needs.—Tuskegee News.

The State Fair is attracting a large number of people to Montgomery this week.

Verbena Male and Female Academy.

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

This school is now in session and will continue until June 14, 1883.

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department, per mo.		$1.50.
Preparatory	" "	2.00.
Intermediate	" "	3.00.
Academic	" "	4.00.
Music	" "	3.00.
Contingent fee per term	-	.25.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. ACREE, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy an execution from the circuit court of Chilton county against T. A. Thames, and in favor of J. P. Allen and W. L. Bandy. I will proceed to sell, on Friday, December 1st, at Jamison, Chilton county, Alabama, between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described property, as the property of said T. A. Thames, to-wit:

136 barrels of corn in the shuck.
1361 bundles of fodder.
990 pounds seed cotton.

J. E. LOWE, Sheriff
n16 Chilton Co.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to me by J. A. McNeil and his wife, Mary McNeil, on the 7th day of July, 1882, and duly recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Ala., "in Vol. 12 of Deeds, on pages 153 and 154." I will proceed to sell at the Courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on the following described property, to-wit: The N E ¼ of N W ¼, N ½ of N E ¼ sec. 34, township 23, range 13, S ½ of S E ¼ and E ½ of N E ¼ of S E ¼ sec. 27, township 23, range 13. W. A. COLLIER.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 22, 1882,

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 9, 1882. 2t

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March, 1884, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e quarter of the n w quarter, section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company. By Smith & Cullman, its attornies in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it, by James E. Lowe, and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the 9th day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the eighth day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: "The n w quarter of the s w quarter of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of Nov., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, by Smith & Cullman, its attornies in fact. nov9

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife, Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August, 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 22, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Smith & Cullman, its attornies in fact.

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

Ehrman Again
To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next

TEN DAYS.
TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.
MEAT PER POUND 15c.
GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.
Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.

Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eighths) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.

BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.
LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of

CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,

and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES
FURNISHED TO FARMERS
AT COST!

R. Ehrman.

Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West

Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON,
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

NOTICE NO. 1872.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Luther R. Friday, Homestead 7216 for the w ½ of the s w ¼ section 28, township twenty north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis G. Martin, John M. [illegible], and Jasper V. Friday, of Plantersville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville.
oct26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Dr. J. P. Givhan,
(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my18-ly

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

J. F. MAULL. J. R. HOCK

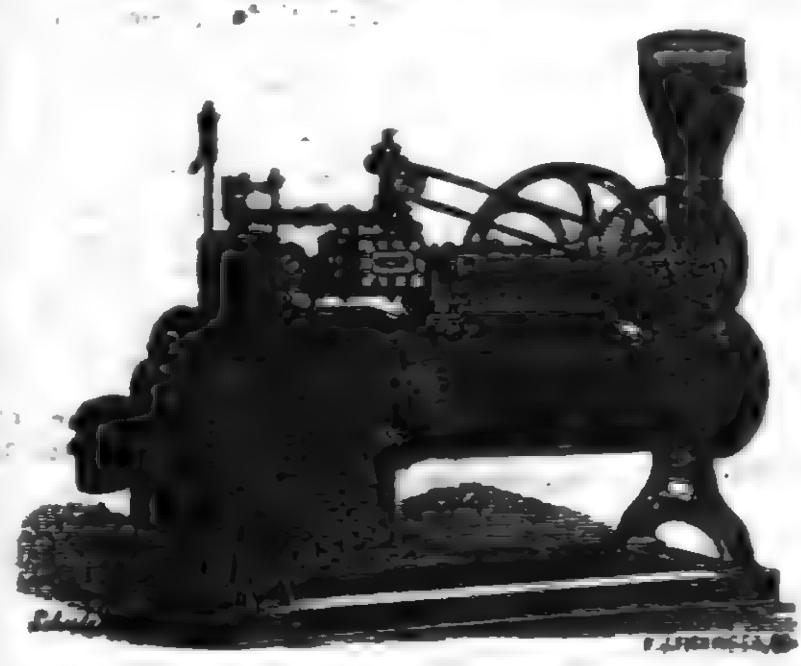
MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,
Lomax, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMILY
SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HA
Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinwa
Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles a
FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CORN

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the World



ENGIN
OF ALL
FROM TWO TO HUNDRED POWER,
—AND—
OF ALL KI

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WHE
The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,
General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham,

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing House,"
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
—DEALERS IN—
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing G

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

THE AMERICAN UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA

An entirely new and enlarged edition complete in 15 V

SOME REASONS WHY
THIS WORK
Is Superior to all Other
CYCLOPÆDIAS!

It contains more matter than any other Cyclopædia ... is brought up to a later date than any other Cyclopædia.

It embraces over 40,000 Titles, being a verbatim reprint of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with 15,000 Titles added on American subjects.

Its type is large and clear; its Paper, Presswork and Binding first-class.

IT IS CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER CYCLOPÆDIA PUBLISHED.

Its price in Cloth being $25 per set.
Its price in Sheep being $35 per set.
Its price in Half Russia being $40 per set.

Specimen pages sent to any address on application. Agents wanted in all parts of the country. Liberal Terms [illegible]. Send for circular.

S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher,
74 and 76 Beekman St., N. Y.

NOTICE NO. 1884.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: George E. Reid, Homestead [illegible], for s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec. 28, township twenty, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Barnes, Sampson Friday, John Reynolds and Luther R. Friday, all of Callierville, Ala.
oct26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1883.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November twenty-five, 1882, viz: Sampson Friday, Homesteads 7568 and 11284, for the [illegible] n w ¼ and n w ¼ of n e ¼ [illegible] sec 28, township twenty north, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: George E. Reid, William [illegible] John Reynolds, and William [illegible] of Callierville, Ala.
oct26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one [illegible], and one [illegible]. A good stable on lot, [illegible] feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and is in the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL.
Sept. 14-tf Lomax, Ala.

H. L. Wheel
GENERAL
Real Estate Ag
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Will buy and sell lands for June13-ly

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Divis—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. B. bbh.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. rtig.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congrenal District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwards.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. ewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith,
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honcutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

CHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

HEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

North	Daily Mail	Going South
7:40 a. m.	Selma Arr	7:73 p. m.
10:36 "	Calera Lve.	4:40 "
5:40 p m	Rome "	10:10 a m
7:18 "	Dalton "	8:05 "
8:45 "	Cleaveland "	7:03 "
11:35 "	Knoxville "	3:30 "
1:01 a m	Norristown "	1:45 "
4:15 a m	Bristol "	10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

ward	Daily Mail	Westward
11:00 a m	Selma Lv.	4:30 p m
ve 8:50 "	Demopolis "	7:00 "
ve 5:35 a m	Meridian Arrive	10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications anton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. , first Saturday in each month at 7 lock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge . K. of P. every second and fourth urday nights in each month, at 7 lock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., ets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

For Thirty Days.

Every one subscribing for this paper tween now and the first of December, l receive it until January 1st, 1884, one years' subscription price ($1.50). e year and two months for $1.50. We ke this offer in order to increase our ulation, though old subscribers can e advantage of it as well as new. member the offer will be open for rty days only.

See notices of Sheriff's sales to ke place on December 1st.

The Legislature is in full blast, l will do much good work it is ped.

Mrs. R. H. Knox and Miss Mollie nnon are attending the Fair in ntgomery.

Rev. O. N. Dobbs filled the pul- at Clanton Baptist Church, on Sabbath.

An article on our first page head- "Failures at School," is worthy consideration.

Rev. J. Falkner has been called fill the pastorate of the Baptist urch at this place for the next r.

Thursday, the 30th inst., is the set apart by the President, as ay of national thanksgiving and ayer.

Prof. Acree, Principal of the Ver- na Academy, was in Clanton last urday, and gave us a pleasant l. He reports his school flour- ing, with eighty scholars in at- dance.

Miss Teresa Ternan is visiting atives in Mobile, and some of young men are wearing dole- countenances in consequence. e predict that some of them will nt Mobile this winter.

We have been shown by the ex- ss agent at this place, a card taining a table of reduced rates money packages, which will en- e remittances to be sent at a er rate than through the post- ce, within the territories of the thern and Texas Express Com- ies.

A negro convict, Dave Clark, kil- another negro, Jack Tarbley, at tt Saw Mill, last week. Clark serving out a five years sen- ce for murder, and was at work the Pratt Saw Mill Co. All but eight months of his sentence d expired. There had been a agreement between himself and rbley, and he called the latter after dark and stabbed him t as he reached the door. The und was in the left side and ickly resulted in death. Clark aped.

Maplesville Dots.

The latest Fall to our memory.

Miss Lula DuBose is on a visit to her sister near Orrville, Ala.

Mr. W. A. Fountain, of northeast Perry county, has made 780 bushels of rice this year, which he is shipping from here to Mobile. His locality produced about 2,000 bushels.

We hear that Mr. Thomas Parnell will remove to Texas.

Miss Julia Fisher, of Selma, is on a visit to Mrs. Waterworth.

BIJOU.

Benson Dots.

Farmers are now sowing wheat generally throughout the neighborhood. Wheat, oats, rye and barley should be sown extensively.

The hog crop is scarce here, Cholera and the scarcity of corn in the early fall caused the death of many hogs. What few are left are fine—having been fattened on the heavy crops of nuts and acorns.

Mrs. J. H. Gibbons and daughter, Miss Emma, have just returned from a visit to Prattville, and with them Miss Bessie Carvile, who is visiting friends and relatives in this community. Miss Bessie is a star young lady.

Isaac Davenport has made 97 gallons of molasses from the ribbon cane, besides having 3,000 stalks for seed. All from half an acre of land. Mrs. Sims made 100 gallons from a like quantity of land. What an independent people we could be if we only would be. Everything necessary to sustain life can be raised here. Still we will not. A little more cotton to be planted for the merchant. The raising of cotton and nothing else will bankrupt any country.

BENSON.

The following extract from the Alabama Progress is part of an article headed "Text Books." It should be read. Our town is to be congratulated that a competent teacher is in charge of her academy.

"With competent and conscientious teachers, any one of the series to which we have alluded, is sure to prove a success—a most gratifying and glorious success.

Right at this point lies the trouble—right at this point the difficulty, as to the school room work, begins and ends. There is no "discount"—none worth a controversy —on the text books in use. But the educational business is burdened with incompetent teachers. Give us good teachers and there will be no trouble about text books, so far, at least as success in the school room is concerned.

But, as we intimated, the trouble lies in the head that directs the use of the books. It is safe to say that there are at least 2,000 teachers—so called—in Alabama, who are lamentably unfit for their business. They ought themselves to be pupils rather than teachers. No matter how excellent and unexceptionable the text books may be, the schools must fail more or less, so long as they are entrusted to incompetent hands. Text books cannot remedy this evil. There is but one remedy for it. That remedy is money. Good teachers can be had, but they cannot be had as a general thing, for the miserable pittance now paid the large majority of teachers in Alabama. We are hopeful that this evil, and at no distant day, will be remedied by a larger appropriation from the State by a liberal donation from the Federal Treasurer and by local contributions in the township to their own schools."

Barbara Scott, an aged spinster of Montreal, was the owner of property worth $400,000, but she lived for years alone in the family mansion with only an old and decrepit man for a servant, and in such squalor that the Board of Health once interfered. She died alone, and partly from starvation, having for a long time denied herself proper food. She left her estate, by a carefully written will, to a number of charities and churches. Three cousins contested it in the courts, producing plenty of evidence of Miss Scott's eccentricities, but the Court has decided that she was in her right mind, and that the will is valid.

Mr. Alfred Bethea died at Verbena, on Monday, the 6th inst. The deceased was a highly respected citizen, a genial companion, and a warm friend, and his death causes a shock of pain to all who knew him. He leaves a wife and several children. Mr. Bethea was the son of the late Hon. T. B. Bethea, of Montgomery, and his wife was the daughter of the late Col. M. A. Baldwin. His remains were interred in Montgomery.

Frost at Pensacola.

A good frost at Pensacola on Monday. There were eleven new cases and one death reported the day previous, from the fever. The total cases to date are 2,337, deaths 193. No new cases since Sunday. Quarantine restrictions are being removed.

NOTICE NO. 1828.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 27, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 9th 1882, viz: Elbert Walker, Homestead 12246 for the n ½ of n w ¼, s e ¼ of of n w ¼, n e quarter of s w quarter, sec 18, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: James M. Stanfield, Allen Sims, and A. H. Edwards, of Mountain Creek, and Eli Crenshaw, of Wadsworth, Ala.

nov2 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1895.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 8, 1882, viz: Cyrus M. Culp, Homestead 7558 for the s w quarter of s e quarter, section 14, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Stephen Baker, Peter S. Prim, James M. Bivings and Gus Gordon, all of Clanton, Ala. Thomas J. Scott, Register.

nov2*

NOTICE NO. 1856.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 27, 1882, viz: Roda Klener, Homestead 12198, for the s w ¼ of section 24, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Milton Fuller, Jesse B. Hardy, James L. Williams, and William F. Roebuck, all of Maplesville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, ots Register.

NOTICE NO. 1870.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Lula G. Martin, Homestead 7126 for the s e ¼ of the s e ¼, section 22, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John M. Runnels, Jasper Y. Friday and Luther R. Friday, of Maplesville, Ala., and Henry J. Cote, of Callierville, Ala.

o26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1871.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: John W. Runnels, Homestead 7127, for the e ½ of the n w ¼ sec 28, township 20 north, range 11 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, Luther R. Friday, Henry J. Cole, Jasper Y. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, o26 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1923.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 19th, 1882, viz: James T. Jones, Homestead entry No. 7597, for the n w quarter of the n e quarter and the n e quarter of the s w quarter, sec. 10, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Peyton Finley, Aaron Goings, Lafayette F. Rollins, John Pearson, all of Mountain creek, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,

n16 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1936.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 13, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 23, 1882, viz: George W. Mims, Homestead 7684, for the s w ¼ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼, w ½ of s w ¼ sec. 2, township 22 north, range 15 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Franklin, Beston Woodward, William Y. Mims, and John Franklin, all of Clanton, Ala.

n16 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric applyances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. jy1-1y

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

H. Houpt,

WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store

—OF—

W. M. WILSON,

—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock

—OF—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,

And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices. "Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR

Cigars and Tobacco

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

—CALL ON—

I. FORST,

2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ The cheapest place in the city.

June 20-6m

Ternanville Ahead!

Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1

A Good Pair Pants $1.

A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS,

My stock of GROCERIES, DRY GOODS, HARDWARE, FARMING IMPLEMENTS, and SUPPLIES is complete, and my motto is

Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,

o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

Insure Your Life

—IN THE—

People's Mutual Relief Association,

OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy an execution from the circuit court of Chilton county, against J. A. Thames and T. A. Thames and in favor of J. P. Allen and W. L. Bandy, I will proceed to sell on Friday, December 1st, 1882, at Jemison, Chilton county, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described property, as the property of said J. A. Thames and T. A. Thames, to-wit:

140 barrels corn in the shuck.
525 bundles fodder.
1787 pounds seed cotton.

J. E. LOWE, Sheriff
n16 2t Chilton Co

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"

W. A. CHILD, Proprietor

—DEALER IN—

Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos,

FANCY STATIONARY

—AND—

NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS,

—AGENT FOR—

DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO

Also Estey and Palace Organs,

No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.

☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜

Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE,

Large Stock! Low Prices!

Alonzo S. Elliott,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,

ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.

Cooking and Heating Stoves,

Birmingham, Ala.

IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,

CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,

—AND—

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware,

—ALSO—

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c

—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.

June 20-6m

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN
HAIR
RENEWER
The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.
BUCKINGHAM'S DYE
FOR THE WHISKERS

The Florida Mutual

FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest

FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-6m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF

COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala. J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo. S. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. S. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. jan 1-1y

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST,
CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.

Shaving	10 cents.
Hair cutting	25 cents.

☞ The only barber in the world who never talks. Jul17-1y

Saving Fruit.

It will be conceded that there is great carelessness common in the saving, or rather the not saving of fruits for winter use. The value of fruit that is lost every year through absolute negligence is enormous. Indeed taking us as a whole, we store our fruit without regard to system, and depend mostly on luck to keep us in fruit during the winter. This waste is reprehensible at all times, but more especially when fruit is scarce. This season certainly is a good one to begin the exercise of care in such matters, if we have never exercised it before. Fruit is scarce. With many it will be difficult to preserve a winter's supply even with the most careful management. To such the advice to adopt some effective system of preservation will surely be timely, while those who may happen to have a surplus will find it to be greatly to their pecuniary interest to be guided by such counsel. Carelessness in picking, it is hardly necessary to say to any one, must be avoided. Fruit that is roughly handled in gathering can not be expected to keep well, and all who are engaged in picking, therefore, should be compelled to handle the fruit with care. The owner of the orchard does not always do this, but usually a man takes pretty fair care of his own. If any reader should happen to be an exception to this rule, he can hardly expect that help will be different from himself. As a general thing, however, fruit growers suffer the most severely, in the direction indicated, through the carelessness of help. It is so difficult to get those who will perform their duties conscientiously, that the farmer and fruit grower is liable to great damage almost all the time. It will be judicious, therefore, to keep a strict surveillance over those who are employed to pick fruit, and in most orchards the job will not be so extensive this year to make that difficult, if it ever is. The damage done to fruit by careless handling is so irretrievable that it must be prevented, or we might pretty nearly as well not pick the fruit at all.

The practice of placing apples in the cellar too early in the season is altogether too common, and can but result in injury. Apples never should be placed in the cellar until cold weather approaches; until that time they should be kept in a dry building above ground, or in the shade out doors. Keep them just as cool as possible this way until freezing weather is near, when they may be removed to the cellar. Perhaps as common a way as is practiced is to place the apples in a tight barrel. For a time they will keep perfectly in this way, but if left too long will rot. How long then should they remain barreled? We can not answer the question, which is equivalent to saying that some better way is advisable; and the best way that we know of to preserve apples is to place them singly on a shelf, where they can be readily inspected, and those which show signs of decay removed. On a large scale this might not prove practical, but the average orchardist this year will not find such a method very difficult to practice. Of course this method would only be practical for keeping fruit for home consumption anyhow, and unless that consumption is very large indeed, it would be practical.

To achieve the same results in a somewhat handier way, boxes can be constructed deep enough to hold one layer of apples, and of other dimensions to suit the convenience, filled with the fruit, and piled one top of each other to a convenient height. In fact this is a better plan than exposing the fruit on open shelves, for it is protected from the changing currents of air that come from the ventilating windows. The boxes should be made with some care, so that the bottom of one box will act as a lid and fit very closely to the box below it. When examination of the fruit is to be gone into, the top box is first examined, the decaying fruit removed, and the box placed on the floor. Then the next box is examined, and placed on top of the first one, and so on until the first pile of boxes is inverted. It is not very difficult thus to examine the store, and it should be examined about every two or three weeks. But even if it is a little trouble, it is the sure way to keep fruit through the winter, for it is a fact that apples from the same tree have not equal keeping qualities, and when we put them up there is no telling which will keep the longest. The line between the good and poor keepers can not be drawn. If for any reason the room can not be perfectly ventilated, the fruit can be slightly exposed by placing the boxes one a little over the end of the other, leaving say an eighth of the top of the box below open.

In this connection it may be well to call the attention of those who may be fortunate enough to have apples for the market to the necessity of packing them tightly in the barrels. Apples that are not thus packed rattle about in the barrel in transportation and are bruised, much to their injury in a marketable point of view. To avoid this fill the barrel well up, and have it stand upon a plank to which is fastened, by means of a chain, a lever. Place the head of the barrel, or a board large enough to cover the fruit, over the apples, bring the lever down upon it, and thus press the fruit down into the barrel. Such a barrel of apples will not be injured in transportation.—Western Rural.

Docked for Lost Time.

At a certain manufactory in Fall River, where there are a number of young ladies employed, it was determined on their part to present their employer with an album and a large family Bible as a testimonial of their regard for him. The money was collected and the articles purchased. On the appointed afternoon the girls collected at the office of their employer, and in a neat speech presented him with their offering. The recipient accepted the gifts and thanked the givers in a few choice words. After conversing some time the overseer glanced at the clock and said: "Girls, I think you had better go back to your work now; you have lost three-quarters of an hour already." The girls were taken aback, and feeling much disconcerted, went back to their work, but great was their surprise and chagrin when the next payday came round to find that the overseer had "docked" every one of them for the time lost in making the presentation.—Worcester (Mass.) Sun.

A Washington Hermit.

Just around the corner from the old Ford's Theater, where President Lincoln was shot, is what appears to be a vacant lot. The tall brick buildings on either side and a high board fence in front, used as a "show bill-board," shut out from passers-by a view of the interior. An enterprising Italian fruit-vender occupies a little recess in the high board fence with his "stand," and contrasted with luscious grapes, bright bananas, and other portions of his stock, are the flaming posters of the minstrel troupe that has just played an engagement at the new Ford's Theater, the attractions of the Baltimore Oriole, and the advertisements of two or three ocean steamship companies. Behind the scenes is, however, one of the most curious objects to be found in Washington. Back of the high board fence are the ruins of a frame house which formerly stood on the lot, and which, by the lowering of the street's level under Gov. Shepherd's scheme of beautifying the national capital, was undermined and fell to the ground. Only the roof remains intact, and underneath it is constructed a room, very much as if a huge dry-goods box had been crowded into the space, in which live John Birch and his sister, both of whom were born in the house that formerly stood on the site; lived there alone after their parents had died, and continue there under its ruins the life of a hermit. They come out upon the street but rarely. If you scan the high board fence closely you will discover the door, covered over with the posters, perhaps, but it is still there, and should it happen when either of the two inhabitants of the place desire to come out that the door is pasted shut, they do not stop to swear, but simply part the posters by crowding the door open, believing that the paper, after all, is beneficial to them in making weather-tight the high board fence.

The existence of John and his sister is known to comparatively few people, yet they live in the center of the city, within arm's reach of almost thousands who pass and repass the place every day. The man's age may be stated at somewhere between fifty and sixty years. He wears a peculiar dress made from the skins of some animals, his breast being entirely bare, though his long beard almost entirely hides it from view. He never goes out in the sunlight, consequently his skin is as white as a child's. The long beard he oils with a peculiar preparation which he himself makes from a mixture like molasses and lampblack. He sleeps generally by day, the sister occupying the couch or "shake-down" by night. Birch was always of a musical turn of mind, and though a stranger to so many people, he has some acquaintance with local musicians, who often take their instruments there for repairs. The music dealers sometimes send him odd jobs of repairing, and the work is skillfully done. Ole Bull, when in Washington, always visited Birch, and Remenyi has also called upon him, the latter once taking his favorate violin to the hermit's home because of some unaccountable interference with its tone, after a number of musicians who had examined it declared their inability to restore to the instrument its lost powers. Birch looked at it a moment, and, taking out the bridge and sandpapering it a little, he tuned the instrument up, and Remenyi at once recognized his violin with all its former wonderful tone.

Birch has devoted much of his time to invention. He plays remarkably upon a sort of accordeon which is constructed of a series of whistles and fifes, a strange combination, yet one that gives forth the sweetest of sounds when in the hands of its inventor. He has also a liking for theories of perpetual motion, and has devoted many weary hours to their study, as a number of partially completed machines of one kind and another which lie around amply testify. He has a little machine, a combination of levers, which will lift, it is said, an incalculable load, yet he never allows anyone to examine the machines, and the results of his genius he keeps to himself.

He doesn't like visitors, and unless one goes in with some musical instrument which needs tinkering, he is soon made to understand that he is not welcome. Birch never comes out on the sidewalk more than two or three times a year, and then after nightfall, when his strange appearance is not noticed by so many people. Once in about a year he goes on a spree and gets so drunk that he generally brings up in the police court, where his remarkable appearence always causes a temporary sensation. I suppose he indulges in intoxicating beverages now and then, but if he does so, they are brought to him. His sister comes out whenever it is necessary to make any purchases at the grocery, but their food is selected to avoid as much as possible the necessity for cooking it. Birch's sister, who is upward of sixty years old, does most of the talking for the family. "John, you know," she will say, "is a little weak-minded, and has no idea of business." When their father lived one of the adjoining lots belonged to the family, but John, by sharp practice, it is said, was induced to sign a deed for it and thus virtually gave the property away. Since being made the victim of knavery he is very slow to talk about selling anything, though the lot on which they live, if improved and built upon, would make one of the most eligible sites in Washington. The Italian owner of the present stand is always jealous of any one who wants to see Birch, fearing that a purchaser of the property will one day happen along, and he will be compelled to move his stand, and it is his habit to mislead those who call and want to pass behind the high board fence by telling them some story about Birch being absent just then.

Washington, it is said, has two or three hermits, but none stranger than John Birch. The Birches, from the earliest recollection of the oldest inhabitant, were a queer people, and were more or less reserved and recluse in their habits. However, a brother of John is famous to-day on the minstrel stage.—Washington Cor. Chicago Times.

—A Denver reporter who essayed to interview a politician at midnight approached the wrong house, was mistaken for a burglar, and came near losing his life at the hands of the suspicious gentleman who lived there.

Negro Superstitions.

While superstition is a very general trait, I believe that I may claim that negroes are, of all races, the most superstitious. They have as many omens as the ancient Romans, some of these being connected with birds, somewhat like the Roman auguries. For instance, if a forest bird takes refuge indoors, as sometimes happens in a great storm, negroes look on this as a certain announcement that death will soon visit some member of the household. I remember one day seeing a bird fly through a window that had been left open to air the room, during a very severe winter, in my childhood. An awe-stricken expression fell on the face of my sable "mammy," who was present. She shook her head and looked gloomily around, and by a strange coincidence not a month elapsed before a death occurred in our household, though of course it might have happened and has happened a thousand times that forest birds have taken refuge indoors without any such result following. We note only the rare chance fulfillment, and not the frequent failure of the omen. A young Southern lady visiting a Northern city one spring, remarked to her hostess one day on the occasion of a wild bird flying into her room during a storm, "That would throw negroes in the South into consternation. They always look on a bird as a messenger of death under such circumstances."

Before the day was over the young lady, by a coincidence, received intelligence of the death of her father's sister.

Negroes also always take it as a sign of death if the "whip-poor will" comes into the porch and utters his note. A great many of them seem to hold doves sacred, and to consider it sinful to shoot them, probably because the Holy Spirit manifested itself as a dove at the baptism of our Lord.

Another superstition they have about birds is, that if they get hold of the combings of your hair and twist them into their nests you will have a headache in consequence. Once when I was complaining of headache in the presence of a negro girl, she said: "You ought to burn up all the combings from your hair, and then your headache would stop. The birds get hold of the hairs you throw away, and twist them into their nests, and that is what makes your head ache." They used to have a mortal terror of being conjured, and this feeling, though on the wane, is not entirely extinct, I believe. Certain negroes, generally old women, got the credit of being conjurers in slavery times, and if they stuck up two sticks under the window of any of their fellow-servants against whom they had a grudge that nigger was considered doomed. I knew a negro woman who fell into a decline and pined away under the belief that she was conjured, and her master could only break the spell by sending her off to a hospital, where she spent six month.

They have many signs and superstitions connected with corpses and funerals. Nothing would induce one of them to sweep beneath a bed on which a corpse was laid. If the grave proves too short they always look on that as a sign that another member of the family will soon die. Their morbid love of seeing corpses and attending funerals is a very marked characteristic with them.

Their movements are very much regulated by the moon, like the tide. For instance, in planting vegetables, killing hogs, making soap, and various other operations, they are careful to select a time when the moon is supposed to be favorable. Irish potatoes are always planted by them "on the dark of the moon," as they call it, and hog killing is also done under similar auspices.

I know of a negro (a half insane one, too,) who extricated himself very ably from a dilemma by the aid of a vision. This negro, partially insane, but not considered sufficiently so to be placed in confinement, roams about the streets of Lynchburg and the adjacent country, wearing a bright, fantastic garb, and sticking gay feathers in his head whenever his aberrations come on. A few years ago he stole (if we may apply that term to an irresponsible creature) and killed a heifer belonging to one of his brethren, an influential elder in his church, who convened a meeting and indignantly summoned him to appear for the offense. The accused listened very coolly to the indictment against himself, and, without denying the charge, replied: "The fact is, brethren, the way I came to kill that heifer was because I had a vision. I saw an angel who told me, 'Rise, Peter, slay and eat,' and I was bound to do as he told me, so I just killed the heifer." Silenced, if not convinced, his accusers disbanded.

I recall another instance of a negro explaining away his conduct by means of a vision. One winter, some ten or twelve years ago, when our Legislature, with a sprinkling of sable representatives, was sitting in Richmond, an important railroad bill, involving the interests of several Northern capitalists, was before the House. There was a negro member who at first voted the bill, but suddenly went over to the other side of the question. On being questioned by a gentleman from the same county as to this sudden change on his part, he explained it away by saying he had seen a vision; that a man had appeared to him and told him that it was very wrong for him to set himself against the people who had freed him. But later it transpired that the vision which had wrought so great a change was a check for a good round sum—a vision that politicians of his stripe are more apt to see than a vision of angels. —Lynchburg (Va.) Cor. Philadelphia Press.

—A quiet man was traveling a short time ago by rail, and was annoyed by the noise which two or three men in the same car were making. One of them had been telling tremendous stories about himself in a loud voice, and had tried once or twice to draw out the quiet man, but in vain. At last he turned to him and said, rather offensively: "I fear, sir, our noise has rather inconvenienced you." "Not in the least," he replied. "I thought," remarked the noisy man, "that you did not seem interested by my stories." "Quite the reverse, my dear sir," said the quiet one; "I am very much so; in fact, I am a bit of a liar myself."

—Genius and virtue, like diamonds, are best plain set.

NOTHING is uglier than a crooked boot or shoe; straighten them with Lyon's Heel Stiffeners. Sold by Shoe and Hardware Dealers.

—Coarse salt, in crystals, is the best to use for pickling.

Skinny Men.
"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1. Druggists. Send for pamphlet to E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.
AUSTIN, TEXAS, February 28, 1881.
To Mr. J. W. Graham, Druggist:
Dear Sir—My case was an acute form of Bronchitis, and was of one and a half year's duration. I employed the best medical aid possible, but failed rapidly, until the doctors said I would die—that my case was incurable. Thrown upon my own resources I got a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and in six hours felt a decided relief. In three days the cough almost disappeared. Now that my chances of life are good for many years, I earnestly recommend the above to every sufferer of throat or lung disease. C. G. LATHROP.

FOR dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility, in their various forms; also as a preventative against fever and ague and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH
BITTERS
Old fashioned remedies are rapidly giving ground before the advance of this conquering specific, and old fashioned ideas in regard to depletion as a means of cure, have been quite exploded by the success of the great renovant, which tones the system, tranquilizes the nerves, neutralizes malaria, depurates and enriches the blood, rouses the liver when dormant, and promotes a regular habit of body.
For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

THRESHERS The Best is the Cheapest. Illustrated pamphlet free. THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, O.

SOLD by Watchmakers. By mail, 25c. Circulars free. J. S. BIRCH & CO., 38 Dey St., N. Y.
WILL WIND ANY WATCH
WEAR OUT

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR [illegible] stamps or silver. L. A. L. SMITH & CO., Sole Agents, Palatine, Ill.

DROP a postal card to Chautauqua Bible House, New York, the New Publishers of Fine, Cheap Subscription Books, for their "Private Circular to Agents." It will puzzle and astonish you.

COLEMAN BUSINESS COLLEGE, Newark, N. J. Write for Catalogue. COLEMAN & PALMS, Prop's.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE

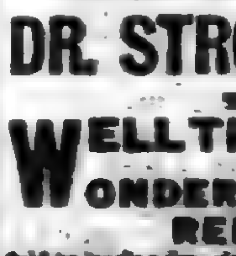
AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest-selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.

NEW RICH BLOOD!
Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps.
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE
ATLANTA, GEORGIA,
Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filters and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED!
DR. WM. HALL'S
FOR THE LUNGS. BALSAM
Cures Consumption, Colds, Pneumonia, Influenza, Bronchial Difficulties, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Diseases of the Breathing Organs. It soothes and heals the Membrane of the Lungs, inflamed and poisoned by the disease, and prevents the night sweats and tightness across the chest which accompany it. Consumption is not an incurable malady. HALL'S BALSAM will cure you, even though professional aid fails.

DR. STRONG'S PILLS
THE OLD
WELLTRIED HEALTH
WONDERFUL RENEWING
REMEDIES.
Sold by leading druggists. For circulars and almanac with full particulars address P. O. Box [illegible], N. Y. City.



This N.Y. Singer, $20
With $5 set of Attachments Free. Warranted perfect. Light running, quiet, handsome and durable. Sent on test trial-plan when desired. [illegible] Also sent on test trial-plan if desired. Elegant case, magnificent tone, durable inside and out. Circular, with testimonials, free. Ad. G. Payne & Co. 47 Third Av. Chicago

TRUTH [illegible]

HEALTH IS WEALTH!
DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT; a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by C. N. LYNCH, Charleston, S. C. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS.
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
720 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

AGENTS WANTED!!
CHAMBERS' Dictionary.
Men of Ability on salary and commission, for Chambers' DICTIONARY of Universal Knowledge.
Just out. The most Useful and Compact Literary Achievement of the Age. Has no competition. No Peddlers or postal cards wanted. Send stamp for full particulars. Address our house nearest to you. J. H. Chambers & Co., ST. LOUIS, MO., Chicago, Ill., Atlanta, Ga.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

SAMARITAN
CURES AND NEVER FAILS.
NERVINE
Is unfailing and infallible in curing Epileptic Fits, Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Scrofula and all Nervous and Blood Diseases. To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or Kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, SAMARITAN NERVINE is invaluable. Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system. For sale by all Druggists.
THE DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-4 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.
THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

KIDNEY-WORT
THE GREAT CURE
FOR RHEUMATISM
As it is for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, LIVER AND BOWELS.
It cleanses the system of the acrid poison that causes the dreadful suffering which only the victims of Rheumatism can realize.
THOUSANDS OF CASES of the worst forms of this terrible disease have been quickly relieved, in a short time PERFECTLY CURED.
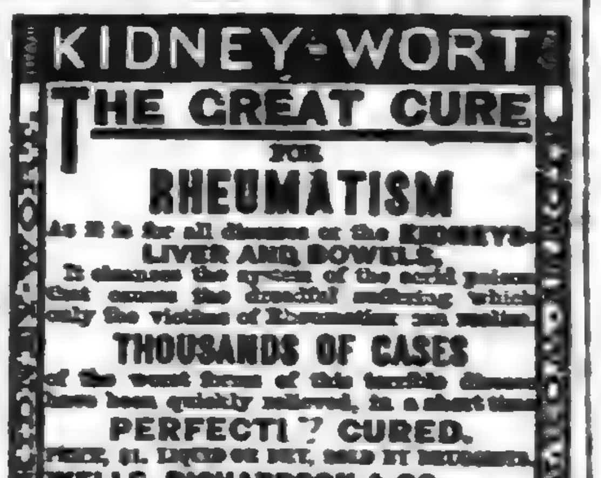
PRICE, $1. LIQUID OR DRY, SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.
WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO.,
Can be sent by mail. Burlington, Vt.
KIDNEY-WORT

BAPTIST MINISTERS or laymen can make money as agents for the Baptist Benevolent Bureau. Address REV. J. S. WHARTON, Gainesville, Fla.



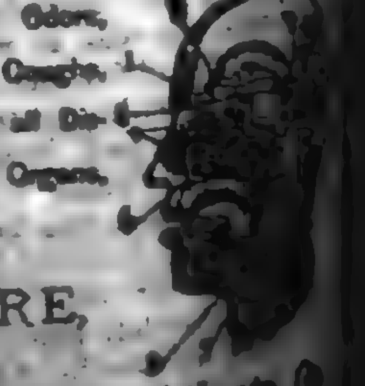
THE MASSILLON
LIGHT and HEAVY SAWMILLS, strictly portable. Also SAWMILL ENGINES. Built by RUSSELL & CO., Massillon, Ohio. Send for Catalogue and Price List. (Name this paper.)

62 Chromo Cards, with name and case, 10 cents. G. R. RISLEY & CO., Meriden, Ct.

THE DIAMOND DYES.
10 CENTS FOR ANY COLOR.
The Simplest, Cheapest, Strongest and most brilliant Dyes ever made. One 10 cent package will color more goods than any 15 or 25 ct. dye ever sold. 24 popular colors. Any one can color any fabric or fancy article. Send for color card and be convinced. Fancy cards, samples of ink, and pkg. dye, all mailed for 10 cts. WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Burlington, Vt.

DR. HARTER'S
A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so characteristic of other iron preparations.
GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SANDERS, 514 Wash Av.
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 2nd, 1881.
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
IRON TONIC
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO. 213 N. MAIN ST. ST

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, Neuralgia, [illegible] Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use
EUREKA CATARRH CURE,
A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.
Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to
J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atlanta, G



A CATALOG
JUST ISSUED, CONTAIN
400 ILLUSTRAT
AND PRICES OF
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JE
AND SILVERWARE
Will be sent to any address upon
J. P. STEVENS & C
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - GEORG

FAIRBANKS'
SCALES
The World's Standard
COTTON
For Weighing Seed Cotton at the G
Will more than pay for itself in a Season. Don't be humbuged by cheap and worthless Wagon Scales are offered at any Price; they are no use and you will be better off with a Scale.
Write to us for Prices and one of Books giving Testimonials. Don't untill you have heard from us, or our authorized agent.
FAIRBANKS'

700 Lb.
SOUTHERN COTTON BEA
Frame, Hooks and all other required Attachments.
BUY ONLY THE GENUINE
Fairbanks' Standard
SCALES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTI
SEND FOR PRICE LISTS
FAIRBANKS & CO,
NEW ORLEANS.

[illegible] IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MI
Send for CIRCULARS.
Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.
Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM

Pub. Union, Atlanta, Ga.......

KOCH'S discovery of the parasitic nature of CONSUM was promptly followed by the more important DISCOVERY CURE which has already proved itself so very successful that a FREE T is offered to all afflicted with symptoms of lung Address, Box [illegible]

H. J. Callen

The Chilton View.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor.

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum

VOL. II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1882. NO. 2.

SCHOOL'S TOOKEN UP.

boys have come back to their schools,
Ah, me!
o violate grammar and rules,
So free.
e lawless joke, and the stealthy grin,
e slinging wax, and the crooked pin, e expelled talk, and the whispered din,
Ah, me!

e faces chalked on the outer walls,
I see;
nd the ceiling stuccoed with paper balls,
Ah, me!
e shuffling feet on the gritty floor,
e inky face at the class-room door,
e sudden pinch and the muffled roar,
Ah, me!

questions brisk and the answers slow,
Ah, me!
e "I forgot" and the "I dun'no,"
Just see!
four tims seven is twenty-nine;"
e is a town on the River Rine;"
rge is a verb 'n agrees with wine,"
Ah, me!

rimace and giggle, grin and wink,
Dear me!
s and whisper—who can think?
Ah, me!
ouldn't it be a better rule
o let the boy grow up a fool, er than send him back to school
And me?
—Burlington Hawkeye.

A BIG NUGGET.

o Hundred and Twenty-seven Pounds of Solid Gold.

the early times in California claims re small and road-agents numerous, d men, if they found a nugget of ex- ordinary size, were afraid their ound might be jumped or themselves bbed and perhaps murdered going e, and thus kept the largest gold s a secret until they could get out the mountains and the State. The following facts, that have never before been print, I came across in a most singular way, and I can rely on the word of narrator: In 1851 and 1852 I ed with a man from Massachusetts med John Dage on several flats and ers around Downieville and the iddle Yuba. In 1853 I lost sight of , but heard that he had gone East. 1858 I went with the rush to British olumbia, and worked out a good im, and then took a trip to Australia. going from Sydney up to the mines e camped on a creek by the roadside, here a great many teams stopped on eir up and down trips, as water supply in that dry climate was a long way art. The great teams and American agons arrived along toward evening the creek in a perfect stream.

As we were eating supper we heard teamster's voice that I thought was miliar, and driving into camp, I rolled among the teams, and almost the first man I met was my old Downieville partner. He was most glad to see e, and I being so recently from owniville he requested me to call ter he had fed his animals and eaten s own meal, to talk over old times in alifornia. He owned the whole titout at he was driving—was freighted up, arrying hides, tallow and other colonial product on his own account for ack freight. He had married in the ountry, and was doing a profitable usiness with his team.

After talking of old times here in California, the whereabouts of old friends d acquaintances, he said: "By the , George, you never knew why or how left California so suddenly." I answered, "No;" but he had not slipped om my memory; but many men in the ines like ourselves were missed, and ften turned up thousands of miles away. e said: "I can give you the eventful ory now.

"Well, when we worked together in e summer of '52 on the Middle Yuba heard you tell of the rich claim and oarse gold you found on Slate Castle avine on the South Fork, one mile bove Downieville. Myself and Bill opkins, together with a German artner, went quietly to work in the ummer of '53, and occupied an old abin that had been deserted and the round abandoned. We stripped the laim in another direction, and came cross the lead containing coarse gold, s you had described, and made for two eeks per day per man from one to hree ounces. The ground was getting eeper and heavy to strip, and I started small drift to see how wide the lead as before we stripped further ahead. t was Saturday, about noon. The round continued still to pay, and we ere down in a soft slate crevice, when struck the pick into a bright lump of old that seemed to run into the solid ravel. I tried to pry it out, but it was oo firmly imbedded. Then I worked arefully around it, and it appeared to row larger as I dug the gravel away. We placed one on the lookout to see that no one surprised us, and I tell you we were startled; and after some time I got it loose, and by hard lifting, and there it lay, almost pure gold, nearly the shape of a heart, and it fitted exactly the bottom of the crevice. The quartz attached to it was crystallized, and would not exceed three pounds in weight. We got it in the cabin as quick as possible, in a sack, and placed it under one of the bunks, intending to examine it more thoroughly at night.

"We staid away from town on Saturday and Sunday, and brought it out at night to feast our eyes upon it again, and each guessed it would weigh at least two hundred pounds. We concluded not to take it to town to weigh, but divide it some way; for if it were known there would be intense excitement. We had gold scales, but they would only weigh only one and a half pounds. After some time spent in consultation, Bill Hastings suggested a rough pair of original scales; we piled on rock and iron weighed by the gold scales till we got the balance, and the nugget brought down two hundred and thirty-one pounds gold weight. We burned the quartz, and thoroughly picked it out with the point of a knife; the pure gold brought down two hundred and twenty-seven pounds, and the grand specimen looked more beautiful than ever. If we had taken it to the London express office there would have been the wildest excitement. On Monday we cleaned up the remainder of the crevice, and it paid well, but to us the pay now seemed small in comparison. Now each had enough. We had at least $50,000 to divide, enough to make all three comfortably rich. No doubt we could have made more by exhibiting it, but we could not run the risk. We came to the conclusion to cut it up, divide it, roll each one's share up in his own blankets, and start for the steamer to Panama and the Atlantic States. I went to town on Monday evening, got a sharp cold-chisel made to cut and divide the prize in equal shares, and it took us about all night to cut and weigh it with our rude appliances.

"It seems like vandalism to destroy the grandeur of such a precious specimen of Nature's work. At the first blow of the chisel it sank deep into the pure yellow metal, it was so soft and yielding. Before daylight we had completed our singular dividend. We caved down the bank near the mouth of the drift, took a brief sleep, got breakfast, rolled up our blankets, and passed through town early, not caring to bid any one good-by, and then no explanations were required. We left the cabin and everything for the first lucky ones to possess. There was plenty more gold, no doubt, for the ground we left contained big pay; but we had $16,000 or $17,000 each, and we were satisfied with our good fortune. We tried to appear like three prospectors, carrying our blankets, and passed Goodyear Hill and the dreaded Nigger Tent (then the beat of the road-agents), and hurried to San Francisco, arrived in time to board the next steamer, and landed safely in New York. I have many a time regretted the way we destroyed that natural gold specimen, perhaps the largest ever found in the world, in ancient or modern times.

"When I returned to Downieville after fourteen years' absence, I visited old Slate Castle Ravine and tried it once more, but twenty years had nearly exhausted its riches; still I tried, and made small wages, but its glory had departed. My old partner, Dodge, was an earnest, truthful man. I believe tons of gold were carried below in early times by the lucky ones, and all kinds of advices were adopted to evade the highwaymen, and often large parties went below together, well armed and, perhaps, many a large nugget, besides millions of dollars in gold dust, never saw the light until it was safely deposited in the banks or mints of the Atlantic States."—Downieville (Cal.) Messenger.

The Guatemala Boundary.

From that epoch which was signalized by the fall of the ephemeral empire of Iturbide until the signing of the recent treaty between Mexico and Guatemala, the people of these two countries have been engaged in a constant dipute concerning the true bondary line between the republics. Several times commissioners from either country had traced the boundary line, and definitely marked the northern limit of the ambitious little nation, but as often Guatemala refused to acknowledge the decision of the arbitrators. When Gen. Barrios had destroyed or intimidated the enemies of public peace and begun the work of reforming and and regenerating Guatemala, his Government renewed this vexed question, and began persecuting Mexican citizens who resided in the territory in dispute. The property of Don Matias Romero, Mexican Minister at Washington, was destroyed by the troops of the Guatemalan Dictator several years ago, and Mr. Romero's losses amounted to a large sum. Nor was he the only victim. Many other Mexican citizens were ruined by raiding parties from Guatemala, and several times Mexico was on the point of declaring war against her troublesome neighbor.

The boundary line claimed by Mexico is the same that has since been conceded by Guatemala. Thus a sanguinary war and complications with our own Government has been avoided by the firmness of the Mexican President, the statesmanship and tact of the Mexican Secretary of State, and the diplomacy and good management of the Mexican Minister at Washington. Now both Mexico and Guatemala are rid of this "bugbear" of a war-cloud that constantly hung suspended over them, and are at last on friendly terms. The work of reform that has been going on in Guatemala for the past few years will be continued. Mexico, which has made such vast strides forward in the path of political and material reform, at peace with the entire world, can also devote her attention to the grateful task of developing her vast internal resources and reticulating her beautiful territory with iron bands.

While the American people have the deepest interest in the welfare of Mexico, and rejoice that she has at length, under the progressive rule of Porfirio Diaz and Gen. Gonzales, assumed a proud position in the sisterhood of nations, they are also pleased that moderate councils have prevailed in Guatemalan Government circles, and that war, which once seemed so imminent, has been averted by the prudence and good sense of the statesmen of both countries.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

—To make a good liniment that should be kept on hand ready for use in cases of bruises or sprains: Add one-half ounce of oil of wormwood to four ounces of alcohol.

Spoopendyke Crab-Fishing.

Coming up the river the other day, I saw a middle-aged gentleman in a plug hat and business suit seated in a scow beside an attractive lady, feeling around among a lot of strings pendant from the side of the boat, and warning the lady that she could not keep too quiet.

"Now, my dear," observed the gentleman, "don't you move, because I feel a crab on this line. I'll pull him up until he is in sight and then you slip the net under him. See?"

"Yes, dear," replied the lady, a little flustered as she contemplated her share of the performance. "But, Mr. Spoopendyke, what shall I do when I get the net under him?"

"Scalp him!" retorted Mr. Spoopendyke, drawing slowly on the line. "Now wait, he's there," and Mr. Spoopendyke became even more cautious in his movements. "See him! There he is! Scalp him, quick!"

Mrs. Spoopendyke jabbed the net into the water and swashed around with great vigor.

"What ye doing?" yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, straightening up and glaring at her, as the crab struck a line for Newark Bay. "What'd ye think I had there, the bottom of the river? What'd ye suppose ye was trying to catch, a church? Take it out! Give it here!" and he grasped the lady around the waist and took the net away from her.

"Did I scalp him?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, flushed with her exertions and trembling with her excitement. "Show him to me! let me see what he looks like!"

"Looks like!" roared Mr. Spoopendyke. "He looks like Sandy Hook by this time! Why didn't you scalp him? What's the matter with you?"

"I—I couldn't tell which was his head," faltered Mrs. Spoopendyke, who hadn't seen anything at all. "Pull him up again, and you'll see if I don't scalp the last hair on his skull!"

The English language lost its last charm for Mr. Spoopenkyke, and he turned to his strings with a withering look of contempt for his wife.

"Now you be careful," he said at length. "Here's another varmint, and you mustn't let him get away. When I say 'Scalp!' you shove the net under him and just bring him aboard."

"Can you see him yet?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, waving the net over her head and peering into the water.

"Whit! Yes, there he is! Careful, remember. Now, scalp!"

He must have been a crab of phenomenal scholastic advantages to have gotton rid of that swoop, for Mrs. Spoopendyke, with a view to redeeming herself, went for the end of the string blindly, but with a strength of purpose that made failure impossible. She not only got the crab, but she slammed net, crab and all over Mr. Spoopendyke's head.

'What—wah-h!!" shrieked that gentleman, as he felt himself impounded.

"Lost him again!" exclaimed Mrs. Spoopendyke, who hadn't the remotest idea what a crab looked like. "Why, dear, what's that awful big spider in the net! Good gracious!"

"Take it off!" howled Mr. Spoopendyke. "Take it—wow! the thing has got me by the ear! Haul him off, will ye?"

Mrs. Spoopendyke dropped the handle of the net as if it were an old-fashioned bonnet, and gazed upon her husband in consternation.

"Gast the crab!" yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, tearing the net away. "Let go, ye brute! Wah-ha!" and the unfortunate man wrenched the fish from off his ear and dashed it in the bottom of the boat. "What's your scheme in doing that?" he demanded, holding his ear with one fist and shaking the other at his wife. "Think you've got to eat 'em right out of the water? Got a notion that he came up cooked and you must down him quick or he'll spoil?" yelled Mr. Spookendyke, enraged beyond all control by the sight of the carnage that trickled down his fingers. "What'd ye mean by it?" and he sprang into the air and alighted on the unhappy crab, slipping up and sprawling full length in the bottom of the boat.

"Was that a crab, dear?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, assisting her husband to arise and contemplating the mangled fish with anything but favor. "Is that what you call a crab? I thought—"

"You thought!" ripped Mr. Spoopendyke, kicking at the bewildered crab. "That's the trouble with you—you think! Did ye think I was going to stand here and let that crab chew on my ear till his legs ached? P'raps ye thought he was whispering to me! Maybe ye thought he was telling me a funny story! Well, he wasn't, and if he was his voice was so hoarse I couldn't enjoy it! Ye thought, did ye!" squealed Mr. Spoopendyke, his wrath rising as the pain and fear subsided; "thought a crab talked with his toes, like some women think, did ye! Oh, you thought! If I had such a head as that I'd fit it up with shuck beds and a stick of gum and start a female boarding-school! With your ability to think, you only need a squint and four long words to be a Concord School of Philosophy!" and Mr. Spoopendyke plunged the oars into the water and began to row vigorously.

"Where are you going, dear?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, timidly, after her husband had pulled hard for some time.

"Home!" grinned Mr. Spoopendyke, with a horrible expression of visage. "I'm going home to show the people how much damage a rusticating idiot asylum can do with one measly crab when she pins herself down to it!"

"Of course," assented Mrs. Spoopendyke, humbly, "but say, dear, wouldn't you get on faster if you untied the boat?"

Mr. Spoopendyke turned and gave a sharp look at the bow. Then he hauled his hat down over his ears, stepped ashore and struck out at a brisk walk.

"I don't know," sighed Mrs. Spoopendyke, as I took her boat in tow, "I don't know, but I don't think I care much for crabbing, though I'm not sure but what it's more fun than walking home on the wrong side of the river with no bridge within seven miles either way!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Applying Manure.

Some farmers (or who pretend to be farmers) scoff at the idea of improving the production of prairie soil by stable and barn-yard manures. This is only the outcroping of shiftless and improvident farmers. Others never have any time to haul out manure. In the winter it is frozen in a solid mass, so that it can not be moved. In the spring the ground is so soft that it is almost impossible to haul it, and making mortar of the soil to be farmed. In the summer there is no place to spread it, as the crops occupy the ground. In the fall—well, what is in the way now? It is probable, however, that the manure pile has been bleached and soaked in sun and rains until there is none of the virtue left in it. It has been filtered by the heavy summer rains until it is not worth anything.

The right way is to haul out manure as it accumulates, when it is fresh and valuable. Then the soil, just where you want it, gets the leechings. Keep stables and yards clear during the winter. Take it to the fields before it freezes. Then the farm gets the full benefit. Keep up the practice in the spring. The current accumulations can be taken out, if the soil is muddy. And a good farmer can always find a place to spread usefully the summer manure. It is fashionable for farmers to ride in their wagons to the fields when plowing. The manure can be as easily thrown into the wagon in the morning, when cleaning stable or cow yards, as it can be thrown in a heap to waste. Take it daily to the field, and it is a rare thing if a good place can not be found for it.

But if it has accumulated during winter, spring and summer, now is the time to haul it out, if it is not worth half price. In the older parts of the United States good stable manure sells for eight dollars per cord, and the farmers find that it is profitable to pay that for it, and haul ten or twenty miles. Some men let manure accumulate until they have to move their stables. But this class generally soon move to Kansas or Nebraska, as mortgages accumulate about their farms as fast as manure piles about their stables.—Iowa State Register.

Curing Hay.

The question of whether hay could not be cured by other than the common and often destructive method now in vogue is being closely investigated by the experts and farmers of England.

The old and original method was to let the grass first get well ripened, then cut it with the reaping hook or scythe, turn it frequently with the fork to dry or ripen in the sun and the next day put it in cocks. After a few days make the whole into stacks or ricks, or put it in the barn.

After this came mowing machines, horse-rakes, tedders, self-loading wagons and hay-forks, and tackling for unloading and placing the hay in the barn or ricks.

Under the first system there was often heavy loss and always some injury from exposing the grass so long to the weather, which could not always be depended upon. Modern appliances have materially hastened the process of getting the hay cured and in the barn, but with continuous wet weather there is still much risk that should if possible be avoided. To overcome this trouble many experiments are now under trial with more or less success. One method proposed is to stack the grass while perfectly green, with considerable layers of straw between layers of the grass, with an open passage in the center of the stack for the moisture to pass out. This has not been discovered to prevent a certain amount of mold forming on the hay.

Machinery with drying apparatus attachment has been tried, but not sufficiently economical and expeditious to prove a success. Farmers, however, should put their wits to work to compass this subject, for it will never do for all time to let the hay crop, the most important one often on the farm, be entirely at the mercy of a spell of bad weather that is liable to come at the time it is most hurtful.—American Dairyman.

—A steamer that was sunk in eighty feet of water two years ago in Lake Huron has been raised, and her cargo, consisting of 500 barrels of porter, fifty cases of gin, and 100 cases of brandy, all imported goods, has been found unharmed, and, having lain so long under water, has escaped duty. The present owners paid $2,000 for the steamer and cargo, and $6,000 for the work of raising.—Chicago Herald.

—Mr. P. T. Barnum has given large burial lots in Mountain Grove Cemetery, Bridgeport, Conn., to the firemen and the Grand Army of the Republic of that city. The fire department had requested him to lecture in behalf of their effort to procure a fund for the purpose, and he replied that he had frequently told the people of Bridgeport about all he knew (and not much at that), and must decline boring them with a lecture, but he would give the firemen a lot.

The Alexandria Massacre.

An Arab Christian family consisting of four adults and four children, who were driven out of Alexandria, arrived in this port on Saturday and are now lodged at Castle Garden. The adults include a woman. All are clad in European attire, and compared with the emigrants of other nationalities surrounding them, present a very superior appearance. One of the men, Mohanna Baraka, speaks English well, and acting as interpreter for the party told a Graphic reporter a story of rare interest this morning in connection with the recent stirring events in Egypt. His modesty of manner and the deportment of the whole of this little band of refugees were such as to impress one with the honesty of the statement.

Mohanna Baraka said he was an Arab Christian, having lived in Alexandria all his life. As far back as he knew, his ancestors were Christians. They were all Presbyterians, having been converted by English and American missionaries. One of his earliest friends was the Rev. David Strang, now of Lincoln, Tenn., but twenty-five years ago a missionary in Alexandria. The speaker learned English and became a teacher in the missionary schools. He was teaching a Bible class on Sunday, the 11th of June, the day upon which the first outbreak in Alexandria occurred. All the members of his family, including several aged people, were in attendance that afternoon. The services were proceeding with the usual decorum, when suddenly the father of one of the pupils entered the school, and, after announcing the fact of the outbreak, took his child home with him. The school was located in the section of the city known as Bactaria, or the Jewish quarter. The teachers tried to quell all fears, but noises were heard in the streets, and as they grew louder something like a panic ensued. The children were badly frightened, the women fearful and the men nervous. School was hastily dismissed and all advised to go home. The speaker with the members of his family acted on this advice. Before they had gone very far, however, they were met by a party of Mohammedan soldiers who, shouting: "Down with the Christian dogs!" charged on them. They would undoubtedly have been killed had not the speaker's brother-in-law, one of the party in Castle Garden, interfered. He was not known to be a Christian and he threw himself in front of the family, commanding the soldiers to desist. They obeyed the command, and the family escaped uninjured. The adventure filled them all with terror, and they made their way home as quickly as possible, reaching it in safety. To do so, however, they were obliged to avoid the sight of other Mohammedan soldiers who were rushing through the streets bent on murder and plunder.

The adventures of this family formed part of the inauguration of the terrible massacre that took place in the fairest part of the city before sunset the same day. The soldiers encountered by them upon leaving the Sunday-school were on their way to the carnage, but had as yet probably killed no one. The speaker said that if they had spilled one drop of blood before meeting his family the latter would not have escaped torture and death.

Towards dusk, the speaker said, the city was quiet. The reign of terror seemed to be over. He had not himself witnessed the awful deeds of the semi-savage soldiers, but the brother-in-law who had acted so heroically near the Sunday-school saw many of them. Other members of the family also saw Europeans bayoneted before their eyes. They described the scenes as too terrible to ever forget. Men shrieked and cursed, and women wailed and went mad with horror. The streets ran red with blood, and the soldiers whose faces and hands were smeared with it looked like fiends.

When the day's work was done Government employes ran about the city to inform the populace that all need of fear was over. The Europeans were housed by that time, and could hardly be assured that their lives were not still in jeopardy. They had no faith in the power of the Government to subdue so ferocious and sudden an outbreak. They began to venture out, however, and it was then that the speaker saw hundreds of corpses carted to the sea and thrown in. He at once determined to leave the country forever. It was difficult, however, to get passage away. The fifth day after the massacre found him and his family on a steamer bound for Malta. Thence they journeyed to Marseilles and Bordeaux, embarking at the latter place on the 30th of last month for this city.

Where he will go to settle he has not yet decided. The children speak a little English, but the other adults only Arabic. While conversing with the reporter, Mohanna Baraka received a letter from Rev. Mr. Strang, written in Arabic. The reverend gentleman had been apprised of their arrival. While Baraka read the letter to the family they grouped themselves about him, forming a very interesting picture. Their soft manners and genteel appearance have made them favorites with the Garden officials. In close proximity to them sat a crowd of Turks, wearing the fez and smoking vile tobacco. The roughness and uncouthness of the latter, their sinister faces and ignorance, contrasted strangely with the appearance of the Arabs, indicating probably the difference between the influence of the religion of the Cross as against that of the Crescent.—N. Y. Graphic.

ALTHOUGH it is thought that the pawnbroker is an imposition on the public, still he will thrive so long as people continue to "put up" with him.

Professor Haeckel's Life in Ceylon.

My great resource as an article of diet was the fruit which abounded at every meal. Next to the bananas of every variety, of which I consumed several at every meal, my standing dessert consisted of mangoes (Mangifera indica), egg-shaped green fruit, from three to six inches long; their cream-like golden pulp has a faint but distinct aroma of turpentine. The fruit of the passion-flower (passiflora) was very pleasant to my taste, reminding me of the gooseberry. I was less pleased with the renowned custard-apple, the Annona squamosa, and with the Indian almond, the hard nut of the Terminalia catappa. There are singularly few apples and oranges in Ceylon; the latter remain green, and are not juicy; but want of cultivation is doubtless chiefly answerable for the inferiority of this and other fruits; the Singhalese are far too easy-going to make any progress in horticulture. Refreshed with my modest repast, I employed the hot hours of mid-day—from twelve to four o'clock—in anatomical or microscopic work, in making observations and drawings, and in the preservation and storing of my collected objects. The evening hours, from four to six o'clock, were generally occupied with some lovely country excursion; sometimes I made a water-color sketch, sometimes I sought to perpetuate one of the beautiful views in photography. Now and then I shot apes and birds in the woods, or collected insects and snails, or hunted among the coral reefs on the shore, adding many curious objects to my collection. Richly laden, I returned to the Rest House an hour or less before sunset, and worked for another hour at the preservation and arrangement of my specimens. At eight o'clock my second chief meal, or dinner, was served. The piece de resistance at this was again the inevitable curry and rice, followed sometimes by a fish or a crab, which I enjoyed immensely, and then by some dish composed of eggs or meal, and finishing again with delicious fruit. The important question of "what to drink" seemed likely at first to prove a difficult one. The ordinary drinking water of the low lands of Ceylon is considered very bad and unwholesome, the highlands, on the contrary, being rich in springs of the purest and freshest water. The great rains which fall daily on the island bring down a mass of mineral and vegetable deposit into the rivers, and the stagnant water of the lagoons is not unfrequently in communication with them. It is not customary to drink the water unless boiled or made into tea, or with the addition of claret or whisky. My friend Scott had given me an abundant supply of the last-named beverage, but on the whole I found no drink so pleasant and refreshing, as well as wholesome, as the fresh milk of the cocoa-nut.

My frugal dinner at an end, I usually took a solitary walk on the shore, or delighted my eyes with the sight of the illumination of the palm woods by myriads of fire-flies and glow-worms. Then I made a few entries in my note-book or tried to read by the light of a cocoa-nut oil lamp. But I was generally quite tired enough to go to bed soon after nine o'clock, after another careful shaking of the clothes for the expulsion of scorpions and millipeds.

The great black scorpion (nearly a foot long) is so common in Ceylon that I once collected half a dozen in the course of an hour. Snakes exist also in great numbers. Slender green tree-snakes hang from almost every bough, and at night the great rat-snake (Coryphodon Blumenbachii) hunts rats and mice over the roofs of the huts. Although they are harmless and their bite not poisonous, it is by no means a pleasant surprise when one of these rat-snakes, five feet long, suddenly drops through a hole in the roof into one's room, occasionally alighting on the bed.

On the whole, however, my nights in Belligam were but little disturbed by animal intruders, although I was often kept awake by the howling of jackals and the uncanny cry of the Devil-bird (a kind of owl, Surnium Indrani), and other night-birds. The bell-cry of the pretty little tree-frog, which make their dwelling in the cups of large flowers, acted rather as a slumber song. But I was far oftener kept awake by the whirl of my own thoughts, by the recollection of the many events of the past day, and the anticipation of that which was to come. A brilliant succession [illegible] ly scenes, of interesting observations, and varied experiences mingled in my brain with plans of fresh enterprise and new discoveries for the morrow.—Deutsche Rundschau.

Cookery by Music.

It is a melancholy thing that the divine art of music should have been degraded to culinary uses, but that a German, of all nationalities, should have been the first so to employ it, is a still deeper humiliation. A Prussian composer has given to the world an "Egg Polka," not named from any fancied resemblance of properties, but for a reason fully explained in the "directions for use" printed on the back of every copy: "Let the polka be placed, open at the first page, upon the piano-forte desk. Then drop the egg into a pipkin half full of boiling water. Set the pipkin on the fire. Then play the polka through in strict time, as per metronome indication. On completing its last bar the egg will be cooked to a turn—that is, its yolk will be firm and its white about as yielding to the touch as the flesh of a ripe plum. Those who wish their eggs hard-boiled will play the polka andante maestoso. The contrary effect will be produced by [illegible] vace rendering of the composition.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. R. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 23, 1882.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

In the recent elections only two republican governors were elected—Hale in New Hampshire, and Dawes in Nebraska.

In this country we do not retain our public men in office as long as the English do. In December Mr. Gladstone will have been a member of parliament fifty years.

Two Omaha women were rivals in the affections of the same man. One was handsomer than the other, and seemed likely to win on that account, when the conditions were changed by a dash of vitriol.

The Blount Springs Advance says: About thirty-five South Carolinians arrived here on Thursday's train. They are going to settle in old Blount, and say there will be about sixty more here next week.

Alexander H. Stephens, of Georgia since his recent election to office has become heartily sick of the title "Governor," which he hears every place he goes. He prefers the prefix which is spelled "mister."

The count of the vote for Governor at the August election, which was made by the Legislature, on last Saturday, gives Gen. O'Neal, the Democratic nominee, a majority of 54,205 votes over Sheffield, Independent.

Gen. Chalmers has been defeated in the shoestring district of Mississippi, through a clerical error. The tally sheet from Tate county showed that Van H. Manning received 8,749, Chalmers 8,257, Chambless 1,472, Carter 129, and Lowery 1. A commission has been issued by the Governor to Manning.

Dan Voorhees, of Indiana, during the late campaign, was making a strong argument against prohibition, and asked "what is to become of the surplus corn, if prohibition prevails?" A sturdy farmer asked him if he really wanted an answer to that question. Dan said if you please. "We will have more pork and less hell," said the farmer to the amazement of the statesman.

Governor Cleveland, the newly elected governor of New York by 164,000 majority or some such trifling matter, was asked by a New York Herald correspondent Thursday night whether Tuesday's Democratic victory means a victory also in 1884. He replied, "Democrats must show the country that their present success means reform of abuses and good government."

So little is heard about the industries of Tennessee nowadays that most people will be surprised to learn that, while two years ago hardly a pound of dried fruit was shipped from Chattanooga, the dealers in that city alone have handled so far this year over 750,000 pounds. Knoxville and Nashville are going into the business extensively, and lesser places more modestly.

Special to the Cincinnati Commercial: The president is once more at home in his cottage at the Soldiers' Home. To-morrow morning, it is said, he will begin to write out his annual message to Congress. It will, it is said, contain nothing startlingly new. He is expected to renew in the general message the recommendation of liberal appropriations for the Mississippi made by him in a special message last year.

The Governor's Message.

About this able document, the Mobile Register has the following: "The message of Governor Cobb is a most encouraging document. It presents a statement of the financial condition of the States which gives promise of a future of increased prosperity. As the Governor says: "Now Alabama has a manageable bonded debt, no floating obligations, a credit equal to that of the richest and most prosperous of the States that were never despoiled by the alien and the enemy, and a treasury altogether too plethoric, while its tax rate has been reduced, and its people, only eight years ago in the Slough of Despond, are prosperous, contented, hopeful and happy."

In view of the enhanced value of taxable property, and the increasing balance in the Treasury, the Governor recommends a reduction in taxes from the present rate, six-tenths, to five-tenths of one per cent. He holds that there should never be more than $250,000 in the Treasury at the close of any year, just enough to safely and surely carry the Government over the January interest payments, after which collections always begin to come in large sums.

There are other subjects of interest in the message to which we will refer at another time. It is, as a whole, a document that reflects credit on Alabama, and Alabama's chief executive.

Alabama Legislature.

The organization of the Legislature was perfected on Wednesday, by the election of officers for the Senate and House.

The officers of the Senate are: President, Geo. P. Harrison, of Lee; Secretary, W. L. Clay, of Madison; Assistant Secretary, Thomas H. Clarke, of Montgomery; Enrolling and Engrossing Clerk, W. P. Howell, of Cleburne.

The officers of the House are: Speaker, W. F. Foster, of Macon; Clerk, D. W. McIver, of Macon; Assistant Clerk, H. R. Hood, of Monroe; Engrossing Clerk, W. C. Wallas, of Dallas.

The Governor transmitted his biennial message, which was read at length.

The most important bills so far introduced are:

A bill to repeal the present election law, by Mr. Shelby, of Madison.

A bill to reduce the rate of taxation to one-half of one per centum, by Mr. Brown, of Tuskaloosa, who is chairman of the ways and means committee.

All the standing committees were appointed on Friday.

On Saturday the official count of the late State election was made. It will only be necessary to give the vote for Governor as it varies little above or below the vote for the other offices. The number of votes cast for O'Neal, Democratic candidate for Governor, was 100,591; the vote for Sheffield, Independent candidate, was 46,386.

Mr. Hargrove, from the Senate reported favorably on the bill to prevent speculation in futures; which was referred to committee on revision of laws.

Mr. Swann, in the House, introduced a bill to limit the amount of spirits to be prescribed by physicians in their practice in counties where prohibition exists.

Mr. McCall, to provide for bringing suits in the circuit court in which the clerk thereof is a party or interested therein.

Mr. Dowling, to provide for summary judgments against probate judges and tax collectors.

Mr. Hawkins, a bill to require hirers or lessees of convicts to keep them confined.

Mr. Brown of Tuskaloosa, to make an appropriation for the benefit of sheriffs.

Mr. Shackleford, to prevent the running of excursion or frieght trains on Sunday.

Mr. Hamilton, from the judiciary committee reported a resolution increasing the number of judicial circuits to ten, and creating a committee of one from each judicial circuit to rearrange the circuits.

After quite a discussion, on motion of Mr. Shackleford, the resolution was made the special order for 12 o'clock Thursday.

Mr Moren, a resolution that the judiciary committee be instructed to inquire as to the expediency of amending the law against using abusive language near dwellings, so as to prohibit indictment unless on complaint of some member of the family. Adopted.

Mr. Reynolds, of Talladega, a resolution instructing the committee on public roads and highways to inquire into the feasibility of changing the present system of working the public roads. Adopted.

Also, favorably on the bill to amend section 3025 of the code. [Allows the plaintiff to dismiss suit in vacation by causing entry to be made by the clerk; when summons has been executed, defendant shall have twenty days notice of dismissal of suit.] Passed.

Mr. Hawkins of Barbour, from the committee on agriculture, reported a substitute for the bill to amend section 4325 of the code. [Relates to pursuading laborers and others to leave employment of others and fixes the penalty at not less than $50 nor more than $500.]

Also, from the judiciary committee, reported favorably on the bill to confer upon notaries public and ex-officio justices of the peace similar powers to those possessed by justices of the peace to issue attachments returnable to the circuit court. Passed.

The Vote in the Fifth District.

The following is vote in this district for Representative in the forty-eighth Congress:

	Williams.	McCoy.
Autauga	527	806
Bibb	646	46
Chambers	1,639	940
Chilton	910	10
Clay	608	270
Coosa	1,236	948
Elmore	1,508	1,369
Macon	505	801
Tallapoosa	2,050	690
Total	9,629	5,820

Williams' majority is 3,809.

The bloodhound of the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company broke loose last week and killed the donkey. The dog was rather mean to pick out the best actor in the company.

"Two hundred people listened to a lecture delivered at London, Ont., by Mrs. Scoville, and after it was over passed resolutions expressing their belief in her sanity.

The friends of Gen. Gov. Butler are now pushing him for the Presidency. Gen. Gov. President Butler would be a paralyzing object to numerous finely-organized citizens of Massachusetts, but the American people never hunts through a yardful of angels when it wants a President.—Courier-Journal.

Surveyor's Notice.

I would respectfully inform the people of Chilton county that I have been reappointed county surveyor, and with an experience of thirty years am prepared to do all surveying entrusted to me with satisfaction to all parties. Persons wishing to know where their land lines are would do well to call on me.

H. R. ATCHINSON,
Maplesville, Ala.

Verbena Male and Female Academy.

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

This school is now in session and will continue until June 18, 1883.

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department, per mo.	$1 50.
Preparatory " "	2.00.
Intermediate " "	3.00.
Academic " "	4.00.
Music " "	3.00.
Contingent fee per term	.25.

Good board can be obtained in private families at $9 or $10 per month.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. ACREE, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy an execution from the circuit court of Chilton county against T. A. Thames, and in favor of J. P. Allen and W. L. Bandy. I will proceed to sell, on Friday, December 1st, at Jemison, Chilton county, Alabama, between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described property, as the property of said T. A. Thames, to-wit:

136 barrels of corn in the shuck.
1361 bundles of fodder.
990 pounds seed cotton.

J. E. LOWE, Sheriff
n16 Chilton Co.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March, 1884, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e quarter of the n w quarter, section 13, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company. By Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it, by James E. Lowe, and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the 9th day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the eighth day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: "The n w quarter of the s w quarter of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of Nov., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, by Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact. nov9

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife, Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August, 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact.

Clanton Academy.

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

Ehrman Again
To the Front!

Below will be found a price list which will show how astonishingly low R. Ehrman will dispose of his stock for the next
TEN DAYS.

TEN POUNDS COFFEE $1.
MEAT PER POUND 15c.
GOOD FAMILY FLOUR $6 PER BARREL.
Meal $1.15 Per Bushel.
Calico 5 cents per yard, Domestic (seven-eights) 6½c per yard, Osnaburgs (heavy) 10c.
BROGANS $1.00 PER PAIR.
LADIES SHOES FROM 75c TO $1.50 PER PAIR.

In addition to the above I have on hand a large and well assorted stock of CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,
and everything kept in a house of general merchandise, which will be sold in proportion to above prices.

BAGGING AND TIES FURNISHED TO FARMERS AT COST.

R. Ehrman.
Clanton, Ala., August 24. tf

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West

Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

NOTICE NO. 1872.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Luther B. Friday, Homestead 7208 for the w ½ of the s w ¼ section 28, township twenty north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G. Martin, John M. Runnels, and Jasper Y. Friday, of Plantersville, Ala., and Henry J. Cole, of Callierville.

otsix THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Dr. J. P. Givhan,
(LATE OF SELMA, ALA.)

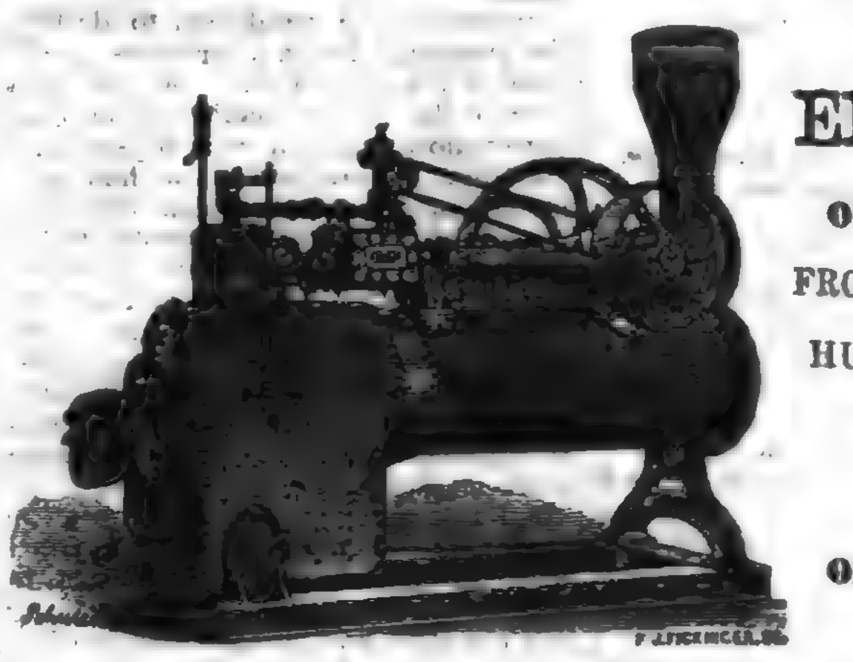
Has located at Lomax, Ala., and tenders his professional services to the citizens of the neighborhood and surrounding country. my18-1y

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.
Lomax, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMIL
SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HA
Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinwa
Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles
FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.
HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR COT

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public pa
MAULL & HOCKENSMIT
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the World



ENGIN
OF ALL
FROM TWO TO HUNDRED HO POWER
—AND—
OF ALL K

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON WH
The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, and kinds of Agricultural Implements.
For Catalogue and Prices address
MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,
General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham,
Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing House,"
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
—DEALERS IN—
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing G

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.
Feb 15-tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,
And Blank Book Manufactur
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECEI PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in bama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send to us.

NOTICE NO. 1884.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: George E. Reid, Homestead 11898, for s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 30, township twenty, range eleven east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Barnes, Sampson Friday, John Reynolds and Luther B. Friday, all of Callierville, Ala.

ots THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 18x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL.
Sept. 1-tf Lomax, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 18

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed intention to make final proof of his claim, and that said proof made before the clerk of the at Clanton, Ala., on Novem five, 1882, viz: Sampson Frid steads 7563 and 11994, for the n w ¼ and n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 30, township twenty eleven east. He names the witnesses to prove his dence upon and cultivation viz: George E. Reid, Willia John Reynolds, and William of Callierville, Ala.

ots THOS. J. SCOTT,

H. L. Wheel
GENERAL
Real Estate Ag
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Will buy and sell lands
June1-ly

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 23, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwards.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr 7:73 p. m.
" 10:38 "	Calera	Lve. 4:40 "
" 5:40 p m	Rome	" 10:10 a m
" 7:18 "	Dalton	" 8:05 "
" 8:45 "	Cleaveland	" 7:03 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:30 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 28, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., meets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Cotton in Clanton 9. In Montgomery 9¼.

See notice of Mr. H. R. Atchinson, county surveyor.

The air out of doors is cold and bracing and colds are fashionable.

S. J. Heath, at Strasburg, is a live merchant, and is getting a large trade.

We would be pleased to have our farmer friends call and give us dots on improved and experimental farming, that we may publish them.

The very low price of cotton has been the cause of the frequent complaints of extreme dullness in trade circles.

Only twelve true bills were found by the grand jury lately in session, and not thirty as was stated by the Selma Index.

Read the announcement of the Verbena Male and Female Academy. This is an excellent institution, and, under the control of its present Principal, is in most competent hands.

R. Ehrman and Billy Wilson the live Clanton merchants who advertise in the VIEW, are enterprising and full of vim. They have splendid stocks. Call on them and see for yourselves.

A bill has been introduced by our representative in the Legislature to establish inferior courts for Chilton, also one to prohibit the hiring of convicts on public works in the county. Neither has yet become a law.

The first number of the Blount Springs Advance has been received. It is edited by W. P. Willoughby, late of the Birmingham Observer. It is an excellent paper, and we wish it the greatest prosperity.

Rev. J. W. Shores, W. H. Lawrence, L. H. Stewart, Rev. W. A. Montgomery, and Misses Georgia Warner and Rosa Thornton were the delegates from Clanton Lodge to the State Temperance Convention, which met in Montgomery on Tuesday.

Mr. W. A. Child, the famous Montgomery Music Bazar man, came out first best at the late Fair in Montgomery, and also at the West Alabama Fair at Eutaw. His exhibits of musical instruments, fine oil paintings and novelties, at these fairs, was very fine. Mr. Child is one of the best advertised men in the country, and added to this, he is a genial, whole-souled gentleman, which, taken together, accounts for his almost phenomenal success. Read his advertisement elsewhere, and send your orders to him if you need anything in his line.

Ella Reddick died at the Pratt Saw Mills last week. She was the prime cause of the difficulty between Jack Tarpley and David Clark, in which the former was killed. It is supposed that this woman died from the effect of blows inflicted upon her either by Jim Gardner or Dave Clark. All the parties are colored.

The State Fair in Montgomery during last week, was not quite up to the expectations of visitors. It is to be greatly regretted that the whole State does not interest itself in this Fair, and have exhibits from every section on the grounds. The institution is well officered, but lack of interest seems to be killing our State Fair.

The canvass made by Rev. Mr. McCoy, the sorehead candidate for Congress in this district, seems to have had about as much effect upon the people of Chilton county as a canonading by a platoon of Lilliputians at forty miles range would have upon the rock of Gibraltar. He was welcome to the ten votes which he received.

The VIEW enters upon its second year under the most favorable auspices. We have been unable to mingle with our fellow citizens in different portions of the county, as much as we would have liked, but are consoled with the reflection that we have been kept too busy at work for the benefit of our patrons to visit and become acquainted with many of them.

We Would Smile Broader

If the air was not so "cool and bracing."

If some of our subscribers would pay up.

If Clanton had a skating rink.

And half a dozen more live merchants.

And if some of the ladies would get up an entertainment for the approaching holidays.

If You Are in Search of a Home

Come to Chilton county.

Here you will find everything to make life worth living.

Everything needed for man and beast.

It is the healthiest section to be found anywhere.

The best people to be found anywhere live here, and will give you a cordial welcome.

This is the home for the emigrant, the working man, and the honest and industrious of whatever trade or profession.

Jemison Jottings.

Health of the community good.

Rev. W. H. McDonald preached his last sermon, for the present Conference hear last Sunday. We regret to learn that there is a probability of his being placed in a new field of labor. He has many friends here who will ever rejoice at his welfare.

Married, in this city, recently, by Isaac Lawborn, Esq., Mr. P. A. Noblett, of County Line, Tenn., and Miss Lizzie Langford of this place. May their path through life be strewn with the flowers of happiness.

Crystal Fount Lodge, No. 87, I. O. G. T., has advanced to a membership of near forty. Prof. A. E. Burns, represented this Lodge at the State Temperance convention.

Jemison has a larger number of pretty young ladies than ever before. Come up. HUGO.

The Mule.

No wonder the mule is a kicker. Were I a mule I, too, would kick. I know just exactly what kind of a mule I would be. A bay mule. One of those sad-eyed old fellows that lean back in the breeching and think. With striped legs like a zebra. And a dark-brown streak down my back, and a paint-brush tail. And my mane cut short, and my foretop banged, and a head as long as a flour barrel, and I'd be worth two hundred and a half in any market, and I'd wear a flat harness and no blinders, and some day when some man hitched me up to a dray, and piled on a ton and a half of pig iron, a cord of wood, six barrels of flower, and a steamboat boiler, I would start off with it patiently and haul it steadily until I got to the top of the grade on the new road around North Hill, and right about there and then a falling maple leaf, fluttering down in a spark of gold and crimson, would scare me all but to death, and the authorities would have to drag the Mississippi River six weeks to find all of that load and some of that driver, while in three minutes after the emeute I would be tranquilly browsing on the grassy heights that smile above the silver flowing river. That is the kind of a mule I would be.—Burlington Hawkeye.

It seems that considerable opposition has developed of late, to U. S. Senator John T. Morgan as his own successor. Want of sobriety is charged against him.

Thanksgiving day next Thursday.

NOTICE NO. [illegible]

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 9th 1882, viz: Elbert Walker, Homestead 1265 for the n ½ of n w ¼, s e ¼ of n w ¼, n e quarter of s w quarter, sec 18, township 20 north, range 15 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: James M. Stanfield, Allen Sims and A. H. Edwards, of Mountain Creek, and Eli Crenshaw, of Wadsworth, Ala.

nov2 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1895.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 8, 1882, viz: Cyrus M. Culp, Homestead 7568 for the s w quarter of s e quarter, section 14, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Stephen Baker, Peter S. Prim, James M. Bivings and Gus Gordon, all of Clanton, Ala. Thomas J. Scott, Register.

nov2

NOTICE NO. 1856.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 17, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 27, 1882, viz: Roda Klener, Homestead 12198, for the s w ¼ of section 24, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Milton Fuller, Jesse B. Hardy, James L. Williams, and William F. Roebuck, all of Maplesville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, ots Register.

NOTICE NO. 1870.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: Lula G. Martin, Homestead 7126 for the s e ¼ of the s e ¼, section 22, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John M. Runnels, Jasper Y. Friday and Luther R. Friday, of Maplesville, Ala., and Henry J. Cote, of Callierville, Ala.

o26 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1871.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Nov. 25, 1882, viz: John W. Runnels, Homestead 7127, for the e ½ of the n w ¼ sec 28, township 20 north, range 11 east.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: Lula G, Martin, Luther R. Friday, Henry J. Cole, Jasper Y. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT, o26 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1923.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 19th, 1882, viz: James T. Jones, Homestead entry No. 7507, for the n w quarter of the n e quarter and the n e quarter of the s w quarter, sec. 10, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Peyton Finley, Aaron Goings, Lafayette F. Rollins, John Pearson, all of Mountain creek, Ala. THOMAS J. SCOTT,

n16 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1936.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 10, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 28, 1882, viz: George W. Mims, Homestead 7684, for the s w ¼ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼, w ½ of s w ¼ sec 2, township 22 north, range 15 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Franklin, Barton Woodward, William Y. Mims, and John Franklin, all of Clanton, Ala.

n16 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju 7-1y

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eye. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov16-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices. "Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 20-6m

Ternanville Ahead!
Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1
A Good Pair Pants $1.
A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

My stock of GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS,
HARDWARE,
FARMING IMPLEMENTS,
and SUPPLIES
is complete, and my motto is
Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,
o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy an execution from the circuit court of Chilton county, against J. A. Thames and T. A. Thames and in favor of J. P. Allen and W. L. Bandy, I will proceed to sell on Friday, December 1st, 1882, at Jemison, Chilton county, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described property, as the property of said J. A. Thames and T. A. Thames, to-wit:

140 barrels corn in the shuck.
325 bundles fodder.
1787 pounds seed cotton.

J. E. LOWE, Sheriff
n16 2t Chilton Co.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS, STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.
Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,
—AND—
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.
—ALSO—
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c
—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.

June 20-6m

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.
Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the
Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-3m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF
COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala. J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo. B. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. B. JOHNSTON, Clanton.
Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery.
Jan 1-1y

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST.
CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.
PRICES FOR WORK:
[illegible]
☞ The only barber [illegible] who never talks. Jul1-1y

How Russian Girls Are Courted.

Love is the same the world over, but "courting" is managed very differently in different countries. Russian courting, among the middle classes, is peculiar. The first Whit-Sunday after the young girl is acknowledged by her mother to be of marriageable years, she is taken to the Petersburg summer-garden to join the "bridal promenade." This consists of the daughters of the Russian tradesmen walking in procession, followed by their parents. Up and down they go, pretending to chat with each other and to take no notice of the young men—the tradesmen's sons, dressed in their best clothes—who walk in another procession on the other side. However, every now and then some young fellow slips out of his proper rank and adds himself to the line of girls on the other side, speaking to one particularly.

The parents of the girl join in the conversation in a few moments, and soon they leave the promenade and are joined by the parents of the young man. Generally, the old folks have talked it well over before, but on this occasion every one pretends to be surprised. On the next day a female confidante calls on the girl's parents and requests her hand. This granted, all the relations on both sides meet and argue about the portion to be given with the girl. If this is not satisfactory, all is at an end; if it is what is expected, the betrothal takes place.

The bride and bridegroom kneel down upon a great fur mat, and the bride takes a ring from her finger and gives it to the bridegroom, who returns the gift by another. The bride's mother meanwhile crumbles a piece of bread over her daughter's head, and her father folds the image of his daughter's patron saint over his future son-in-law's well-brushed locks. As they arise bridesmaids sing a wedding song. The guests each bring forward a present of some sort. Wine is handed about, and some one says it is bitter and needs sweetening. Upon this the bridegroom kisses the bride—the sweetness being supposed to be provided by this kiss—salutes the company and takes his leave, on which the bridesmaids sing a song with a chorus something like this:

Farewell, happy bridegroom,
But return to be still more happy.

Courting-time has now begun. Every evening the lover comes to his lady's home with a present, which is always something good to eat—generally cakes or sugar plums. He makes love under rather awkward circumstances, for the bridesmaids sit about the betrothed pair in a circle, singing songs descriptive of their happiness.

The last evening of the courtship is enlivened by the presentation of the gifts of the bridegroom, which must include brushes, combs, soap, and perfumery. On receiving these, the bridesmaids instantly carry the bride away, and wash her, dress her hair, and perfume her pocket-handkerchief.

Thus touched up, she returns to the company, and the bride's father gives his future son-in-law the marriage portion, which he takes home with him in a neat bag.

The next morning he returns for the lady herself. She receives him with her hair unbraided and flowing down her back. They are married by the ceremonies of the Greek Church, and the old folks never go to the wedding dinner.

Those eternal bridesmaids, whom they must hate by this time, are there, however, still on duty, and the evening closes by the bride kneeling down and pulling off her husband's boots to prove her intention to be an obedient and submissive wife.

Good-natured husbands generally hide jewelry or money in their boots, which the bride may take possession of as balm for her pride. After the wedding day the parents begin to give feasts, and keep it up a week, and it is not until all this is over that the "young couple" see those blessed bridesmaids take their departure. They are then compelled to kiss them, thank them, and give them each a present.—Exchange.

Make an Asparagus Bed.

Asparagus is as easily raised as anything that grows in the garden, and yet it is comparatively rare to find it upon the farmer's table. The reason may be that much nonsense has been published about the difficulties of raising it, and that we have to wait two or three years for the full maturity of the plant. It is true that a full crop will not be given in less than three years, but when the bed is once made the job is done for a dozen or twenty years. If made this fall, there will be one year the less to wait. Any good, well-drained soil that will bear corn is suitable for asparagus. Put in half a cord of manure to every four square rods of ground. Work it in thoroughly. Set out one-year-old plants in rows four feet apart and two feet in the row. (Too far apart for a family bed; one foot or two is plenty far enough.) They can be kept clean with the harrow or cultivator. It should have cultivation once in two weeks through the growing season. Cover the beds with manure in the fall, and fork it under in the spring. Cultivate thoroughly through the second season and top-dress as before. The second season a few stalks may be cut in April or May, but there should be no close cutting until the third year, and this should not be continued later than the middle of June. The plant must have time to grow and recuperate in midsummer or the bed will soon fail. The secret of large, fine asparagus is abundant manure, applied in the fall every season, thorough cultivation until the tops prevent, and stopping the cutting by the middle of June. The blanched asparagus that is so popular in some markets is secured by covering the beds with sea-weed, straw, or other mulch. It is a poor stuff in comparison with the long, green, tender shoots that have had the full benefit of the sunlight on a rich soil.—Fruit Recorder.

—A New York doctor, in response to an advertisement, "wanted a small capital for business purposes," paid a "returned Californian" $500 for an $8,000 gold "brick." The brick not making its appearance, the doctor had the "returned Californian" arrested, but the justice discharged him on the ground that the doctor must have thought that if the brick were genuine the alleged Californian had not come honestly by it.—N. Y. Times.

A Grand Spectacle.

Although Lake Tahoe is not a very large body of water, yet at times it "boileth like a pot." Tremendous gusts of wind rush down the surrounding gorges from the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains most unexpectedly, and those who navigate the waters of the lake in sail-boats must at all times, even in what seems the best of weather, keep a bright lookout for squalls, and be ready to "let go the mainsheet." At this season the lake is very dangerous for small crafts, and there are frequently times when the steamers dare not venture out. A few days ago, at the time when the recent general snow and rain storm was brewing, some gentlemen of the Comstock, who were at Tahoe City, witnessed a grand and remarkable spectacle.

The day was windy and the lake rather rough, but a number of persons stopping at the hotel—our Comstockers among the number—concluded to go to the end of the long wooden pier and try their luck at fishing. They had not been long at the end of the pier before their attention was attracted by a great roaring. Looking across the lake in the direction of Glenbrook they saw a regular cyclone approaching. Before the hurricane came a long, unbroken wave, at least fifteen feet in height. Knowing that this would sweep the whole line of the pier, all present beat a rapid retreat to the shore. When at a safe distance the party turned to gaze upon the incoming wall of water. While thus employed they were startled by a tremendous roaring to the northward, and a moment after a cylcone from that direction struck the lake. This sent before it a huge wave which had soon attained the height of that coming from the southward. In a few minutes the two waves came together. When they struck a column of water and spray was sent into the air to the height of at least one hundred feet. The collision of the two waves was followed by a report that sounded like a heavy clap of thunder. A moment after this grand shock of the waters five or six huge waterspouts made their appearance, all within an area of three or four miles, and carried great columns of water and spray to the height of several hundred feet. These circled to and fro over the lake for some ten or fifteen minutes, and then one after the other subsided, and for a time thereafter there was almost a dead calm.

Waterspouts are very frequently seen on the lake at this season. This is owing to the peculiar situation of the lake, under the crest of the main ridge of the Sierra Nevada range of mountains. When a fierce gale from the west crosses the ridge it plunges down the great canyons, and thus are brought to bear on the lake conflicting currents of air. When a hurricane is blowing from the west immense volumes of air appear to be dammed up and compressed behind the ridge of the Sierras, which at times escape and come over and down the gorges in tremendous puffs. No navigator of the ocean sees half as many waterspouts in a three years' voyage as are seen by persons residing at Lake Tahoe in a single season.—Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise.

Indian Marriage Laws.

A paper, on this subject, read by Rev. J. Owen Dorsey before the American Association, notices some remarkable customs in relation to marriage and kinship as prevailing among the Dhegitha Indians, particularly the Omahas and Poncas.

When a tribe is hunting it camps, by gentes or nations, in a circle, each gens bearing the name of some animal. All the members of one gens are relatives, and marriage between members of one gens is absolutely forbidden. Membership in a gens is by descent in the male line, not in the female. The relations of a man are denoted by colors; for example—black, grandfather or grandmother; blue, father or mother. His connections are denoted by mixed colors, such as pink head and skirt, with light-blue triangle on the body, for sister-in-law. A man can marry his brother's widow, and her children call him father even before their father's death. His sister's children are only nephews and nieces. His mother's sister is always called mother for the same reason, and even his paternal grandfather's brother's son is his father. These, and many other distinctions, show that the terms of relationship are far more numerous and complicated with the Omahas than with us. A man may marry any woman belonging to other gens, whether connected with him or not; though marriage into his mother's gens is also forbidden. A man can not marry any woman to whom he is related by the ceremony of the calumet-dance. Sometimes a man may take the children of his deceased brother without their mother herself. Sometimes the dying husband, knowing that his male kindred are bad, tells his wife to marry out of his gens. If a widower remains single for two, three or four years, he must remain so forever. Widows, however, must wait four years before remarrying. The same system prevails among the Iowas, Otos and Missouris.—Popular Science Monthly.

A Florida Alligator Story.

Jim Russell, a son of Maj. Russell, famous during the Florida war, now makes a precarious living in South Florida as a guide to visiting sportsmen. For a bonus of $2 Jim will dive into the current of the muddy St. John and bring up an alligator. He actually brings them out of their holes. Strange as this may seem it is the safest way to approach an alligator. They dig holes in the river-banks just below the surface of the water, and crawl into them. Jim dives down, crawls in rapidly, and seizes the saurian by the tail, who, startled, immediately backs out. Jim holds on, keeping his legs stiff till clear of the bank, when he darts away, and the 'gater, rising to the surface for an instant to see what is the matter, is slain by waiting gunners in the boat. This has become common sport on the Upper St. John River.—[illegible]

—It is stated on good authority that there are 12,500,000 horses in this country, the aggregate value of which exceeds $[illegible],000,000. Of this sum Robert Bonner alone contributes $[illegible],000, the value of his horses.—[illegible]

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—A machine for counting sheep has been invented and put in operation in California. It is placed in an opening of a fence and registers every sheep that passes it.—San Francisco Chronicle.

—Experiments with a submarine telephone were made the other day at Havre, in France. A ship was sent out a considerable distance on the ocean with a wire, and the result proved that the voice can be transmitted under water more distinctly and loudly even than on land.

—Charles Jenney, a Detroit boy, nineteen years of age, has invented an electric lamp and generator that has been pronounced a success. Some Indiana capitalists have taken the young man up and built for him a factory 30x90 feet in dimensions, given him a 100-horse power engine, and hired thirty men to work under his guidance.—Detroit Free Press.

—Water mixed with ice gives the best temper to steel. One may insert some small tools to advantage in a lump of ice, as jewelers and watchmakers do when they temper them in sealing-wax. Often oil is used, and is preferable to water, because it is not so easily evaporated. Damascened blades are tempered in a strong current of cold air, passing through a narrow chink, a temper more uniform than with water being thus obtained.—St. Louis Globe.

—A chemist in Philadelphia claims to have discovered that the blue fire, long used in pyrotechnic displays, is an explosive of terrific force. It is, he says, even more powerful than nitro-glycerine and half again of the power of dynamite. The substance has been in constant use for many years, and has never been known to cause any trouble, unless it were the fire at Chester last year. To produce an explosion it must be subjected to extreme heat, followed by concussion. It is safer than nitro-glycerine, because if it falls to the ground there will be no explosion. One can strike a mass of it with a hammer and only that portion directly struck will detonate, and then only slightly.—Philadelphia Record.

Eight Angry Men.

A saunterer in the Bowery saw that the red flag over the door at 186 was so wound round its staff that the name of the auctioneer, placed thereon in compliance with a city ordinance, was hidden from view. He stepped in, and found a disordered cigar store, with a glib auctioneer on a platform, an active clerk handling boxes of cigars behind the counter, a cashier at a wire-guarded desk, and five well-dressed men bidding for the goods. Business was brisk. The cigars were thrown on the counter in lots of a dozen boxes, critically inspected by the buyers, knocked down at a dollar or two, rapidly slid aside, and paid for out of big rolls of money.

"Well, good gracious!" exclaimed a notably handsome man, turning to the saunterer; "did you see that?" Twelve hundred good cigars for two dollars. They've got to rush 'em off by four o'clock, and so they're knifing 'em. They're Sheriff's men, and don't care for the poor devil that's being sold out."

He made several purchases, commented on the quality of the goods, and grew excited over his bargains, while the four others did a great deal of buying, and for fifteen minutes the place was full of animation.

"Why don't you bid?" he asked, at length.

"I can't understand it."

"Oh, it's simple enough. They're selling out these cigars at a sacrifice, and——"

"I know that, and if I bid two dollars for a lot of a dozen boxes, and put the money through that hole to the cashier, I'd find that I had only bought a single box. It would be a misunderstanding on my part. I could take as many worthless boxes as I pleased at two dollars apiece. But I couldn't get my money back. That is all clear enough."

"Say—look here, now——"

"What I don't understand is how you make this thing profitable. It takes eight of you to work it, you have rent to pay, the boxes must cost something, and here you've been doing your best for a quarter of an hour without making a cent."

It was but briefly that the saunterer felt triumphant. Then he was reviled and cursed by the handsome man; the fat clerk leaned over the counter to shout dreadful epithets at him as he sauntered out; the rest of the gang voiced a most violent degree of wrath; and the merchant next door subsequently said that he had never, at any time since the auction sale began, heard so much noise in the place.—N. Y. Sun.

Converted into a Battery.

A venerable and respectable citizen of Newark came along in front of the Central Methodist Church the other evening, and while stopping to talk leaned against the railing. The next instant he uttered a wild whoop and danced around the pavement, while his hat rolled into the gutter. "It's disgraceful for an old man like that to be drunk," said a passer-by. "And in front of a church, too," added another. "I'll go and get a policeman," said a butcher's boy, as a crowd began to collect. The boy started off, and the old man tried to explain. Several men seized the railing to test the truth of this statement, and they, too, commenced to jump and cavort around the pavement while the air became suggestive of sulphur. Just then the policeman arrived. "Ah, what's this?" he exclaimed, "a fight? And in the public street. Who commenced this?" "It was the old gent," said the butcher's boy. "It was the fence," explained the old gentleman, indignantly. "You've been drinking, sir," said the guardian of the peace, sternly. "Why don't you keep sober? You ought to be at home in the bosom of your family instead of galivantin' around the streets as tight as a tom-cat." At this point a number of men whose character could not be doubted interfered and vouched for the truth of the aged party's statement. The policeman gingerly touched the fence with his club, and that self-same moment the club went whirling around at the end of his electrified arm, while the crowd scattered on all sides to avoid contact with it. The coverings of an electric lamp wire having worn off where they touched the iron railing it had converted the fence into a magnetic battery.—Newark (N. J.) Times.

Light and Air for Plants.

Plants will not grow without light and will not thrive without fresh and pure air. But some plants require less light than others, and some will do perfectly well without any sunshine. A knowledge of varieties, of the habits and requirements of plants, is essential to the success of the window garden. Go to nature for this knowledge. Nature never makes a mistake. Her hints may be trusted implicitly. Find out in what relations to sunshine and moisture plants grow in their native conditions. The primrose nestling under hedges where its leaves are sheltered from the sun and protected from the dew, where its roots dip into the moisture of ditches, tells us that we must not let our primrose pots stand too fully in the sun, nor drench the leaves, nor let the roots dry up. The cactus growing in hot sand plains, in climates where the rain falls one-half the year and the sun shines fiercely the other half, has a lesson on its own leaves for those who would be successful in the treatment of cacti. Most of the palms grow in forest jungles in the tropics, and manifestly heat, moisture, and shade are the requirements for palms, with fibrous earth full of decaying vegetable matter for their roots. So with all plants; one must know them intimately to entice them to their best expression in the window garden. All plants do not need sunshine, so, if you have no sunny windows, do not despair of having pretty plants. Ferns, many of the palms, tradescantia or "wandering Jew," ivies, and lycopodium do not need the sun. Fuchsias, begonias, lily of the valley, need but little sun, and many of our loveliest wild flowers grow best when partially shaded. But all plants require fresh, pure air. Most plants thrive best in moist air. Gas is fatal to plants. These facts should be kept in mind. Many a drooping plant is crying out for air, and not for the deluge of water that you pour about its roots. Leaves drink, as well as roots. And if leaves drink, they must not only have good moist air to drink, but they must be kept clean, so that their mouth-pores may be able to take it in. A growing plant needs as much washing as a growing baby. Smooth-leaved plants need more washing than those that have rough leaves. The rough-leaved plants have their pores protected from the dust by little forests of minute hairs; many of them need no wetting, but the dust should be frequently blown from them with the bellows or the breath. Plants that are growing need much more air and water than plants that are resting. Most flowering plants exhaust themselves in blooming. When the last blossom has fallen the pot may be taken from the window and set in any out-of-the-way corner. There it will rest for awhile. Then it will have a period of root growth, and by and by new shoots and leaves will appear, which is a sign that it is ready for blooming again, and it may be placed once more in the full light of the window.—William M. F. Round, in Christian Union.

—They were at a dinner party, and he remarked that he supposed she was fond of ethnology. She said she was, but she was not very well, and the doctor had told her not to eat anything for dessert but oranges.

STRAIGHTEN your old boots and shoes with Lyon's Heel stiffeners, and wear them again.

—Judge Allen, of the Supreme Court of Boston, has decided that any person may, and every police officer must, kill or cause to be killed any dog running at large in the highway at any time without a collar, even though it may be licensed.—Boston Post.

PURE cod-liver oil, from selected livers, on the sea shore by Caswell, Hazard & Co., N. Y. Absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians declare it superior to all other oils.

"ROUGH on Rats." Clears out rats, mice, flies, roaches, bed-bugs, ants, vermin. 15c.

MOTHER SWAN'S WORM SYRUP, for feverishness, restlessness, worms. Tasteless. 15c.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS, followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time the report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man or Beast. For use externally or internally.

CHAPPED hands, face, pimples and rough skin cured by using Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York.

TO YOUNG MEN Who wish to learn Steam Engineering, send your names 10 cents in stamps to FRED. KEPPY, Engineer, Bridgeport, Ct.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Factory Grove. Catalogue FREE.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION FOR SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. [illegible] ONE HUNDRED STYLES [illegible] ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES FREE.

PIANOS. This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements [illegible] tone and durability. [illegible] ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, free. THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by C. J. LEHN, Chanticleer, [illegible]. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

CONSUMPTION.

[illegible]

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

STOMACH BITTERS

Old fashioned remedies are rapidly giving ground before the advance of this conquering specific, and old fashioned ideas in regard to depletion as a means of cure, have been quite exploded by the success of the great renovant, which tones the system, tranquilizes the nerves, neutralizes malaria, depurates and enriches the blood, rouses the liver when dormant, and promotes a regular habit of body.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

ERRORS OF Romanism! 200 words to the page five.

Edited by the most eminent Divines of the different Denominations.

STARTLING STATEMENTS!! The Corruption of Romanism. The Confessional. The Inquisition. Massacre of St. Bartholomew. Profusely Illustrated with Portraits of the Contributors. Death Scenes. Tortures of the Martyrs. Cloth, Gilt Side and Back, $2.00 Leather $2.50 For the next 60 days we will send a cloth copy, prepaid to any address on receipt of $1.25 Leather $1.50. We will send the REVISED NEW TESTAMENT in cloth, price [illegible] A Rare Chance for Agents. Address The Peoples Publishing House, 43 Clark St., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., and Atlanta, Ga.

Agents Wanted.

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS

Send for CIRCULARS.

With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.

Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.

Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.

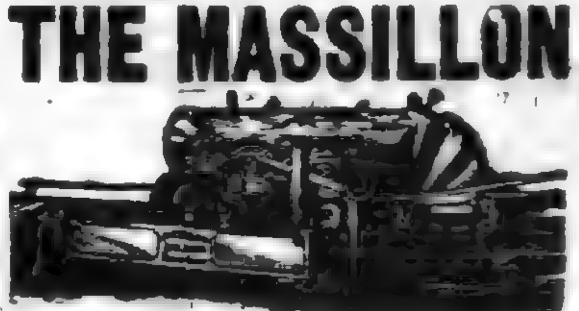
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

McBRIDE & CO.'S CHINA AND GLASS PALACE, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filterer and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

THE MASSILLON



LIGHT and HEAVY SAWMILLS, strictly portable. Also SAWMILL ENGINES. Built by RUSSELL & CO., Massillon, Ohio. Send for Catalogue and Price List. (Name this paper.)

ASTHMA CURED. German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00 of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. DR. R. SCHIFFMANN, St. Paul, Minn.

AGENTS send for circular of Laundry Queen Co.'s Washer, Syracuse, N. Y.

ENGLISH REWARD BOOKS. Imported rewards. Superior to anything in this country for the money. Books in quantities for 5c., 10c. and upward. Beautiful books for 25c. to 50c., with big discount for November orders, to introduce; catalogue free. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street, Chicago.

$100 LIBRARY for $6.75.

$6.75 buys a library of 100 volumes of choicest $1 to $1.50 Sunday-school books, sent postpaid. Books all catalogued and numbered; put up in pamphlet form, wire stitched, light and flexible; will outlast most expensive. One hundred and fifty-six books now issued. Catalogue free. Sample book and library exchange, ten cents. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street, Chicago.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

$1.30 TEACHER'S BIBLES. "Oxford" Teacher's Bibles, concordance, encyclopedia, dictionary, tables, maps, etc. Most complete teacher's Bibles extant; 140 pages, plain binding, gilt edge, for One Dollar and Thirty Cents. Gift Bibles from 40 cents upward. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street, Chicago, Illinois.

HULLERS For complete description of the great Aultman Clover Hulling Machine [illegible] AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, O.

AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest-selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM HABIT AND DRUNKENNESS.

Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,

W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

DR. HARTER'S

[illegible] I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in [illegible] twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some [illegible] Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and [illegible] remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any Iron preparation made. [illegible]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. [illegible]

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

IRON TONIC

MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., [illegible]

A CATALOGUE JUST ISSUED, CONTAINING 400 ILLUSTRATIONS AND PRICES OF DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY AND SILVERWARE

Will be sent to any address upon application.

J. P. STEVENS & [illegible] JEWELERS, ATLANTA, [illegible]

AGENTS WANTED FOR [illegible] Subscription [illegible]

THE FINEST IN THE WORLD, and [illegible] Accurately written, clear [illegible] paper, elegantly illustrated and beautifully [illegible] other books their equal. All new [illegible] Territory clear. They satisfy the Agent [illegible] the people on account of their value.

"Newman's America." [illegible]

The Lives of the James Brothers [illegible] The only complete account of the [illegible]

"The Jeannette." [illegible] Explorations, including [illegible] HAYES, HALL and De LONG.

"Pictorial Family Bible," [illegible] taining both versions of the New Testament [illegible] Features and Illustrations than any other [illegible] The most LIBERAL TERMS [illegible]

Write quickly for circulars and terms [illegible] rapidly being taken.

COBURN & COOK PUBLISHING [illegible] 98, 99 & 100 Metropolitan Block, [illegible]

COTTON FUTURES [illegible] Co-Operative Pl[illegible] OF CONSERVATIVE SPECULATI[illegible]

Weekly Statements, Monthly [illegible]

$1.000 Invested [illegible]

Smaller Investments in proportion. [illegible] wanted everywhere. Circulars mailed [illegible]

DIO. F. WOLFFE & CO., [illegible] 174 & 176 Common St. NEW ORLEANS

Magic Lanterns Outdone [illegible]

An Optical Wonder.

1001 Pictures from books, papers, [illegible] can be cast upon the wall [illegible] chromo cards with all their [illegible] works of a watch in motion. Photos enlarged [illegible] or ten times larger; useful to portrait-[illegible] tours. We send the Polyopticon and 200 [illegible] elegant chromo cards and portraits, [illegible] Our circulars tell how to obtain it free. [illegible] Murray Hill Pub. Co., 129 E. 28th [illegible]

KIDNEY-WORT HAS BEEN PROVED by thousands and tens of thousands [illegible] the country to be the SUREST CURE ever discovered for all KIDNEY DISEASES.

Does a lame back or disordered urine indicate that you are a victim? THEN DO NOT HESITATE; use Kidney-Wort at once, (druggists will recommend it) and it will speedily overcome the disease and restore healthy action.

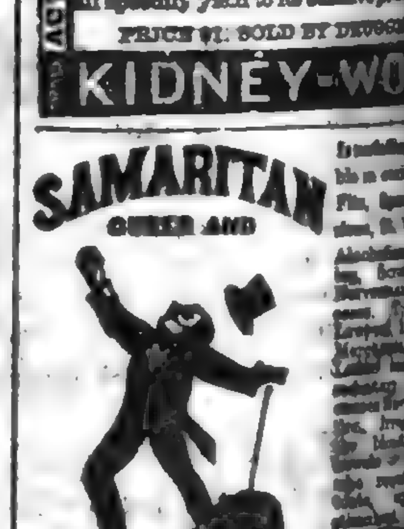
Incontinence or retention of Urine, brick dust or ropy deposits, and dull dragging pains, all speedily yield to its curative power.

PRICE $1. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

ACTS AT THE SAME TIME ON

KIDNEY-WORT

SAMARITAN CURED AND



NEVER FAILS.

NERVINE

THE DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL [illegible] Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.

[illegible]

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR [illegible] Fringed and plain, chests, [illegible] day-schools and home gifts, 1c. [illegible] DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street, Chicago, [illegible]

Strong's Sanative P[illegible] FOR THE LIVER.

A speedy cure for liver complaint, [illegible] bowels, purifying the blood, cleansing [illegible] A perfect cure for sick headache, [illegible] dyspepsia. Sold by all leading Druggists [illegible] and almanacs with full [illegible] 150, New York City.

SIX CTS [illegible] INVIGORATE the HAIR [illegible]

Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

This E. Y. [illegible]

[illegible]

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1882. NO. 3.

ATURE ABHORS A VACUUM.

ago, when refreshingly green, at present—thank Fortune!—I'm not,
ur sweet fascinations I'd seen,
y had touched a susceptible spot.

a figure, such hair—if it's real—ch a face—your whole physical plan e a school-girl's complete beau-ideal, d her utter quintessence of man.

when older and wiser, how sad h complete disillusion to get, behind such a stately facade have found just apartments to let!

you love me—don't say I'm not kind—d some maiden more easy to please, indulgent to absence of mind,
d content with the graces she sees.

you claim I have tortured your heart, defense it may surely be said
I never could once make you smart, n I could not remodel your head.

re your affection to toll,
avowal I too well divine,
the next girl will do just as well,
d her heart may be softer than mine.

n view of the danger it brings,
re's a line where flirtation must stop;
the hollowest, windiest things
e the likeliest always "to pop."
—Century.

RELATIONSHIPS.

hat there are minds so constituted o be unable to understand any de- s of relationship beyond the family ie of father, mother, brothers and rs we can gather some evidence n our own experience. Never shall forget the attempts made by a party ollegians, many years ago, to ex- s to a lady at a supper-table the old ule: "If Dick's father is John's son, t relation is Dick to John?" She lly tried her best, but utterly failed rasp the problem. Much assistance offered in the shape of a decanter a wine-glass to represent "Dick" "John;" and the lady's voice might e been heard, amid all the din and tter, exclaiming seriously, and in a e of remonstrance: "Do you mean ll me that that wine-glass is the ndfather of that decanter?" But it s all in vain. The attempt to con- e the good lady had to be aban- ed. The intricate mathematical in- igation was beyond her powers.

here are also persons who have nev- given their minds to problems of this d, and to whom anything outside of ir own narrow experience presents a iculty.

he number of people who under- d the terms "first cousin," "sec- d cousin," "first cousin once re- ved," etc., is very small. Probably y of those who read these lines im- e that a "first cousin once re- ved," etc., is the same as a "sec- d cousin;" and still more carry on transactions of life under a mistaken ion that if "Mary" is "first cousin e removed" to, say, "Tom," then is also "first cousin once removed" Mary. Let us hasten to dispel these uppose we illustrate our remarks by titious little pedigree:

Mr. Jones.
Mr. W. Jones. Mr. T. Jones.
Jones. Mr. J. Jones. Mr. C. Jones. Tom Jones.
Jones. H. Jones. R. Jones.

ow here it may be necessary to ex- n, as we fear many persons "don't derstand pedigrees." The orininal . Jones is supposed to have had two ns, Messrs. William and Thomas nes. Of these two brothers William s the father of Alfred and John, and omas was the father of Charles and m. Mary is the daughter of Alfred; ary is the son of John, and Richard the son of Charles. It will not need y extraordinary acumen to discover at Alfred, John, Charles and Tom are grandsons of the original Mr. Jones; d that Mary, Henry and Richard are great-grandchildren. Those who e taken in thus much may, by a ther stretch of intellect, comprehend at Alfred and John are first cousins to arles and Tom, the father of the rmer pair of brothers being brother to e father of the latter pair. But now mes the difficulty. What is the "re- tionship" between our old friends Tom" and "Mary?" Tom is first usin to Mary's father, Alfred. What lation is Mary herself to Tom? Some rsons say "second cousin;" but this a mistake, she is the "first cousin ce removed"—a relationship which ay be defined as that of "the child of first cousin."

This relationship, existing as it does tween two persons in different gen- ations—i. e. not descended by an ual number of steps from the com- on ancestor—is not a mutual relation- ip, like "brother" or "first cousin," other words, if Alfred is brother to hn, John is brother to Alfred; if Al- ed is first cousin to Charles, Charles first cousin to Alfred: because these e in the same generation;" therefore ese relationships—"brother" and first cousin"—are "mutual." But uncle" and "nephew" are not mutual lationships: for, if Alfred is uncle to enry, Henry is not "uncle" to Alfred; d if Richard is nephew to Tom, Tom not "nephew" to Richard. And first cousin once removed" is a rela- onship like "nephew." If Mary and enry are "first cousins once removed" Charles, it does not follow that Charles is "first cousin once removed" them. He is often called so, but uite as erroneously as an uncle would called his nephew's "nephew." he curious fact remains that, for the onverse of the relationship "first cous- n once removed," i. e. for a "parent's rst cousin," there is no name of uni- rsal acceptance.

It has been shown that a first cousin's is called a "first cousin once re- moved." On the same principle a first cousin's grandchild is called a "first cousin twice removed," and his (or her) child would be a "first cousin three times removed," and so on, the number of "removes" showing by how many generations the two persons who are so related differ. On the same principle that a great-grandchild is rare—i. e., a person lineally removed by three generations—a first cousin three times removed is, speaking generally, somewhat rare, but far more common, doubtless, than a great-grandchild, because the former means the great grandchild of a person's first cousin, who may be much older than the person himself. Indeed, it is quite conceivable that a man should live to see his first cousin five times removed for he might easily have a first cousin fifty or sixty years older than himself, and live to see that cousin's descendants of the fifth generation.

And now we may pass on to second cousins. "Second cousins" are persons whose nearest common ancestor is great-grandparent to each—in other words, if two persons are first-cousins, the children of the one are second cousins to the children of the other.

The children of "second cousins" are, of course, "third cousins." Likewise, the children of two "third cousins" are "fourth cousins," and so on.

In fact, using algebraical symbols, we may say that a person's *m*th cousin n times removed is one who is lineally descended from the nearest common ancestor by n more generations than the former, the former himself being m+1 generations below that ancestor.

Thus, for example, your fifth cousin twice removed is eighth in descent from your sixth ancestor (counting your parent as first ancestor, your grandparent as second, and so on).

Tremendous consequences have resulted from even distant relationship, and it has been in countless instances all-important to preserve family records, by means of which claims to great wealth and high rank have been established. It is all very well to smile at the claim to a fifth cousinship several times removed; but if the heir presumptive knows that no nearer cousins—no relatives of any kind, removed or not removed—stand between him and the chieftainship of his family, who shall blame him for having studied the intricacies of relationship? It has not seldom happened that a very distant cousin has thus succeeded to "the title and estates." There was an instance of this in the great house of Stanley, about a century and a half ago. When James, the tenth Earl of Derby, died in 1736, it was necessary to go back some two hundred and fifty years in order to establish the claim of his heir, Sir Edward Stanley: and, in fact, this eleventh Earl was sixth cousin to the tenth. And it is somewhat remarkable that, although the present Lord Derby is the fifteenth Earl, yet he is not descended lineally from any of the first ten Earls, except, of course, the first, the Constable of England, who died in 1504.

The Dukedom of Somerset was conferred in 1547 upon the Protector, Sir Edward Seymour, with this peculiar limitation—that the heirs of his second marriage should succeed, and, failing them, his heirs by his first wife. For several generations the Dukedom remained in the second family; and it may have seemed to many a righteous retribution that, in 1750, when the seventh Duke died, there was no heir to succeed, except among the descendants of the Protector's first wife. The head of that branch, therefore, Sir Edward Seymour, sixth Baronet (for the first Duke's grandson had been made a Baronet), became eighth Duke of Somerset, being fifth cousin once removed to the seventh Duke.

Sir Edward Courtenay was created Earl of Devon in 1485; and his great-grandson Edward, after sundry attainders, was created Earl of Devon in 1553 by Queen Mary, with remainder to "heirs male general." Now this Earl died in 1566, aged thirty-nine, and unmarried; and as there were no Courtenays left who were at all nearly related to him, the Earldom was supposed to be extinct, and was not claimed. More than two centuries and a half afterward, however, in 1831, it was proved to the satisfaction of the House of Lords that William, third Viscount Courtenay, was entitled to the Earldom of Devon, as heir general of the Earl created by Queen Mary, to whom his relationship was that of sixth cousin nine times removed! The nearest common ancestor, Hugh de Courtenay, second Earl of Devon, of a former creation, had died in 1377, nearly two hundred years before the first Earl of the present creation. Thus it was decided that the Earldom, during the 265 years of non-claim, had been, not extinct, but dormant; and seven of the Courtenays who lived and died in that interval are reckoned now as rightful heirs of Devon.—London Society.

Webster's Needs.

Mr. Webster's chosen "crony" in his later years was Charles March, much younger than he was, and also a New Hampshire man. Well educated, polished by travel and free from pecuniary hamper, March was a most delightful companion, and his wit, keen as Saladin's cimeter, never wounded. Fletcher Webster was also a great favorite with his father, possessing what Charles Lever called "the lost art of conversation." Sometimes when Mr. Webster's path had been crossed, and he was black as night, March and Fletch would, by repartee and witticisms, drive the clouds away and gradually force him into a conversation, which would soon become enlivened by "the inextinguishable laughter of the gods."—Boston Traveller.

Effect of Bad Food.

To what extent is bad food—food, that is, which from some cause or another has deteriorated in quality—capable of causing disease? It is more difficult than might have been expected to give an accurate answer to this question, since evidence on the point is very contradictory. Is it safe to eat food in a state of decomposition? The lover of game and venison would reply that no amount of rottenness interferes with its agreeable qualities or its wholesomeness. Rotten fish is used in some parts of the world as a condiment without any evil resulting. It would seem, however, as if occasionally flesh in the early stage of decomposition, before it becomes tainted either to nose or taste, is apt to act as a violent irritant upon the stomach. This has happened occasionally with pork, and whole families have suffered severely after eating pork against which nothing could be proved, except that it had been kept rather longer than usually is the case. Fish sometimes acts as an irritant poison in the same way, and so do mussels. This poisoning by mussels has been supposed to be due to the fact that the mollusks were taken from the copper bottom of a ship, and that really the poisoning element was the copper, and not the flesh of the mussel. Perhaps copper-poisoning has occurred in this way, but there can be no doubt that the mussels themselves are occasionally very unwholesome. Other varieties of shell-fish are not free from similar imputations of proving dangerous to the consumer. To what extent do the diseases of animals affect the health of men who may consume them? This is a question of great importance, but exact information on the point is very hard to obtain. There can be no doubt that much diseased meat is from time to time smuggled into the market, and that much is eaten without any very obvious effects resulting is also a matter of fair inference. At the same time we should be inclined to give a general caution that it is never safe to eat meat which is known to have come from a diseased animal. The flesh of cattle and of the pig is apt to be infested with parasites, and if some of the parasites find their way into the stomach of man in a living state they are apt to produce serious discomfort if not death.—Family Physician.

A Primitive Tribe.

Dr. Hunter describes a peculiar tribe in India, which has preserved an extreme primitiveness. The people are called Leaf Wearers, because they wear the costume of Adam and Eve before the fall; or, more strictly speaking, they did so until the English persuaded them to adopt cloth. In 1871 the English officer called together the clan, and, after a speech, handed out strips of cotton for the women to put on. They then passed in single file to the number of one thousand nine hundred before him, made obeisance to him, and were afterward marked on the forehead with vermilion as a sign of their entering into civilized society. Finally they gathered the bunches of leaves which had formed their sole clothing into a great heap, and solemnly set fire to it. This leaf-wearing tribe had no knowledge of the metals till quite lately, when foreigners came among them, and no word existed in their native language for iron or any other metal. But their country abounds in flint weapons, so that the Juangs form a remnant to our own day of the stone age.

"Their huts," writes the officer who knows them best, "are among the smallest that human beings ever deliberately constructed as dwellings. They measure about six feet by eight feet. The head of the family and all the females huddle together in this one shell, not much larger than a dog kennel." The boys and the young men of the village live in one large building apart by themselves; and this custom of having a common abode for the whole male youth of the hamlet is found among many aboriginal tribes in distant parts of India.

The Top Rail.

It would be well if every one giving an order should first consider whether it admitted of a misconstruction. A physician's prescription, so the story runs, reads: "When taken to be well shaken." A frightful result followed from shaking the patient instead of the medicine. The following incident is an illustration of how easily soldiers can misconstrue an order when it interferes with their comfort.

During the Peninsular Campaign of our late war one of the Union officers found it necessary to take stringent measures to prevent depredations upon the surrounding country. Complaints frequently came to him that his soldiers used the fence-rails for fire-wood. Accordingly he issued an order that only the top rail should be taken.

Complaints, however, continued to pour in, and soon a private, Michael McHenry, was caught in the act of stealing the lowest rail of a farmer's fence. Michael was an honest fellow and a favorite, being something of a wag. As this was his first offense, the officer determined to be lenient with him. So he had Michael brought to headquarters and demanded of him an explanation.

"Sure, sorr," said Michael, "we was only a 'beyin' orders. Ach of the b'ys tuk the top rail as he come to it, an' I was last, an' sure the bottom rail was then the top one, too."

The uselessness of further explanations was so evident that the matter was dropped. The order had only caused the rails to be taken in order, beginning at the top.—Youth's Companion.

Cremation in England.

The state of cremation in England to which allusion is made in this morning's telegrams are likely to bring on an extended and exciting discussion. The bodies cremated seem to have been those of Eliza Dean Pate, second wife of the Rev. Sir James Hanham, seventh Baronet of the line, and of her daughter-in-law, Edith Mary, third wife of Commander Thomas Barnabas Hanham. The English Cremation Society, soon after its formation in 1874, obtained an opinion from Dr. Tristram and Mr. Meadows White to the effect that the performance of the process of cremation was perfectly legal in England, provided that it involved no consequence which could be construed by any one as a nuisance. Bishop Ro'en, who was first appealed to, refused to permit the setting apart of a portion of the Great Northern Cemetery for the erection of a crematorium, and after the society had erected a Gorini furnace at Woking so much outcry was raised that the projectors had to abandon the enterprise, or at least let it fall into abeyance for the moment. This crematory was erected in March, 1876, when the Home Secretary, while admitting that the proposed practice was unaffected by existing law, declared that, inasmuch as the registration of deaths had always been associated with burial, he was constrained to conclude that cremation must first be approved by Parliament. He further advised the council of the society to introduce a short bill into the House of Lords and not rely upon the opinions of counsel. Only a few weeks ago it was reported that the Cremation Society had received a more formidable set-back by the decision of the High Court of Justice in the Crookenden case. Henry Crookenden, dying, left his body to his friend, Miss Eliza Williams, by whom it was to be cremated, his executors being charged with defraying any expenses she might incur. The executors and family, notwithstanding her protest, buried the body, but Miss Williams obtained a permit to remove it to any church-yard, where she did indeed deposit the remains, but not until they had been taken to Italy and duly cremated. Miss Williams sued the executors to recover the expenses of her proceedings, but was defeated, the court holding that she had obtained the license by misrepresentation and illegality; that there could be no property in a corpse, and that the provisions with regard to the delivery of the body were void, and, finally, that cremation was illegal. The decision, however, was regarded by very good authorities as opposed alike to good sense and the spirit and tendency of modern law in such matters, and no concealment was made of the intention to bring the subject to a test at no distant day.—N. Y. World.

How People Die.

Miss Nightingale has pointed out how constantly the mental state of the dying depends on their physical conditions. As a rule, she tells us, in acute cases interest in their own danger is rarely felt. "Indifference, excepting with regard to bodily suffering, or to some duty the dying man desires to perform, is the far more usual state. But patients who die of consumption very frequently die in a state of seraphic joy and peace; the countenance almost expresses rapture. Patients who die of cholera, peritonitis, etc., on the contrary, often die in a state approaching despair. In dysentery, diarrhœa, or fever, the patient often dies in a state of indifference." Those who have carefully examined the dead on a battle-field, or in the streets after an emeute, are struck with the fact that while the expression on the faces of those who have died by gun-shot wounds is one of agony and distress, the dead by sword have a calmer expression, though their wounds often seem more painful to the eye. A very careful observer, who was through the Indian Mutiny, entirely confirms this. After giving several instances, he says: "A rapid death by steel is almost painless. Saber edge or point divides the nerves so quickly as to give little pain. A bullet lacerates."—London Spectator.

English Depredations in the Yellowstone Park.

The magnificent Yellowstone Park is in danger of being rapidly destroyed and its natural beauties defaced by wantonness and vandalism unless the Government steps in to protect it. It is said that the first thing the Englishman does after registering at the Brevoort house is to start for the Yellowstone Park and needlessly shoot down scores of its large game—deer, buffaloes, bears, antelope and mountain sheep. Nor are foreigners always the chief sinners in this respect. Many of the most famous Yellowstone geysers have already been ruined by people who amuse themselves by hurling immense trunks of pine trees into them in order to see the water force them high in the air. In many cases these logs have stuck in the water apertures and have completely stopped the spouting. In Wyoming the people are taking steps to put a stop to such vandalism and the wholesale slaughter of buffaloes and other game by English tourists.

—Mrs. Mallonee, who was killed at the recent railroad accident at Syracuse, was a contributor to the Century magazine, and one of her latest contributions was entitled "The Whistles." The last sound she heard before her terrible death was the warning whistle of the locomotive.—N. Y. Times.

Cyclone Phenomena.

Dr. Andries, of the Wilhelmshaven Observatory, has recently revived in an Austrian meteorological journal the theory of cyclones which refers their origin and translation to the upper atmospheric currents. This important deduction, though not original with M. Faye, of France, was forcibly put forth by the latter scientist in 1877, who, in presenting Dr. Andries' views to the Paris Academy of Sciences, on the 14th ult., strongly sustains the former's conclusions. These are, in brief, that cyclones, tornadoes and trombes are the same mechanical phenomena, differing only in dimensions, and that the force to which they are indebted for their propagation resides in the powerful currents which hold sway above the earth. In sustaining these views M. Faye argues from the records of American storms and tornadoes that as their rapidity of translation (often "that of an express train") is so great their progressive motion in regular tracks can not be due to mere difference of barometric pressure. These storms rush over the sea or the continent, crushing houses and rooting up trees in the twinkling of an eye with the enormous velocities of the aerial currents encountered by aeronauts at high levels—velocities which cloud observations prove sometimes reach one hundred and twenty miles an hour. There is certainly good reason for the French investigator's conclusion that "the storm is, as our machines, a simple organ for the transmission of force—that is, a gigantic instrument which receives in the upper atmosphere the vis viva in its vast funnel." M. Faye says:—"The public has learned that storms are not generated here or there; that they come to us from America on the day named, and that they are not transient disturbances, but the display of a grand law of terrestrial mechanics, as fixed as the laws of celestial mechanics." The origin of cyclones is a confessed mystery with the bulk of weather students. But if the suggestions which this scientist and Dr. Andries make lead meteorologists to a practical study of the cloud phenomena and other indications of the high aerial strata instead of confining their observations to the comparatively calm lower strata, they would be in a position to give much more timely and accurate storm warnings and weather forecasts than are now possible. We live at the very bottom of the aerial ocean, but in order to know the lower air currents which affect us it is as necessary to trace and track the upper currents as it is to gauge the Gulf Stream in order to study the force and movement of the polar stream which underruns it on the floor of the Atlantic.—N. Y. Herald.

The Penalty of "Larnin'."

"Dar's jist one thing I ain't got no thanks to give for," said a burly sable convict, "and dat's for gittin' larin'. Tell you, Mr. Inspector, 'tain't no good 'cept to get a feller in trouble. If it hadn't been for learnin' I wouldn't have been here to-day, sure as you're born. You see, when I was heah befoh de old parson was always throwin' up to me what a great thing larnin' was and how it helped you to get along so much easier in de world. Well, de last time I was here I jest tuk de parson's advice and I larnt to read and write. When I went out and went back to Franklin County I made up my mind to be good and stay out of prison and use my learnin'. Well, I was gettin' 'long well enough till I went over into Adams County, and, fool like, I bragged among de niggers there about my learnin'. One of 'em took me up, and he says 'tain't no good to you at all. Well, I sot down and wrote an order on a tailor for a suit of clothes, and I signed somebody else's name to it, and I got de clothes. Thinks I learnin' is a great thing after all. Then I was cotched. When I got into Court de Judge axed me how often had I been in de penitentiary. I says to de Judge: 'You can find that out for yourself.' I see him straighten up den, and I felt it was all up. Well, de fust witness was dis heah niggah what got me to sign de order. I got so mad I jist up and let him have it between de eyes and knocked him down and was a goin' to give him another when I was stopped. De Judge sassed me and my blood was up and I sassed back. When he told me to stand up I knowed I was goin' to ketch it heavy and I did. He just said: 'Five years for the forgery and four years for de assault and battery and a fine of $250 and stand committed till it's paid.' Now here I am and dat's jist what larnin' brought me. 'Tain't no good to a man no how you fix it."—Philadelphia Times.

—An engine ran away on the Elevated Railroad the other day, and went whizzing by with the train past two or three stations, when it was checked by the brakes just before coming into collision with a train immediately ahead of it. Another engineer said such a thing was impossible if the engineer understood his business, but added, if it did occur and the brakes did not stop the train, it would run into the train ahead of it at twenty miles an hour, with consequences which could be imagined.—N. Y. Herald.

—It is said that the whip is never used for horses on Governor Stanford's stock farm at Palo Alto, Cal., and not only is this forbidden, but an angry word by any of the men is followed by instant dismissal. There are on this farm 657 head of horses, nearly all yearlings and two-year-olds.

One of the latest applications of electricity is to the working of a forge hammer, much like a steam hammer in its arrangement.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—The salmon fisheries of the Pacific coast have increased twenty-fold within the past ten years.

—Marble slabs for furniture are now being imitated in glass by an enterprising firm in Pittsburgh.

—The codfish hatching experiments of Professor Baird, conducted at Gloucester last year, have resulted, it is said, in large quantities of little codfish being seen off the New Hampshire coast.

—In Rochester, $30,000 has been subscribed to start a school of instruction in shoemaking, so that manufacturers can be independent of the shoemakers' union, the project being literally the last educational undertaking.—N. Y. Times.

—Governor Hawkins, of Tennessee, thinks the prospects of the South as a manufacturing section are very flattering, and is especially enthusiastic about his own State. About $2,000,000 are now invested in Tennessee in cotton factories, and they are in a prosperous condition, paying large profits.

—The enormous demand for paper for use as writing and printing material prevents the extended employment of papier mache as a substitute in buildings for plaster and wood; but cotton, the production of which is unlimited, promises to be largely used in this new capacity. Treated with certain chemicals and compressed it can be made perfectly fire-proof and as hard as stone.—Chicago News.

—The Government of Victoria, Australia, has been empowered to expend the amount of more than $12,000,000 in building additional lines of railway. Most of the roads will be for the purpose of opening up the agricultural districts. They will not be costly or intended to carry fast trains. In all there will be fifty-six lines built, and their aggregate length will not exceed 827 1-2 miles.

—Frequently it is important to know whether there is lead in "tin" paper. This is the method given for its detection in a leading foreign technical journal: A drop of concentrated acetic acid is let fall upon the suspected leaf, and a drop of a solution of potassium iodide is added. If there is lead present there is formed in two or three minutes a yellowish spot of lead iodide. Dr. Kopp moistens the leaf to be examined with sulphuric acid. If the tin is pure the spot remains white, but if lead is present there is a black spot.

—Experiments have been made in England with a gas lamp composed of two pipes, one of which supplies gas in the ordinary way and the other air slightly compressed by the weight of a column of water. Upon the burner is a cap of fine platinum wire gauze which, a few seconds after the current of mingled gas and air has been ignited, gives forth a brilliant incandescent glow like that of the electric lamp. Arrangements have been made for lighting a number of London thoroughfares with this light, which, it is asserted, is cheaper than the ordinary gaslight.—N. Y. Sun.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—The man who tells about his fights seldom has a black eye.

—"Grandpa, the sun is brighter in summer than in winter, is it not?" "Yes; and it's warmer, and enjoys better health." "Why does it enjoy better health?" "Because it gets up earlier."

—"When are we going to get our Gilt-Edged Tonic?" asked a prisoner in the Austin jail of the jailer. "What do you want it for?" "I read in the papers that persons of sedentary habits ought to use it."—Texas Siftings.

—Never let go of a good thing that you really have for a better thing about which there is some doubt. The dog in the fable who dropped a piece of meat to snap at a shadow went hungry the rest of the day.—N. Y. Herald.

—A wife wanted her husband to sympathize with her in a feminine quarrel; but he refused, saying: "I've lived long enough to learn that one woman is just as good as another—if not better!" "And I," retorted his exasperated wife, "have lived long enough to learn that one man is just as bad as another—if not worse."—Bohemian.

—"As you are going past the grocery store," said Mrs. Brown to her son, "it will save time if you step in and get a pound of tea." "What do I care about saving time?" replied young Brown, contemptuously. "I guess I shall have all the time there is as long as I live, and I ain't a-going to hoard up any for my heirs to squander."—Boston Transcript.

—"Grandpa, does hens make their own eggs?" "Yes, indeed they do, Johnnie." "An' do they always put the yoke in the middle?" "Guess they do, Johnnie." "An' do they put the starch around it to keep the yellow from rubbing off?" "Quite likely, my little boy." "An' who sews the cover on?" This stumped the old gentleman, and he barricaded Johnnie's mouth with a lollipop.—London Society.

—"Do you mix anything with your candies?" he asked, as he laid his money down and picked up the package of gum drops. "Well—ahem—a little glucose, perhaps." "Anything else?" "Perhaps a little clay." "Any chalk?" "Only a very little—not enough to speak of." "It's of no interest to me, you know," continued the stranger; "but I was wondering why you didn't have your candies made at a regular brick-yard, of the regular material, and have something you could warrant to your customers."—Wall Street News.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 30, 1882.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The inauguration of Gov. O'Neal will take place to-morrow.

The distinguished journalist, Thurlow Weed, died in New York last week.

Every Democrat elected to office last week would do well to reflect that the public is expecting him to do at least five times as much good as it would have looked for from a successful Republican.

Teacher—"Define the word excavate." Scholar—"It means to hollow out." Teacher—"Construct a sentence in which the word is properly used." Scholar—"The baby excavates when it gets hurt."—[Waifs.

Indiana has a law to prevent the marriage of weak-minded persons. As weak-minded persons can not marry, and strong-minded person won't, Indiana will now have to populate herself with immigrants.

There are in San Francisco four palatial houses, worth together more than $3,000,000. Their owners, ex-Gov. Stanford, Chas, Crocker. Mrs. Mark Hopkins, and Mr. Clinton, represent about $130,000. The magnificent structures stand unoccupied about ten months of each year.

Mr. Vest thinks if Cleveland turns out a good Governor he will be a formidable candidate for the Presidency, and if, in addition, he succeeds in keeping the Democracy of New York together, his nomination is inevitable. Still, Vest would rather vote for McDonald. That is the general run of opinion. Cleveland stands the best chance, but McDonald is the best man.—Ado.

A young man was found in the Mersy river, England, drowned. On a paper found in his pocket was: 'A wasted life. Do not ask anything about me. Drink was the cause. Let me die; let me rot." Within a week the coroner received over two hundred letters from fathers and mothers all over England asking for a description of the young man, which indicates a sad state for many parents in England which is also true of many in our own favored land.

Mr. Chester S. Cole, Captain of the Port of New York by the grace of Gov. Cornell, telegraphed to an Elmira paper on election night: "We have beaten the Prohibitionists and Greenbackers out of sight, and are only about 200,000 behind the Democrats." Capt. Cole lives in Steuben county, which gave Garfield 1,250 majority in 1880, and Cleveland 2,350 majority this year. We have noticed as a curious coincidence that wherever the wash of the tidal wave was greatest, there one of Gov. Cornell's office-holders was county boss.—N. Y. Sun.

The following hint, replete with wisdom, is from the Courier-Journal of a late date:

State Railroad Commissioners can be most serviceable acting as a court to hear complaints, to rectify abuses, to inform the public, to gather and elucidate information relating to transportation questions and to bring about a better understanding between the railroad companies and the people whom they serve. When this duty is well performed, when these reports are distinguished by a thorough knowledge of the people, and a proper appreciation of the difficulties of railroad management, they will command public attention and excite public approbation to such an extent that railroads will not hesitate to adopt them.

The Eutaw Mirror very justly takes the present legislature to task for the many minor and altogether unimportant bills that have been introduced. For instance the first bill introduced in our State Senate was to repeal the prohibition law in Limestone and Clark counties. Of the eleven others introduced one was to repeal prohibition in Bullock, another for establishing it in Glennville, three for amending the code, two repealing acts in regard to the trial of misdemeanors in Madison, one to fix the time of holding court in Cleburne, one repealing an act in regard to the destruction of fish in Bullock, one to repeal relief for certain persons who have paid license, one to enable voters to identify their ballots, and one to provide for the introduction of the study of the laws of health in the public schools. Only the two last bills are of any general importance, the others being of a local nature. The legislature, however, is now getting down to business, we are glad to say. Nevertheless, we might remind the Mirror that in every such body there are to be found some cracked brain members, who, with their petty troubles and aggravating local legislation are always deterring important work, from the fact that they are incapable of taking hold of anything better.

Senator Morgan Re-elected.

The Legislature, on Tuesday, proceeded to the election of a successor to Hon. John T. Morgan in the United States Senate. Ex-Gov. Watts had written a letter the day previous, declining to allow his name to go before the caucus as a candidate for the position. He did this on the ground that "he had become satisfied that a majority of those assembled were opposed to him in the contest." We might state that this majority was opposed to him not from having any serious objections to Gov. Watts, but from the fact that it preferred Senator Morgan for the position.

Senator Morgan was elected on the first ballot. One Paul L. Jones, of Madison receiving ten votes in the House and two in the Senate from Greenback representatives of North Alabama.

The work is done, and Gen. John T. Morgan is again honored with the highest office in the gift of the people of his State, as their representative in the United States Senate. May he wear the honors as becomes a statesman, fearless in the performance of duty, faithful to his constituency, and upright in all his acts. He will thus continue to hold himself aloft in the confidence and esteem of his people.

Legislative.

Mr. Hargrove, from committee on the judiciary, reported favorably Senate bill No. 21, entitled an act to amend section 668 of the code. The section is amended by the committee so that the annual salary of each circuit judge shall be $3,000, and further amended so that the act shall take effect from and after Jan. 1st, 1883.

On motion of Mr. Brooks, of Mobile, it was made special order for Monday.

Mr. Hargrove, from judiciary committee, reported favorably the bill to prevent drunkenness in public places with amendment. The penalty is a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100, and the amendment gives justices of the Peace concurrent jurisdiction with judges of the Circuit and City Courts, and requires Judges to give the act specially in charge to the grand jury.

Mr. Oden moved to strike out Justices of the Peace. Ruled out of order.

The amendments proposed by the committee were adopted.

Mr. Muldon, from the committee on appropriations, reported favorably on the bill to make an appropriation for the benefit of sheriffs. [Appropriates $12,000 to defray expenses of feeding and removing prisoners.] Passed.

The present legislature seems to be pretty much anti-temperance in sentiment. The late State temperance convention passed a resolution requesting the legislature to refrain from repealing the prohibitory laws in any of the counties in which they then existed. A few days afterwards, the Senate passed a bill repealing prohibition in Limestone and Pickens counties.

Mr. Edwards has introduced a bill in the house to require passenger trains to stop at certain stations.

The bill increasing the salaries of circuit junges and chancellors has passed both houses and become a law.

The following is the text of the bill recommended by the state temperance convention for passage by the legislature:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama. Section 1.—That from and after the passage of this act, when any person shall apply for license to retail spiritous or vinous liquors in this State, the Judge of Probate of the county in which such application shall be made shall give public notice in the newspaper having the largest circulation published in that county, that a certain person, naming him or her, recommended by certain persons, naming them, has made application to retail spirituous or vinous liquors; and the Judge of Probate at the same notice shall appoint a day, not less than thirty days from the time when such applicaton for license will be heard in open court, and further, the applicant with all his recommenders shall be present at the hearing of said application, and they may be examined under oath, by any one feeling any interest in the application, whether sections 1544 and 1545 of the Revised Code have been complied with; and the applicant shall pay all cost accruing from notice, and hearing.

Section 2.—An appeal may be taken from the Probate Court to the Circuit Court and from that to the Supreme Court, by any citizen of that county who will give security for cost.

Cedar Key, Fla., ships 40,000 fish per week.

Thurlow Weed's Span of Life.

Thurlow Weed's life almost spans the history of this country under its present Constitution. He was born before Washington died, and when Webster, Clay, and Calhoun were making their reputations he had edited several country newspapers and fought in the battles of his country. He was older than Seward, or Lincoln or Greeley, and when Clay, Webster, and Calhoun were dead he had not enterred upon the most important part of his career. He was alive when Napoleon's star appeared in the darkness of the French Revolution, and was already a young man when the battle of Waterloo was fought. He lived and worked with three generations of public men. Most of the men who are now beginning to attract attention might have been his grandsons. Benjamin Franklin died seven years before Weed was born. The lives of these two journalists take the world back to the reign of Louis the XIV. and beyond the birth of Frederick the Great. Another such would very nearly reach the time of Shakespeare.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Little Too Much Pepper.

Centerville Record: One of the most prominent preachers tells the following anecdote as a fact whenever he hears a story too incredible for belief: "A very wicked man became converted in course of time, and it became his turn to pray in class meetings. Not being used to speaking in public, of course he was very much embarrassed. This is the substance of the prayer: "Oh, Lord, thou Giver of all good things, look down with pity on poor people. You are rich and can spare them plenty to eat while on earth. Send every one of them a full barrel of flour, plenty of lard and a side of bacon, a ham or so, and a pound of butter. Send each one of your hungry starving, creatures a barrel of sugar, a barrel of salt, a barrel of pepper—oh, h—l—that's too much pepper. Amen!"

Great Bankrupt Sale!

—OF—

R. EHRMAN'S

ENTIRE STOCK!!!

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK

—OF—

General Merchandise

Will be sold at Bankrupt Sale, on TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12th AND 13th.

—AT CLANTON, ALA.—

This stock of merchandise was brought to this market by R. Ehrman, and is now sold at great sacrifice in order to satisfy the demands of creditors. The stock consists of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,
CORN, MEAT, FLOUR, MEAL,
FARM SUPPLIES,

And a Number One Stock of Dress Goods. Don't let this opportunity pass to supply yourself at small cost.

Surveyor's Notice.

I would respectfully inform the people of Chilton county that I have been reappointed county surveyor, and with an experience of thirty years am prepared to do all surveying entrusted to me with satisfaction to all parties. Persons wishing to know where their land lines are would do well to call on me.

H. R. ATCHINSON,
n23 Maplesville, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 1976.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 30th, 1882, viz: Augustus Walker, Homestead entry No. 10356 for the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 28, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, John M. Gothard, Squire D. Posey and John C. Martin, all of Randolph, Ala.

n30 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Clanton Academy.

—:o:—

The second session of this school will begin September 18th, 1882, and continue ten scholastic months.

TERMS:

Primary branches, per scholar per month	$2.00
Intermediate	3.00
Academic	4.00
Music	4.00
Board (washing extra)	10.00

Tuition due quarterly—that is, EVERY TEN WEEKS. Board due monthly, IN ADVANCE.

W. A. MONTGOMERY,
Clanton, Ala., 1882. Principal.

Verbena Male and Female Academy.

—:o:—

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

—:o:—

This school is now in session and will continue until June 16, 1883.

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department,	per mo.		$1.50.
Preparatory	"	"	2.00.
Intermediate	"	"	3.00.
Academic	"	"	4.00.
Music	"	"	3.00.
Contingent fee per term			.25.

Good board can be obtained in private families at $9 or $10 per month.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. ACREE, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

THE SUN FOR 1883.

More people have read the Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like the Sun for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs the Sun makes a practice of telling the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that the Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robinsonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, the Sun stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

Terms.—The several editions of the Sun are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: Daily 55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7.70. Sunday edition, eight pages, $1.20 a year. Weekly, eight pages, $1.00 a year. Address

I. W. ENGLAND,
Publisher Sun, N. Y. City.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March, 1884, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e quarter of the n w quarter, section 13, township 21 north, range 12 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company. By Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it, by James E. Lowe, and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the 8th day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the eighth day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: "The n w quarter of the s w quarter of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of Nov., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, by Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact. nov2

J. F. MAULL. J. H.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH.

Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMI

SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HA

Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinwa

Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles

FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICE

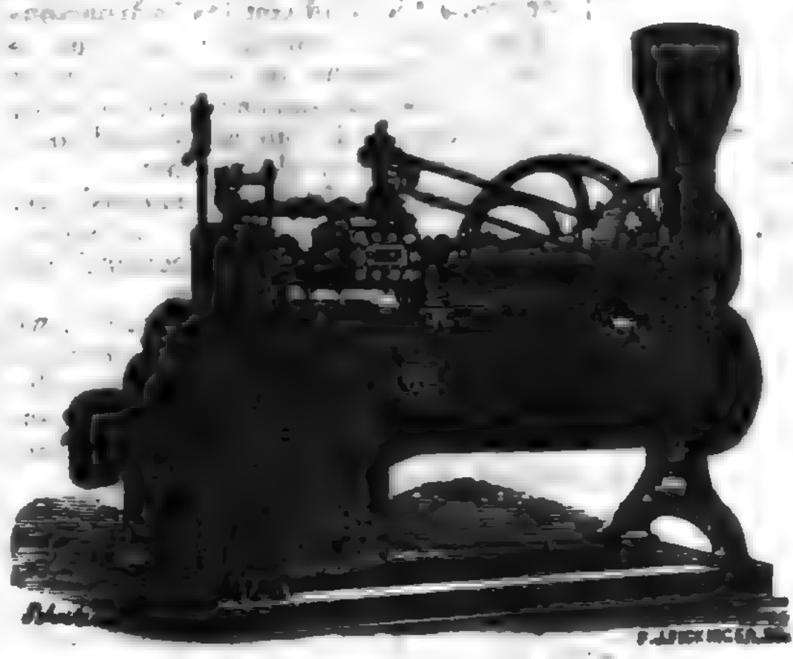
☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CO

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public p

MAULL & HOCKENSM

Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the Worl



ENGIN

OF ALL

FROM TWO T

HUNDRED

POWE

—AND—

OF ALL

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON W

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest

Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting,

kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham,

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—DEALERS IN—

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing G

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of this House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,

And Blank Book Manufactur

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECE PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in Nor bama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send to us.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electra-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju 7-1y

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 26x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. to-tf Lomax, Ala.

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

EAST TENN., VIRGINIA
GEORGIA RAILROA

Forms the quickest and able route to

Eastern Citi

AND ONLY ROU

—TO THE—

WATERING PLAC

—OF—

East Tennessee and V

The principle

SPLENDID SCENERY
TIME AND THRO
CARS.

The only line mountainous and Virginia.

For information

JAS. R. OGDEN
A. POPE,
A. G. P. A.,

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 30, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.

Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.

Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.

Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.

Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.

Representative—J. S. Edwards.

Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.

Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.

Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.

Sheriff—James E. Lowe.

Treasurer—James M. Parish.

Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.

Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.

Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.

Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr 7:73 p. m.
" 10:36 "	Calera	Lve. 4:40 "
" 5:40 p m	Rome	" 10:10 a m
" 7:18 "	Dalton	" 8:05 "
" 8:45 "	Cleaveland	" 7:03 "
" 11:25 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:30 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 423, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., meets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Several weddings are on the tapis to take place soon.

Now the question is heard on every corner, "Is it cold enough for you?"

A certain handsome conductor of our acquaintance is a good duck hunter.

The first ice of the season was seen yesterday morning. A general "freeze up" the night previous.

Our young people enjoyed a delightful entertainment at the residence of Col. R. H. Knox, one evening last week.

Read advertisement of bankrupt sale of R. Ehrman's entire stock, which will take place at the store in Clanton, on December 12th and 13th.

A grand military display in Montgomery to-morrow, and an inaugural ball in the evening—the occasion being the inauguration of Gov.-elect O'Neal.

Mr. Will Lanier, who has been quite sick of late, at Anniston, was brought home on last Friday, that he might receive the attention of the family. We are glad to learn that he is improving, and hope to see him out again soon.

At the annual election of officers for the ensuing year for the South & North Alabama railroad, the following officers were elected: J. W. Sloss, President; Milton S. Smith, Vice-President; Henry M. Bush, Secretary and Treasurer; E. Marsh, Superintendent.

The State temperance convention recently assembled in Montgomery was very largely attended. An "Alliance" of all the friends of temperance was instituted. A Vice President from each county in the State was elected. Rev. J. W. Shores fills the position for Chilton.

The syrup! the syrup! During the past week we have received a number of samples of syrup made around Clanton. It is all good, and some of it is excellent, which reminds us that every day multiplies the evidence that we have a fine country for the raising of all the necessaries of life.

"I see that your son is out of the penitentiary," said a man to an acquaintance. "Yes; we proved that insanity was the cause of his killing the fellow and they turned him out on probation." "How's that?" "They said they'd let him stay out a day or two, and if he acted like a crazy man they'd let him stay out permanently. Well, he acted like he was insane, and I reckon he'll stay out." "How did he act like he was insane?" "By killing another man."

Maplesville Dots.

Mr. Bailey Bowline is very low with consumption. He is not expected to live long. He is one of our oldest citizens and his death will be felt by many old friends.

Rev. F. A. Liles, of Pea Ridge, Dallas Co., preached at our church last Sunday, his text was: "What profiteth it a man, if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul." He did full justice to the subject, and his peroration brought tears to the eyes of many, so pathetic was his appeal.

Mr. Henry Jones met with a most painful accident at Mrs. Goodwin's gin house, recently, which will disable him for some time.

BIJOU.

Jemison Jottings.

Rev. George Lee, of Helena, filled his regular appointment here on last Sabbath, and had a large and attentive congregation.

Mr. J. O. Smith is on a business trip to Washington to get a patent on a dry kiln which he has invented. It is undoubtedly a good thing and we wish him success.

We regret omitting the name of Mr. S. J. Manning in our last week's writing. He was also a representative to the State Convention from Crystal Fount Lodge I. O. G. T. with A. E. Burns. This Lodge has increased from 19 charter members to 40 members.

Meat is falling—John Stripland has caught 25 oppossums during the season.

HUGO.

Profanity.

This vice is becoming fearfully prevalent in our land. "Because of swearing the land mourneth." Old men, young men, middle-aged men, and even little boys, curse and swear. On the streets, in the stores, around the post offices, in the shops, on the farms, on railway trains, on steamboats—almost everywhere, where men are found, horrid oaths are heard. Man, the only being on earth created "in the image and likeness of God," and endowed with the capacity to worship God, and with the power of speech with which to offer praise to his Maker, degrades and prostitutes these powers, and employs them in dishonoring and profaning that holy name "which is above every name." And this profanity is found, not only among men occupying the lowest positions in society—the "vulgar herd" of mankind, but among men in almost all positions and professions. Men who have been elevated to the various offices, by the votes of their fellow-citizens, and who, because of the position they occupy, and the honor that has been conferred upon them, should be exemplars of good morals—put themselves on a level with the vilest of the vile by indulging this great sin. It does seem to me that when men have been thus honored and trusted by being elevated to office, respect for those who have thus elevated them, as well as respect for themselves, and reverence for their Maker, should cause them to abstain from the use of profane language. Those who make and administer the laws of the land, should themselves conform both to these laws and to the laws and to the laws enacted by the great source of all true law. One of the duties of several of these officers is to administer judicial oaths: how does it look for a man to do this whose own common conversation, almost every hour of the day, is interlarded with profane oaths? It looks to me very much like a solemn mockery.

Then, fathers—fathers—are by their example teaching their own sons to blaspheme "that Holy Name." Not long since, a little boy was heard using profane language. A pious young man told him he ought not to use such language. He replied: "My papa swears." O ye fathers! whither are ye leading your sons?

Why do men use such language? What inducement is there to do so? What is there in such language to recommend it? Is it characteristic of the gentleman? Does its use recommend the user to any body? Do even those who themselves use profane language, think any more of others because of their use of it? Then, why use it? It has no excuse—no justification.

OBSERVER.

Mistake as to identity had very unpleasant results for Mme. Gainaud in Paris lately. One Martin, separated from his wife, mistook Mme. Gainaud for her, and when she fled for refuge from him into a shop shot at and badly wounded her—for revolvers seem now as common in Paris as in Leadville—and then tried to kill herself. When his real wife appeared her resemblance to Mme. Gainaud was astounding.

It is estimated that the humbug marriage associations have swept up $2,000,000 from various parts of Texas, a sum more than sufficient to run the public schools since the first association began business.

NOTICE NO. 1898.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 27, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 9th 1882, viz: Elbert Walker, Homestead 12365 for the n ½ of n w ¼, s e ¼ of n w ¼, s e quarter of s w quarter, sec 18, township 20 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: James M. Stanfield, Allen Sims, and A. H. Edwards, of Mountain Creek, and Eli Crenshaw, of Wadsworth, Ala.

nov2 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1895.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 9, 1882, viz: Cyrus M. Culp, Homestead 7553 for the s w quarter of s e quarter, section 14, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Stephen Baker, Peter S. Prim, James M. Bivings and Gus Gordon, all of Clanton, Ala. Thomas J. Scott, Register.

nov2*

NOTICE NO. 1923.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 19th, 1882, viz: James T. Jones, Homestead entry No. 7597, for the n w quarter of the n e quarter and the n e quarter of the s w quarter, sec. 10, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Peyton Finley, Aaron Goings, Lafayette F. Rollins, John Pearson, all of Mountain creek, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,
n16 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1936.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 13, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 23, 1882, viz: George W. Mims, Homestead 7684, for the s w ¼ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼, w ½ of s w ¼ sec. 2, township 22 north, range 15 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Franklin, Barton Woodward, William Y. Mims, and John Franklin, all of Clanton, Ala.

n16 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife, Adaline Smith on the 8th day of August, 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the court-house door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 29, township 22 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact.

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West
Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON,
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address
C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.
nov10-tf Rev. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 20-6m

Ternanville Ahead!
Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!
I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:
A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1
A Good Pair Pants $1.
A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.
My stock of GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS,
HARDWARE,
FARMING IMPLEMENTS,
and SUPPLIES
is complete, and my motto is
Low Prices.
My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.
Respectfully,
o12-3m T. M. TERNAN.

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.
I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.
Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

H. L. Wheeler,
GENERAL
Real Estate Agent.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Will buy and sell lands for commissions.
Jun15-1y

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.
Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE,
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.
We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

Frank P. O'Brien,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER,
—AND—
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hardware, Cutlery, Builders' Supplies and Woodware.
—ALSO—
SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, BUILDING MATERIAL AND TOOLS, PAINTS, OILS, VARNISHES, PUTTY, GLASS, BRICK, &c., &c
—BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
☞ Orders by mail solicited and promptly attended to.
June 20-6m

Ayer's Sarsaparilla
Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.
Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the
Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.
Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-6m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo. B. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.
Wilson, Johnston & Wilson,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.
Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-1y

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST.
CLANTON, ALA.
Solicits the patronage of the public.
PRICES FOR WORK:
Shaving - - - - [illegible]
Hair cutting - - - - [illegible]
☞ The only barber in the world who never talks. Jul17-1y

Lodgers in the Park.

Under the trees in Madison Square at eleven and one-half o'clock last night there were at least three hundred lodgers. Only half a dozen of them were awake. The others were sleeping in almost every conceivable posture. The few who had early in the evening secured shares of the curved bench around the fountain were the only ones able to stretch out at full length, and those rested their heads on their crossed arms, or leaned upon an elbow, or were flat on their backs. The flood of electric light from the high center pole bathed in a blaze of light the tree tops, that were like so many mounds of verdure. It tipped the edges of the layers of leaves as with shining silver, and left the park beneath half in twilight and half in dark. Waving lace-work patterns were seen wherever the shadows of the twigs and branches fell upon the walks. The effect produced by the electric light was such that every lodger seemed well dressed. There was not light enough to show a rent, a stain, or wrinkle in any of their garments. Even their shirts shone white.

But the lodgers looked uncomfortable. The high backs of the settees and the iron arm-rests separating the seats gave each man but eighteen square inches of bedstead. One young man who was occupying part of the settee close to Twenty-sixth street and near Madison avenue, where George Francis Train is to be found in the day-time, was doubled up like a half-closed pocket-knife. A lodger exactly across the way from the main entrance to the Fifth Avenue Hotel kept almost dropping his head on the grass behind him and catching it in the nick of time. The exertion made him snore like the snarling of a tiger. Every here and there gravitation brought two neighbors together with one's head on the other's breast and his head on his companion's shoulder.

"They are not all tramps," said the policeman on Twenty-sixth street. "Some of them have homes, but prefer to sleep out in the air. One young man that I happen to know has a nice home, but he has some ailment of the lungs or chest that he believes is relieved by sleeping out of doors. Others would be less comfortable in the hot and crowded quarters where they live than they are here. We find out about them when we make raids and bundle them all off to the station. We cannot hold those who have homes to go to. The others, forming the great majority, are simply vagrants, who live by begging and stealing, though some of them tell me they work once in a while, long enough to get clothes and money for a spree, and then they tramp again. On some nights every seat in every park is occupied. The park police do not stay on duty at night, but we are supposed to keep the tramps away. We let 'em alone though, unless they get noisy. They fight once in a while, but most of the trouble is made by bands of young roughs who roam through the parks from dark till midnight."

"If a decent man should fall asleep in one of these parks would he be safe?"

"Well, he would, but his valuables wouldn't. Sometimes a gentleman comes crawling through the park late at night full of wine after a dinner or a party, and drops on a bench and falls asleep. Then they go through him. I have known a man to be robbed of his watch, money, rings, coat, vest, hat and shoes, and have to make his way home in that condition in the morning. Generally, though, the tramps are not so cruel. They often take a gentleman's silk hat and leave him their own in exchange."

"But," said the policeman, "I must go and drive those fellows away from Delmonico's. The tramps go to Delmonico's when they get chilly, because there's a grating there and the heat of the kitchen comes up through it. There was a nice young fellow there last night. He had no coat, but his shirt was clean and good. He said his father turned him out of doors because he played pool, and he pawned his coat for the price of a meal."

There were about 500 lodgers in Union Square, and the plashing fountain, the embowered paths, and the sleepers, under the wizard touch of the electric light, made the scene remind one of the fairy tale of those who slumbered in the company of the Beauty in the Wood.

The Prince who broke the spell in the City Hall Park half an hour later was a policeman with a club two feet long. The reporter had been walking on the plaza between the grass and the City Hall, and had not noticed a lodger. The park was as quiet as a graveyard. But when this guardian, whose voice was like the roar of a fire trumpet, banged his club and said: "Out, with you, or I'll bag the lot of you," the paths suddenly swarmed with shambling, stretching, yawning figures, some at a dog trot and some limping like rheumatics.—N. Y. Sun.

A Large Gorilla.

The body of a large male gorilla has arrived in Philadelphia. The animal was at one time the terror of a certain African locality 400 miles from the Gaboon. He was chased to a settlement called Kangwe on the Ogoval River, and there killed by a bullet in the left eye. Some missionaries residing there saw by the gorilla's appearance that he was an old fellow of no mean pretensions, and being confident that such a large animal would be prized by American scientists, they bartered some beads for his carcass and shipped it to Philadelphia. The animal is over five feet eight inches high. His arms are four feet six inches long, and he is supposed to have been twenty-five or thirty years old.

—The 4th of March, 1821, came on Sunday. That was the second inauguration of James Monroe. In 1849, the year of the inauguration of General Taylor, the 4th of March came on Sunday. It did not happen again until the inauguration of President Hayes, in 1877. It will not occur again during this century. In 1885 the 4th of March comes on Wednesday; in 1889 the 4th comes on Monday, the next inauguration comes in 1893; the 4th comes on Saturday. In 1897 the 4th of March comes on Thursday. In 1900 the 4th of March falls on Sunday, but that is not an inauguration year; that will be in 1901, and that will bring the 4th of March on Monday.—Chicago Journal.

"Jellies Clear and Amber Sweets."

There is less work about putting up late fruit than is required by the small fruits which claim attention earlier in the season, at least as far as preparing it for the preserving kettle. Fruit which is to be made into delicious marmalades and spicy sweet pickles needs only to be carefully looked over, the perfect specimens wiped off with a soft towel, and the others rejected or cut in two and all imperfections removed, but for preserves, which are to tempt by their looks as well as flavor, the skins and sometimes the core also must be removed.

Blackberries should be made into jelly and jam or canned, as the case may be, as soon as possible after they are picked from the vines. To can them, boil five minutes, add six ounces of sugar to each quart of berries, boil five minutes longer and put while hot in cans or glass jars. To make into jelly boil them until soft, then strain, measure the juice, and boil fifteen minutes; then add a scant cupful of sugar for each cupful of juice, as measured, and boil ten minutes. Unless the berries contain an unusual amount of water the jelly will be perfectly solid, but as it is impossible to always judge correctly—and jelly is spoiled if it has to be cooked over—it is well to try a spoonful in a saucer; if it jellies around the edge as it cools it is done.

Blackberries make a good jam, which is excellent for making tarts, and for breakfast with warm bread. Measure the fruit before it is put in the kettle; allow one-third less sugar than fruit, but do not put it in until the fruit has cooked well for half an hour. After the berries have become soft mash them with a wooden spoon, boil twenty minutes after the sugar has been added, stirring frequently.

To make genuine old-time preserves, a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit is used. The result is a delicious, rich conserve, which does not need the protection of new-fashioned self-sealing jars to insure its keeping. But, excellent as they are, like many other good things, they should be used in small quantities, and they should be reserved for extra occasions, and the plainer canned fruits hold a more prominent place on the every-day table.

Quinces, pears and sweet apples are preserved in the same way.

In making sweet pickles, whole, perfect fruit should be used. It is well to make marmalade at the same time, then the perfect fruit can be selected for the pickles, and all that must be cut in two or have imperfect places cut out can be used for the marmalade. To make a syrup for pickling fruit, take four pounds of sugar, one quart of cider vinegar and one pint of water for eight pounds of fruit; add one-half ounce of mace, one ounce of cinnamon in sticks and one-quarter ounce of whole cloves; let the syrup come to a boil before putting in the fruit. After the fruit is added let it boil until tender, but not until it is considered thoroughly cooked. Remove the fruit to glass jars and pour the syrup over it. Let it cool before sealing up. Peaches and crab-apples make the best pickles.

Crab-apples make a very pleasant-tasting jelly and are one of the best fruits for marmalade. Jelly, when made from yellow crab-apples, has a delicate amber color lovely to behold.

To make into jelly add two quarts of water to half a peck of apples and cook soft. Squeeze through a jelly bag and strain; boil the juice ten minutes, then add one cupful of sugar to each cupful of juice. The juice should be measured when put in the kettle, not after it has boiled; boil ten minutes longer, then pour into glasses.

Crab-apples, grapes, plums, peaches and quinces make good marmalade. A general rule is to cook the fruit until soft, then put it through a colander; return the pulp to the kettle, add a scant cupful of sugar to each cupful of pulp; boil three-quarters of an hour. It must cook slowly and be stirred frequently or it will scorch. It is better to put marmalade into small bowls. If put in large jars it remains soft, but, if rightly made, it will, when put in bowls, become perfectly solid.

Harvesting Potatoes.

It is advisable to dig potatoes before the heavy fall rains occur. If the ground is muddy the potatoes can not be taken out of it in a clean condition. The soft dirt will remain on them and greatly injure their appearance. Potatoes that are dirty can not be marketed to good advantage and are in a bad state to handle at home. Still, it is not a good plan to harvest potatoes till near the time when the fall rains generally occur. While the weather is quite warm they will keep better in the ground, where they grew, than in any place that is available for storing them. Potatoes should be exposed to the action of the sun as short a time as possible after they are dug. The sunlight affects them unfavorably, and if they are exposed to it for a long time their value for potato purposes is completely destroyed. All have noticed that tubers from which the dirt has been washed away are green in color and that they have a disagreeable taste. They are poisonous when eaten. If the soil is dry when potatoes are dug they should lie on the ground but a very short time before they are gathered up. The best place to store them is a cool and tolerably dry cellar. They may be kept, however, very well in heaps above the ground if they are covered judiciously. The heap should be on tolerably high ground so that water will not collect. A ditch should be dug round the place to carry off the water that falls. The heap should be covered first with straw and then with earth, which should be of sufficient thickness to prevent the action of frost. Additions should be made to the covering of earth if the weather becomes very cold. In digging potatoes it is advisable to sort out the small ones and feed them to stock.—Chicago Times.

—A frog fell into a pail of milk in a Connecticut town one night recently, and in the morning was found sitting upon a roll of fresh butter. A local paper says that the sole explanation is that, in trying to extricate himself, he had, by diligent and continuous strokes of his long legs, churned the milk into butter.—New Haven Register.

A PROFESSIONAL [illegible].

The Unusual Experience of a Prominent [illegible]

The following article from the Democrat and Chronicle, of Rochester, N. Y., is of so striking a nature, and emanates from so reliable a source, that it is herewith republished entire. In addition to the valuable matter it contains, it will be found exceedingly interesting.

To the Editor of the Democrat and Chronicle:

SIR:—My motives for the publication of the most unusual statements which follow are, first, gratitude for the fact that I have been saved from a most horrible death, and, secondly, a desire to warn all who read this statement against some of the most deceptive influences by which they have ever been surrounded. It is a fact that to-day thousands of people are within a foot of the grave and they do not know it. To tell how I was caught away from just this position and to warn others against nearing it, are my objects in this communication.

On the first day of June, 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for my death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words can never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease, I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, had weighed over 200 pounds and hardly knew, in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times that they are unusually tired and cannot account for it. They feel dull and indefinite pains in various parts of the body, and do not understand it. Or they are exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malady which had fastened itself upon me first began. Still I thought it was nothing; that probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a dull, and at times, a neuralgic, pain in my head, but as it would come one day and be gone the next, I paid but little attention to it. However, my stomach was out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing at times great inconvenience. Yet I had no idea, even as a physician, that these things meant anything serious or that a monstrous disease was becoming fixed upon me. Candidly, I thought I was suffering from Malaria, and so doctored myself accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluids I was passing—also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and scum appeared upon the surface, and a sediment settled in the bottom. And yet I did not realize my danger, for, indeed, seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustomed to them, and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot understand.

There is a terrible future for all physical neglect, and impending danger always brings a person to his senses even though it may then be too late. I realized, at last, my critical condition and aroused myself to overcome it. And, oh! how hard I tried! I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the prominent mineral springs in America and traveled from Maine to California. Still I grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation; another, nervous prostration; another, malaria; another dyspepsia; another, heart disease; another, general debility; another, congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of common diseases, the symptoms of all of which I really had. In this way several years passed, during all of which time I was steadily growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The slight symptoms I at first experienced were developed into terrible and constant disorders—the little twigs of pain had grown to be oaks of agony. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a torture to myself and friends. I could retain no food upon my stomach, and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was uncontrollable. In my agony I frequently fell upon the floor, convulsively clutched the carpet, and prayed for death. Morphine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death-premonitory hiccoughs constantly. My urine was filled with tube casts and albumen. I was struggling with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys in its last stages.

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, rector of St. Paul's Church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation he mentioned a remedy of which I had heard much but had never used. Dr. Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures which had come under his observation, by means of this remedy, and urged me to try it. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools, I cherished the prejudice both natural and common with all regular practitioners, and derided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being the least beneficial. So solicitous, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised I would waive my prejudice and try the remedy he so highly recommended. I began its use on the 1st day of June and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me; but this I thought was a good sign for me in my debilitated condition. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed and I was able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I noticed a decided change for the better, as also did my wife and friends. My hiccoughs ceased and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so rejoiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before was my dying bed, I vowed, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity. I also determined that I would give a course of lectures in the Corinthian Academy of Music in this city, stating in full the symptoms and almost hopelessness of my disease and the remarkable means by which I have been saved. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 26 pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain, and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy which I used.

Since my recovery I have thoroughly re-investigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately, and as a physician, that I believe that more than one-half the deaths which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement, but I am prepared to fully verify it. Bright's disease has no distinctive symptoms of its own, (indeed, it often develops without any pain whatever in the kidneys or their vicinity,) but has the symptoms of nearly every other known complaint. Hundreds of people die daily, whose burials are authorized by a physician's certificate of "Heart Disease," "Apoplexy," "Paralysis," "Spinal Complaint," "Rheumatism," "Pneumonia," and other common complaints, when in reality it was Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Few physicians, and fewer people, realize the extent of this disease or its dangerous and insidious nature. It steals into the system like a thief, manifests its presence by the commonest symptoms, and fastens itself upon the constitution before the victim is aware. It is nearly as hereditary as consumption, quite as common and fully as fatal. Entire families, inheriting it from their ancestors, have died, and yet none of the number knew or realized the mysterious power which was removing them. Instead of common symptoms it often shows none whatever, but brings death suddenly, and as such is usually supposed to be heart disease. As one who has suffered, and knows by bitter experience what he says, I implore every one who reads these words not to neglect the slightest symptoms of Kidney difficulty. Certain agony and possible death will be the sure result of such neglect, and no one can afford to hazard such chances.

I am aware that such an unqualified statement as this, coming from me, known as I am throughout the entire land as a practitioner and lecturer, will arouse the surprise and possible animosity of the medical profession and astonish all with whom I am acquainted, but I make the foregoing statements based upon facts which I am prepared to produce, and truths which I can substantiate to the letter. The welfare of those who may possibly be sufferers such as I was, is an ample inducement for me to take the step I have, and if I can successfully warn others from the dangerous path in which I once walked, I am willing to endure all professional and personal consequences.

J. B. HENION, M. D.

—"Nine tailors do not make a man," and, it seems, they never did. The original word was "taler," meaning the tally or tale of strokes upon the bells tolling for the dead. One stroke was for an infant; three for a girl; nine for a man. So passers-by would say: "Nine talers make a man;" which considering that it was the unmaking of the man, was a curious thing to say.—Detroit Post.

STRAIGHTEN your old boots and shoes with Lyon's Heel stiffeners, and wear them again.

—A ten-year-old pickaninny rode from Knoxville, Tennessee, to Dalton, Georgia, a distance of 110 miles, wedged in between the truck frame of a coal car and the flooring. He had been playing under the car and being caught, could not get out when it started.—Chicago Herald.

"Buchu-Paiba."
Quick, complete cure, all annoying Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases. $1. Druggists.

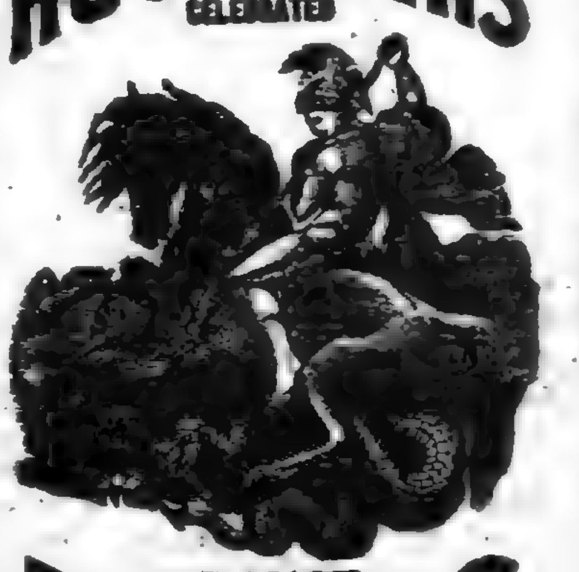
For thick heads, heavy stomachs, biliousness—Wells' May Apple Pills. 10 and 25c.

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS TO LIVE.
From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in "perfect health," we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearances, in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which considerably benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine.

DR. DEWITT C. KELLINGER'S LINIMENT is an infallible cure for Rheumatism, Sprains, Lameness and Diseases of the Scalp, and for promoting the growth of the Hair.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED



STOMACH
BITTERS

Old fashioned remedies are rapidly giving ground before the advance of this conquering specific, and old fashioned ideas in regard to depletion as a means of cure, have been quite exploded by the success of the great renovant, which tones the system, tranquilizes the nerves, neutralizes malaria, depurates and enriches the blood, rouses the liver when dormant, and promotes a regular habit of body.
For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

[illegible] IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILL
Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.
Send for CIRCULARS.
With universal I. Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.
Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

THE MASSILLON

LIGHT and HEAVY SAWMILLS, strictly portable. Also SAWMILL ENGINES. Russell & Co., Massillon, Ohio. Send for Catalogue and Price List. (Name this paper.)

ENGINES. NEW & SECOND HAND. Address HARRIS IRON WORKS, Titusville, Pa.

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR CARDS. Fringed and plain, choice, new patterns, for Sunday-schools and home gifts, 1c. to $1 each. Address DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street, Chicago, Ill.

COLEMAN COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, Newark, N. J. Write for Catalogue. Coleman & Palms, Prop'rs.

ANY WATCH [illegible] AND NOT WEAR OUT.
SOLD by Watchmakers. By mail, 25 cts. Circulars free. J. S. BIRCH & CO., 38 Dey St., N. Y.

SAW MILLS [illegible]
THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.

BUGGIES [illegible]

ERRORS OF Romanism!
[illegible] by the most eminent Divines of the different Denominations.
STARTLING STATEMENTS!
The Corruption of Romanism. The Confessional. The Inquisition. Massacre of St. Bartholomew. Profusely Illustrated with Portraits of the Contributors. Death Scenes. Tortures of the Martyrs.
Cloth, Gilt Side and Back, $2.00. Leather $2.50. For the next 60 days we will send a cloth copy, prepaid to any address on receipt of $1.50. Leather $1.50. We will send the REVISED NEW TESTAMENT in cloth, price $2.00 for $1.00. A Rare Chance for Agents. Address The Peoples Publishing House, 48 Clark St., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., and Atlanta, Ga.

COTTON FUTURES
RAPID MONEY MAKING on Individual deals or on the Popular and safe NEW Co-Operative PLAN OF CONSERVATIVE SPECULATING
Weekly Statements, Monthly Dividends
$1,000 Invested Pays over $200 per month income.
Smaller Investments in proportion. Correspondents wanted everywhere. Circulars mailed to any address.
DIO. F. WOLFFE & CO., Brokers,
174 & 176 Common St. NEW ORLEANS, LA.

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA.
Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filters and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been awarded at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-3 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, free.
THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

$100 LIBRARY for $6.75.
$6.75 buys a library of 100 volumes of choicest $1 to $1.50 Sunday-school books, sent postpaid. Books all catalogued and numbered; put up in pamphlet form, wire stitched, light and flexible; will outlast most expensive. One hundred and fifty-six books now issued. Catalogue free. Sample book and library exchange, ten cents. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street, Chicago.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!
DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT; a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by C. J. LUHN, Charleston, S. C. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

KIDNEY-WORT
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF CONSTIPATION.
No other disease is so prevalent in this country as Constipation, and no remedy has ever equalled the celebrated Kidney-Wort as a cure. Whatever the cause, however obstinate the case, proper use of this remedy will overcome it.
PILES. THIS distressing complaint is very apt to be complicated with constipation. Kidney-Wort strengthens the weakened parts and quickly cures all kinds of Piles even when physicians and medicines have before failed.
☞ If you have either of these troubles
PRICE $1. USE Druggists Sell
KIDNEY-WORT
ACTS AT THE SAME TIME ON KIDNEYS, LIVER AND BOWELS.

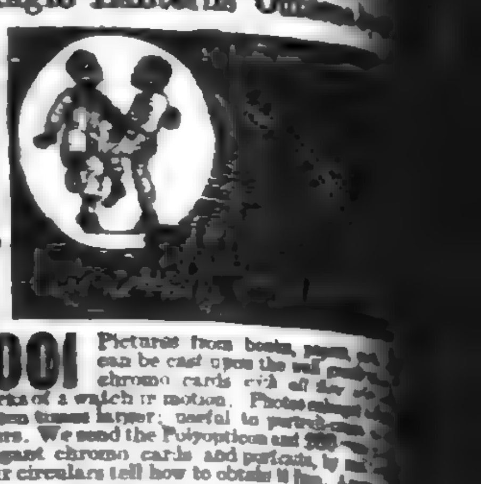
MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

STRONG'S PECTORAL PILLS
A SURE REMEDY FOR
COLDS AND RHEUMATISM.
Ensure healthy appetite, good digestion, regularity of the bowels. A PRECIOUS BOON TO DELICATE FEMALES, soothing and bracing the nervous system, and giving vigor and health to every fibre of the body. Sold by Druggists. For Pamphlets address P. O. Box 650, N. Y. City.

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

A CATALOG
JUST ISSUED CONTAINING
400 ILLUSTRA
AND PRICES OF
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, J
AND SILVERWA
Will be sent to any address
J. P. STEVENS &
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - GEO

Magic Lanterns Outdone



An Optical Wonder.
1001 Pictures from books, can be cast upon the wall, chromo cards with all the works of a watch in motion. Photos or ten times larger; useful to portrait teurs. We send the Polyopticon and elegant chromo cards and portraits, Our circulars tell how to obtain it free.
Murray Hill Pub. Co., 129 E.

AGENTS WANTED FOR CORC
Subscriptio
THE FINEST IN THE WORLD and selling. Accurately written, paper, elegantly illustrated and other books their equal. All Territory clear. They satisfy the Agent field, the people on account of their "Newman's America."
biography from the Mound Builders. The only book covering the
The Lives of the James
The only complete account of the
"The Jeannette."
Explorations. Including HAYES, HALL and DE LONG
"Pictorial Family Bible."
taining both versions of the New Features and Illustrations than any other
The most LIBERAL TERMS
LISHING HOUSE. PROMPT DELAYS.
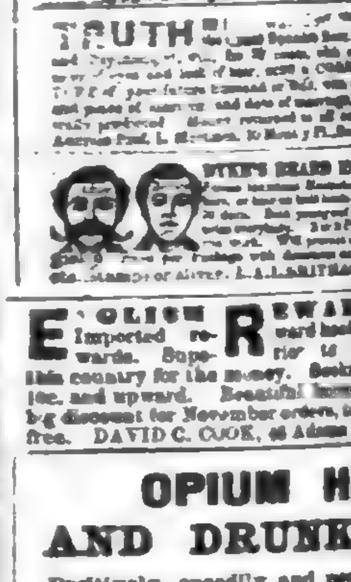
Write quickly for circulars and terms rapidly being taken.
CORLEY & COOK PUBLISHING
96, 98, 99 & 100 Metropolitan Block,

SAMARITAN
CURES AND



NEVER FAILS.
NERVINE
THE DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph

TRUTH [illegible]

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR [illegible]

ENGLISH REWARD BOOKS
Imported reward books superior to any in this country for the money. Books from 10c. and upward. Beautiful books for Dec. big discount for November orders, free. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams street,

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS
Positively, speedily and permanently
DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES no form of Opium. Truth invites References best in the State.
lets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta

$1.30 TEACHER'S BIBLE
Teacher's Bibles, concordance, dictionary, tables, maps, etc. teacher's Bibles extant; binding, gilt edge, for One Dollar
Gilt Bibles from 40 cents upward.
46 Adams street, Chicago, Illinois.

NEW RICH BLO
Parsons' Purgative Pills
blood, and will completely change the entire system in three months.
will take one pill each night from 1 to restored to sound health,
Sold everywhere or sent by mail
I. S. JOHNSON & CO. formerly Bangor, Me.

Pub. Union, Atlanta, Ga.

This N.Y. Singer

With $8 set of Warranted quiet,
Happy Book.
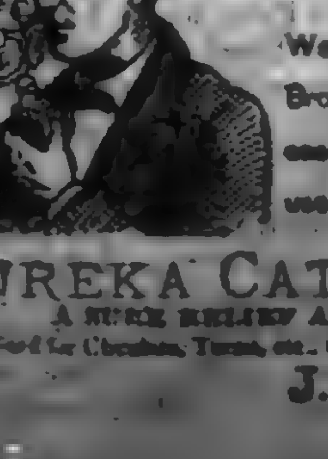
Bees,
Also
tions,
G. Payne & Co.

DR. HARTER'S
GENTLEMEN:—I have used the HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this great and invaluable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 28th, 1881.
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
IRON TONI
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO.,



FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Loss of Sense of Taste and Smell, Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use
EUREKA CATARRH CURE,
A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.
Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to
J. W. GURLEY, M.D., Atlanta

Probate Judg

The Chilton View.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor.

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1882. NO. 4.

FOR A WARNING.

ell just how it happened, though it's many years ago.
I sometimes think it's curious that I can remember so;
Though things that lately happened slip my mind, and fade away,
Sure that I shall never lose the memory of that day, was coming to Thanksgiving—so he wrote us in the Fall:

was Ezra's oldest brother, and his favorite of them all.
I'd been keeping house since April, but I can't always tell
If my pie-crust would be flaky, or the poultry roasted well;
I felt a little worried—if the truth must be [illegible] afraid—
At the thought of Ezra's brother coming as our household guest.

A week before Thanksgiving Ezra rode one day to town,
For needed things for cooking—flour and sugar, white and brown;
And I worked like any beaver, all the time he was away,
Making mince and stewing apples for the coming holiday.
He got back tired, and nervous, when he galloped home at night—
That day my work had plagued me, nothing seemed to go just right.

"Here's the flour I needed," said he; "it's the best there is in town; [illegible] sugar, but I've brought enough of brown."
"You're a fool!" I cried in fury, and the tears began to fall:
"Ride ten miles to do an errand, and forget it after all!"

I was cross and clean discouraged, as I thought he ought to know;
But he turned as white as marble when he heard me speaking so.
Not a word he said in answer, but he started for the door,
And in less than half a minute galloped down the road once more.

Then I nearly cried my eyes out, what with grief and fear and shame;
He was good and kind and patient; I was all the one to blame.
And the hours wore on till midnight, and my heart seemed turned to stone,
As I listened for his coming while I sat there all alone.

With the daylight came a neighbor; "Ezra has been hurt," he said;
"Found beside the road unconscious; taken up at first for dead."
Just behind him came four others, with a burden slowly borne;
As I stood and dumbly watched them you can guess of all I thought!

Oh, the days and nights that followed! Ezra lived, but that was all;
And with tearless eyes I waited for the worst that might befall.
Wandering in a wild delirium, broken phrases now and then Dropped from fevered lips, and told me what his painful thoughts had been.

So Thanksgiving dawned upon us. Job came early, shocked to meet
Such a broken-hearted woman for the bride he hoped to greet.
Not a word we spoke together in that hushed and shadowed room,
Where we waited for the twilight darkening down to deeper gloom;
For the doctor said that morning: "There is nothing more to do;
If he lives till after sunset, I, perhaps, can pull him through."

Just as five o'clock was striking, Ezra woke and, feebly stirred;
"Did you get the sugar, darling?" were the words I faintly heard.
How I cried! You can't imagine how I felt to hear him speak,
Or to see his look of wonder as I bent to kiss his cheek.

Well, I've told a long, long story—Ezra's coming up the walk—
But I've had a purpose in it; 'twasn't just for idle talk.
Don't you think, my dear, you'd better make your quarrel up with Grey?
It may save a world of trouble, and it's near Thanksgiving Day.—Christian Union.

A STRANGER AT THE BOARD.

A Thanksgiving Story.

It snowed the night before Thanksgiving that year. Through the evening there was a half-defined mist in the gray air that seemed like the all pervading chilliness taking form, and everybody who was going away, or who was to have company and that took in nearly all of New England, went to bed with a dim foreboding of disappointment on the morrow.

"There is four inches of snow, at least," said Farmer Draper on Thanksgiving morning, as he came in from the big barn, stamping his feet vigorously upon the stone floor of the back porch. "Four inches, at least, and that isn't the worst of it, it is covered with a crust as thin and sharp, almost, as window glass. I declare here is a hole in one of my rubber boots already."

"I don't know what to do about cooking the turkey," said Mother Draper, setting a large platter of steaming stewed chicken upon the breakfast-table. "I don't see how Aunt Catherine and the girls are to get down here to-day; or Frank and his wife, or the boys, either, for that matter."

"It is a bad morning for horses to travel, to be sure," said William, coming in from the barn just then, "but Thanksgiving is never postponed on account of the weather, so I will tell you what I propose to do: I will tackle up the steers, all four yoke, and hitch them to the long wood sled and go for the company. It will be great fun, besides showing my good disposition by breaking a track for my neighbors. You can go, too, sis, if you have a mind to; we will start right away after breakfast."

"It will be pretty cold," said her mother.

"And that ain't the worst of it," put in her father. "I expect she will be needed here about the chicken fixens."

"Mother will get along until Aunt Catherine gets here; she is a whole team and a horse to let. So put on your water-proof, old maid, and come down and help me tackle. You need not be afraid of your beau getting here before you return. For certainly, if he has to walk, he can't make great headway this morning."

Jennie, a bright, handsome, trim little body, being the oldest of the Draper children, was always teasingly called "the old maid," by her four brothers, who delighted in joking her about an expected lover who never came. "Jennie's beau" was a sort of mythical scape-goat in the family to whom all imaginable, absurd blunders and mishaps were attributed.

So now she made some laughing responses, and when her brother William harnessed his team, consisting of alternate yokes of red and white steers, two yokes of each, she took her place upon a bundle of straw in the center of the huge sled.

"There, sis," said William, taking his seat upon the nose of the sled and brandishing his long whip, "you look like the genius of Thanksgiving going round on a tour of inspection among the brick ovens, and your team is almost as fanciful as the reindeers of St. Nicholas."

It grew more and more fanciful momentarily, for it soon began to rain, and as the fine pelting drops froze as they fell, the whole turn-out was transformed into an exhibition of ice newly frozen for the occasion from the Arctic region. After having been round the square and picked up all the Draper blood in the township they retraced their steps, stopping at nearly every house for a merry interchange of greetings, "Just to break the gloom that the storm had cast over every thing," William said. But at every house it was noticeable that he threw out a few suggestive words to the boys that set them thinking there was no fun quite so desirable for Thanksgiving day as breaking steers.

The merriment of the morning was kept up through the day by the young people, while Mother Draper and Aunt Catherine moved mysteriously about and compared notes over dripping-pans, sauce-pans and pipkins in the kitchen.

Dinner was to be early, so that the two Draper boys who were employed upon the railroad that cut in twain the broad acres of their father's farm could be back at the station at train time in the afternoon.

Aunt Catherine's lovely daughters helped their pretty cousin Jenny to set the table, of course, and they managed slyly to have one plate and one chair too many, and by a great deal of manœuvring in seating the company, this plate and chair were left beside Jennie for the long-expected beau.

"He hasn't come yet, and that isn't the worst of it—I hope he never will," said Farmer Draper, looking affectionately across the table at his daughter as he bowed his head to ask the blessing.

"I believe he is coming now, uncle; I really do," exclaimed Louise the moment the good farmer had re-opened his eyes, and sure enough, as they looked out the window they saw a stoutly built young man bravely breasting the storm, yet showing a certain weariness as he walked along the slippery way.

The weather had changed again by this time, and the air was full of great feathery flakes, as if all the feathers of all the fowls that graced that day's dinner in New England had been cast to the four winds.

"He is coming in!" "No, he is going by!" "Yes, he has decided to call," as the young man, who was evidently a stranger, looked again at the polished windows that even on the outside gave a hint of warmth and good cheer within.

"Bow-wow-wow!" barked Pinchers, the house dog, in a decidedly equivocal welcome, especially when taking into consideration his huge proportions and savage air, and the stranger was turning away, as the piazza door opened and John had called out:—

"Down, Pinchers, down! Come in, come in, sir, out of the storm!"

"I tank ver," said the stranger, giving his hat and coat a shake, thus divesting them of their burden of snow, and following John directly into the dining-room, and, with a graceful bow to the company, seating himself by the fire.

"We were expecting you," said John. "We have the table set for you as you may see. Sit right up."

"Yes, yes," assented Farmer Draper; "sit right up, you are cold and tired, of course, but that isn't the worst of it, you must be hungry, too. You can get warm and rested and filled at the table."

Louise, to carry on the joke, and to treat Jennie's long-expected beau with due cordiality, pushed back the vacant chair, and Jennie, not to be out-done, glanced up and seeing a comely, neatly-dressed young man at her elbow gave him one of her sweet smiles, motioned him to the seat beside her and passed his plate to her father to be helped.

The stranger evidently understood very little of all the merry talk going on around the board, but he sat down in the proffered chair, bowed his head for a moment as if invoking a silent blessing, and then proceeded with his meal.

"You haf large family," he said presently to the farmer, carefully studying his words, "and you haf much meat," looking around with evident astonishment at the groaning table, for Mother Draper and Aunt Catherine held to the old fashion that everything belonging to the Thanksgiving dinner must be on the table before the family were seated.

"We don't live like this right along," explained the farmer, "and that isn't the worst of it—we don't want to. This is 'Thanksgiving.'"

All this to the disgust of William, who was expostulating: "Oh, goodness, father, why must you tell him that! Why don't you make him believe that this is only a picked-up dinner?"

The young people all joined in a laugh at this, but the stranger repeated:

"Thanksgiving? Thank you! Thank God? I see! I know. I hear about it. I not know it to-day. Every door I call I find good smells, like Christmas at home. No one say 'come in.' Here dog say 'Walk in.' You say 'Welcome,'" and the young man looked gratefully at John's smiling face, and then went on with his dinner with a hearty relish.

"Gracious! See him lay in for supplies," said John, passing the onions. "Don't inflict such a stow-away upon us, Jennie. I verily believe it is the 'Robin to bobbin, the big-bellied Ben,' that we used to read about in the Mother Goose book."

"Goose! Goose!" cried the stranger, nodding toward the skeleton of the turkey. "I understand, I think, this be Yankee Christmas!"

"Something of that sort," said the farmer, "but that isn't the worst of it—Christmas is yet to come."

"Where are you going?" asked one of the boys, and after the question had been framed in various ways, he said:

"To Canada. There haf I friends. A mistake I made. I come to the wrong town you call it. I write letters. I spend all my moneys. I go walking now to Canada and find my friends, my brother. Now how many miles?"

"Too many for a fellow to walk this slippery traveling," said John.

"I say, Dick, old boy," to his brother, "what do you say to putting him in the caboose and giving him a lift?"

"All right," said the good-natured young freight conductor. "It would be a good deed for Thanksgiving Day. I will transfer him at the Essex Junction to-morrow morning, if I don't go through, and he will be in the Dominion before he knows it."

"Put him up a lunch, mother, enough to last him out of the country, and save your tears, Jen, he will undoubtedly return when he gets a better use of our language. It would be love-making under difficulties at present."

Jennie looked indignant, but the intelligent young stranger, although observant and alert, was entirely oblivious of all personal allusions.

Mother Draper packed a strong, good-sized paper bag with lunch, saying, with tears: "There was never such good hearted boys as my boys," and Aunt Catherine, who had a boy of her own somewhere in the far West, gave the stranger a dollar as she bade him good-bye.

The steer team was taken in the midst of another snow flurry, and as the merry company went back through the pretty sheltered neighborhood they found an escort in the way of a steer team waiting in every dooryard so that by the time they reached the little village about the railway station the Draper turn-out headed a decidedly unique procession.

The stranger asked a great many not very coherent questions. The boys amused themselves by assuring him it was a demonstration in his honor, it being a custom of the town to thus entertain foreigners. The girls entered into particulars and explained the real occasion of the display of young bovines, and it would have been hard to find a more bewildered individual than was bowed into the freight caboose by the smiling John, while all the boys, who were dancing around, managing the half-broken steers, united in a hearty hurrah, and all the girls on all the sleds waved their pocket handkerchiefs in adieu.

"What you do with me?" the stranger asked, looking around the snug, well-warmed little car.

"Canada," replied Dick, imitating the traveler's pronunciation.

"No moneys!" and the young man proceeded to turn his pockets inside out, whereupon Dick explained to the amusement of himself and his comrades and the increased bewilderment of the stranger, that he had a lien on the railroad and all the stock until his next month's wages were paid.

"He was sound asleep on one of the bunks in the caboose when we reached Essex," said Dick, "and I turned him over to Ben Leet and told him to shove him through into the Dominion and not let the custom-house officers at St. Armand collect duty on the fragments of mother's turkey and mince pie."

Thanksgivings came and went, and every year at the Draper homestead they talked over that snowy Thanksgiving when "Jennie's beau" sat down to the feast, and wondered who he was and what became of him and what kind of an impression of a New England Thanksgiving he carried away.

Last year at a convention where there were assembled in Christian fellowship people from all parts of the world, a French gentleman said to a lady with whom he was conversing:

"I have never been in the States but once before, and then I had a curious experience. I landed in New York from a French ship with only a mere smattering of English. I wanted to go to my friends in Bedford, Canada, but through carelessness of officials I was sent to Bedford, Mass. I found my mistake there and was started for my proper destination, but my money gave out, and being young and strong and resolute I determined not to be discouraged but to make my way on foot. It was late in the fall. I had no trouble in obtaining food and shelter at night and pushed on bravely until a snow storm overtook me. Oh, what a day that was! I called at many doors but was not invited to enter. At last, when almost wearied out, I reached a house that was to me like an entrance into Heaven. I pinched myself to see if I was still in the body. There was warmth and a feast and laughter and jest and song and little children and ladies in bright dresses. I was welcome and a plate waited for me. After the feast I was taken with all the guests on a huge sled drawn by oxen to the station. There similar teams met ours in the long wide country street. They escorted me to the station and into the cars and I was sent to my friends free of charge.

"When I recovered from my fatigue and wanted to write and thank my friends, I knew not the town, the name, not the names even of my entertainers and protectors, as I may call them. I knew [illegible] of it as a baby, and now I will ask you as I have asked others; do you know aught of such a country festival, where long strings of oxen are driven about the streets carrying guests from house to house, and where it is the custom to so bountifully provide for any stranger that happens to come in on that day? I wish I could know, for I never have seen such a picture of happiness, content and plenty as the Lord led me to look upon that afternoon. All these years I have carried those people near my heart and prayers that the Lord would lead me again in their midst."

"I was one of the girls at that notable feast," said the lady, and she entered into the necessary explanation to the surprise and delight of the now well-to-do, intelligent, demonstrative French gentleman.

Farmer Draper said the other day as he met this niece in a railway train. "Yes Louise, that young tramp, as we called him, you know, turned out to be our own little old maid's beau after all. Things do happen strangely sometimes. You mustn't fail to come to the wedding Thanksgiving. He has furnished satisfactory credentials, and Dick has taken a run up to Montreal where he is in business, and there seems to be no reason why they shouldn't be married. But Jennie don't know a word of his tarnal lingo and I tell her that isn't the worst of it—I shouldn't want to, for now he can do all his scolding in French and she can take it all for love sallies."

—Mrs. Annie A. Preston, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Self-Esteem.

A reasonable amount of self-esteem is necessary to secure a man's success in life; and there are few characters into which it does not enter to a great extent. We laugh at our neighbors, their foibles and absurdities excite our amusement, because we consider ourselves superior to like weaknesses. Their troubles cause us distress; but is not even divine compassion a form of self-love, or rather, self-pity? Do we not grieve for others in proportion as we are able to put ourselves in their place, and picture what we should feel under the same circumstances? The reciprocal regard for one another's interests, the mutual esteem, the exchange of kind offices, which constitute friendship, find their chief source too, in self-love. If we have been inclined to esteem any one ever so highly, let it be but whispered in our ear that that same person does not think much of us, and we immediately find out that he is not nearly so charming as we had imagined, and that his good opinion is not, after all, worth having. On the other hand, among our acquaintances there may be an individual whom we consider but weak-minded and ignorant, and think, in fact, quite beneath our notice. Wait a little; it comes to our knowledge that this same creature whom we have been despising, has an immense admiration for us. All our ideas change directly, and we discover all his hidden merits; he has at least powers of discrimination, and is some judge of character. We like our neighbors much more for the virtues they find in us than for any we discover in them, whether we choose to acknowledge it or not. But it is perhaps in the passion of love that the very alcohol of egotism is to be found; lovers never weary of each others society so long as they can keep up the intensity of mutual admiration; their tete-a-tetes are always interesting, for they perpetually talk about themselves, and should their love be crossed, both would probably rather that the loved one should be miserable than indifferent. They are completely ruled by the self that rules the world.

The Hawk and the Hen.

A Fish-Hawk who had a way of throwing three cards about in a dexterous manner, one day met a Hen and invited her to bet on his game.

"But I don't understand it."

"Why, all there is about it, I toss these three cards so, and so, and you bet that you can pick up the Ace of Spades, for example."

"I don't want to take your money," protested the Hen.

"Oh, as to that, you are quite welcome."

"Well here's an X that I pick up the Ace."

The Hawk smiled as he thought how easy it was to throw snuff in a Hen's eyes, but, lo! Biddy picked up the card she had named and raked in the sugar.

"I'll be hanged if I am not completely discouraged trying to make an honest living!" cried the Hawk, as he flung down the cards in disgust; and he thereupon not only turned Robber, but ate the Hen to boot.

MORAL:

Never discourage industry and integrity by taking money from a Three-Card-Monte man or a Faro Bank.—Detroit Free Press.

How a Whale Breathes.

The wind-pipe does not communicate with the mouth; a hole is, as it were, bored right through the back of the head. Engineers would do well to copy the action of the valve of the whale's blow-hole; a more perfect piece of structure it is impossible to imagine. Day and night, asleep or awake, the whale works his breathing apparatus in such a manner that not a drop of water ever gets down into the lungs. Again, the whale must of necessity stay a much longer period of time under the water than seals; this alone might possibly drown him, inasmuch as the lungs cannot have access to fresh air. We find that this difficulty has been anticipated and obviated by a peculiar reservoir in the venous system, which reservoir is situated at the back of the lungs.—Frank Buckland.

A Plea for Our Servants.

We all know how glad they are to rush out on every possible occasion; are dissatisfied if they do not get their Sundays out, even when wet—their evenings with their friends; and, if not allowed to go out, too often take French leave and walk out as soon as their master and mistress's back is turned. Of course this is very wrong, and such conduct can not be too strongly condemned; but we are inclined to think that we do not go the right way to work to prevent their acting in this sort of manner. How few mistresses take the slightest interest in their servants' welfare, their joys or pleasures! If only they do their work properly, that is all they care about. But ought they to feel in this way with regard to the inmates of their houses? We think not; but, on the contrary, as far as possible, mistresses should endeavor to procure innocent and rational recreation for all their dependents, whether children, governess or servants. The old proverb about "all work and no play making Jack a dull boy" holds good with young and old. Men who slave in their counting-houses or their offices from morning until night without a due proportion of rest, become in time not only dull, but ill. Children who have not a reasonable amount of healthy exercise and merry games are sure to mope, and probably will get into mischief; and it is the same with servants. If they have not a sufficient amount of recreation, either their health flags or they too get into mischief—and mischief of a much more serious kind. It will be seen, therefore, that, even from a selfish point of view, it would be well to take some little interest in those around us; and if we only consider the unhealthy kitchens and underground premises in which servants for the most part live, and the dreary attics in which they sleep, it will be seen how very necessary it must be to give them opportunities of obtaining fresh air and exercise, if their bodies and minds are to be kept in a proper state of health.

In the skating season how much they would enjoy being spared for an hour or two to go and see the sliding and skating, or for a brisk walk in the parks; and in the Summer pleasant walks and expeditions ought occasionally to be organized for them, and this could generally be done in most establishments, with a little forethought on the mistress's part, without deranging the family comfort—for instance, on days when the master and mistress are dining out, or when, from some cause or other, there is not so much work as usual to be done in the house. And all this need not entail much expense; there are exhibitions costing a trifle to see; and a visit now and then to a picture gallery, a museum, or even a concert, would make a pleasant change from the daily routine of cooking, sweeping, and cleaning—or, in case of nurses, of washing, dressing, and minding children—and might help to elevate and educate a class of people which sadly needs encouragement in every way to prevent their falling into bad and disreputable ways.

Small social tea-parties could be arranged without much trouble or expense, and to these brothers and sisters of the servants might be invited, and the evenings made cheerful with games, picture books, illustrated papers, and the like. How much better would this be than altogether ignoring that servants have friends and relations, and so driving them to courses of deceit and to underhanded proceedings, such as making signs to attract their friends as soon as their masters and mistresses are out; sending letters to their friends as soon as the mistress has given her orders for the day, on finding no late dinner is required; slipping off when there seems no chance of their absence being observed; and other practices which gradually lead giddy girls from bad to worse, and from one little deceit to some great fraud.

Almost all servants in the present day can read and write, and bright, wholesome stories, light books of travel and adventures, and biographical sketches would be much appreciated by them and would tend to while away a Sunday at home, and induce a servant to stay at home, even when it is their day out, should it be wet or unsuitable for her to go out. Such books also might prevent the entrance into private houses of newspapers and publications which would be far better burnt than read by any one, and which no modest, well-principled girls should ever be allowed to set eyes upon. We must expect many a disappointment, yet on the whole they will be found grateful for the kindly thought shown them; and such consideration for their happiness will often bring their own reward, by inducing servants to give their services less grudgingly and with a more cheerful countenance.—[illegible]

—A sixteen-year-old girl sought a singular and painful death in Naples in consequence of disappointed love. While her parents were out she went into the cellar, built a circular pyre of straw and wood, hollow in the center, and then stepping into the middle, set it on fire. When the old people returned they found the charred remains of her half-consumed corpse.

—To protect the ironing-board from dust, take two paper flour-sacks, cut the bottom off from one, and paste this one to the top of the other to make the required length; when done slip this over the board. The outer covering of the board need not be taken off after using, if this care is taken, and much time is saved.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—"Brick" Pomeroy is fifty years old, and is living in good style in Denver, Col.

—Miss Emily Faithfull will lecture in this country this fall and winter on "Modern Extravagance."

—Mrs. G. C. Howard, who has been the Topsy of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" for thirty years, is still enacting that part.

—Wendell Phillips leads a quiet, retired life in his new house on Common street, Boston, where he has succeeded in making his immediate surroundings resemble very closely those of the old Essex street home.—Boston Post.

—Joseph Perkins Beach, a son of the founder of the New York Sun, is engaged in preparing a genealogical record of the Beach family. He has the names of 2,753 Beaches, descendants of two brothers who came to this country in 1639.

—General John Payne, of Warsaw, Ky., probably is the oldest pensioner on the United States pension rolls. He is eighty seven years old and has been drawing a pension for the loss of an arm in the service ever since 1820—sixty-two years.—N. Y. Sun.

—Mr. Corcoran, the venerable Washington banker, is desirous of bringing the remains of John Howard Payne from the lonely grave where they lie, at Tunis, and have them placed in Oak Hill Cemetery, at Georgetown, D. C., with a monument in honor of the author of "Home, Sweet Home." There seems to be none of his family living to consent or object to the change in their resting place.—Washington Post.

—Nora Perry, in her Boston letter to the Providence Press, says of Maggie Mitchell: "I saw her on the street-car the other day. She had on a black silk skirt, a brocaded velvet basque, and a little poke bonnet, with a white lace veil tied over her face. At the back of the bonnet that brush of light curly hair that we all know, fluffed out. When I first looked at her I didn't realize that it was Maggie Mitchell. I had no manner of doubt but that it was a girl of twenty!"

—The Boston Courier in regard to the modern profusion of frivolous books for children, declares that "children are very apt to acquire the habit of looking upon books exactly as they regard their toys, as mere playthings designed to minister to their amusement, and this end being accomplished, to be thrown aside. This way of looking at literature has already too strong a hold upon American children, influencing not only their treatment of books, but their selection of them."

The Beginning of a Successful Life.

How ex-Governor Morgan of New York began life is thus related by himself: "I was seventeen years old, and was living at home at Washington, Berkshire County—the same county in which Williams College is located. One fine moonlight night in winter my uncle drove up from Hartford and proposed that I should go to work for him. He had a wholesale and retail grocery business—principally wholesale—and the idea pleased me. The result was I went. The first year he was to give me my board and forty dollars, the second year sixty dollars, the third year seventy-five dollars, and the fourth year one hundred dollars. I hadn't been there long before I found the work was pretty hard, for I was the only clerk, and I thought the pay too small. I spoke to my uncle about it, and he said if I would stay he would do better by me than he had originally agreed. He said he had already told his wife he intended to do better by me. I decided to stay, and at the end of the year I found I had drawn fifty-six dollars. He told me to balance my account and call it square. I was disappointed, for I had expected more. He wanted to know what I proposed to do, and I said I would stay the second year for one hundred dollars. He said this was too much; that he would give me seventy-five dollars. I objected, but he finally told me if I would remain that the next year he would take me into partnership and give me one-third the profits. I accepted the offer, and the third year, when I was a partner, at twenty years of age, the profits were $6,000, and my share $2,000. My uncle was considered the wealthiest man in Hartford. You can see how times change and how different are the ideas of wealth to-day; for when my uncle died I was his executor, and his estate was only worth $65,000."

A Lamentable Lot.

The woman who cannot grow old is jealous of her own children, and keeps aloof from them. She makes love while her son is making love. She beams and lowers her voice and steps out as gracefully as she can, and she is not unwilling that her figure should be compared with the figure of her son's lady acquaintances. Her morals are irreproachable. She never did a wrong; but that is not the fault of her dear, garrulous husband, who never knew how to make love to her. She wishes that some young fellow would make love to her, but she seldom finds him. When she does, her simpering folly calls blushes to the cheeks of her children, while the youngsters laugh at her.

—The London Times thinks that Howells is the greatest novelist that America has ever produced, and expresses the opinion that there are few more perfect stories than the "Lady of the Aroostook."

—To clean willow furniture use salt and water; apply with a nail-brush and dry thoroughly.—Chicago [illegible]

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 7, 1882.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The last session of the Forty-seventh Congress began on Monday last.

A Pennsylvania man won thirteen hats in thirteen bets on the recent election.

Mahone's "free ballot and fair count," may now be amended to read, 'except for Democrats.'

Twenty-three States in the Union now have Democratic Governors, eleven of whom are practical printers.

Alabama has over 2,000,000 acres of government land subject to entry under the homestead and pre-emption laws.

Six thousand petitions, bearing 679,000 signatures, in favor of a Sunday closing bill for England, have already been presented to Parliament.

A Philadelphia preacher told the women of his congregation that Divine truth could not find its way into hearts that were cramped by corsets.

During the past twelve months American newspapers have been received by mail in England at the rate of more than 28,000 a day, or 10,000,000 a year.

I wouldn't give a dollar to hear Bob Ingersoll on the mistakes of Moses, but I would give fifty dollars to hear Moses on the mistakes of Bob Ingersoll.—[Josh Billings.

An eccentric Boston man, astonished by getting a pair of boots made just as he had ordered them; gave the maker a commission for 263 pairs—all he expected to need for the rest of his life.

According to Mohammedan tradition the end of the world is about to come. Two horses of the purest breed are kept saddled in the royal stables of Ispahan for Christ and his Vice Regent, the twelfth Imaum.

During the Egyptian war a column of leaded telegraphic messages cost the London newspapers from $1,000 to $1,250. Seven shillings and two pence (about $1.80) per word was the rate charged.

Mrs. Wilson got a divorce from her husband, in Oregon, on the ground of cruelty. He reformed and wanted to marry her again, to which she consented; but he afterward changed his mind, and now she is suing for breach of promise.

The South Carolina Baptist State Convention, lately in session at Darlington, will hold its next session in the First Baptist Church, Charleston. Rev. Dr. Charles Manly, formerly of this State is to deliver the introductory sermon.

Wm. M. Evarts is quoted as saying: "The Washington dispatches say that President Arthur has decided to adopt a new policy. I knew a man in Connecticutt, several years ago, who sawed off the limb of a tree on which he was sitting, that came to the same conclusion."

While Gen. Butler was delivering a speech in Boston during the recent campaign, one of his hearers cried out, how about the spoons, Ben? Benjamin's good eye twinkled merrily as he looked bashfully at the audience and said: Now don't mention that, please. I was a Republican when I stole the spoons.

Miss Alice M. King, after undergoing a thorough training in New York, for two years, in dramatic art, will make her debut in Selma, about the middle of December. The debutante is a grand niece of Vice-President William R. King, of Dallas, and a granddaughter of ex-Gov. Collier, of Tuskaloosa, and possesses talent of a high order. The proceeds of her debut will be devoted to the erection of a monument to the memory of Vice President Wm. R. King, to be placed in the city cemetery, Selma.

Texas journals are agitated over the loss to that state of the democratic banner. Several years ago a few southern democrats conceived the idea of getting up a prize for the state giving the biggest democratic majority. A thousand dollars was raised, and a handsome banner purchased. Georgia won it in 1876 by giving a majority of 80,000 for Tilden, and kept it for three successive years. In 1880, however, it yielded the trophy to Texas, which rolled up a majority of 98,000 for Hancock, against 50,000 majority in Georgia. The Texans had plumed themselves on being secure in their proud eminence for years to come, and could not believe their senses when they read of the New York tidal wave which piled 100,000 on top of their best figures. The banner is in Dallas, and will probably be sent on soon. The Texans may as well bid it farewell forever. In their day and generation it is highly improbable that it will ever leave the Empire State.—N. Y. Sun.

Governor O'Neal's Inaugural.

The inaugural address of Governor O'Neal is a document of which Alabamians may well be proud. Looking back into the past, with all its trials and misfortunes, he gathers from it only hope for the future, and describes in eloquent words the splendid heritage of our people. He deeply feels the responsibility resting upon him as Chief Executive of a great Commonwealth, and enunciates the great truth that "the very essence of free government consists in considering offices as a public trust bestowed for the good of the country, and not for individual benefit." Thus does O'Neal, of Alabama, align himself with Cleveland, of New York, and Pattison, of Pennsylvania, and greet them as brethren in the cause of pure representative government.

The Governor shows himself deeply interested in the cause of education, that potent factor of civilization and progress, and also in the maintenance of a well organized militia.

Our colored people will find that the new executive is not indifferent to their interests. Being voters, he thinks that they should be made intelligent voters, and that the State should furnish all the aid possible for the education of the race. The Governor says that under his administration every citizen, whatever may be his race, color, or previous condition, shall be protected in every right to which he is entitled.

Considerable space is given to national affairs, in which General O'Neal shows that his political belief is firmly based on constitutional principles, and on the Jeffersonian creed. He sees the dawn of a better day that is coming for us, when a purer administration of public affairs, and true devotion to the interests of the people will replace the corruption and self-interest that have long ruled in the land.

The Governor closes with a glowing description of the resources of our State, leading him to hope everything for her in the future.

Mobile Register.

Legislative.

The following is a synopsis of the most important work since our last:

Mr. Hargrove, from the Senate judiciary committee, reported favorably the House bill to punish the crime of taking rebates. Read the third time and passed.

Mr. Hargrove, from the same committee, reported back the bill to define the duties of Judges of Probate in reference to the issue of license to sell intoxicating liquors, and it was referred to the committee on temperance.

Mr. Troy, from the same committee, reported favorably the bill to fix the term of office of Railroad Commissioners. The term is fixed at six years and requires that one shall be elected every two years. The further consideration of the bill was made the special order for Wednesday.

Mr. Jones (by leave) introduced a bill to amend section 4410 of the code, so as to require defendants wantonly killing or injuring animals to pay fines in money.

Mr. Brooks, of Macon, a bill to provide for the collection of debts for which the statutory estates of married women are liable when judgment is in a justice court.

Mr. Hawkins, of Barbour, from the committee on agriculture, reported a substitute for the bill to amend an act to amend section 4225 of the Code. [Relates to enticing or employing laborers while under contract with others.] The substitute was adopted and the bill passed.

Also, reported a substitute for the bill to repeal sections 3286 and 3288. [The crop lien law. Provides that the act shall not go into effect until Jan. 1st, 1884.]

Mr. John offered to amend by requiring that the act shall go into effect on and after its passage in Dallas county. Adopted.

The bill was made the special order for Wednesday at 12 o'clock.

Also, favorably on the bill to prevent the change or mutilation of marks, brands or numbers on cotton by warehousemen or others.

After a long debate by Messrs. Hawkins, of Barbour, Shorter, Samford, Griffin, Robinson and Graham the bill passed—yeas 73, nays 5.

Mr. Hamilton, to punish intoxication by persons having charge of engines and trains on railroads.

The Legislature has decided to adjourn on December 19th and take a recess until January 24th.

Mr. McClellan, from committee on municipal and county organizations reported favorably the bill to provide for the preservation of census reports in the hands of Probate Judges of Alabama, in such a way that the public may have access to such reports. Passed.

Also, a bill to provide for the examination of all county offices, county jail, chain gang, &c., the Judge of the Circuit to appoint a committee of citizens, one of whom shall be an expert, to make such an examination, the committee to have power to examine witnesses, in relation to the manner in which such offices have been conducted, and be entitled to the compensation of $3 per day and mileage while actually engaged in such examination.

Mr. McClellan said the principal reason for the passage of the bill was the inefficiency of grand juries who would not be so competent for such a duty as persons specially selected for the examination. The bill passed.

There is at present a state of municipal anarchy in Opelika. The Montgomery Advertiser says: "A number of leading citizens of Opelika, including lawyers, bankers, merchants and other business men, arrived in the city last night, with the purpose of appealing to the Legislature to repeal the present charter of that city and establishing a new one. These citizens claim that the city government as at present organized is powerless to prevent the anarchy that has prevailed, or to afford protection. The object is to abolish the city government and remand the city to the jurisdiction of county officers until a new election be ordered and a new government established. They also consider prohibition as essential to the desired object."

Administrator's Notice.

Probate Court of Chilton county.

Estate of Alfred Bethea, Deceased.

Letters of administration having been granted to the undersigned on the 28th day of November, 1882, by the Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate will be required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or that the same will be barred.

H. C. TOMPKINS,
Administrator.
d7

Great Bankrupt Sale!

—OF—

R. EHRMAN'S

ENTIRE STOCK!!!

A MAGNIFICENT STOCK

—OF—

General Merchandise

Will be sold at Bankrupt Sale, on TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,

DECEMBER 12th AND 13th.

—AT CLANTON, ALA.—

This stock of merchandise was brought to this market by R. Ehrman, and is now sold at great sacrifice in order to satisfy the demands of creditors. The stock consists of

DRY GOODS AND GROCERIES,
CLOTHING,
BOOTS, SHOES,
HATS AND CAPS,
HARDWARE, CROCKERY,
FURNITURE, WOODWARE,
CORN, MEAT, FLOUR, MEAL,
FARM SUPPLIES,

And a Number One Stock of Dress Goods. Don't let this opportunity pass to supply yourself at small cost.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by Thos. P. Smith and his wife, Adeline Smith on the 8th day of August, 1881, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e ¼ of the s e ¼ of section 23, township 23 north, range 14 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this 1st day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. By Cullman & Smith, its attorneys in fact.

Verbena Male and Female Academy,

—:o:—

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

—:o:—

This school is now in session and will continue until June 1[illegible], 188[illegible].

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department, per mo.	$1.50
Preparatory " "	2.00
Intermediate " "	3.00
Academic " "	4.00
Music " "	3.00
Contingent fee per term	.25

Good board can be obtained in private families at $9 or $10 per month.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. Acker, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

THE SUN FOR 1883.

More people have read the Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like the Sun for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs the Sun makes a practice of telling the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that the Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, the Sun stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

Terms—The several editions of the Sun are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: Daily 55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7.70. Sunday edition, eight pages, $1.20 a year. Weekly, eight pages, $1.00 a year. Address

I. W. ENGLAND,
Publisher Sun, N. Y. City.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it by John T. Little and his wife Mary F. Little, on the first day of March, 1884, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the 8th day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: The n e quarter of the n w quarter, section 12, township 21 north, range 13 east, situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of November, 1882. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company. By Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact.

MORTGAGE SALE.

In pursuance of the powers vested in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company by a certain deed of mortgage executed to it, by James E. Lowe, and his wife, Mary Lowe, on the 8th day of February, 1877, the Louisville & Nashville railroad company will expose for sale at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder at the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, on the eighth day of December, 1882, within the legal hours of sale, the following described tract or parcel of land, to-wit: "The s w quarter of the s w quarter of section 25, township 22 north, range 14 east; situated in Chilton county, Alabama, for the purpose of satisfying the debt secured by said mortgage. Dated this first day of Nov., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company, by Cullman & Smith, its attornies in fact. nov9

NOTICE NO. 1923.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 3, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 28th, 1882, viz: James T. Jones, Homestead entry No. [illegible], for the n w quarter of the n e quarter and the n e quarter of the s w quarter, sec. 18, township [illegible] north, range [illegible] east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Peyton Finley, Aaron Golson, Lafayette F. Bolton, John Pearson, all of Mountain creek, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,
Register.

J. F. MAULL.

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,
Lomax, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAM

SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HA

Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tin

Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles

FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICE

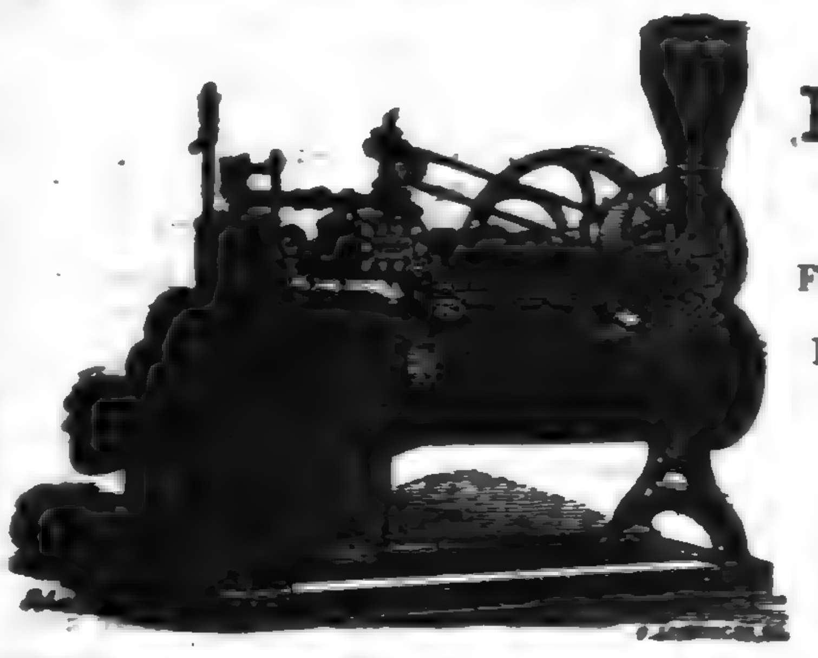
HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR COT

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public p

MAULL & HOCKEN

Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the Wor



ENGI

OF ALL

FROM TWO

HUNDRED

POWE

OF ALL

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON W

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest

Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting

kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham

Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—DEALERS IN—

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing G

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of the House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,

And Blank Book Manufacture

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECEI
PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in [illegible] bama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from [illegible] cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send [illegible] to us.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ja 7-1y

For Sale or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one [illegible], and one [illegible]. A good stable on lot, [illegible] feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is [illegible] feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. [illegible] Lomax, Ala.

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

EAST TENN., VIRGINIA
GEORGIA RAILRO

Forms the quickest and most de[illegible] able route to

Eastern Citi

AND ONLY ROUT

—TO THE—

WATERING PLACE

—OF—

East Tennessee and Virgin

The principle inducements

SPLENDID SCENERY, Q
TIME AND THROUG
CARS.

The only line passing through mountainous regions of East [illegible] and Virginia.

For information address,

JAS. R. OGDEN, G. P.
A. POPE,
A. G. P. A., Lynchburg,

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 7, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.

Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.

Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.

Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.

Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.

Representative—J. S. Edwards.

Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.

Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.

Register in Chancery—Dr. W. E. Stewart.

Sheriff—James E. Lowe.

Treasurer—James M. Parish.

Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.

Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.

Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.

Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr 7:73 p. m.
" 10:36 "	Calera	Lve. 4:40 "
" 5:40 p m	Rome	" 10:10 a m
" 7:18 "	Dalton	" 8:05 "
" 8:45 "	Cleaveland	" 7:03 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma Lv.	4:30 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis "	7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian Arrive	10 p m

LODGES.—Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 43, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., meets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Thanksgiving day was not observed in our community.

Married, near Verbena, on Wednesday, 29th ult., Mr. John W. Strock and Miss Eliza V. Logan.

Mr. Baily Bowline, a venerable and highly esteemed citizen of Maplesville, died on the 27th ult., of consumption.

The bankrupt sale of the stock of goods brought here by R. Ehrman, will take place on next Tuesday and Wednesday.

A negro woman was arrested and placed in jail here on Monday charged with infanticide. A negro man was jailed the same day on a charge of killing a negro woman.

The land agent of the L. & N. railroad will be in Clanton to-morrow, Friday, and parties wishing to make purchases of lands belonging to said road, can see him at that time at this office.

The Eutaw Mirror man predicts several weddings soon. We would not be surprised if the Mirror man knew what he was talking about in this matter. Dame Rumor has it that he will "know how it is himself," ere many weeks have passed. So mote it be.

We can't be everywhere at one and the same time, as our readers know, and any little items of news happening out of our neighborhood that would be of interest to the public, would be gratefully received by us, should our friends take the trouble to drop such to us by postal card or otherwise.

The Montgomery Advertiser says that "among the liberal subscriptions made during the epidemic at Pensacola was the sum of $659.25 contributed by the employees of the L. & N. road. This amount does not include the subscription of $500 by the management of the road." These were noble and generous acts.

The VIEW has given Chilton county more gratuitous advertising than any other agency we know of, yet Chilton county has given the VIEW a very small amount of paying advertising in comparison with that given by other counties of like population, to their county papers. This is an abnormal state of things which we hope will not last for long.

Great improvement has been made in some portions of our county, during the year now drawing to a close. At Jemison, Verbena, Clanton, Callierville and portions of the interior, new buildings and a spirit of progress have given matters an impetus that has been the cause of more than general activity among our people. May the ball continue to roll.

A Queer Quartette.

Last week four persons, two men and two women, were arrested near Jemison, and after a preliminary trial before Justices Vanderveer and Lawhorn, were brought to Clanton and lodged in jail on the charge of living in adultery. Considerable interest and amusement was excited by the rumor that one of the men professed to be a Mormon emissary. This, however, was denied by the prisoner referred to, who says he has made no such profession.

One of the women arrested is a married woman probably thirty years of age. It was from her, no doubt, that the Mormon idea was caught. In her testimony she stated that an angel appeared to her in a "vision," on a certain night, and that said angel informed her that she was not living with her lawful husband, and directed her to the bed and board of the aforesaid prisoner, whither she made her way without delay.

One of the male prisoners, whose name is DuBose, is a brother of the woman mentioned, the other, who gives his name as Hilson, is something of a rover. The latter was following the occupation of a tinner at Calera, some months since, and being unsuccessful, he gravitated into evil ways.

A trial will be had on a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Callen on next Monday.

Maplesville Dots.

Cold weather at last and business as dull as we ever knew for this season of the year.

Mr. Foshee says that the 2d inst. was the best business day this fall. He got 17 bales of cotton.

When does the new law prohibiting drunkenness in public places go into effect?

People complain of the trains blockading the road at this place.

Mr. Baily Bowline died on the 27th ult. BIJOU.

The failure of Messrs. Hirscher Bros., of Columbiana, is announced by the Sentinel. On Saturday, the 25th ult., the Sheriff took possession and closed the store, after levying several attachments for amounts due several parties and aggregating $4,710.50. To stay a certain suit the firm had executed a mortgage to Messrs. Brown & Wilson, attorneys, and as soon as it became known, the attachments were levied. The assets consist of a large amount of goods and accounts. The Messrs. Hirscher are energetic, deserving young men, and it is hoped that they may be able to arrange their troubles and continue in business.

We have read the President's message to the Congress now in session, with considerable interest. It is not longer than such documents generally are, but, as was predicted, is something of a campaign document. It recommends reduction of taxation and the repeal of all internal revenue taxes except those upon tobacco in its various forms and upon distilled spirits and fermented liquors. The establishment of a bankrupt law is recommended, and the illiteracy disclosed by the census is discussed and aid for supplementing the efforts of private individuals and State legislation in behalf of education, is favored. A reduction of letter postage to two cents is recommended and political assessments opposed. A reduction of the tariff is also advised. Probably not one half of these reform recommendations would have been made had not the November elections disclosed the fact that the people are getting tired of public corruption and robbery. The tenor of the message is for Arthur in 1884.

We much regret having to chronicle the removal from our community of Rev. W. A. Montgomery and his interesting family. Mr. Montgomery has been called to work in the regular ministry by the North Alabama Conference, lately in session, and will leave some time this month for his work at Chandler's Springs, Talladega county. The removal of Mr. Montgomery will be no little loss to our community.

Cotton in Clanton: Good Mid. 9¾, Middling 9⅝, Low Mid. 9, Strict Good Ord. 8¾, Good Ordinary 8⅝. The Montgomery market is dull at 9⅝ to 9⅞ cents for Good Middling, 9⅜ to 9½ for Middling, 9 to 9⅛ for Low Middling, 8⅞ to 8⅞ for Strict Good Ord. and 8⅝ to 8¾ for Good Ordinary.

Tennessee, of all the Southern States except North Carolina, shows by the recent census, the largest amount of white illiteracy.

Correspondent Hendrix, of the Courier-Journal, represents Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt as every day "sitting in $60 chairs at a $20 breakfast, looking through $1,500 curtains at the street, and treading on $1,000 rugs." Mr. Vanderbilt seems to have all the habits of an editor without owning a newspaper.

NOTICE NO. 1987.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 29, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 8, 1883, viz: Martha A. Gray, Homestead 2569 for the n w ¼ of sec. 31 township 21 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John K. Booth, Simeon H. Gleen, George Songs, and Frank Weldon, all of Mountain Creek, Ala.

d7 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1989.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 1, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 12, 1883, viz: William F. Robuck, Homestead 8917 for the s ½ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 2, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Milton F. Fuller, Thomas J. Kleuer, John Kleuer, James L. Williams, all of Maplesville, Ala.

d7 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 2005.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 29, 1883, viz: Josephus Levingston, Homestead entry 12840 and 6754 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ e ½ of s e ¼ and s w ¼ of s e ¼ sec. 22, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Hawkiks, Martin Goodson, Berry Lawrence and Jake Smith, all of Randolph, Ala.

d7 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1976.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 30th, 1882, viz: Augustus Walker, Homestead entry No. 10356 for the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 26, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, John M. Gothard, Squire D. Posey and John C. Martin, all of Randolph, Ala.

n30 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1936.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 13, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 23, 1882, viz: George W. Mims, Homestead 7684, for the s w ¼ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼, w ½ of s w ¼ sec. 2, township 22 north, range 15 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Franklin, Barton Woodward, William Y. Mims, and John Franklin, all of Clanton, Ala.

n16 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

Louisville & Nashville

Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to

ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

and the best route to

BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Surveyor's Notice.

I would respectfully inform the people of Chilton county that I have been reappointed county surveyor, and with an experience of thirty years am prepared to do all surveying entrusted to me with satisfaction to all parties. Persons wishing to know where their land lines are would do well to call on me.

H. R. ATCHINSON,
n23 Maplesville, Ala.

H. Houpt,

WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov16-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store

—OF—

W. M. WILSON,

—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock

—OF—

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,

And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices. "Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR

Cigars and Tobacco

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

—CALL ON—

I. FORST,

2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ The cheapest place in the city.

June 20-6m

Ternanville Ahead!

Low Prices and Fair Dealing Will Win!

I have a new stock of goods in store, consisting of everything that a farmer needs, which I am selling at prices that defy competition, viz:

A GOOD PAIR OF SHOES FOR $1

A Good Pair Pants $1.

A GOOD HAT FOR SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS.

My stock of GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS,
HARDWARE,
FARMING IMPLEMENTS,
and SUPPLIES
is complete, and my motto is

Low Prices.

My GIN and MILL are now running every day, and persons desiring ginning or grinding done should call on me.

Respectfully,
o12-2m T. M. TERNAN.

Insure Your Life

—IN THE—

People's Mutual Relief Association,

OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

H. L. Wheeler,

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Will buy and sell lands for commissions.

Jan15-1y.

Robt. H. Knox,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

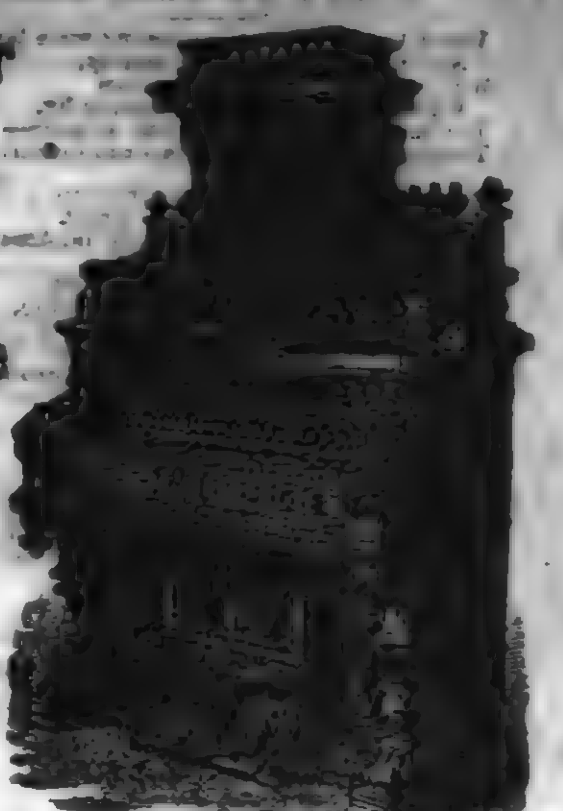
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"

W. A. CHILD, Proprietor

—DEALER IN—



Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY

—AND—

NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.

—AGENT FOR—

DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO

Also Estey and Palace Organs.

No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.

☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜

Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.

Large Stock! Low Prices!

Alonzo S. Elliott,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.

ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.

Cooking and Heating Stoves,

Birmingham, Ala.

IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment.

Oct 5-3m

WONDERFULLY CHEAP!

Elegant New Editions of Standard Publications.

In clear type, cleanly printed on first-class paper, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, with gold and ink side and back stamps.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

ROMOLA. By George Eliot. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

UARDA. By George Ebers. From the German by Clara Bell. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

JOHN HALIFAX, GENTLEMAN. By Mrs. Mulock-Craik. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

JANE EYRE. By Charlotte Bronte. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

HYPATIA. By Charles Kingsley. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

CORINNE. By Madame de Stael. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

LAST OF THE MOHICANS. By James Fenimore Cooper. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

TOM BROWN AT RUGBY. By Thomas Hughes. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

☞ The foregoing eight volumes packed in a neat box, $5.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES.

KNICKERBOCKER HISTORY OF NEW YORK. By Washington Irving. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

THE SKETCH BOOK. By Washington Irving. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

MACAULAY'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND. [illegible] pages in [illegible] vols., 12mo, with portrait of the author. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].

ROLLIN'S ANCIENT HISTORY. [illegible] pages, two volumes in one, quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].

FROISSART'S CHRONICLES. Imperial octavo, [illegible] illustrations. Extra large type. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].

WORKS OF FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS. 1,144 pages in one volume quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].

KITTO'S CYCLOPÆDIA OF BIBLICAL LITERATURE. [illegible] pages in two volumes, 12mo. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].

TASSO'S JERUSALEM DELIVERED. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.

POPE'S HOMER'S ILIAD. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.

POPE'S HOMER'S ODYSSEY. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25. These two volumes in a neat box: Cloth, $1.25; Half Leather, $2.

CREASY'S FIFTEEN DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.

PLUTARCH'S LIVES [illegible]. [illegible] pages in one volume. Cloth, $1; Half Leather, $1.50.

AMERICAN ADDITIONS TO CHAMBERS'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA. 4 volumes, comprising over 15,000 titles compiled by American editors, uniform in size and bindings with Chambers's Encyclopædia as published by Messrs. Lippincott & Co. Bound also in Cloth, uniform with the "imported" edition of Chambers's. Cloth, per set, $10; Sheep, per set, $12; Morocco, per set, $15.

☞ Circular showing type, paper and styles of binding, free on application. Sold by all Booksellers, or sent post-paid on receipt of price, by J. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher, 74 Beekman St., N. Y.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,

Practical and Analytical Chemists,

Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual

FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION,

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest

FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.,

oct 5-6m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF

COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo.
B. P. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. K. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court of Montgomery.

Jan 1-1y

George Hunter,

TONSORIAL ARTIST.

CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.

PRICES FOR WORK:

Shaving - - - - [illegible]
Hair cutting - - - - [illegible]

☞ The only barber in [illegible]

WHERE WE WERE BORN.

You'd know the [illegible] where we were born,
Not by the old [illegible] line by,
Nor yet by fields of waving corn
Which you in [illegible] in passing by,
Yet you would guess it, night or morn—
The dear old place where we were born!

You'd know it, for in all your ways,
On country road or village street,
Through long-drawn length of Summer days
You never saw a place so sweet,
As ours in May-dawn, morn or night,
When apple trees are blossomed white.

For round and round on every side
Those trees in friendly group are grown.
How old, not far, or far or wide,
A place so circled round I know;
To rising sun and closing day
They stand in watchman-like array.

The ancient orchard on the slope
Is first to catch the warm Spring sun;
Its trees are aged beyond hope,
And yet they blossom every one;
And such old apples as were seen
All fall upon the shady green.

And all along the dear old lane
They arch their branches overhead,
And in a breeze or shower of rain
They scatter petals white and red.
We held our little aprons high
To catch the sweetness fluttering by.

And when the Autumn time were gay
Upon the landscape everywhere,
In reckless heaps the apples lay;
We heaped them dropping here and there,
And laughed and gaily tossed them high
Beneath the blue, benignant sky.

And when we'd grown beyond the child,
The aspirations that we knew,
Our vivid fancies running wild,
Our learning of the false and true
Seemed, somehow, in the light and gloom,
To hold a breath of apple bloom.

And now, when May comes yearly round,
And decks the apple trees again
With blossoms sweet as to be found,
[illegible] my tears drop down like rain,
So vividly does memory tell
About the home I love so well.

—American Rural Home.

A Blow to the Government.

At the October term of the District Court we shall resign the office of United States Commissioner for this Judicial District, an office which we have held so long and with such great credit to ourself. Fearing that in the hurry and rush of other business our contemporaries might overlook the matter, we have consented to mention briefly the fact that at the opening of court Judge Blair will be called upon to accept the resignation of one of our most tried and true officials, who has for so long held up this corner of the great national fabric.

It has been our solemn duty to examine the transgressor who sold liquor to our red brother and filled him up with the deadly juice of the sour mash tree. It has devolved upon us to cinch the soft-eyed lad who stole baled hay from the reservation, and it has been our glorious privilege to examine in a preliminary manner the absent-minded party who gathered unto himself the U. S. mule.

We have attempted to resign before, but failed. One reason was that it was a novel proceeding in Wyoming, and no one seemed to know how to go to work at it. No one had ever resigned before, and the matter had to be hunted up and the law thoroughly understood.

The office is one of great profit, as we have said before. It brings wealth into the coffers of the United States Commissioner in a way that is well calculated to turn the head of most people. We have, however, succeeded in controlling ourself, and have so far suppressed that beastly pride which wealth engenders. With a salary of $7.25 per annum, and lead pencils, we have steadily refused to go to Europe, preferring rather to plod along here in the wild West, although we may never see the beauties of a foreign shore.

Official duty was at all times weighing upon our mind like a leaden load. Oft in the stilly night we have been wakened by the oppressing thought that perhaps at that moment, on some distant reservation, some pale-faced villain might be selling valley tan to the gentle, untutored Indian brave, and it has tortured us and robbed us of slumber and joy. Now it is a relief to know that very soon we shall be free from this great responsibility. If an Indian gets drunk on the reservation or a time-honored Government mule is stolen, we shall not be expected to get up in the night and administer swift and terrible justice to the offender. Old-man-with-a-torpid liver can get as drunk as he pleases on the reservation. It does not come under our jurisdiction any more. We can sleep now nights while some other man peels his coat and acts as the United States nemesis for this diocese.

Some time during the ensuing week we will turn over the lead pencil and the blotting paper at the office to our successor. We leave the Indian Temperance movement in his hands. The United States mule kleptomaniac also we leave with him. With a clear conscience and an unliquidated claim against the Government for $9.55, the earnings of the past two years, we turn over the office, knowing that although we have sacrificed our health, we have never evaded our duty, no matter how dangerous or disagreeable.

Yet we do not ask for any gold-headed cane as a mark of esteem on the part of the Government. We have a watch that does very well for us, so that a testimonial consisting of a gold watch, costing $250, would be unnecessary. Any little trinket of that kind would, of course, show how ready the Department of Justice is to appreciate the work of an efficient officer, but we do not look for it nor ask it. A thoroughly fumigated and disinfected conscience is all we want. That's enough for us. Do not call out the band. Just let us retire from the office quietly and unostentatiously. As regards the United States Commissionership we retire to private life. In the bosom of our family we will forget the turbulent voyage of official life through which we have passed, and as we monkey with the children around our hearthstone we will shut our eyes to the official suffering that is going on all around us.—Nye's Boomerang.

—The Rev. W. C. Dabney, a colored divine of Caldwell County, Ga., has patented a dinner pail for which he is said to have been offered $10,000. The Atlanta Constitution, with that strict regard for the exact sciences for which it is ever distinguished, explains that the $10,000 is for the patent—not for the pail.

—A Montana paper has discovered a gorge in the Yellowstone where, it asserts, the atmosphere is a non-conductor of sound. "No matter how loud one shouts, he can't be heard."

The Rake in the Garden.

The following brief but instructive paper was read at a meeting of the South Australian Gardeners' Society held at Adelaide, by Mr. A. McDonald. It contains suggestions valuable to gardeners everywhere. It also raises the question whether the harrow is not sometimes employed to a disadvantage:

An old garden laborer said to me some years ago when I was busy raking a flower border, and trying to make, as I thought then, a nice job: "Angus, you would soon impoverish ground." I don't think that I ever had a better lesson in gardening than that. It has been in my mind ever since, and I never use a rake myself, or see any one else using one, but I think of it. That raking does impoverish ground is plain enough to me now. In raking ground in gardens with the rakes generally used you draw together a lot of little clods, small stones, etc., which are generally picked up, put in a barrow, and wheeled away to a rubbish heap, which heap is very often carried away and put in the bed of some creek or river, and gets washed away to the sea, where it is not wanted. Now, this sort of thing going on must impoverish the ground, as these little clods as a rule contain a good deal of fertilizing matter. We know that in mixing soil for pot plants all gardeners like to have their soil lumpy and open, and by no means sifted; and I have noticed in repotting plants how inclined roots seem to cling to and run round little lumps of earth such as the rake takes off the ground. If it is good to have them in pots where you want to grow good plants with as little soil as possible, it must be good to leave them on the ground, and not waste time and do harm by raking them together and carrying them away. The small stones which the rake generally collects along with the clods would be much better left, as they, worked into the ground, do a great deal more good than harm. Now, I hold it is no part of a gardener's art to impoverish ground, and that is one reason why I would discourage the use of the rake in gardens. There is another reason.

Ground often raked over soon sets and gets a sort of crust on it, which is bad, as it prevents the air from getting down into the soil, which is highly beneficial. It also prevents the rain from passing into the ground so freely as it ought, and that is certainly bad, and especially so in a country like this, where the rainfall is so scant and where not a drop of that element should be lost if possible; it is of the utmost importance that that should be understood by all gardeners, agriculturists, and all who have to do with land. I have in my experience in this country seen a bare patch of ground washed smooth with the rain and baked with the sun till not anything grew on it summer or winter. I have seen that same patch trenched and left rough. Nothing more was done to it, and in two years the vegetation growing on it was quite luxuriant, which shows that the land itself dislikes a smooth surface, and likes to be stirred and left rough. It then takes in the elements of air and water and yields forth its fruits. Now, frequent raking of the ground has a tendency to bring the land back to a smooth surface, where nothing grows well, and on that ground the rake is objectionable.

Another use the rake is put to in gardens is in keeping gravel walks. The walks, when they get weedy, are scratched with the Dutch hoes and then harrowed with rakes, and left in just the best possible state to grow another crop of weeds, for the raking of gravel walks has quite a different effect from the raking of ordinary garden soil. The gravel does not set like the soil, so as to form a crust and throw the water off, which would be a desirable thing in the case of walks. You want the walks to be dry and smooth and the weeds not to grow, but hoeing and raking as usually done leaves them rough, damp and uncomfortable for walking, but I think walks can be kept easier and cheaper than in the ordinary way of hoeing and raking. There is no doubt a good deal can be said for the rake as a useful tool in the gardens for raking up leaves, and other stuff which falls from trees, shrubs, etc., at certain seasons, and for keeping up an appearance of tidiness both in the kitchen and flower garden. It is a tool that can not be dispensed with altogether, but in my experience, I have mostly seen it overdone. Most people who employ gardeners like to see a smoothed raked surface without looking further into the matter. I for my own part don't like to see it. I know it to be injurious. I like to see ground stirred with the digging-fork, which keeps the weeds from growing, moves the ground deep enough to let the air and moisture in, and leaves the surface in a most pleasing-looking condition. I would not do away with the rake altogether, but I would put a heavy tax on it, so as not to have it used so much.

—A little five-year-old friend who was always allowed to choose the prettiest kitten for his pet and playmate before the other nurslings were drowned was taken to his mother's room the other morning to see the two, tiny twin new babes. He looked reflectively from one to the other for a minute or two, then poking his chubby finger into the cheek of the plumpest baby he said, decidedly: "Save this one."—Chicago Tribune.

Chicago's First Citizen.

The Chicago Tribune, in closing an elaborate article on Hon. Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of that city, gives the following as Mr. Harrison's opinion of St. Jacobs Oil: "When I first found myself suffering from the rheumatism, my leading thought was naturally to call a physician, but my neighbors all advised me to try St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I procured some of it immediately, and found it excellent for that ailment."

—For a useful home rug, purchase a sheep-skin and wash it thoroughly in boiling soapsuds, and when dry comb carefully, and an excellent rug is made for the foot of the stairs, the fireplace, etc.—Chicago [illegible].

—American [illegible] are now regular buyers at the English fairs and shows, and herd owners have come to expect their appearance. No more liberal buyers than those visit the United Kingdom.

THE FLOWER CITY PUZZLE.

The Commotion Caused by the Statements of a Physician.

An unusual article from the Rochester, N.Y., Democrat and Chronicle, was published in this paper recently, and has been the subject of much conversation, both in professional circles and on the street. Apparently it caused more commotion in Rochester, as the following from the same paper shows:

Dr. J. B. Henion, who is well known, not only in Rochester, but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days since, which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and rescue from what seemed to be certain death. It would be impossible to enumerate the personal inquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have been so numerous that further investigation of the subject was deemed an editorial necessity.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion, at his residence on St. Paul Street, when the following interview occurred: "That article of yours, Doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued such as you can sustain?"

"Every one of them, and many additional ones. Few people ever got so near the grave as I did and then return, and I am not surprised that the public think it marvelous. It was marvelous."

"How in the world did you, a physician, come to be brought so low?"

"By neglecting the first and most simple symptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches; felt tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull, indefinite pains, and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious."

"But have these common ailments anything to do with the fearful Bright's disease which took so firm a hold on you?"

"Anything? Why, they are the sure indications of the first stages of that dreadful malady. The fact is, few people know or realize what ails them, and I am sorry to say that too few physicians do, either."

"That is a strange statement, Doctor."

"But it is a true one. The medical profession have been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. We doctors have been clipping off the twigs when we should strike at the root. The symptoms I have just mentioned or any unusual action or irritation of the water channels indicate the approach of Bright's disease, even more than a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do not treat the cough, but try to help the lungs. We should not waste our time trying to relieve the headache, stomach, pains about the body or other symptoms, but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of these ailments."

"This, then, is what you meant when you said that more than one-half the deaths which occur arise from Bright's disease, is it, Doctor?"

"Precisely. Thousands of so-called diseases are torturing people to-day, when in reality it is Bright's disease in some one of its many forms. It is a Hydra-headed monster, and the slightest symptoms should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall hundreds of deaths which physicians declared at the time were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, pneumonia, malarial fever and other common complaints, which I see now were caused by Bright's disease."

"And did all these cases have simple symptoms at first?"

"Every one of them, and might have been cured as I was by the timely use of the same remedy—Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I am getting my eyes thoroughly opened in this matter, and I think I am helping others to see the facts and their possible danger also. Why, there are no end of truths bearing on this subject. If you want to know more about it go and see Mr. Warner himself. He was sick the same time as I, and is the healthiest man in Rochester to-day. He has made a study of this subject and can give you more facts than I can. Go, too, and see Dr. Lattimore, the chemist, at the University. If you want facts there are any quantity of them, showing the alarming increase of Bright's disease, its simple and deceptive symptoms, and that there is but one way by which it can be escaped."

Fully satisfied of the truth and force of the Doctor's words, the reporter bade him good day and called on Mr. Warner at his establishment on Exchange Street. At first Mr. Warner was inclined to be reticent, but learning that the information desired was about the alarming increase of Bright's disease, his manner changed instantly, and he spoke very earnestly.

"It is true that Bright's disease has increased wonderfully, and we find, by reliable statistics, that in the past ten years its growth has been 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off: Everett, Sumner, Chase, Wilson, Carpenter, Bishop Haven and others. This is terrible, and shows a greater growth than that of any other known complaint. It should be plain to every one that something must be done to check the increase, or there is no knowing where it may end."

"Do you think many people are afflicted with it to-day who do not realize it, Mr. Warner?"

"Hundreds of thousands. I have a striking example of this truth which has just come to my notice. A prominent professor in a New Orleans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis, and was showing the students what the indications of this terrible malady were. In order to show the contrast between healthy and unhealthy fluids he had provided a vial the contents of which were drawn from his own person. 'And now, gentlemen,' he said, 'as we have seen the unhealthy indications, I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health,' and he submitted his own fluid to the usual test. As he watched the results his countenance suddenly changed—his color and command both left him, and in a trembling voice he said: 'Gentlemen, I have made a painful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kidneys,' and and in less than a year he was dead."

"You believe, then, that it has no symptoms of its own, and is frequently unknown even by the person who is afflicted with it?"

"It has no symptoms of its own and very often none at all. Usually no two people have the same symptoms, and frequently death is the first symptom. The slightest indications of any kidney difficulty should be enough to strike terror to anyone. I know what I am talking about, for I have been through all the stages of kidney disease."

"You know of Dr. Henion's case?"

"Yes; I have both read and heard of it."

"It is very wonderful, is it not?"

"A very prominent case but no more so than a great many others that have come to my notice as having been cured by the same means."

"You believe, then, that Bright's disease can be cured?"

"I know it can. I know it from the experience of hundreds of prominent persons who were given up to die by both their physicians and friends."

"You speak of your own experience, what was it?"

"A fearful one. I had felt languid and unfitted for business for years. But I did not know what ailed me. When, however, I found it was kidney difficulty, I thought there was little hope, and so did the doctors. I have since learned that one of the physicians of this city pointed me out to a gentleman on the street one day, saying: 'There goes a man who will be dead within a year.' I believe his words would have proven true if I had not fortunately secured and used the remedy now known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure."

"And this caused you to manufacture it?"

"No, it caused me to investigate. I went to the principal cities, saw physicians prescribing and using it, and I therefore determined, as a duty I owed humanity and the suffering, to bring it within their reach, and now it is known in every part of America, is sold in every drug store and has become a household necessity."

The reporter left Mr. Warner, much impressed with the earnestness and sincerity of his statements, and next paid a visit to Dr. S. A. Lattimore, at his residence on Prince Street. Dr. Lattimore, although busily engaged upon some matters connected with the State Board of Health, of which he is one of the analysts, courteously answered the questions that were propounded him:

"Did you make a chemical analysis of the case of Mr. H. H. Warner, some three years ago, Doctor?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did this analysis show you?"

"The presence of albumen and tube casts in great abundance."

"And what did the symptoms indicate?"

"A serious disease of the kidneys."

"Did you think Mr. Warner could recover?"

"No, sir; I did not think it possible. It was seldom, indeed, that so pronounced a case had, up to that time, ever been cured."

"Do you know anything about the remedy which cured him?"

"Yes, I have chemically analyzed it, and upon critical examination, find it entirely free from any poisonous or deleterious substances."

We publish the foregoing statements in view of the commotion which the publicity of Dr. Henion's article has caused, and to meet the protestations which have been made. The standing of Dr. Henion, Mr. Warner and Dr. Lattimore in the community is beyond question, and the statements they make cannot, for a moment, be doubted. They conclusively show that Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most deceptive and dangerous of all diseases, that it is exceedingly common, alarmingly increasing and that it can be cured.

Piute Trout Fishers.

The Twin lakes are at present quite a resort for Piutes, who go there for the purpose of fishing for trout. A company of them will sit on the bank, and while the brave buck bobs for the speckled beauties the faithful squaw is in the immediate vicinity sewing on a piece of calico or waiting on the fishermen. The favorite bait is ant eggs, and after a nest has been ransacked of its contents the fun begins. The supply on hand is placed in the mouth and used when required. The moisture toughens the bait and makes it more suitable for use. If the buck happens to be particularly lazy the squaw is used to hold the bait and deals it out as often as called upon. Sometimes the native sons of the forest will haul in several dozen trout during the day, while on other occasions the result is not so encouraging. —Bodie (Cal.) News.

—The monument marking the point where New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania meet, near Port Jervis, was erected the other day. The shaft which is imbedded four feet in the native rock and rises five feet above the surface, bears on the New York side the inscription: "New York Boundary Monument, 1882. Henry P. Pierson, Chauncey M. Depew, Elias W. Leavenworth, Commissioners." The New Jersey face is similarly inscribed, with the names of Abraham Browning, Thomas N. McCarter and George H. Cook. The Pennsylvania face is without inscription.

One pair of boots or shoes saved every year by using Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners.

—To clean willow furniture use salt and water; apply with a coarse brush and dry thoroughly.—Chicago News.

SKINNY MEN. "Wells' Health Renewer" restores health, cures dyspepsia, impotence. $1. "ROUGH ON CORNS." 15c. Ask for it. Quick, complete cure. Corns, warts, bunions.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.
AUSTIN, TEXAS, February 20, 1881.
To Mr. J. W. Graham, Druggists:

Dear Sir—My case was an acute form of Bronchitis, and was of one and a half year's duration. I employed the best medical aid possible, but failed rapidly, until the doctors said I would die—that my case was incurable. Thrown upon my own resources I got a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and in six hours felt a decided relief. In three days the cough almost disappeared. Now that my chances of life are good for many years, I earnestly recommend the above to every sufferer of throat or lung disease. G. G. LATHROP.

For dyspepsia, indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility, in their various forms; also as a preventative against fever and ague and other intermittent fevers, the "Ferro-Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya," made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists, is the best tonic; and for patients recovering from fever or other sickness, it has no equal.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT
GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,
Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & Co.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

A BOONANZA. To any person sending us $1.00 I will send four valuable receipts. $5.00 a day easily made with them. No humbug. W. G. LAWRENCE, Box 831, Brookline, Mass.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH
BITTERS
Old fashioned remedies are rapidly giving ground before the advance of this conquering specific, and old fashioned ideas in regard to depletion as a means of cure have been quite exploded by the success of the great renovant, which tones the system, tranquilizes the nerves, neutralizes malaria, depurates and enriches the blood, rouses the liver when dormant, and promotes a regular habit of body.
For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

THE MASSILLON
LIGHT and HEAVY SAWMILLS, strictly portable. Also SAWMILL ENGINES. Built by RUSSELL & CO., Massillon, Ohio. Send for Catalogue and Price List. (Name this paper.)

AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest-selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. National Publishing Co., Atlanta, Ga.

AGENTS
wanted for the best selling book in the United States. Write, and LOOK
at the terms we offer. Salary and commission to the right men. J. H. CHAMBERS & CO., Atlanta, Ga.

COTTON FUTURES
RAPID MONEY MAKING on Individual deals or on the Popular and safe new Co-Operative PLAN
OF CONSERVATIVE
SPECULATING
Weekly Statements, Monthly Dividends
$1,000 Invested Pays over $300 per month income.
Smaller Investments in proportion. Correspondents wanted everywhere. Circulars mailed to any address.
DIO. F. WOLFFE & CO., Brokers,
174 & 176 Common st. NEW ORLEANS.

ENGINES (Traction & Portable) Farm, Saw Mill & Plantation. For prices, etc. write THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO. Mansfield, O.

DR. STRONG'S PILLS
THE OLD
WELL TRIED WONDERFUL HEALTH RENEWING
REMEDIES.
Sold by leading druggists. For circulars and almanac with full particulars, address P. O. Box 650, N. Y. City.

MASON & HAMLIN
ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at EVERY GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION FOR SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organs having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3 1-2 octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular sacred and secular music in schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivaled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
PIANOS The Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.
THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO Co., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS.
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

SIX CTS [illegible] Send ONLY SIX CENTS to Dr. J. GONZALES, [illegible]

COLEMAN BUSINESS COLLEGE, Newark, N. J. Write for Catalogue, COLEMAN & PALMS, Prop's.

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS.
Unexcelled for accuracy and durability.
Send for CIRCULARS.
With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.
Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

A CATALOGUE
JUST ISSUED CONTAINING
400 ILLUSTRATIONS
AND PRICES OF
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JEWELRY
AND SILVERWARE
Will be sent free on application upon application.
J. P. STEVENS & CO.,
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - GEORGIA.

Magic Lanterns Outdone by the
An Optical Wonder.
1001 Pictures from books, papers, can be sent upon the wall greatly, chromo cards with all their colors, works of a watch in motion. Photographs of or ten times larger; useful to portrait artists, teens. We send the Polyopticon and 200 elegant chromo cards and portraits, by mail. Our circulars tell how to obtain it free.
Murray Hill Pub. Co., 129 E. 28th St., N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED FOR COBURN'S
Subscription Books
THE FINEST IN THE WORLD and the best selling. Accurately written, clearly printed on good paper, elegantly illustrated and beautifully bound. All other books their equal. All new. Territory clear. They sell. The Agent's harvest. Sell fast, the people on account of their value.
"Newman's America."
Biography from the Mound Builders. The only book covering the
The Lives of the James Brothers
The only complete account of the
"The Jeannette."
Explorations, including FRIWELL, HAYES, HALL and DE LONG.
"Pictorial Family Bible,"
taining both versions of the New Testament. Features and illustrations than any other edition.
The most LIBERAL TERMS granted by any LIVING HOUSE. PROMPT DEALING. DELAYS.
Write quickly for circulars and terms. rapidly being taken.
COBURN & COOK PUBLISHING CO.
96, 98 & 100 Metropolitan Block, CHICAGO.

This N.Y. Singer
With $5 set of Attachments. Warranted perfect. Light running, quiet, handsome and durable. on test trial. Sample. 12 stops. Reeds, 2 stops. Reduced. Circulars. with $5 stool and book. Also sent on test trial. rived. Elegant case. prices. durable instrument. guitar. with testimonials. Orders.

SAMARITAN
CURES AND NEVER FAILS.
NERVINE
THE DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO.
Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE
ATLANTA, GEORGIA.
Own the Gate City National Stone Water Filter and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Furnished on application.

HEALTH IS WEALTH
Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, misery, decay and death. One box will cure. Each box contains one month's treatment. One box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued by C. J. LUNE, Chattanooga, Tenn. Orders promptly attended to.

$47 A MONTH and board in your county. Men or Ladies. Pleasant business. Address P. W. ZIEGLER & Co., Box 25, Atlanta, Ga.

BOYS and GIRLS
You can for one day's work have a handsome warranted PERFECT RUNNING WATCH. Send name on postal card to ORANGE JUDD CO., Publishers,

THE BEST FAMILY
Demorest's Illustrated Monthly
Sold by all newsdealers and Send twenty cents for a specimen. W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, Publisher, E. 14th St., New York.
The New Volume (19) with November. Send FIFTY for three months; it will satisfy you can subscribe Two Dollars and get ten times its value.
Pub. Union, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW RICH BLOOD!
Parsons' Purgative Pills blood, and will completely change the entire system in three months. will take one pill each night from restored to sound health. Sold everywhere or sent by mail. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., formerly Bangor, Me.

DR. HARTER'S
IRON TONIC
GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that Iron Tonic does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy has, in my hands, made cures that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians have yielded to this remarkable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In short, DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 25th, 1881.
It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.
MANUFACTURED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS.

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1882. NO. 5.

WON.

She was so young and fair,
I could not choose but love her. At her feet
I laid my heart and life—an offering meet.

And when with sweet assent
She let me kiss her trembling lips divine,
I thought that none could part us—she was mine!

Alas, poor hope! Stern words
From sterner parent came: "I cannot yield;
Go thou and fight in Life's great battlefield.

"Fresh laurels win. When rings
Thy name from east to west with thy great fame,
Come then and ask me may she bear thy name?"

With weary hearts and sad,
Beneath the summer stars we bid good-bye,
And vowed to love, through weal or woe, for aye!

Year after year passed on,
And yet, alas! still flowed the changing sea
Between my heart's desire—my life's one love—and me.

At last, with willing feet
And glad, I homeward turned. My task was done.
Once more within my arms I held her—won!

White-robed, like angel pure,
She came—my bride—to gladden all my life.
I said: "They cannot part us now, sweet wife."

The joy-bells rung o'erhead,
The birds sang on, as hand in hand we passed
Into a strange sweet life—love-crowned at last.
—Chambers' Journal.

THE MISSING WITNESS.

"I'm afraid it's a bad case," I said to myself, as I laid down my brief after reading it over for the third or fourth time, and leaned back in my chair to reconsider it for about the twentieth. "A bad case, and I am sorry for it."

I was a barrister, young both in years and in professional standing, and this was the first brief of any importance I had ever held. My client was an Italian sailor named Luigi Bernini, and the crime of which he was accused was robbery; the plunder being a life-long savings of a woman upwards of eighty years of age, which the poor creature kept hidden in the thatch of her little cabin.

The witnesses were the old woman herself, who had been stunned by a severe blow from the perpetrator of the theft, and a neighbor who deposed to having met the prisoner in the immediate vicinity of the cabin. When Bernini was arrested some days later, a curious foreign coin, identified as a part of the stolen hoard, was found in his pocket. This, however, he accounted for, by saying that he had picked it up on the road. The weak point in the chain of evidence was a scarcely perceptible hesitation on the part of one of the witnesses. She had at first declared positively that the prisoner was the man whom she had seen going towards old Joan's cabin, and had afterwards adhered to this statement, with what afterwards appeared to be dogged obstinacy, rather than real conviction.

The prisoner himself positively denied having been in the neighborhood at all on the day of the robbery, but unfortunately he could not speak with certainty as to his whereabouts. He had been lately dismissed from the hospital, scarcely convalescent, after a bad fever; his own ship had left the port, and he had been rejected by the Captain to whom he had offered his services, as not being sufficiently robust for a sailor's work. He had a little money left, and therefore took to wandering aimlessly about the country, intending, as soon as the Columbia returned, to ship aboard of her again. His mind had been weakened and confused by his illness, and although he knew that for several days preceding and following that of the robbery, he had been in a part of the country fully twenty miles distant, he could not possibly say where he had been, or to whom he had spoken on the day in question. Many inquiries had been made, and many persons interviewed who remembered "the poor foreign chap," but no accurate information as to dates was forthcoming. As the testimony of a person who had extended her hospitality to him, "either of a Tuesday or a Thursday," she couldn't rightly say which, would not, unfortunately, carry much weight in a Court of Justice, I had to trust for a defense to the cross-examination of the witnesses, whose character for veracity I hoped, by judicious management of the usual forensic weapons, to compel them to annihilate with their own lips. I much regretted the want of evidence, as I was strongly prepossessed in favor of the prisoner; something frank and honest in his face making it difficult for me to believe him guilty of the cowardly crime of which he was accused. Besides, it was, as I have said, my first important case, and self-interest and professional instinct alike prompted me to desire its successful issue. But of this I had little hope.

I laid aside my brief at length, and went up to the drawing room, where I was greeted by my cousin and hostess with a somewhat petulant reproof for having lingered so long over those musty law papers.

Alice and I had been children together—a big girl and a little boy—we had grown from play-fellows into friends, and since her marriage her house in Carrigarvan had been my resting-place in assize times. I was at no loss to understand the cause of her vexation at my tardy appearance. She was somewhat a match-maker, and having no one but myself on whom to exercise her talents, she had devoted them exclusively to my service. She had already decided upon a suitable wife for me, and was now exerting herself to the utmost to bring about the marriage. The chosen young lady was present, and I knew that Alice was much annoyed with me for devoting the evening to my brief instead of to Dora Lyne. The latter was the daughter of a solicitor in good practice, and was herself a very pretty, bright looking girl, who would, I was compelled to admit, be a most desirable wife for a young unknown barrister.

I was thoroughly fond of Alice, and she was my chosen confidante whenever I needed one; but I could not tell her even that the true reason which prevented Dora Lyne's brown eyes and sweet voice making their due impression on me was the remembrance of a face seen but during a three-hours' railway journey, a face with dark gray eyes and quiet, thoughtful expression, and of a voice heard at somewhat rare intervals in the space of time, whose dull, low-pitched tones still vibrated in my imagination. Alice would have been too good natured to laugh at me, but I felt sure that, had she known the state of the case, she would have entertained, and probably expressed, fears that overstudy had affected my brain—an opinion that would probably have been shared by all persons whose characteristic was common-sense.

Miss Lyne, perceiving that Alice was vexed with me, and wishing, I think, to show that she did not share the feeling, called me over to look at some prints and photographs which she was examining.

"Alice," said Miss Lyne, at length, "did you show Mr. Lestrange the sketch you found in that book?"

"No," said Alice; "I forgot it. You will find it in that volume of the 'Stones of Venice' on my table, Richard. It is really a beautiful sketch. I wonder how it came to be forgotten in the book."

I brought the book to Dora Lyne, who turned over the leaves until she found the drawing, which she put into my hands. The moment I saw it I uttered an exclamation of surprise, which brought my cousin at once to my side.

It was a spirited water-colored sketch of a man's head—a dark, foreign looking face surmounted by a red cap. It was, however, neither the skill of the artist nor the picturesque beauty of the model that attracted my attention; it was the fact that in the somewhat peculiar features of the latter I recognized those of my client, Luigi Bernini.

"What an odd coincidence!" said Alice, when I had explained. "I wonder who could have taken the sketch—some one who knows how to handle a brush," she added, looking critically at it. "See, here are initials and a date, but they are so faint that I cannot make them out."

"Let me try," said Dora; "I have good sight." She took the sketch over to the lamp and scrutinized it closely. "W. M. D., but I cannot make out the date. Stay, I have it. May 10th, 18--"

"May 10th—why, that was the very day of the robbery," I said. Then the full significance of this date flashed suddenly upon me, and I absolutely turned giddy. "The alibi!" I gasped—"if we could find the man who did that sketch, we might succeed in proving the alibi." Dora Lyne grasped my meaning with ready quickness.

"Morrison's Library that book came from, was it not, Alice. They ought to be able to tell you there who had it on, or immediately after, the 10th of May."

"And the person, whoever she or he is, will have to be hunted up," I said, "and there's so little time. This is Monday, and the trial is fixed for Wednesday. I suppose Morrison's is closed by this, Alice?"

"Indeed, it is," she answered. "You would find no one there now but a caretaker. You must just wait patiently until to-morrow, Richard."

I had perforce to wait; as to the patience with which I did so, the less said the better.

The following morning found me at Morrison's Library. On explaining my business, I was referred to the clerk in charge of the library department, from whom I totally failed to obtain the required information. The young man who usually attended to that part of the business was away; if I could call next week—"

I intimated with what appeared to me, at the time, most praiseworthy self-control, that next week would not do, giving a partial explanation of the circumstances. But the clerk, although apparently willing to help me, professed himself quite unable to do so.

"You see, sir," he said, "if you wanted to know what book any subscriber had out at a given time I could probably tell you, but as for ascertaining the whereabouts of a special book—it's an impossibility. If you like to, look over our entries for yourself, you are welcome to do so."

I accepted this offer, and spent a good part of the day turning over the blotted pages wherein were inscribed the names and course of reading of the subscribers to Morrison's. And an unprofitable morning's work it was. The record was to all appearance imperfectly kept, and I failed to trace the second volume of the "Stones of Venice" through a period longer than three weeks, during which it had twice changed hands.

Some hours more were spent in hunting up the persons in whose possession it had been for that length of time, neither of whom could give any information concerning the sketch. An application to Bernini himself was equally fruitless. He remembered that a lady and gentleman whom he had met during his wanderings had asked him to sit to them, but he did not know who they were, nor could he even make it clear where the incident had occurred.

I returned home at dinner time, tired and baffled, to report my failure to Alice and her husband, from whom I received much sympathy but no suggestions of any practical value. I had given up hope, and was endeavoring to dismiss the subject from my thoughts, when late in the evening the hall door bell sounded and a message came up that a person wanted to speak to Mr. Lestrange. Going down, I found waiting for me a bright looking boy, one of the shop assistants at Morrison's, who had been for a short time aiding in my investigation of the entries.

"I think I have what you want, sir," he said, as I entered the room. "It was in my mind all that day that I had given out that book to some one, I couldn't think who, and a chance word that I heard this evening brought it all back to me like a flash. It was to Mrs. French, of Redcourt, that I gave it, and it must have been on the 3d or 4th of May. Here is the lady's name and address, sir;" and he handed me a slip of paper on which was written "Mrs. French, Redcourt, Kilcarran." It was in Kilcarran or the neighborhood that, according to Bernini's own statement, he had spent the day of the robbery.

Thanking and dismissing the lad, I returned to the drawing room with my prize. The next step was to communicate with Mrs. French. Kilcarran was fully fifteen miles from Carrigarvan, and the trial was to begin the following morning.

"Hand me over that railway guide, Dick," said Alice's husband. "I thought so—no train before ten. There's nothing for it but for me to drive to Kilcarran the first thing in the morning—the mare can easily do it in two hours—and if I find that any one there can give evidence worth having, I'll bring them back with me, and have them in court before the case for the defense opens."

The trial began next morning, proceeding at an unusually rapid rate. It seemed to me that the learned counsel for the prosecution had never before put forth his wisdom and legal knowledge in so condensed form. The cross-examination of the witnesses was of course in my hands, and I did my best to make it as tedious as possible, totally failing, however, in my attempts to confuse them or cause them to contradict themselves. My only hope lay now in the unknown witness, and of him there were no tidings. The case for the prosecution closed and the court adjourned for lunch; I was standing in the bar-room, thinking over my speech for the defense, and mentally re-arranging my sentences after the manner of the most prosy member of the circuit, when a note was handed to me: "All right—the witness is in the Sheriff's room."

Going into the Sheriff's room, I found my cousin, accompanied by a strange lady and gentleman.

"This is the prisoner's counsel," said the former, as I entered. "Allow me to introduce Mr. Lestrange—Miss Darcy, Mr. French." I turned to the lady as her name was pronounced, and, I am afraid, forgot to bow, in my surprise and delight at recognizing in the tall, fair-haired girl before me my dream of the last six months; my unknown love, another glimpse of whom had been my chief desire ever since I lost sight of her as she stood on the platform of the little roadside station where she had alighted.

"It was Miss Darcy who did that sketch," said my cousin, "and she remembers all about it."

"Yes," said the girl, "the sketch was taken at Kilcarran, on the 10th of May. I remember all the circumstances perfectly, and should have no difficulty in identifying the original."

Having by a few hurried questions convinced myself of the value of Miss Darcy's testimony, I took her and her brother-in-law, placing them where they had a full view of the prisoner. Miss Darcy looked attentively at the latter for a minute or two, and then said, decidedly:

"Yes, that is the man."

I opened the case for the defense in as few words as possible, and then called up my witness—Winifred Darcy. She gave her evidence very well, in grave, concise language, without irrelevance or circumlocution. She stated that she lived at Redcourt with her sister, Mrs. French, and that on the 10th of May she and her cousin had spent the greater part of the day sketching by the river-side at Kilcarran. At about two o'clock a gust of wind had carried her hat into the stream, whence it was recovered by the prisoner, who happened to pass by at the moment. Interested by something in his appearance, they tried to enter into conversation with him, but without much success, his English being very imperfect. They, however, managed to make him understand that they wished to employ him as a model, and he sat to them patiently for more than an hour, at the end of which time he went away with many expressions of gratitude for the money they gave him. Miss Darcy would have been certain as to the date, even if it had not been affixed to the drawing (which was produced in court), as her cousin had arrived at Kilcarran on the 9th of May, and left on the 11th.

Cross-examination failed to cast any doubt on the accuracy of Miss Darcy's evidence, while her veracity was of course above suspicion.

The jury professed themselves satisfied with the evidence, and, declining to hear counsel for the defense, returned a verdict of "Not Guilty." The prisoner was seized upon by some of his compatriots, who were serving on the mixed jury, and carried off in triumph, somewhat dazed by the change in his prospects.

Some months afterward, a man, dying from the effects of a hurt received in a drunken brawl, acknowledged himself guilty of the crime of which Bernini had been accused. He also was an Italian, and bore sufficient resemblance to his countryman in height and complexion to account in some degree for the mistake of the witnesses.

As for me, I date the beginning of both my professional success and of my life's happiness from the day of Bernini's trial.—English paper.

—Fire lays a grievous tax upon London. The losses from it amount to $600,000 a month.

Fees at German Hotels.

I cannot better give an idea of the manner in which strangers are fleeced by the hotels than to give an experience of myself and a friend in Leipsic recently. We put up at a first-class hotel, and took rooms on the second floor. It was a very chilly evening when we arrived, and I rang for the waiter, and told him I would like to have a fire in the stove. He bowed and retired. My friend was visiting some friends in the city, and I was left alone. After waiting to hear something about the fire for about fifteen minutes I rang again, and the waiter appearing I asked him if it was not possible to have a fire made this evening, or must I wait for some other evening. He told me that the houseman was very busy, but he would see. This was a plain bid for a fee, so I gave him a mark and told him to hurry up with the fire. Three minutes later the houseman appeared, and inside of ten minutes there was a blazing fire in the room. The houseman stood at the door before retiring, and hinted as broadly as he could that he wanted a fee, but I paid no attention to him. He went out and returned in a few minutes, when he deliberately carried off the hod of coal which was intended to replenish my fire. I rang again and the waiter came. I told him I must have coal. The houseman returned with the coal, stood in the door-way and hinted for a fee, and this time I was compelled to comply with his demand. I was afraid that if I refused to fee him he would carry off the stove. Before we had retired that night we had feed the chambermaid for bringing in a lamp instead of a candle, we had feed two waiters, and we had feed the houseman.

Next morning as we descended the stairs we observed a "portier" pulling a bell string. He detained us in the hallway for a few seconds, and in the meantime nearly all the employes of the house gathered around us. They wanted some more fees, and the "portier" had pulled the bell-string so as to call them together. We gave them a trifle all around and left. My friend, who was born and bred in Leipsic, told me then, what I have since learned from actual experience, that this beggarly system of doing business is common throughout Central Europe. Why the proprietors tolerate it is something I do not know, unless the fees are divided with them afterward. The native Germans are as thoroughly disgusted with the fee business as the strangers, and almost as often victimized.

It may be thought by those who have never had any experience of this kind, that it would not be a very difficult matter to refuse to pay fees unless you wished to do so. It is not difficult. You can refuse to pay fees unless you feel inclined to do so. You can walk in Chicago, if you do not care to hang on by your eye-brows to the roof of a street-car. You can stay at home in Chicago if you do not care to run the risk of being shot. You needn't live in Chicago if you don't like the streets. You can be just as independent in Germany as you are in Chicago. You can order the waiters around, and tell them they are already paid for their services; or you can tell the "portier"—the biggest nuisance around a European hotel, and almost as insolent as the hotel clerk in America—flatly, that you will not pay twice for everything; that you will not give any fees. You may disappoint the "portier" and the waiters, and the rest of them, but in the long run you succeed only in making yourself miserable.

There are two kinds of fees, the judicious and the injudicious fee. You must learn to put your money where it will do the most good. The judicious fee will sometimes secure you the greatest comfort; it will always assist in making your stay in a hotel agreeable. The injudicious fee may occasionally have a good effect, but usually it only protects you from annoyance without giving you any other satisfaction. Generally Americans are injudicious in the distribution of their favors. They usually give too much and too often. Frequently they give large fees to persons who do not expect them, and small ones to those who do. The result is dissatisfaction, and you will see it in your beefsteak, in your coffee, in your tea, in your cigars, or in your wine. Then there are people who give fees as a matter of course. They are taken as a matter of course, and no benefit is derived from them. Others give fees in an improper spirit. They allow the recipient to see that the fee is not given cheerfully, and the services which are given in return for it are not given cheerfully either.

The experienced tourist or traveler will always find out in the first place, the persons upon whom he will be dependent for the numerous little comforts so essential to one's happiness in a European hotel. He will give them a little at first—just enough to make them cheerful—and promise them more. If he makes the right kind of promise his attendants will do their best to earn his good will. It is much better to allow them to live in hope of a future reward than to pay them before they have earned anything. If they think that you have given them all you intend to give, they soon forget that you have given them anything, and become careless regarding your happiness.—Chemnitz Cor. Chicago News.

—A vague, but horrible rumor, is being handed around with blanched lips that Oscar Wilde will marry and settle in America. Just a few more straws on the dromedary's back and war with the mother country will be inevitable.—[illegible] Argus.

The Discomforts of Fame.

"I should think," remarked a lady at the lunch-table of the Baldwin, "that poor Adelaide Neilson ought to have faced death with a sense of relief." Some surprise at the remark having been expressed, the lady who had known Miss Neilson intimately, proceeded to recount the petty troubles of the great actress' life.

"She was the victim of ceaseless persecution," said the regretful friend. "Every day of her life was made miserable by the attempts of all kinds of people to interview her on all kinds of subjects. I had the fact brought forcibly to my notice one afternoon of the last week of her stay here. I called on her invitation and found her nervous and greatly dispirited. 'I have already had sixteen visitors,' said she, 'and expect so many more that I've positively notified my maid that I'm not in to any person but an old musician whom I've known for years and who is kind enough to play for me.'

"While she was speaking the musician entered, and before he had finished the first selection, how many callers do you think put in an appearance? Six? Yes, a whole dozen. I don't remember half of them. I know, though, there was a card from Barton Hill, who wished to see Miss Neilson about a benefit. Then Fred Lyster called in a journalistic capacity. Then an ambitious young dramatic writer sent up word that he had kindly prepared and brought with him a five-act play for her perusal. A young lady from Sutter street craved an audience for some purpose not given, but supposed to be the fell one of confessing that her mission was to elevate the stage. A proud mother brought an ambitious daughter to read some Shakspearean passages and show Miss Neilson that she had formidable rivals outside the profession. Two ladies came to inquire what preparation Miss Neilson used that made her so lovely on the stage; money was no object to them in acquiring the secret. But they didn't obtain an audience any more than the many others. Such were the ceaseless persecutions to which the unfortunate actress was subjected, and pestered, pursued, and villified, she ought to have coveted the eternal peace of death."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Why Should Not Women Whistle?

If the mere act of whistling can help and cheer a man so much, why should it be denied to a woman? If whistling will drive away the blues and be company for a lonesome person, surely women have much more need for its services than their brothers, for to them come many more such occasions than to men. There are many who are not too gifted of song. Why should they not whistle as they rock the cradle or perform their household duties, or accompany themselves on the piano? But there is a physical or hygienic advantage in whistling which should excuse itself against all the canons of propriety or "good form."

It is often remarked that the average girl is so narrow-chested, and in that respect compares so unfavorably with her brother. May this not be due in some measure to the habit of whistling which every boy acquires as soon as he arrives at the dignity of pants, and girls seldom do? Let any one try for five minutes the inhaling and exhaling of the breath as it occurs in the act of whistling, and the effect on the lungs and chest can not fail to be noticed. A daily practice of this kind would be of more benefit than all the patent inspirators and chest expanders in the market.—Phrenological Journal.

St. Patrick's Prayer.

The following is part of a hymn still extant in the Irish language which is attributed to St. Patrick, and bears his name. It is said to have been used by him as a prayer when about to attempt the conversion of the Irish monarch Laoghaire:

I bind to myself to-day,
The power of God to guide me,
The Might of God to uphold me,
The Wisdom of God to teach me,
The Eye of God to watch over me,
The Ear of God to hear me,
The Word of God to give me speech,
The Hand of God to protect me,
The Way of God to be before me,
The Shield of God to shelter me,
The Host of God to defend me,
Against the snares of demons,
Against the temptations of vices,
Against the lusts of nature,
Against every man who meditates injury to me,
Whether far or near,
With few or with many.

—A highway robber was nearly killed by dogs in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania, the other night. David J. McKinney was driving to his home, near Fredericksburg, when a thief stopped his team and pulled a pistol, with the demand: "Your money or your life!" McKinney had three mastiffs in his wagon and he set the dogs on the thief, and in a short time they completely stripped him of his clothing and bit him severely. McKinney was alone, and to save the thief from being killed outright he called off the dogs and drove away, leaving the desperado at the roadside. A party searched the woods subsequently, but could not find him.—Chicago Times.

—A singular fatality seems to have compassed the lives of a part of Richard Bailey's family of ten children, who were born and have generally lived at Townshend, Vt. Henry, aged ninety-three, dropped dead in his own yard at that place a few days ago; Hubbard, seventy-nine, dropped dead in Montgomery; Dana, seventy-four, fell from a load of corn and broke his neck; [illegible], seventy-[illegible], fell from a load of corn at [illegible] and broke his neck; and Mrs. Polly Bailey Franklin was taken suddenly ill and died before the doctor could be summoned.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—Within the last twenty-five years the steam pressure of locomotives have been increased from 60 pounds to over 160 pounds to the square inch.

—Miss Bettie Green, of Forsyth County, Ga., has two silk dresses which she made herself, having raised the worms, spun the silk, colored and woven it with her own hands.

—A gentleman in England has in his bedroom an electric bell which warns of any burglarious approach, and an indicator showing whether the garden gate, the hall door or that of the kitchen, or any one of the windows of the house is the point of attack.—N. Y. Tribune.

—With a new apparatus for ascertaining the velocity of railway trains, a train weighing 125 tons and traveling at a speed of forty-five miles an hour has been found to run a few feet more than five miles after steam had been shut off. The track was level and the day calm.—St. Louis Globe.

—Paper is made in Belgium which very closely resembles satin. Common paper is covered with a suitable size, and while the surface is moist asbestos dyed to any desired shade is sprinkled over it. Any superfluous matter is easily shaken off when the size is dry. Fine effects are sometimes produced with aniline colors.

—The gathering of fir cones to obtain the seed for export is quite an industry in Puyallup Valley, Washington Territory. The cones are dried in the hop furnaces until the seed fall out, when it is packed up and sold for export. Large quantities of this seed are planted in Europe. The fir seeds bring from $5 to $6 per pound.—Chicago Times.

—A French writer estimates the minimum annual consumption of nickel in England at 500 tons, and places Germany second with 300 tons, the United States third with 200, and France fourth with 100. The Engineering and Mining Journal says that, in view of the fact that in this country nickel-plating has reached an extensive use nowhere else approached, not to mention the consumption for coinage, this estimate is probably far below the actual figures.

—A writer in the Industrial Review advises the introduction of the bamboo in the Southern States. Though capable of growing on the uplands, it is said to be especially suited to marshy regions, such as fringe the South Atlantic and Gulf States. Its uses are numerous. As a timber for building and construction purposes, for tools, implements, etc., it is well known. As an article of food its young shoots serve as substitutes for vegetables, and are pronounced delicious. Bamboo curry and chow-chow are excellent. The growing plant is invaluable also as a defense against malaria, sweeping fires, and cyclones.

—At the Sanitary Congress in England the other day the Hon. F. A. Russell said that it was found that at a height about equal to that of the upper rooms in a high house a drier climate prevailed than at lower levels, and with a daily range not much greater, and much less cold on the coldest and on foggy nights than down below. The practical conclusions seemed to be that invalids and delicate persons should generally be placed in high, sheltered situations, in the highest rooms of a house, and by no means on a ground floor; that every house ought to be built on arches, or thoroughly ventilated below, and raised on piers above the ground level.

Rushing into Print.

Those who read the "woman's column" of a weekly paper must be impressed by one curious fact: the fair writers are far too fond of confiding their domestic troubles to the general public. One asks for sympathy because her husband abuses her, and another deplores her husband's profanity. Others attempt to be witty and smart at the expense of "old maids." Then the "old maids" retaliate; and so it goes until wiser people are disgusted. What comfort can be in bringing one's family woes before the public through the medium of the newspapers is to us incomprehensible. Nothing is gained by so doing, the troubles are none the less grievous, and little sympathy is given to people who have not sufficient fortitude to endure them without murmuring. These are the women who complain that they do not have their "rights." But when they say their literary work is not treated with as much consideration as that of men, they say what is not true. Any one, by glancing at the list of contributors to our ablest and most popular periodicals, will find nearly, and in some cases, quite one-half, the names those of women. There are said to be in the United States sixty lady editors, while many others have positions on editorial staffs. No one will deny that a book written by a woman gains recognition and commendation as readily as one written by a man. Ladies no longer find it necessary to assume masculine noms des plumes, in order to receive attention from the world. But there is a vast difference between honest, meritorious literary work and querulous complaining, and ill-advised scribblers must expect the last to be recognized.—Chicago Ledger.

—An extraordinary [illegible] was tried by a woman in [illegible]. [illegible] bound by a policeman, and [illegible].

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. M. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 14, 1882.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Mr. A. O. Lane was elected Mayor of Birmingham, at the recent election. Mr. Lane is a talented young lawyer of the Magic City, and an ex-editor of the Iron Age.

In the House of Commons, lately, Mr. O'Donnel read an extract from the "Soldier's Pocketbook," in which Sir Garnet Wolseley justifies the display of flags of truce to deceive the enemy. This, it will be remembered, is one of the crimes with which Arabi Pasha is charged.

A soldier, when under fire in Egypt for the first time, commenced a strategical movement to the rear. "You are a wretched coward," said one of his companions. "Possibly I am," replied the retreating sage; "but I prefer being a coward for five minutes to being a corpse for all time."

A tramp offered to drink as much liquor as anybody in an Evansville barroom would pay for, and proved it by emptying a full tumbler. He then said he would drink twelve glasses of beer as fast as they could be drawn, and succeeded in that undertaking. A few minutes afterward, in another saloon, he drank two brimming tumblers of whiskey. Then he died.

Col. Joseph Hodgson, writing to the Mobile Register from Montgomery, does full justice to that "kranky" journal, the Selma Times. The Times has attempted to read out of the Democratic party several members of the Legislature, who from conscientious scruples, no doubt, refused to vote for Senator Morgan, after his improper conduct in Mobile, during the late campaign. The Register, in the impartiality and kindly spirit of its editorial on our gifted Senator's re-election, would have been a fit model for the Times.

The Times-Democrat of New Orleans says that William Pitt Kellogg's certificate of election to Congress was withheld for a day only by Gov. McEnery, in order to give Kellogg time to answer a question of eligibility. This is as it should be. It is not creditable to the Louisianians that they could not beat Kellogg at the polls, but it is better that he should take his seat than that he should be kept out of it by a technicality. This remark applies to the case of Fort Pillow Chalmers as well. No cheating.

Among the dead-letters articles to be sold by the Post-office Department are two sets of teeth, one base ball cap, one box of wooden toothpicks, one liver pad, four pairs of red drawers, one lot of auburn hair, one pair of baby shoes, one white feather (perhaps Mr. Blaine's), two hair bangs, one lady's waist (how do they know it's a lady's waist?), one pair of old suspenders, one gents's night-shirt, twenty-four chromos, one nickel duck-call, one automatic tooth-pick, one toy pistol (this is expected to go off without the assistance of the auctioneer), Some Mistakes of Moses, Napoleon and His Marshals, and the Lives of Frank and Jesse James. The public will be disappointed to learn that none of Private Dalsell's correspondence is in the list, it having either reached its victim or been returned to the writer.

Alabama Insane Hospital.

The following is a portion of an extract from a letter writter by Dr. George D. Norris, of New Market, Madison county, and which we find published in the Tuskaloosa Times. We would like much to publish the entire extract, as contained in the Times, but our limited space will only permit us to publish enough to show what a noble institution is our Insane Hospital under its present efficient management. Dr. Norris says:

I might write for days and yet fail to relate to you all that I want the people of the State to be fully informed about. Many think it is a disgrace to have in their family a demented person; this is a mistake. It is as much a disease as any, and requires peculiar treatment; hence the necessity of such institutions, and I have no hesitancy in saying from personal experience, that so soon as one becomes insane (except Epileptics, for which there is at present no cure) if they are sent to our hospital they will come home in a few months well. Why! on my visit I found many discharged cured, who were very wild last year.

In this hospital, where the patients are brought in handcuffed and in chains, they are struck off so soon as they enter the door, and they are free. There is no restraint used, only the greatest degree of love and kindness. No handcuffs or chains are used, the door of the wards are always open, except those leading to adjacent wards. The patients are classified and kept separate, each apart,—the utmost degree of liberty consonant with their condition is freely allowed, and no nurse is permitted to strike a patient, or use harsh language. The clothing, diet, &c., is much better than even I can afford. The grounds and gardens are laid off exquisitely, and are glorious in their beauty. Gold-fish disport in the large circular tank in front of the main entrance, surmounted by flowers and plants, making in all a fairy scene, in which I could be contented to live and die. The inmates, in a body wander with their nurses over these beautiful lawns, go to the river and fish and enjoy every luxury, in season of garden, field and flood. Take it all in all, there are very few to be found like it.

Dr. Bryce, the Superintendent, is untiring in his devotion. His great Executive, Administrative, and Psychological mind is a wonder to all who know him. His elegant partner, Mrs. Nellie Bryce, is the presiding genius; she leads on the organ and in singing in morning devotion in the chapel.

Legislative.

A bill has passed the Senate to petition Congress to appropriate the amount of the cotton tax collected in this State, to the use of the public schools.

A bill has passed both houses and become a law nullifying the present charter of the city of Opelika, and authorizing the Governor to appoint a local government until a new one can be elected.

The following important bills have passed both Houses of the Legislature and been approved by the Governor:

The bill appropriating $13,000 for the payment of accounts of sheriffs, which accrued during the two years preceeding the first day of October, 1882, for feeding and for removal of prisoners.

The bill to provide for the preservation of census reports in the hands of Probate Judges in Alabama.

The bill to require applicants for license to teach in the public schools of Alabama, who hold diplomas, to pay the same fee for license as other applicants.

The bill to permit defendants to make statements in their own behalf in all trials of indictments, complaints or other criminal proceedings.

The Legislature adjourned Tuesday to take a recess until the 24th of January. The amount of important business transacted, during the twenty-four days it has been in session, is exceeding small.

The most important bills yet introduced in the Legislature have been postponed for consideration until after the recess. The bill to repeal the crop lien law which originated in the house, and the senate bill to regulate the treatment and hiring of convicts, both go over.

The True Policy for the Democrats.

The Republicans in Congress will make every effort at the present session, to place the Democrats in a false position before the country. They are deeply impressed by the lesson of the recent elections. They see that the people demand the reforms which the Democratic party has advocated. They know that the next Congress, under Democratic control, will accomplish these reforms. Accordingly, they have devised what they consider to be a shrewd plan for the discomfiture of the Democrats.

They mean to propose measures of legislation essentially Democratic in nature and tendency, in the hope and expectation, however, that the Democrats will stand in the way of their ènactment because of an apprehension that the Republicans will take too much credit for doing the very work which was expected of a Democratic Congress. When this opposition is manifested, then the Republicans will say that the Democrats do not really care for the public good so much as for the reputation of being reformers.

The true policy of the Democrats is to support every measure that is Democratic.—N. Y. Sun.

The President has received a communication from Professor E. Stone Wiggins, LL. D., astronomer of the Canadian Finance Department at Ottawa, predicting a tremendous storm in the early days of next March. He says that "the force will be sufficient to submerge the lowlands of the American coast, while the air currents for several hundred miles along the east side of the Rocky Mountain range, owing to the great atmospheric pressure in those regions, will spread universal destruction. The New England States will also suffer severely from the wind and floods. No point outside of harbor in the whole area of the Atlantic, will escape its dangers. It will be preeminently the greatest storm that has visited this continent since the days of our illustrious first President."

Startling Information.

An English writer has been sharply criticising the management of the London public schools, known as the "Board School," and produces the following as specimens from the written examination of some of the scholars:

"Where is Turkey?"

"Turkey is the capital of Norfork."

"Where is Turin?"

"Tureen is the capital of Chineer, the people there live on burds nests and has long tails."

"Where is Gibraltar?"

"Gibberalter is the principal town of Rooshia."

"What do you know of the patriarch, Abraham?"

"He was the father of Lot, and had two wifes, wun was Hismale and Haygur. He kept wun at home, and he turned the tother into the desert, where she became a pillow of salt in the day time and a pillow of fire at nite."

"What do you know of Joseph?"

"He wore a coat of many garments. He was chief butler to Farro, and told his dream. He married Portiffer's dorter, and he led the Gypshans out of bondage to Kana and Galilee, and then fell on his sword and died in site of the promised land."

"Give the name of the books of Old Testament."

"Dovenshire, Exeter, Littikins, Numbers, Stronomy, Judges, Ruth, &c."

"What is a miracle?"

"Don't know."

"If you saw the sun shining overhead at midnight, what would you call it?"

"The moon."

"But if you were told it was the sun?"

"I should say it was a lie."

Attorney General Brewster estimates that the Star-route thieves stole $4,000,000 instead of $1,500,000, as commonly reported. This stealage was accomplished during the last four years of Star-route ring operation. The aggregate stealage of ten years is not known.

In the report of the grand jury at St. Louis Tuesday, the bill charging John A. Cockerell, of the Post-Dispatch, with the murder of Alonzo M. Slayback was ignored. This is equal to a complete exoneration of Mr. Cockerell.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to R. L. Fannin by C. J. Pinkston, on the 15th day of April, 1881, and recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county in Vol. 5 of Record of Deeds on page 634, I will expose to public sale in the village of Verbena, on Saturday, the 23d day of December, inst., for cash, one yoke of oxen.

BERRY TATUM,
Adm'r of R. L. Fannin, Dec'd.
J. M. Falkner, Attorney.

NOTICE NO. 2018.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 8, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 19th, 1883, viz: Sconadus Jackson Haws Homestead 7594 for the fraction 2, section 12, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: William W. Wadsworth, Reuben Anthony, Boling Anthony, and William Patterson, all of Mountain Creek, Ala.

d14 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy a fi. fa. in my hands, issued from the circuit court of Chilton county, against Alfred Bugg and in favor of John W. Gullahorn and Brother, I will proceed to sell, on the first Monday in January, 1883, at Gullahorn's Mill, in Chilton county, between the legal hours of sale, the following described property, as the property of the said Alfred Bugg, to-wit:

One cow and calf.
One sow and pigs.
Six turkeys.
Eight chickens.
Two bedsteads.
Four bushels peas.
Two hundred and seventeen bundles fodder.
Twenty bushels corn.
One bay mare.
Five hundred pounds seed cotton.

Subject to a mortgage heretofore executed by said Alfred Bugg to R. Ehrman, and which said mortgage and the debt secured thereby is due and unpaid.

And also the following described property, as the property of said Alfred Bugg, to-wit: One lot of iron, one lot of dishes, and one lot of tools.

J. E. LOWE,
d14 Sheriff Chilton Co.

Administrator's Notice.

Probate Court of Chilton county.
Estate of Alfred Bethea, Deceased.

Letters of administration having been granted to the undersigned on the 28th day of November, 1882, by the Hon. H. J. Cullen, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate will be required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or that the same will be barred.

H. C. TOMPKINS,
d7 Administrator.

Verbena Male and Female Academy.

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

This school is now in session and will continue until June 15, 1883.

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department,	per mo.		$1.50.
Preparatory	"	"	2.00.
Intermediate	"	"	3.00.
Academic	"	"	4.00.
Music	"	"	3.00.
Contingent fee per term			.25.

Good board can be obtained in private families at $9 or $10 per month.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. ACREE, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

THE SUN FOR 1883.

More people have read the Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like the Sun for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs the Sun makes a practice of telling the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that the Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robinsonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, the Sun stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

Terms—The several editions of the Sun are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: Daily 55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7.70. Sunday edition, eight pages, $1.20 a year. Weekly, eight pages, $1.00 a year. Address

I. W. ENGLAND,
Publisher Sun, N. Y. City.

NOTICE NO. 1923.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Dec. 19th, 1882, viz: James T. Jones, Homestead entry No. 7597, for the n w quarter of the n e quarter and the n e quarter of the s w quarter, sec. 10, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land; viz: Peyton Finley, Aaron Goings, Lafayette F. Rollins, John Pearson, all of Mountain creek, Ala.

THOMAS J. SCOTT,
n16 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1987.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 29, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 5, 1883, viz: Martha A. Gray, Homestead 2569 for the n w ¼ of sec. 31 township 21 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John K. Booth, Simeon H. Glenn, George Songs, and Frank Weldon, all of Mountain Creek, Ala.

THOS. J. SCOTT,
d7 Register.

NOTICE NO. 1936.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 13, 1882.

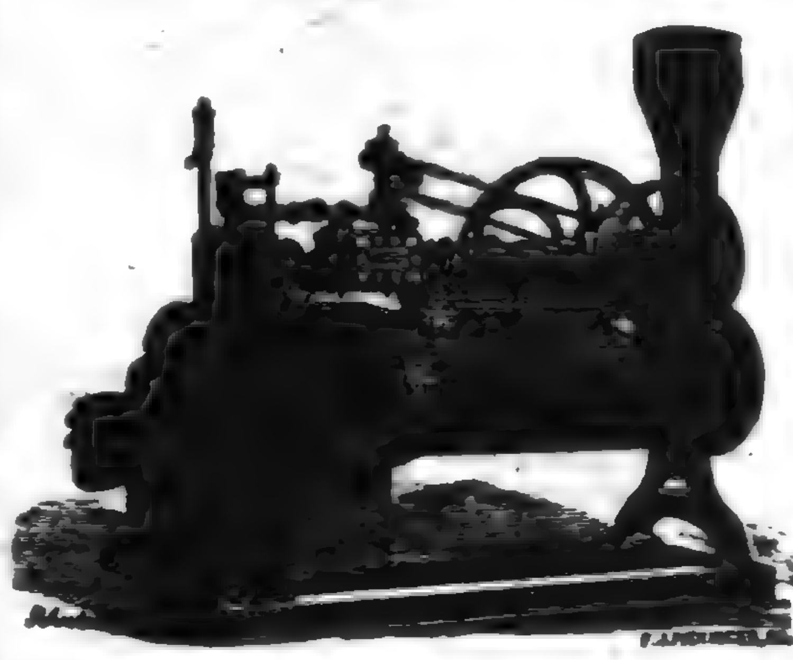
Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 23, 1882, viz: George W. Mims, Homestead 7684, for the s w ¼ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼, w ½ of s w ¼ sec. 2, township 22 north, range 15 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Franklin, Barton Woodward, William Y. Mims, and John Franklin, all of Clanton, Ala.

n16 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

J. F. MAULL. J. R. HOCK

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,
Lomax, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMIL
SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HA
Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinw
Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles
FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICE
☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CO
We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public p
MAULL & HOCKEN
Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the World



ENGIN
OF ALL
FROM TWO T
HUNDRED POWE
—AND—
OF ALL K
PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON W
The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest a Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting, a
kinds of Agricultural Implements.
For Catalogue and Prices address
MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,
General Agents for Alabama, Birmingh
☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing House,"
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
—DEALERS IN—
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing G

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of th House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall a Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,
And Blank Book Manufactur
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECE PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in bama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from th cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send to us.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ja 7-ly

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one [illegible], and one [illegible]. A good stable on lot, [illegible] feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is [illegible] feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 15-tf Lomax, Ala.

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

EAST TENN., VIRGIN GEORGIA RAILRO
Forms the quickest and most able route to Eastern Citi
AND ONLY ROU
—TO THE—WATERING PLAC
—of—
East Tennessee and Vi
The principle
SPLENDID SCENERY
TIME AND THR
CARS.
The only line mountainous and Virginia.
For information address
JAS. R. OGDEN
A. POPE,
A. G. P. A., Lynch

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwards.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery—Dr. W. E. Stewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderle.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.

Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr 7:73 p. m.
" 10:36 "	Calera	Lve. 4:40 "
" 5:40 p m	Rome	" 10:10 a m
" 7:18 "	Dalton	" 8:05 "
" 8:45 "	Cleaveland	" 7:03 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma Lv.	4:30 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis "	7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian Arrive	10 p m

LODGES.—Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 533, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 2 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., meets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

We can have job printing done for all in need of it.

See new advertisements of sheriff's sale, mortgage sale, and three final proof notices.

Col. W. H. McNeil is making preparations to build on his lot near the Methodist Church.

Mr. J. P. Willoughby, representing the S. & N. Ala. railroad, was in Clanton on Friday last, on business for the road.

What has become of "Occasional," our Verbena correspondent? Can't the city of the hills let us hear from her at least occasionally?

The S. & N. Ala. railroad should establish a branch agency for the sale of lands, at this place, as a matter of convenience to both the people and the railroad.

From the explosion of the noisy fire-cracker, and the exulting yells of the small boys about town, one might imagine that Christmas was already here.

It is desired to have a Christmas tree in Clanton, and the papas and the mamas should get one up on a large scale at the courthouse. It will make glad the hearts of the young folks.

Attention Guards!

You will meet at the Courthouse Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock. Important business. By order of the Commanding Officer.

F. J. DAVIS, O. S.

Cotton in Clanton: Good Mid. 9¾, Middling 9⅝. Low Mid. 9, Strict Good Ord. 8¾, Good Ordinary 8⅜. The Montgomery market steady at 9 to 9¼ cents for Good Middling, 9 to 9⅛ for Middling, 9 to 9⅛ for Low Middling, 8¾ to 8⅞ for Strict Good Ord. and 8⅜ to 8½ for Good Ordinary.

Rev. J. W. Shores left on Monday to attend the annual conference of his church, which is now in session at Troy, Ala. Mr. Shores has been a faithful pastor and an earnest worker in his church, and we believe it is the general wish here that he be returned.

A grand masquerade ball will come off at the courthouse on the evening of the 25th inst.—ye merry Christmas. From the names on the invitation, reception and floor committees, we predict that it will be an occasion as gay as the night is long.

The trial of Hilson, DuBose, et al., parties arrested in the Stump's Gap neighborhood and spoken of last week, was set for last Monday, but was postponed until to-day, on motion of the defence, on account of the absence of important witnesses.

We forgot to mention Strasburg last week as among the progressive points in the county. Nothing should, and we believe nothing will check our Strasburgians in their onward and upward march.

Mr. Wilson, living near Clanton, made the past year a bale of cotton to the acre. Besides raising several bales of cotton, he raised all the supplies necessary for his family. Mr. Wilson is 64 years old. He employed the assistance of only one man.

The station on the E. T. V. & G. railroad in this county, one mile north of Callierville, has been named "Stanton," in honor of Mr. M. Stanton, former Superintendent of the S. R. & D. railroad. Messrs. Gregory & Coe, of Selma, have a large steam saw mill in operation at this point.

Every Baptist should send for The Baptist Standard, a 28-column weekly paper, published at Brownwood, Texas. It is an ably edited, cleanly printed Baptist paper; it contains a sermon each week by the best known and ablest Baptist ministers, interesting correspondence, carefully selected reading for the Family Circle, Church News, Texas News, etc. It does not contain any immoral or patent medicine advertisements. It is furnished to subscribers at the remarkably low price of $1.25 per year—one half the usual price, thus placing it within the reach of all. Will send it on trial 3 months for 10 3-cent stamps. Address, Standard Pub. Co., Brownwood, Texas. tf

From Ashby.

EDITOR VIEW: The health of our community is good.

Mr. E. L. Spencer and his bonny bride seem to be the happiest mortals in this section of country.

It must have been cold weather in Selma last Friday. Capt. Terrel purchased eight overcoats there that day, and all for his own family use.

The VIEW is the best county paper in Alabama, and is always on demand when it reaches this office. May it live long and prosper.

UNO.

Jemison Jottings.

Health good.

Hon. L. E. Bland, of Verbena, came up Sunday just to see the girls.

That charming young lady, Miss Lilly Luckett, is visiting relatives at Verbena.

Mr. Dawson Davis, of Milton, Autauga county, is visiting relatives at this place.

Jemison is going to have a fine Christmas tree.

Mr. James Felton is very ill. His friends are anxious for his recovery.

HUGO.

Maplesville Dots.

Shingles are in demand. Our merchants can't keep a large stock.

Our young folks have opened the Christmas season with a jolly time at Mr. Thos. DuDose's, on the evening of the 7th inst.

Mr. T. J. Giles, formerly of this place, but now of Shelby county, gave us a pleasant visit last week. Jeff. is as hearty and genial as ever.

Little Walter Bowline deserves a place among juvenile heroes for saving the life of his little sister Stella. Last week, while they were on their way to school, she accidentally fell off the bridge across Bird Creek into water deep enough to drown her. As soon as Walter perceived the mishap, he jumped in and though nearly frozen by the cold water, succeeded in getting her out. Both children are young, aged respectively seven and five years.

BIJOU.

The Washington correspondent of the Courier-Journal says of the present sesson of Congress: "The first week of Congress has been a very busy one. Members have attended to their duties unusually well, and public business has progressed to an unusual extent. The House has passed two appropriation bills already—the Indian bill and the consular and diplomatic bill. Two more will go through next week. There was no adjournment over from Friday until Monday, and nobody talked of such a thing. It has heretofore been unusual for either house, especially at the commencement of the session, to more than make a show of assembling on Friday to adjourn over to Monday. Industry is an epidemic. An old clerk in the file-room of the House said to-day that for fifty years back Congress never went to work at the commencement of a session so earnestly as it did this year, nor accomplished as much."

Arabi has pleaded guilty to the charge of rebellion and was sentenced to death by the Khedive, who thereupon commuted the sentence to banishment for life.

Carpet-bag Politics.

A Montgomery correspondent of the Eufaula Times says:

Speaking of negroes in the Legislature calls to mind an incident in the career of a jew who figured in that body when the negroes controlled Alabama politics. I refer to Ben de Lemos, the notorious Lowndes county politician. Ben tramped from New York to Montgomery some dozen years ago. He was barefooted and without money when he reached the capital of Alabama, and on the night of his arrival he stole into the Representatives' hall at the Capitol and slept in the Speaker's chair. Less than two years afterwards he sat in the same honorable chair and presided over the House of Representatives of the Alabama Legislature, having risen from the condition of a tramp to be a representative from Lowndes. So much for carpet-bag politics.

Judge Matthews and the Lee Property.

Washington special: It was the vote of Justice Stanley Matthews in the consultation of the Justices of the United States Supreme Court which carried the majority in favor of returning to the heirs of Gen. Lee, the Arlington property on the Potomac, opposite this city, now used as a national cemetery. It is probable, in view of the decision, that the property will at once be condemned for public use, and the Lee heirs will receive compensation for the property. This is all they ask, as they do not care for possession.

With Arabi Pasha banished, Frank James in jail, and Jay Hubbell, a mile or so behind in the race for the Michigan Senatorship, there is room to suggest that the "looter" as an organized force is a failure.—Ex.

Senator Pope Barrow, the successor of Senator Hill for the latter's unexpired term, is the youngest Senator in the Senate Chamber. He is forty-two.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for General Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it is his duty to make it known to his fellows. This receipt, with full particulars, directions for preparation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be sent you by return mail, free of charge, by addressing with stamp or stamped self-addressed envelope. DR. J. C. RAYMOND,
164 Washington St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
☞ Mention this paper. d14y

NOTICE NO. 1989.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 1, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 12, 1883, viz: William F. Robuck, Homestead 8917 for the s ½ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 2, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Milton F. Fuller, Thomas J. Klener, John Klener, James L. Williams, all of Maplesville, Ala.

d7* THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 2005.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 29, 1883, viz: Josephus Levingston, Homestead entry 12840 and 6754 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ e ½ of s e ¼ and s w ¼ of s e ¼ sec. 22, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Hawkiks, Martin Goodson, Berry Lawrence and Jake Smith, all of Randolph, Ala.

d7 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1976.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 30th, 1882, viz: Augustus Walker, Homestead entry No. [illegible] for the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 2[illegible], township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, John M. Gothard, Squire D. [illegible] and John C. Martin, all of Randolph, Ala.

n30 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Surveyor's Notice.

I would respectfully inform the people of Chilton county that I have been reappointed county surveyor, and with an experience of thirty years am prepared to do all surveying entrusted to me with satisfaction to all parties. Persons wishing to know where their land lines are would do well to call on me.

H. B. ATCHINSON,
n23 Maplesville, Ala.

H. Houpt,

WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR

Cigars and Tobacco

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

—CALL ON—

I. FORST,

2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ The cheapest place in the city.

June 20-6m

Louisville & Nashville

Railroad Line.

The Quick, Short and Direct Route

TO ALL POINTS

North, East and West

Only one change of cars to

ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

and the best route to

BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Insure Your Life

—IN THE—

People's Mutual

Relief Association,

OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

H. L. Wheeler.

GENERAL

Real Estate Agent.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Will buy and sell lands for commission.

Jan15-1y

Robt. H. Knox,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"

W. A. CHILD, Proprietor

—DEALER IN—

Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY

—AND—

NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.

—AGENT FOR—

DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO

Also Estey and Palace Organs.

No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.

☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜

Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.

Large Stock! Low Prices!

Alonzo S. Elliott,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.

ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.

Cooking and Heating Stoves,

Birmingham, Ala.

IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

WONDERFULLY CHEAP!

Elegant New Editions of Standard Publications.

In clear type, cleanly printed on first-class paper, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, with gold and ink side and back stamps.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

ROMOLA. By George Eliot. 466 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
UARDA. By George Ebers. From the German by Clara Bell. 366 pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
JOHN HALIFAX, GENTLEMAN. By Mrs. Mulock-Craik. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
JANE EYRE. By Charlotte Bronte. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
HYPATIA. By Charles Kingsley. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
CORINNE. By Madame de Staël. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
LAST OF THE MOHICANS. By James Fenimore Cooper. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
TOM BROWN AT RUGBY. By Thomas Hughes. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
☞ The foregoing eight volumes packed in a neat box, $5.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES.

KNICKERBOCKER HISTORY OF NEW YORK. By Washington Irving. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
THE SKETCH BOOK. By Washington Irving. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

MACAULAY'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND. [illegible] pages in 3 vols. 12mo, with portrait of the author. Cloth, $3; Half Leather, $[illegible].
ROLLIN'S ANCIENT HISTORY. [illegible] pages, two volumes in one, quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].
FROISSART'S CHRONICLES. Imperial octavo. 115 Illustrations. Extra large type. Cloth, $1.[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].
WORKS OF FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS. [illegible] pages in one volume quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].
KITTO'S CYCLOPÆDIA OF BIBLICAL LITERATURE. [illegible] pages in two volumes, 12mo. Cloth, $[illegible]; Half Leather, $[illegible].
TASSO'S JERUSALEM DELIVERED. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
POPE'S HOMER'S ILIAD. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
POPE'S HOMER'S ODYSSEY. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25. These two volumes in a neat box: Cloth, $1.50; Half Leather, $[illegible].
CREASY'S FIFTEEN DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
PLUTARCH'S LIVES OF [illegible]. [illegible] pages in one volume. Cloth, $1; Half Leather, $1.[illegible].
AMERICAN ADDITIONS TO CHAMBERS'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA. [illegible] volumes, comprising over [illegible] titles compiled by American editors, uniform in size and binding with Chambers's Encyclopædia as published by Messrs. Lippincott & Co. Bound also in Cloth, uniform with the "imported" edition of Chambers's. Cloth, per set, $[illegible]; Sheep, per set, $[illegible]; Morocco, per set, $[illegible].

☞ Circular showing type, paper and styles of binding, free on application. Sold by all Booksellers, or sent post-paid on receipt of price, by S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher, 74 Beekman St., N. Y.

Agua Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual

FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest

FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-6m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF

COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala. J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo.
R. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-1y

George Hunter,

TONSORIAL ARTIST,

CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.

PRICES FOR WORK:

Shaving - - - - - 10 cents.
Hair cutting - - - - - 25 cents.

☞ The only barber in the world who never talks. Jul 1-1y

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

THE Spanish Armada numbered 130 ships, to which the English could oppose but eighty vessels, and these so small that four of them only equaled in tonnage the smallest of the galleons. The Armada carried 8,000 seamen and 20,000 soldiers. The English fleet was manned by 8,000 sailors.

NUTMEGS grow upon a tree from twenty-five to thirty feet high, which bears a fruit resembling in form and size the seckle pear. When ripe the outer shell of this fruit breaks, revealing an inner case of bright red, known to commerce as mace. This in its turn is removed, and the nutmeg is found inclosed in a third shell harder than either of the others.

THE Parsees of India are fire-worshipers, and reverence the sun, moon and stars. Upon the altars of their temples the priests keep fire continually burning, and declare that it has never been extinguished. When engaged in their duties these devotees wear masks over the lower part of their faces, lest their breath should pollute the sacred flame.

CONDUCTING the British Government by a Ministry chosen from the strongest party in the House of Commons dates from the time of William III., in 1689. Previous to that all the Ministers had been independent of each other, and responsible to the sovereign alone, who might dismiss one great officer of state and retain the rest. The idea of a homogeneous Ministry was first carried out by Robert, Earl of Sunderland, who successively held office under Charles II., James II. and William of Orange.

THE needle-gun is the invention of John Nicholas Dreyse, a Prussian locksmith. He was 19 years old when the battle of Jena was fought, and picked up a musket upon the field, an examination of which convinced him that his countrymen were the worst-armed soldiers in Europe. Dreyse made his way to Paris, and entered the employ of a Swiss gunmaker, whom Napoleon commissioned to make a breech-loading musket. The young apprentice took up the idea and worked at it for many years until, in 1835, he succeeded in making a breech-loading needle-gun. The Prussian Government tried and adopted the weapon, and supplied the inventor with means for carrying on the manufacture of the gun now used in Kaiser Wilhelm's army.

Seeding Wheat.

The waste of wheat seed by the ordinary processes of sowing or drilling is as obvious to every farmer of our days as it was when the parable of the "Sower" was written; and in the aggregate it amounts to an enormous loss. The ideal practice of seeding pretty closely carried out in the practice of a careful gardener, is to use just seed enough for each of the young plants to have room and space for that full development and spread of leaves or blades which are essential to the complete yield of a full product, and then to secure the even germination of every seed by putting all at an equal depth, covering evenly with a friable, easily penetrated mold, and pressing this into such close contact as will secure sufficient and steady moisture with access of humid air, but not in free, dry currents, for this is essential to the germination.

How different is the ordinary field practice! In broad-cast sowing some of the grains trickle to the bottom of the furrow while some remain barely hidden on the surface; and often not the half is placed in a condition for surviving the critical stage of sprouting and establishing roots and cereal blades that can maintain growth. The harrow packs the surface while often leaving air chambers beneath, which is just the reverse of what the young wheat plant requires. The drill allows the advantage of a prior harrowing and compacting of the soil, and it leaves the covering light and open, but often too much so, and generally very uneven in depth, for it is not uncommon in clayey soil to see portions of the drills quite uncovered, while, throughout, the covering is such that much of the grain trickles down among it, never reaching the proper depth, and being dangerously exposed to parching if the weather happens to be dry.

These risks, including that of dry weather, are all obviated if sound, fresh seed is put in at a uniform, moderate depth, and the mellow covering be pressed down upon it sufficiently to exclude actual currents of dry air, which would soon rob the soil surrounding the seed of the necessary moisture.—Rural New Yorker.

Habits.

Habit constantly strengthens all our active exertions. Whatever we do often, we become more and more apt to do. A snuff-taker begins with a pinch of snuff per day, and ends with a pound or two every month. Swearing begins in anger; it ends by mingling itself with ordinary conversation. Such like instances are of too common notoriety to need that they be adduced; but, as I before observed, at the very time that the tendency to do the thing is every day increasing, the pleasure resulting from it is, by the blunted sensibility of the bodily organ, diminished, and the desire is irresistible, though the gratification is nothing. There is rather an entertaining example of this in Fielding's "Life of Jonathan Wild," in that scene where he is represented as playing at cards with the Count, a professional gambler. "Such," says Mr. Fielding, "was the power of habit over the minds of these illustrious persons, that Mr. Wild could not keep his hands out of the Count's pockets, though he knew they were empty; nor could the Count abstain from palming a card, although he was well aware that Mr. Wild had no money to pay him."

—A Cheshire (Conn.) veteran has recently recovered a pocket Bible lost at the battle near Kingston, North Carolina, in 1865. The Bible was picked up a few months after by a Southern soldier, and, finding the name of Henry S. Allen on the fly leaf, he advertised the book in the New York Times, the notice finally reaching Mr. Allen.

—A New York man arraigned for bigamy excused himself on the ground that his first wife had agreed to support herself, and failing to do so he considered himself absolved from the marriage vows and fully authorized to marry again. The excuse helped him [illegible].

Advice to a Young Man.

Don't be mean, my boy; don't do mean things and say mean things. Cultivate a feeling of kindness & a spirit of charity broad and pure for men and things. Believe the best of everybody, have faith in humanity, and as you think better of other people, you will be better yourself. You can, with some accuracy, measure a man's character by the esteem in which he holds other men. When I hear a man repeatedly declaring that all other men are knaves, I want a strong endorsement on that man's paper before I'll lend him money. When a man assures me that all the Temperance men in the town take their drinks on the sly, I wouldn't leave that man and my private demijohn—if I had one—together in a room five minutes. When a man tells me that he doesn't know one preacher who isn't a hypocrite, I have all the evidence I want that that man is a liar. Nine times in ten, and frequently oftener, you will find that men endeavor to disguise all other men with their own weaknesses, failings and vices. So do you, my boy, think well and charitably of people, for the world is full of good people.

And if you are mean, you cannot conceal it. People will know it. Our unfortunate, human fondness for gossip always puts us in possession of all the worser qualities of each other. Don't you and your intimate friends, my boy, discuss the weak and evil points in your neighbors' characters? Of course you do; and when you are the absent one, be assured, Telemachus, that your friends are in like manner dissecting you. Indeed, they are. They know all about you, and that which you would have least known, they know the best.

And, at any rate, my son, you know it, and that is enough. Sometimes I wonder what a mean man thinks about when he goes to bed. When he turns out the light and lies down. When the darkness closes in about him and he is alone and compelled to be honest with himself. And not a bright thought, not a generous impulse, not a manly act, not a word of blessing, not a grateful look, comes to bless him again. Not a penny dropped into the outstretched palm of poverty, nor the balm of a loving word dropped into an aching heart; no sunbeam of encouragement cast upon a struggling life; no strong right hand of fellowship reached out to help some fallen man to his feet—when none of these things come to him as the "God bless you" of the departed day, how he must hate himself. How he must try to roll away from himself and sleep on the other side of the bed. When the only victory he can think of is some mean victory, in which he has wronged a neighbor, no wonder he always sneers when he tries to smile. How pure and fair and good all the rest of the world must look to him, and how cheerless and dusty and dreary must his own path appear. Why even one lone, isolated act of meanness is enough to scatter cracker crumbs in the bed of the average, ordinary man, and what must be the feelings of a man whose whole life is given up to mean acts? When there is so much suffering and heartache and misery in the world, anyhow, why should you add one pound of wickedness or sadness to the general burden. Don't be mean, my boy. Suffer injustice a thousand times, rather than commit it once.—Burlington Hawkeye.

A Struggle with a Bear.

While Harry Tucker and Wellington Sprague, conductors of the Maine Central Railroad, together with Orville A. Robinson and A. Q. Leach, of Portland, were on a hunting expedition at the forks of the Kennebec a few days ago, they suddenly encountered a monstrous bear, which gave a savage snarl, and then started for them. The young men had no heavy ammunition, but they made quick use of what they had, pouring hot shot into bruin's body. Quickly reloading, they all fired again. This second round enraged the bear, and she howled fiercely. Finally the fighting came to close quarters, and the hunters attacked the infuriated beast with the butts of their rifles. Tucker broke the stock of his rifle short off at the first blow. This reminded him of a monster pocket-knife which he had purchased at Bingham. Taking that out, he ordered his companions to once more hold the attention of the bear while he crawled behind her. The bear now stood erect on her haunches, and the three men were engaging her attention as much as they dared to do. Tucker rushed up behind her and plunged the knife deep into her side twice, his companions in the mean time rushing for her with their guns. The moment she felt Tucker behind her she turned and made a grab for his shoulder, just catching his coat and heavy shirt in her teeth. Before she could do more the stabs in her side had done their work, and she fell dead with Tucker's clothing still in her teeth.—Boston Journal.

—"Tripolite" is the name given to a new building material which is intended to be a substitute for lime, cement, and plaster, under certain circumstances. It is composed of sulphate of lime, coke and oxide of iron in some form or other.

—California is making great efforts to develop her extensive petroleum deposits. During 1881 her production was trebled. Large quantities of machinery have been purchased and some of the most expert Pennsylvania drillers have been engaged. There is said to be no doubt that there are immense oil deposits in the State.—San Francisco Chronicle.

An Age of Suspicion.

Truly, this is an age of suspicion. Nevertheless, Capt. F. M. Howes, of the steamer William Crane, Merchants' & Miners' Transportation Line between Boston and Baltimore, who suffered severely from rheumatism, caused by the exposure incident to his profession, was cured by St. Jacobs Oil. This is no suspicion.—Boston Globe.

—It is claimed that pears grow to greater perfection in Shelby County, Alabama, than in any other portion of the United States. Some young orchards in the vicinity of Calera have trees bearing two bushels, worth there four dollars per bushel. An acre will grow 400 trees, which, when in full bearing, will be worth one hundred acres of cotton.

Statistics of Immigration.

Up to 1820 no statistics of immigration [illegible], but the [illegible] were official, only 8,385 foreign immigrants were reported for that year. In 18[illegible] the number was 23,-[illegible]; in 1840, 84,0[illegible]; 184[illegible], 104,[illegible]; 1850, 369,980; 1854, 427,833. That was the maximum number for nearly 20 years. In 1855 and 1856 the number was but about 200,000 each; it rose to 251,000 in 1857; 153,640 in 1860; in 1861 and 1862, for the obvious reason that our war was a deterrent, fell to 91,000; the labor demand so far overcame this that the number arose to 176,000 in 1863, 193,400 in 1864, and 249,000 in 1865. From 1865 to 1873, during the term of post-war paper prosperity, when labor was immensely in demand, immigration was heavy, reaching the highest figure in 1873—459,800. It fell to 313,000 in 1874, 227,000 in 1875, 170,000 in 1876, 142,000 in 1877, 138,000 in 1878, but rose to 178,000 in 1879, and was, of course, very much increased in 1880. England and Ireland (taking 1873 as a standard) send about one-third—152,000 out of 460,000. It may surprise most readers, however, to know that those two countries send about an equal number, and that in 1872, 1875, and 1876-9 England sent more than Ireland. Thus, for 1879 24,000 immigrants were of English nationality, and 20,000 were Irish. Scotland contributed 13,000 in 1873. Germany sends nearly as many as England and Ireland combined—150,000 in 1873, against 152,000, and 34,000 in 1879, against 44,000. Among the other European countries Sweden stands next, then Norway, then France, Italy, and Austria. Not China alone, but all Asia, overwhelm us with such hordes as 20,000 in 1873 and 9,800 in 1879. In the twenty-three years 1855-77, almost 200,000 Chinamen came in, of whom not more than one-half have since gone back. It would be interesting if the outward as well as the inward movement were recorded. In 1876, according to British statistics, 54,554 persons went from the United Kingdom to this country, and 54,697 went thither from this country; to Canada, 9,335, and 6,228 from Canada; to Australia, 32,196, and 2,579 from Australia; total emigration, 109,469, and 71,404 total immigration. The total movement of Irish from May, 1851, to the end of 1876, according to these reports, was 2,415,000 leaving Ireland direct, of whom nineteen-twentieths came to this country; 67 per cent. of the whole number leaving the United Kingdom from 1853 to 1876 also came here. It is perhaps a hopeful symptom that the human tide which will yet for many years set to these western shores contains a larger proportion of skilled or half-skilled laborers, and a smaller proportion of the least desirable class that used to be the case.

—George Francis Train lives in New York at an average expense of $3.80 per week for food. Ten years ago his cigars cost more than that per day.

A Successful Firm.

Messrs Dio F. Wolfe & Co., of Nos. 174 and 176 Common street, New Orleans, Louisiana, do an enormous business as brokers in "Cotton Futures" and are rapidly taking the lead in that line of any house in America. While on a business trip to New Orleans we called at their office and were courteously shown their perfect system of how they do business. We never knew how popular and widespread this investing in Cotton Futures had really become, but from their mail we judge they receive over forty letters with Drafts and P. O. Orders, and we were assured that some days as high as sixty orders with money ranging in sums from $10 up to $1,000 were received, of course the smaller sums from $10 to $100 are the most in number. Messrs. Wolfe & Co., are also the originators of the Southern Co-operative Cotton Fund Union, a system of Combining Individual small sums and operating the whole aggregate capital under their careful supervision. From one of their Statements we learn that for the last six weeks, they have realized for their share-holders 68 per cent. profit, that is $68 for every $100 so invested. This plan is growing rapidly and even old and experienced speculators take advantage of it, as the risk is reduced, enabling the managers to place larger margins on deals to prevent sweeping loss, in time of rapid fluctuations and by having an ample reserve fund at command, they can "hedge" and thus hold their purchases until the excitement subsides, and legitimate profits are again gained. They have an office in New York, as their Stock and Bond operations are also large. We wish to mention in conclusion that the Co-operative is managed separately from their individual business.

—The reason that aesthetics so admire the stork is that he can stand for hours on one leg and look as though he didn't know anything and didn't want to.—[illegible]

Lyon's Patent Metallic Heel Stiffeners keep new boots and shoes from running over. Sold by shoe and hardware dealers.

—Silver in constant use is kept nice and bright by washing it every day in soap and suds and drying it with old linen.—Chicago Herald.

[illegible] Husband of Mine
Is three times the man he was before he began using Wells' Health Renewer. $1.

DON'T DIE IN THE HOUSE. "Rough on Rats." Clears out rats, mice, roaches, bed-bugs. 15c.

—A New York female pickpocket is so pretty that one of her victims refused to make complaint.

Pure cod-liver oil, from selected livers, on the sea shore by Caswell, Hazard & Co., N. Y. Absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians declare it superior to all other oils.

[illegible]
William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with [illegible], followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time the report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA cures pain in Man or Beast. For use externally or internally.

Chapped hands, face, pimples and rough skin cured by using Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York.

St. Jacobs Oil
THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.
Relieves and cures RHEUMATISM, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, BACKACHE, HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, SORE THROAT, QUINSY, SWELLINGS, SPRAINS, Soreness, Cuts, Bruises, FROSTBITES, BURNS, SCALDS, And all other bodily aches and pains.
FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in 11 languages.
The Charles A. Vogeler Co. (Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED

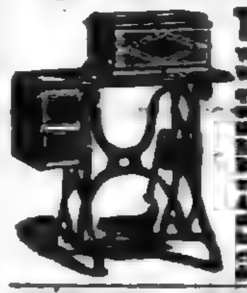
STOMACH BITTERS
Old fashioned remedies are rapidly giving ground before the advance of this conquering specific, and old fashioned ideas in regard to depletion as a means of cure, have been quite exploded by the success of the great renovant, which tones the system, tranquilizes the nerves, neutralizes malaria, depurates and enriches the blood, rouses the liver when dormant, and promotes a regular habit of body.
For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

SMALL PICA FOR SALE.
About 600 pounds of this type, in fair condition, suitable for newspaper work; made at Johnson foundry, Phila.; 28c. lb., for 50 lbs. or more; large quantity extra capitals.
B. F. BENNETT, Atlanta, Ga.

NEW RICH BLOOD!
Parsons' Purgative Pills make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from 1 to 12 weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for 8 letter stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass., formerly Bangor, Me.

THRESHERS [illegible] THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, O.

PATENTS Procured by American Patent Agency, 133 5th Street, Cincinnati, O.



This N.Y. Singer, $20
With $6 set of Attachments Free. Warranted perfect. Light running, quiet, handsome and durable. Sent on test trial—paid when desired [illegible] & Pearce & Co. 7 Third av. Chicago

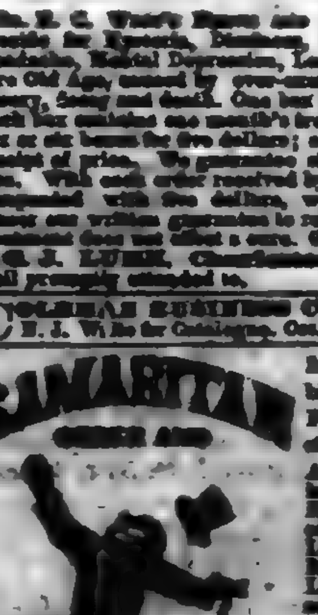
INVEST ONE CENT AND Save Your Dollars. If You have not received our Beautiful Illustrated Catalogue issued last month, do not fail to send in your address, and we will send you FREE, prepaid
OUR ELEGANT BOOK!
Containing illustrations and descriptions of several hundred Gold and Silver Watches, Diamonds, Jewelry, Fancy Articles, etc. Address WHITNEY COOKE & CO. [illegible] Established 1866.

WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED.
In Sheep, Russia and Turkey Bindings.

"A LIBRARY IN ITSELF."
GET THE BEST
the latest edition with 118,000 Words, (3000 more than any other English Dictionary.) Biographical Dictionary which it contains gives brief facts concerning 9700 noted persons. In Illustrations—3000 in number, (about three times as many as found in any other Dict'y.)
HOLIDAY GIFT.
Most acceptable to Pastor, Parent, Teacher, Child, Friend; for Holiday, Birthday, Wedding, or any other occasion.
It is the best practical English Dictionary extant.—London Quarterly Review.
It is an ever-present and reliable school master to the whole family.—S. S. Herald.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!
Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment; a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Nervous Headache, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Premature Old Age, caused by over-exertion, which leads to misery, decay and death. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to return the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by [illegible] Orders by mail promptly attended to.

COLEMAN BUSINESS COLLEGE, Newark, N. J. Write for Catalogue. COLEMAN & PALMS, Prop's.



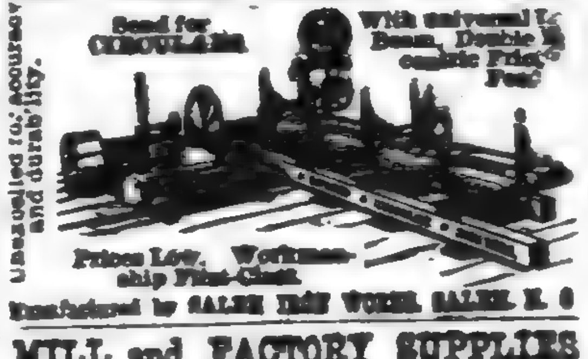
SAMARITAN NERVINE
Is unfailing and infallible in curing Epileptic Fits, Spasms, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Scrofula and all Nervous and Blood Diseases. To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, SAMARITAN NERVINE is invaluable. Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system. For sale by all Druggists.
THE DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.
[illegible] AND NOT WEAR OUT. SOLD [illegible]

AGENTS WANTED for COBURN'S LINE OF Subscription Books
THE FINEST IN THE WORLD [illegible]
"Bowman's America," [illegible]
The Lives of the James Brothers. [illegible]
"The Jeannette," [illegible]
"Pictorial Family Bible," [illegible]
Write quickly for circulars and terms. Territory is rapidly being taken.
COBURN & COOK PUBLISHING CO., [illegible] Metropolitan Block, CHICAGO, ILL.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are certainly best, having been so decreed at Every GREAT WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION for SIXTEEN YEARS; no other American Organ having been found equal at any. Also CHEAPEST. Style 109; 3½ octaves; sufficient compass and power, with best quality, for popular, sacred and secular music in Schools or families, at only $22. ONE HUNDRED OTHER STYLES at $30, $57, $66, $72, $78, $93, $108, $114, to $500 and upward. The larger styles are wholly unrivalled by any other Organs. Also for easy payments. NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
PIANOS This Company have commenced the manufacture of UPRIGHT GRAND PIANOS, introducing important improvements; adding to power and beauty of tone and durability. Will not require tuning one-quarter as much as other Pianos. ILLUSTRATED CIRCULARS, with full particulars, FREE.
THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 46 E. 14th St., N. York; 149 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

[illegible] L. A. L. SMITH & CO. [illegible]

BUGGIES [illegible]
HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILLS



Send for CIRCULARS.
With universal Log Beam, Double Eccentric Friction Feed.
Unequalled for accuracy and durability.
Prices Low. Workmanship First-Class.
Manufactured by SALEM IRON WORKS, SALEM, N. C.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

I CURE FITS!
When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you.
Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

OPIUM HABIT AND DRUNKENNESS.
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

McBRIDE & CO.'S
CHINA AND GLASS PALACE,
ATLANTA, GEORGIA,
Own the Gate City Natural Stone Water Filterer and Cherry's Steam Fruit and Vegetable Dryer. Agents for Seth Thomas Clock Co. Prices furnished on application.

COTTON FUTURES
Co-Operative Pl[illegible]
SPECULAT[illegible]
Weekly Statements, [illegible]
$1,000 Invested [illegible]
[illegible] wanted everywhere. [illegible]
DIO. F. WOLFFE & CO. [illegible]
174 & 176 Common St. [illegible]

A CATALO[illegible]
JUST ISSUED [illegible]
400 ILLUSTR[illegible]
AND PRICES [illegible]
DIAMONDS, WATCHES [illegible]
AND SILVERW[illegible]
Will be sent to any address [illegible]
J. P. STEVENS [illegible]
JEWELE[illegible]
ATLANTA, [illegible]

AGENT[illegible]
wanted for the best selling [illegible] States. Write, and LOO[illegible]
at the terms we offer. Salary and [illegible] right men. J. H. CHAMBE[illegible]

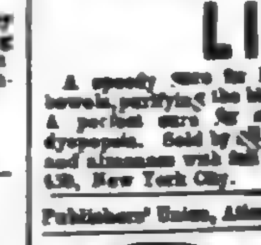
THE BEST [illegible]
Demorest's Illustrated [illegible]
Sold by all newsdealers and [illegible] Send twenty cents for a specimen [illegible] W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, [illegible] E. 14th St., New York.
The New Volume [illegible] with November. Send [illegible] for three months; it will [illegible] you can subscribe Two Dollars [illegible] and get ten times its value.

CONSUMPT[illegible]
I have a positive remedy for the above [illegible] thousands of cases of the worst kind [illegible] standing have been cured. Indeed [illegible] in its efficacy, that I will send TWO [illegible] together with a VALUABLE TREATISE [illegible] any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. [illegible] DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl [illegible]

AGENTS WANTED [illegible] selling Pictorial Books and Bibles [illegible] NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO. [illegible]

TRUTH [illegible]

Strong's Sanative [illegible] FOR THE LIVER.
A speedy cure for [illegible] bowels, purifying the blood [illegible] A perfect cure for sick headache [illegible] dyspepsia. Sold by all leading [illegible] and almanac with full particulars [illegible] 138, New York City.
Publishers' Union, Atlanta, G[illegible]



A [illegible] To introduce [illegible] GOLD-PLATED [illegible] overly, for only $1. This [illegible] patronage, act quick. J. D. [illegible]

A combination [illegible] tonic of Iron, [illegible] Bark and Phosphorus [illegible] Debility, Loss of [illegible] Prostration [illegible]
REV. J. L. [illegible] Industry, Ill. [illegible] a most excellent [illegible] the debilitated [illegible]

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC PURIFIES THE BLOOD
REV. A. I. HOBBS Writes:—
After a thorough trial of the IRON TONIC, I take pleasure in stating that I have been greatly benefited by its use. Ministers and Public Speakers will find it of the greatest value where a Tonic is necessary. I recommend it as a reliable remedial agent, possessing undoubted nutritive and restorative properties.
Louisville, Ky., Oct. 2, 1882.
PREPARED BY THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE CO., 213 N. MAIN ST., [illegible]

Development of Southern Indus[illegible]
NEW DRESS, NEW WRITERS, NEW ARTISTS.
AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST 1842—1883 Vol. 42. IN THE SOUTH
BEST SOUTHERN Writers.
THE CHEAPEST JOURNAL IN THE WO[illegible]
It exposes all Humbugs. It instructs and entertains every [illegible]
It is a complete guide for Gardening and Fruit Growing [illegible] of Valuable Hints on Cotton and Sugar Culture.
Among other Southern writers are Dr. A. OEMLER, fruit and vegetable grower [illegible] Prof. C. C. GEORGESON, of the Texas Agricultural College, Prof. [illegible] McBRYDE, Tenn., Prof. J. W. SANBORN, Mo., Prof. J. D. WARFIELD, [illegible] Ga., and Dr. D. E. SALMON, engaged by the Government in the [illegible] subjects in the Southern States, who will contribute the results of their [illegible]
Members of the Editorial Staff and artists are to make trips through [illegible] States, gathering valuable material and illustrations for the Southern [illegible] especial attention will be devoted to Southern Farming and Gardening, and to the [illegible] of Southern Fruits and Vegetables for Northern markets.
Senators LAMAR (Miss.) and GORDON (Ga.) and other gentlemen [illegible] need of Southern industries, who have called upon us, have influenced [illegible] which will hereafter make the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST invaluable [illegible] nearly 100 columns of original matter and from 50 to 75 original illustrations [illegible]
Send stamp for December Issue—THE GREAT NUMBER FOR THE [illegible]
GERMAN AGRICULTURIST, the only purely German Agricultural [illegible]
Subscription, Price, $1.50 per annum, English or German; [illegible] German farmer in Texas and elsewhere through the South should have [illegible]
EVERY SUBSCRIBER receives a perfect plate copy of Dupré's [illegible] "IN THE MEADOW," the original of which is valued at $5,000, and [illegible] and other leading artists as a beautiful picture, as well as a great [illegible]
Elegant premium list with great inducements for clubs [illegible]
ORANGE JUDD CO., No. 751 Broadway, [illegible]

FOR Nervous Weakness, Deafness, Lo[illegible] Sense of Taste and Smell, [illegible] Feelings, Disgusting Odors, Weak Sight, Sore Throat, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all Diseases of Respiratory Organs, use
EUREKA CATARRH CURE,
A SURE RELIEF AND A SPEEDY CURE.
Send for Circulars, Terms, etc., to
J. W. GURLEY, M.D. [illegible]

[illegible] Judge

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1882. NO: 6.

THINGS THAT NEVER DIE.

[illegible] lies in a mother's holy love
[illegible] with every ill that may betide;
[illegible] base of life its waters move
[illegible] current strong, and fathomless, and
[illegible]
[illegible] heart's altar other flames may rise,
[illegible] they seem as warm, and grand,
[illegible]
[illegible] to reach the skies—
[illegible] love can never die.

[illegible] songs of other days,
[illegible] all covered o'er with [illegible] house laid away
[illegible] of love and trust.
[illegible] and is still [illegible] the dust with gentle
[illegible] hushed our chambers
[illegible] that never die.

[illegible] of a wrong
[illegible] heart;
[illegible] well and strong,
[illegible] never can depart;
[illegible] a fair new skin,
[illegible] from the eye,
[illegible]
[illegible] are never known

[illegible] deed and word
[illegible] pomp or pride;
[illegible] reward
[illegible]
[illegible] the sea of life
[illegible] o'er,
[illegible] agony and strife,
[illegible] up on the other shore.

[illegible] bow of promise set
[illegible] bleak or fair
[illegible] billow yet,
[illegible] had placed the token [illegible] storms of wind and [illegible] from the pilgrim's
[illegible] forth again,
[illegible] go, but never die.

[illegible] and stars, and sun
[illegible] the dust
[illegible] handiwork was [illegible] from the dust;
[illegible] upon this world,
[illegible] be unfurled
[illegible] stars, that never [illegible] (Mass.) Tribune.

HOW WE BOYS TRIED IT.

[illegible] Prayton's father came one [illegible] rented a farm near us. [illegible] said we'd better not have [illegible] to do with 'em at first, till [illegible] found out what sort they [illegible] they got so neighborly all at [illegible] wouldn't help it very well. [illegible] came most every day to borrow [illegible], and then if they didn't bring [illegible] and they 'most always didn't [illegible] have to go for it, so I saw a [illegible] of Ned and Bill.

[illegible] a cousin that came out for [illegible] harvest time. He was in business in New York, and wore light colored clothes. He was very sociable [illegible] would come around about [illegible] in the hayfield, and would [illegible] as free as anything, which [illegible] very good of him when you'd [illegible] talk of his hotel in the city. [illegible] very fond of the plums and [illegible] apples, too, and praised up [illegible] we offered him, but did say [illegible] he had no taste for [illegible]. The city was the place for [illegible]. And the Prayton boys [illegible] and said they had no [illegible] farming, and they meant to [illegible] as soon as they could.

[illegible] I came to think it over. I [illegible] to see that I had no taste [illegible] either. And I thought it [illegible] father and mother had [illegible] to find out [illegible] or I had read in [illegible] a solemn duty for [illegible] success in life [illegible] things.

[illegible] was the city chap's [illegible] of splendid little books [illegible] boys, and they lent [illegible] not to tell. They [illegible] stories, [illegible] scouts, and [illegible] dark mysteries. [illegible] The fellows in [illegible] that one of 'em [illegible] riding up to a [illegible] and stabbing one and [illegible] with his revolver, [illegible] another with it [illegible] his horse and [illegible] perfect hailstorm of bullets [illegible] eating breakfast.

[illegible] he'd try being [illegible] out on the plains, [illegible] back in a few years rich [illegible] and no end of [illegible] But Ned Br[illegible] go into business [illegible]

[illegible] better than such [illegible] as Tom Bly's [illegible] to see how the [illegible] been driven to [illegible]. We talked [illegible] and made up our [illegible] wanted to have any- [illegible] in a way.

[illegible] morning very [illegible] down stairs in my [illegible]. As I passed mother's [illegible] I have wished I'd [illegible] I'd remem[illegible] to smoke [illegible] I'm twenty- [illegible] that if a [illegible] I have [illegible] to keep on letting it [illegible] giving it up [illegible] badly about it: [illegible] telling her I was [illegible] to New York to make my [illegible] and I'd write to her. And I [illegible] of all the splendid things I'd [illegible] for her when I got to be a great merchant, and so I stole into the parlor and got a card picture of my two little sisters and wrapped it up (there wasn't any of mother) and went on. We had three miles to walk to the railroad station.

"'No more milking cows or piling wood or dropping corn or plowing—Hurrah!' says Bill, as we rattled along in the cars.

"Each of us had money enough to take us to New York, and a little over. We found it a sight better to be flying along that way in the fine morning than to be turning out for a day's work. We were going to look for Tom Bly—he had told us all to be sure to come right to him if ever we came to town, and we thought it likely he could find places for us at once either in his own business or among his friends. As we walked along the handsome streets, we couldn't help wondering how soon some such splendid stores might belong to us.

"Bill had Tom Bly's address—he was a grocer—and we soon began to look for him. The street they told us to go to didn't look so nice as we thought it would. But at last we found Tom Bly's store, and that didn't look nice at all. We went in and looked for him. I was looking for the plaid clothes; for I'd a known 'em anywhere, but I couldn't see 'em and nobody seemed to know about Mr. Bly. But soon Bill sung out, 'Hello Tom'—and I saw a wagon drive up and Tom was driving it. He hadn't on the plaid clothes, and he hadn't any coat or collar on, and he didn't seem so very glad to see us.

"'Well Tom,' Bill said, 'here we are, you see. We're in for it. Ready to have you get us into something right off—'jes as you said, you know.'

"'The old scratch you are!' said Tom. 'You haven't been such fools as to come 'way down here for work, have you?'

"'Isn't that what you told us?'

"'Well—may be I did, just to be polite, but I'm blessed if I thought boys as well kept as you'd 'a' come pokin' down here where there's more folks already than's wanted. Where there's one situation there's ten fellows after it.'

"This was a wonderful take down. We thought he'd ask us to go to his hotel, but he didn't. We said we'd stroll 'round a little, and we strolled 'round: and we asked in some places if they wanted a boy, but nobody seemed to want any boys. We went into a park to eat all we had left of the lunch we'd brought from home.

"Be off there—you rascals!" some one shouted, and the first thing we knew a big policeman was hustling us out, and telling us if we ever set a foot there again we'd be locked up.

"All for going on the grass!

"'There's lots o' grass to home,' whimpered Ned. Ned was smaller'n me and Bill. 'Let's go home, I say!'

"We laughed at him, but not very hard. Bill said he was going to start for the plains to-morrow, going to work his way out somehow. We went back to Tom Bly and asked him if he knew where we could sleep, and he s'posed they'd take us in where he slept, if we had any money.

"We all thought it would be very grand to put up at a city hotel, but it wasn't. There wasn't half enough supper, and the beds were awfully crowded up in one room. In the morning a man came along and said we were to pay thirty cents each for our supper and our beds.

"Me and Ned had given Bill our money to take care of, all but a few cents, because he was the biggest. And now he felt in his pockets and it was gone. He felt and felt, and then he hollered out:

"'I've been robbed! Thieves!'

"The man swore at him, and asked him if he meant he'd been robbed there. He took all the money me and Ned had, and then he gave Bill a kick and told him to be off.

"Tom Bly gave us a lot of crackers at his store, and said we'd better go home. But I was too much ashamed, and thought I'd try yet to get work. I walked till I was footsore, and all the work I found was carrying a parcel, and I got ten cents for it and bought a loaf of bread. Bill said he was going to the depot to go West. Ned went with him, and when night came I waited till it was dark, and then I sneaked into a pretty yard where there was trees, and crawled into a hammock there and fell asleep.

"I woke very early, and saw a gentleman in the yard looking at me. I was afraid he was going to have me taken up for going on his grass, and I jumped up. The hammock stuck to one of my buttons, and I didn't wait, but tore away from it and ran away without my hat. The gentleman called me to stop, but I jumped over the fence and ran as hard as I could a great way, till I was clear out of breath.

"When I stopped to see where I was, a boy came rushing up to me and says he: "Isn't this your pocket-book?" Then he ran away. I thought at first it might 'a' been mine that was stolen, but in a second I saw 'twasn't, and I hollered after him to tell him. But he didn't stop, and while I was looking at it and seeing 'twas a very handsome one, two men ran up and took hold of my arms. I says:

"'You le' go me, now!'

"But they says: 'Come along, my fine fellow,' and they snatched the pocket-book and went to hauling me along. There was a crowd 'round me in a minute. I kicked and fought at em, but they held me tight, and they slipped some iron things on my wrists, and there I was—jerked along that wa , and a big lot of boys hollering after me! They took me into a great building and locked me up, and I didn't know what 'twas for more'n the dead.

"I lay down in a corner and wondered if I'd ever get out, and if I'd ever see home again. I wondered what mother'd say if she could see me. I wondered what they were doing on the farm. After a great while they took me out.

"'Where you going to take me?' I said.

"'Before the magistrate.'

"Then folks came and told how last night I'd stole a pocket-book from a lady, and they'd been tracking me ever since, and just found me with the pocket-book in my hands. I broke right out, and told how the fellow'd given it to me, but they made me stop till they'd examined a lot o' witnesses, and they all said I'd stole it. Then they let me tell how I'd slept all night somewhere else, but they wanted me to bring some one to say if it was so, and wouldn't believe me when I told 'em it was the solemn truth. Just then I saw the gentleman standing in the door that had seen me in his hammock. I hoped he wouldn't see me, for I was afraid he'd come to see about getting me punished. But he did see me, and came up to me. He took a button out of his pocket, and laid it against my coat. It had a bit of the coat hanging to it that I had tore out when I jumped from the hammock, and it just fitted in.

"'This boy was in my grounds all night,' he says. 'I was up preparing important papers, and waiting for telegrams. I saw him several times.'

"They asked him some more questions, and then the magistrate says: 'The prisoner is discharged.'

"The gentleman took my arm, and led me out. I says to him:

"'I'll never do it again, sir. What you going to do to me?' He laughed, and says:

"'Haven't you got astray, my boy?'

"I thought I had the worst way, you'd better believe! And I told him so, and I told him all about it and he thought I'd better go home. I'd given my eyes to get there that moment, but I hated to tell him I had no money to go on, so I told him as I'd come I'd like to try doing something, if I had a chance. He took a long look at me, and said perhaps that would be the best, and said he'd write to my father.

"He was a real good friend to me. He talked lots to me, and got me a situation. They told me they never paid much to green hands. I slept under a counter, and got enough to pay my board and a little over. I ran errands, and swept and scrubbed floors, and worked harder'n ever I'd done in my life. My clothes got shabby, but I saved up every cent.

"And on Thanksgiving-day I got a holiday, and then I told the boss I had no taste for the city. And I took the early train for home.

"As I got off the cars to walk home a train came in from the other way, and I saw a lanky-looking chap get off. I didn't know him at first, and then I saw it was Bill.

"Just gettin' home?" said he.

"Yes,' said I.

"Paid your way?"

"Yes.'

"'You've done better'n me,' says he. 'I've been as fur as Indiany, and I've been down with the chills-and-fever six weeks, and some one wrote to father for money to send me home.'

"'Where's Ned?' says I.

"'Home. He started to walk back that day I started West. Footed it all the seventy miles 'cept lifts he got!' I found father just putting up the horses after they'd got home from church. I went up to him and says I:

"'Do you want to hire a boy, sir?'

"He dropped the halter on the barn-floor, and grabbed hold o' both my hands and looked into my eyes.

"'The Lord bless you, Sammy,' says he, 'we've all been looking for you. Well—yes, I do want a boy—if I can get one that has a taste for farming.'

"I shouted out: 'I'm the boy!' and then I rushed in and got my arms around mother's neck, and nearly made her drop the great big turkey she was just getting out of the oven. I guess 'twas some time before she or the little girls knew whether they were laughing or crying, and then father came in and —if I hadn't been a boy I'd a hardly known either when I told 'em how sorry I was I'd given 'em so much trouble, and how glad I was to get back.

"I tell you, boys, if there's anything to be thankfuller for on Thanksgiving than anything else, it's for having a home and having a chance to stay there.

"Me and Bill and Ned thinks there's lots o' worse work than plowing or feeding stock or digging potatoes, or doing anything we're likely to do on any farm."—Sidney Dayre, in N. Y. Examiner.

—It seems somewhat hard to mulct a defendant in damages for breach of promise of marriage when in open court he offers to fulfill his contract, but is refused by the plaintiff. Such, however, has been the fate of a London constable, who was ordered to pay a domestic servant £25 damages for breach of promise. "I am willing to marry you now," he declared to the plaintiff, who responded, amid laughter. "But I am not willing to marry you." Whatever may have taken place before, it was the woman, not the man, who prevented the completion of the contract. Yet, according to the decision of the undor sheriff, the man and not the woman was compelled to pay damages for breach of promise.

—A curious problem has suggested itself in Winnepeg. There are about 600 cows in and around the city, and these produce 1,200 gallons of milk per day. Yet 4,000 gallons of milk are sold. The question is, how do the milkmen perform the miracle of selling 4,000 gallons of milk out of the 1,200 they get from the cows? The answer is said to be, "chalk, lime, salt, and Red River water."—Chicago Herald.

The Later Geography.

Q.—Where are the Poles located?

A.—At the school-house, town hall or some empty store.

Q—What is a circle?

A.—A gathering where the gossips sew for the heathen and tell all they know.

Q.—What places have noon at the same time?

A.—Factories and boarding-houses.

Q.—When are the nights the longest?

A.—When you cannot sleep.

Q.—Is there a plain in your neighborhood?

A.—We should think not by the way ours is borrowed.

Q.—What disadvantage in having a bar at the entrance of a harbor?

A.—It would take away trade from the saloons in port.

Q.—What is a strait?

A—Five cards following in order of denomination. (Hoyle.)

Q.—Where do we find the largest and fiercest animals?

A.—At the menagerie.

Q.—Where do we find the greatest number of insects?

A.—Out of town on a hot night.

Q.—Into what races are we divided?

A.—The Horse race, the Boat race and the Human race.

Q.—How are the inhabitants of a civilized country generally employed?

A.—The men in working and the women in shopping.

Q.—What is mining?

A.—Finding out how much you have been cheated.

Q.—Name some substances now manufactured for food?

A.—Oleomargarine and boarding-house hash.

Q.—What is commerce?

A.—Selling your neighbor goods at three times their value.

Q.—What do merchants do with products of the surrounding country?

A.—Gather them together and form a "corner" in the market.

Q.—How are the commercial towns connected with the towns of the interior?

A.—By "drummers."

Q.—What is fishing?

A.—Sitting in a boat all day for nothing, and having to lie all the evening about what you caught, and what got away.—Detroit Free Press.

Boston and New York.

So long ago as 1719, Daniel Neal, an observant traveler, who ought to be held in high esteem by Massachusetts people, wrote of the New England metropolis: "There are five printing-presses in Boston, which are generally full of work, by which it appears that humanity and the knowledge of letters flourish more here than in all the other English plantations put together, for in the city of New York there is but one bookseller's shop, and in the plantations of Virginia, Maryland, Carolina, Barbadoes and the islands, none at all."

Happily humanity and the knowledge of letters are no longer confined to one corner of the country; but, notwithstanding the growth of an opinion that Boston and New York are to occupy relatively the positions of Edinburgh and London, the capital of Massachusetts still has a peculiar prestige as the oldest center of literary culture in the country, causing the eyes of the rest of the Union to turn toward it with a particular interest, a glance compounded of respect and reminiscence with something of insatiable expectancy. The privileged Bostonian, it is true, laughs at Boston in his quiet way. "It is a capital place to live in," said an eminent publisher who has his dwelling there, "because then you can go to New York. But if you live in New York, where can you go?" The mot epitomizes the sentiment of many among his townsmen; but if they sometimes join in the alien laugh against their "little city," and recognize a degree of smallness and constraint in its general attitude, they also keenly appreciate the other side. So do some of our friends the New Yorkers. One of the younger New York poets, on visiting Cambridge for the first time, said to me: "We hear a great deal about the failure of Boston to quite appreciate the mental breadth and energy of New York. But with all the admiration I felt for this region before I came here, I find I didn't wholly appreciate it. There is such a thing as New York Bostonism."—Harper's Magazine.

The Dangers of Buggy-Riding.

An editor who probably knows what he is talking about says that buggy-riding is conducive to the tender feelings. We don't, for our part, see how it could very well help being so. When a young man in a soap-dish hat and polka-dotted socks drives up in his side-bar buggy in front of the house where she lives, and she comes to the door all rigged out in things which we haven't time to enumerate, and trips down the front step, and the young man just tosses her into the narrow seat and gets in beside her, and taps the horse with the whip, while the buggy quivers like a thing of life and a joy forever, and the young man beside her doesn't know but every minute will be the next one, why, we don't see why buggy riding should not be the most conducive to the tender feelings of anything extant. Horse-back riding is cold and distant; buggy-riding is the thing, and the longer the ride and the more lonely the road, the better.—Check.

—The President of a little Southern railroad boasts that they have not had an accident for five years. We traveled over that line once. A trusty flagman walks ahead of every train, and when he becomes tired the train stops and the passengers go fishing until he gets rested.—Philadelphia News.

How to Pluck an Ostrich.

Mr. J. Protheroe, the young Englishman who has in Central Park a herd of twenty-two ostriches, recently imported from Buenos Ayres for breeding in America, went yesterday morning with his herdsman, an ebon Cape Towner, named Johnson, and a Sun reporter, to the deer hut in which the birds are confined. When Johnson opened the door he was greeted by a series of sounds suggestive of the noise made by a fog horn.

"That's what the Dutch natives of Cape Town call 'bromming,' said Mr. Protheroe. "It expresses the same feeling with an ostrich that cooing does with a dove. I'll show you how we pluck an ostrich. Johnson, bring the stocking."

The dark herder, whom the birds regarded with mild-eyed affection, produced a long, white stocking. He caught one of the birds by its neck, and inserted the head and neck in the stocking. The result irresistibly recalled the pictures of Bernhardt in Bernhardt gloves. The blinded bird exhibited some nervousness.

"This herd has been so long in confinement," said Mr. Protheroe, "that they are comparatively gentle when the stocking is pulled over their necks. They fight and kick vigorously sometimes when they have been accustomed to the liberty of a large farm."

Johnson led the bird up to a side of the hut, against which with one hand he held his neck. He held up a wing with the other hand, while Mr. Protheroe held the other wing and with a pair of shears clipped off a white feather one inch from the flesh under the wing. "It would not do," continued Mr. Protheroe, "to pull these feathers out. Inflammation might set in. We pull out the tail feathers and those on the outside of the wings. One month after we cut off the large feathers under the wing new feathers push out the old quills."

While Mr. Protheroe was speaking the long-necked birds were making friends with the reporter. One of them seized his shirt collar, but was frustrated by Johnson in his attempt to swallow it. Another tried to gulp down the reporter's cane, but finding a stiff neck the result, desisted.

"If you will stand behind me," said the young Englishman," we will open the door and let the birds out for their morning airing. They are dangerous when let at liberty."

Johnson pushed back the sliding door of the hut. "Now," continued Mr. Protheroe, "you will see something that you have not had the privilege of seeing in America before." Johnson gave a low, peculiar whistle, resembling somewhat the "bromming" of the birds as he walked out of the door into the grassy enclosure. The ungainly bipeds rushed after him pell-mell. Their necks were craned out and their mouths were wide open. They ran about the enclosure in a break-neck fashion for several minutes, occasionally bumping into one another. Then they began flapping their wings and waltzing. It was a veritable waltz, and is so termed by ostrich farmers. The birds turn rapidly round and round, dipping their necks and swaying their bodies at each turn. A rhythm that could be set to music pervades their motions.

"It would be unsafe to go among them now, unless, like Johnson, you were familiar with them," said Mr. Protheroe. Two of the male ostriches began to fight at this point. They faced each other with distended mouths, flapping wings and glaring eyes. Then they began a pecking match, which was followed by some high kicking, forward, backward and sidewise. "While they are too tough to be much hurt by their own kicks, they have been known to break the arms and legs of men by them," said Mr. Protheroe. The birds will be taken to California soon. Mr. Protheroe thinks his ostrich farming in America will be entirely successful.—N. Y. Sun.

Embroidery is still largely employed for dress-trimming, being used in all manner of materials, from fine ladies' cloths to satins and gauzes. A very handsome Venetian design is used in floss silk for trimming cashmere dresses, the embroidery for the skirt front being twelve to fifteen inches deep. In white cashmere this trimming is particularly effective, and matinees and Grecian house robes made up with this elaborate garniture mingling with its creamy artistic folds, are the height of elegance. Made up, these imported robes are sold for $125 each, and in pattern boxes, ready for the hands of the modiste, they are rapidly sold for the sum of ninety dollars.

—Mr. Proctor, the astronomer, is making all manner of speculations with regard to the comet, and among other pleasant things assures us that by next year, he thinks, or certainly within two or three years, this erratic sky-wanderer will pitch into the sun, and then we may look for the wildest high jinks between the occupants of the heavens and the earth. For a very short while however; for Mr. Proctor says the comet will make it so hot for the sun, or vice-versa, that in a brief space of time the inhabitants of the earth will rival Egyptian mummies in dryness, and literally be burnt to a crisp.—Christian Union.

SAID a crafty husband to his business partner, "I have promised my wife an immense surprise for her birthday." "More extravagance?" "I shall give her nothing, it will be an immense surprise."

THE LONDON medical journals report the case of the daughter of the Mayor of Gramoke, near Bremen, who has slept almost uninterruptedly for six months.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

—Recently-compiled statistics place the death rate from the administration of chloroform at one per 1,000.—N. Y. Sun.

—The provincial immigration agent states that $2,500,000 was brought into Manitoba by Europeans only. He estimates that Americans brought $2,800,000 and Canadians $5,000,000.

—A German arithmetician has been calculating the aggregate number of combinations in the game of dominoes, and has shown them to be 284,528,211,840! Two players, playing four games in a minute, would only exhaust these combinations in 118,000,000 years.

—A year ago a Laramie plains cattle man was offered a Utah herd and ranch for $70,000, which offer was rejected. Since that the Utah man sold $45,000 worth out of the herd, then sold the ranch for $4,500, afterward put $9,000 more into the herd, and then sold it for $140,000.—Chicago News.

—Boston is the largest market for boots and shoes in the world. There were shipped during 1880 over 2,250,000 cases of boots, shoes and rubbers to interior and coastwise ports, the cases holding from twelve to seventy-five pairs per case, but containing, at a low estimate, over 50,000,000 pairs.—Boston Transcript.

—The latest Russian census shows St. Petersburg and its suburbs possessed of a population of 927,467 in 10,929 stone houses, 9,318 that are of wood, and 913 that are partly both. The city has 75 hotels, 625 restaurants, 1,416 beer rooms, 170 grog shops, 793 wine rooms, 645 schools and 109,000 children between the ages of 7 and 16.

—Ground has been broken for the new Pension Office on Judiciary Square, Washington. The building is to be 400 by 200 feet and 75 feet high, and will accommodate 1,500 clerks and cost $400,000. General M. C. Meigs thinks it will be finished in two years. It will resemble one of the old Italian palaces, but will be built of brick and iron.

—It is said that the old post-office, which was sold in New York recently for $650,000, is probably the largest block of down-town property ever sold in this city at public sale. The lot comprises 19,800 square feet. The property has changed hands but three times in 155 years. In 1727 it was purchased by the consistory of the Reformed Dutch Church, for $2,875, and it remained their property till 1860, when it was bought by the Federal Government for $250,000.—N. Y. Independent.

Indian Marriage Customs.

Among the Northwestern tribes of Indians innocence is as marked among the girls as their color. The impression that the red maiden does not entertain a high standard of morality is an error, for she is taught as other girls are, and grows up with well-developed ideas of life and a firm resolution to discharge its duties. Educated in the faith that she was ordained to work, she trains herself to hard labor, and at sixteen years of age is sturdy and strong, brave against fatigue and a perfect housewife. She may not possess New England notions of cleanliness, but she takes not a little pride in her personal appearance, and in the arrangement of her lodge she displays some crude ideas of taste and a certain amount of neatness. If she marries a white man she makes him a good wife as long as she lives with him. His home is her whole comfort and his comfort her sole ambition. She thinks of him and for him, and makes it her study to please him, and makes him respect and love her. She recognizes in him one of a superior race, and by her dignity and devotion endears herself to him and struggles to make him happy. At the agencies of the upper frontier thousands of men are employed, and it is not an exaggeration to say that the majority of them have Indian wives and live happily. They are not sought after by the maidens, for the Indian girl's custom is to remain quiet until after the marriage contract is made and the marriage portion paid over. The husband must have the dowry, with which he must invest his prospective mother-in-law before the ceremony takes place.

The aspiring bridegroom must be well known in the tribe before he can hope to win a wife. Her people want to thoroughly understand him, and know if he can support, not only her, but all her relatives in the event of a pinch. He must be a kind-hearted man, with a temper warranted to keep in any domestic climax; and he must have a good lodge, and at least a half dozen horses. If he be and have all these, he can a-wooing go. Then, selecting a lady, he makes application to the mother, and at a council the price is fixed upon. If the girl is especially pretty her mother will demand a gun, two horses, and a lot of provisions, blankets and cloth. A gun is valued at $50, and he must furnish the material to bring the amount up from $100 to $150. Then he tries to beat the dame down, and if he succeeds he knows there is some reason for letting the girl go; if not, he understands that he is making a good choice. The courtship is left entirely to the mother.—Montreal Star.

—The horse-shoe mania has had its run, and the next thing will be something else. Toy mules with glass eyes would be a sweet mania.—Detroit Free Press.

SIX medical experts examined a man as to his sanity and were evenly divided. After they had wrangled about it for a week it was discovered that they had examined the wrong person altogether.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor,

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 21, 1882.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

J. J. Sims, Postmaster at Oxford, Ala., is missing, together with $1,500 of Government money.

Two years ago Wesson, Miss., was only a pine forest. It has now a cotton mill employing 1,000 hands and nearly 3,000 inhabitants.

The Advertiser says an observant State exchange has noticed that cotton this year requires on an average only 1,500 pounds to make a bale. We are told that last year it took 1,700 and the year before about 1,800 pounds to the bale, showing that the yield the present year is very fine.

Mary Tripp had a longer experience in trousers than most women do who put them on. She wore them at Abington, Mass., and in other New England places, for seven years. She lived with her husband part of the time, but occasionally went away for remunerative employment. Her last venture was in horse stealing, as a result of which she is now in prison.

The party sent out by the New Orleans Times-Democrat to explore the everglades of Florida, has completed its trip. The party traveled nearly five hundred miles through a country hitherto unknown. They declare the everglades the American garden spot. A full account of what the expedition found out will shortly appear in the Times-Democrat, the most enterprising of Southern newspapers.

Gen Joseph A. Wheeler, the noted Confederate cavalryman, was nominated by acclamation for the Forty-seventh Congress from the Eighth Alabama district Thursday, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Hon. Wm. M. Lowe. Gen. Wheeler was elected to the Forty-seventh Congress, and took his seat. The Republicans turned him out, giving the seat to Mr. Lowe. That gentleman having died, Gen. Wheeler will return, practically without opposition, to complete the term to which he will have been twice elected. The Gov. has ordered an election in the Eighth district.

The Republicans in Congress are all at once loudly calling for reform in the civil servic. They are pretending to oppose the Hubbell plan of assessments and to demand a reduction in public expenditures. Of their sudden change of sentiment, Mr. George, in a speech before the Senate, the other day, said: "The Republicans are now so thoroughly conscious of the guilt of political assessements that they come to Congress on the first day of the session, and by their President ask the speedy passage of a law to prevent them from relapsing ing into sin. It was like the case of a criminal in the daily practice of crime asking that a law should be passed to arrest him in his guilty career."

Mayor Harrison of Chicago, being requested to enforce the Sunday laws of that city, replied that he would not undertake any such thing. "I believe in Sunday, as a day of rest," he said, "but what is rest, to one man may be labor to another. Rest is not simply doing nothing, but is a change. A man sitting at a desk all the week, occupied with mental labor, finds no refreshment in a stiff-back bench in church on Sunday. The Sunday of the Puritan father was beneficial to them because they spent the week in outdoor labor, but men of sedentary habits need to reverse the usage. Any attempt to compel the people of Chicago to be pious will fail, and it ought to."

Some of the details of the Auditor's report are interesting. They show that the railway track in Alabama is in all 1,919 miles, and that railroads furnish eleven per. cent. of all the taxable property in the State. The value of land varies greatly in the different counties. The highest value is in Etowah, $6.50 per acre, and the lowest in Escambia and Washington, less than fifty cents. The State has $100,155 invested in printing presses and material, to which sum Mobile contributes $22,400, and Montgomery $11,450. Mobile contains $320,339 worth of household furniture, and Montgomery $98,730 worth. The libraries in the State are worth $219,002; the jewelry, plate and silverware $179,665. Mobile makes no return on this subject. Judging from the report, Mobile not only has no jewelry and silver, but there is not a musical instrument in this county. There are $18,672, in taxable paintings in Alabama; $757,662 in clocks, watches and chains. Alabamians evidently value their time, although they seem to have little regard for art, and, as far as Mobilians are concerned, none at all for music. The public must come to the conclusion that the returns are rather faulty.—Register.

Christmas.

Ere another issue of the VIEW reaches its readers, another Christmas will have come and gone, and we will have again celebrated the anniversary of the birth of the Savior of the world. Who knows of the miseries and the sorrows which the day may behold? Who can tell of the strifes, the contentions and the wranglings that it may witness? But when we look at our own homes, we see much to be thankful for. Here peace and plenty reign supreme, and the the hand of God has showered its blessings upon our land. Thankful should we be for such blessings, and we should not forget to beseech that they may here abide.

The present is propitious and the future most hopeful. Our people are becoming satisfied with their homes, and the disposition to seek other fields of labor is decreasing each day that we live and see the wonderful wealth and possibilities of our own Alabama. Blessed as it is with the hand of the Almighty, its riches will be untold for many generations to come. These are some of many things that we should reflect upon and be thankful for on the greatest day of the year.

Legislative.

The following important bills have passed both houses and been approved by the Governor:

To confer upon notaries public and ex-officio justices of the peace similar powers to those possessed by justices of the peace to issue attachments returnable to the circuit or any city court.

To amend section 580 of the code, which amendment fixes the annual salary of each Judge of the Supreme Court at thirty-six hundred dollars.

An act to authorize and require the Governor, to destroy all uncurrent funds in the State Treasury and all six per cent. bonds that have not been issued.

To provide for the introduction of the study of the laws of health, in the public schools of the State, which provides that hereafter physiology and hygiene shall be taught in the public schools of the State, in all cases in which the board of examiners in any county shall deem it expedient and practicable.

To make an appropriation of one hundred and thirty thousand dollars for each year, for the support of the public schools.

To sell a certain plantation belonging to the State, called the State Convict Farm, purchased from Thomas Williams.

A joint memorial that the Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to secure the passage of a bill granting aid to education in the several States, on the basis of illiteracy; the amount to be applied by the several States through their Superintendents of Education.

The Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute.

We have received the twenty-first and twenty-second annual reports of the Board of Commissioners of the Alabama Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind, made to the Governor, who is ex-officio a member of the board. The list of officers and teachers in the asylum number thirteen, including the Principal, two teachers of the blind, four teachers of mutes, one teacher of music, one matron, one physician, a master of shops, an engineer and a chief laundress.

The time covered by the report is from October 2, 1880, to September 30, 1882. The number of pupils during that time has been seventy-five, all told. Of these fifty have been mutes and twenty-five blind, forty-four males and thirty-one females. There has been only one cases of serious illness during the two years covered by the report. Since 1871, no appropriation for repairs has been needed, the surplus of the support fund being sufficient to cover all necessary repairs and to erect a school building and laundry besides. The Principal says, however, that the present annual appropriation of $15,000 will not be sufficient to cover repairs in future. Special attention is called to the following extract from the Principal's report to the Board:

"The writer feels that he would be remiss in his duty if he failed to urge upon the attention of the General Assembly the duty of the State to make some provision for the education and amelioration of the condition of the colored mute and blind children of Alabama."

Outside of this report it is known that the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum of Alabama is a model institution of its kind. Its excellence is owing in great measure to the ability and untiring energy of the Principal, Dr. J. H. Johnson. The State has every reason to congratulate herself on having the services of one so competent in the management of one of her most important institutions.—Advertiser.

There is bad news for the girls. An Eastern journal announces the death of Mr. Kissam.

DIED,

At Maplesville, this county, Nov. 27th, 1882, Mr. BAILY BOWLINE. The subject of this sketch was born in the State of Indiana, April 10th, 1815. At an early age he removed to North Carolina, from thence to Tennessee, and finally to this section, where he has resided for about forty-five years. He was among the first settlers of this community. For fifteen years he suffered from consumption, and to its relentless grasp he was forced to yield at last. His most critical period was between the 18th and 27th of November, while the leaves were falling. Since last winter he told his friends that he did not expect to survive his critical period this year. His beloved wife preceeded him to their eternal rest for one year and a day. To him death had no terrors; life was a burden. He would often ask the friends who sat watching by his bedside, "How much longer must I wait?" While the angel of death was hovering over him, his countenance was radiant with smiles too ethereal for earth, and with a blessing on all he calmly passed to the home of the blest. O! death where is thy sting! O! grave where is thy victory!

Thus closed the career of a man, whose life was an illustration of the benign influences of christianity. He was a loving husband, a kind father, a good friend, a considerate neighbor and a true christian. He leaves a son and a daughter, several grand children, and a host of old friends, who will feel deeply his loss. K.

The Road to Wealth.

Frequent and constant advertising brought me all I own.—A. T. Stewart.

How can the world know a man has a good thing unless he advertises possession of it.—Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Success depends upon a liberal patronage of printing offices.—J. J. Astor.

The road to fortune is through printer's ink.—P. T. Barnum.

An Excellent Vehicle

At Little Cost!!

I am agent at Clanton for the celebrated

Indiana Road Cart.

The very thing for Doctors, Tax Collectors, Sheriffs and traveling men generally. It is light of weight, and smooth of run, and is made in buggy shape, the body being suspended on Springs. It is a very popular and convenient cart, stylish and durable. For terms and further information call on or write to me at Clanton.

I also have a good horse and buggy for hire which can be obtained at any time. J. H. ALRIDGE.

Clanton, Dec. 21, 1882.

A Good Home Paper.

THE CHILTON VIEW is the paper for the people to read.

Some of the reasons why the VIEW is so generally read and liked:

1. It is a good paper.
2. It is a home paper and gives you home news together with the general news.
3. It has valuable farm and household hints on its outside pages each week.
4. It is always up with the times in news matters and general progress.
5. It is a paper for the people, and is opposed to everything, whether in office or out, that is detrimental or dangerous to the interests of the people.

Added to this, it is one of the the cheapest county papers published in the State. Now is the time to subscribe and to get your neighbor to do the same.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy a fi. fa. in my hands, issued from the circuit court of Chilton county, against Alfred Bugg and in favor of John W. Gullahorn and Brother, I will proceed to sell, on the first Monday in January, 1883, at Gullahorn's Mill, in Chilton county, between the legal hours of sale, the following described property, as the property of the said Alfred Bugg, to-wit:

One cow and calf.
One sow and pigs.
Six turkeys.
Eight chickens.
Two bedsteads.
Four bushels peas.
Two hundred and seventeen bundles fodder.
Twenty bushels corn.
One bay mare.
Five hundred pounds seed cotton.

Subject to a mortgage heretofore executed by said Alfred Bugg to R. Ehrman, and which said mortgage and the debt secured thereby is due and unpaid.

And also the following described property, as the property of said Alfred Bugg, to-wit: One lot of iron, one lot of dishes, and one lot of tools. J. E. LOWE,
d11 Sheriff Chilton Co.

Verbena Male and Female Academy.

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

This school is now in session and will continue until June 18, 1883.

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department,	per mo.	$1.50.
Preparatory	" "	2.00.
Intermediate	" "	3.00.
Academic	" "	4.00.
Music	" "	3.00.
Contingent fee per term		.25.

Good board can be obtained in private families at $9 or $10 per month.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. ACREE, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal, or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

THE SUN FOR 1883.

More people have read the Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are creditly informed that people buy, read, and like the Sun for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs the Sun makes a practice of telling the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that the Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robinsonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, the Sun stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

Terms—The several editions of the Sun are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: Daily 55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7.70. Sunday edition, eight pages, $1.20 a year. Weekly, eight pages, $1.00 a year. Address I. W. ENGLAND,
Publisher Sun, N. Y. City.

NOTICE NO. 1987.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 29, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 5, 1883, viz: Martha A. Gray, Homestead 2569 for the n w ¼ of sec. 31 township 21 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John K. Booth, Simeon H. Gleen, George Songs, and Frank Weldon, all of Mountain Creek, Ala. THOS. J. SCOTT,
d7 Register.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to R. L. Fannin by C. J. Pinkston, on the 15th day of April, 1881, and recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county in Vol. 5 of Record of Deeds on page 634, I will expose to public sale in the village of Verbena, on Saturday, the 23d day of December, inst., for cash, one yoke of oxen. BERRY TATUM,
Adm'r of R. L. Fannin, Dec'd.
J. M. Falkner, Attorney.

NOTICE NO. 2018.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 8, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 19th, 1883, viz: Soonadus Jackson Haws Homestead 7594 for the fraction 2, section 12, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: William W. Wadsworth, Reuben Anthony, Boling Anthony, and William Patterson, all of Mountain Creek, Ala.
d14 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

Administrator's Notice.

Probate Court of Chilton county.

Estate of Alfred Bethea, Deceased.

Letters of administration having been granted to the undersigned on the 28th day of November, 1882, by the Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate will be required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or that the same will be barred.
H. C. TOMPKINS,
d7 Administrator.

J. F. MAULL. J. E. H

MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,

Lomax, Ala.

——DEALERS IN——

DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FA

SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, H

Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinw

Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles

FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

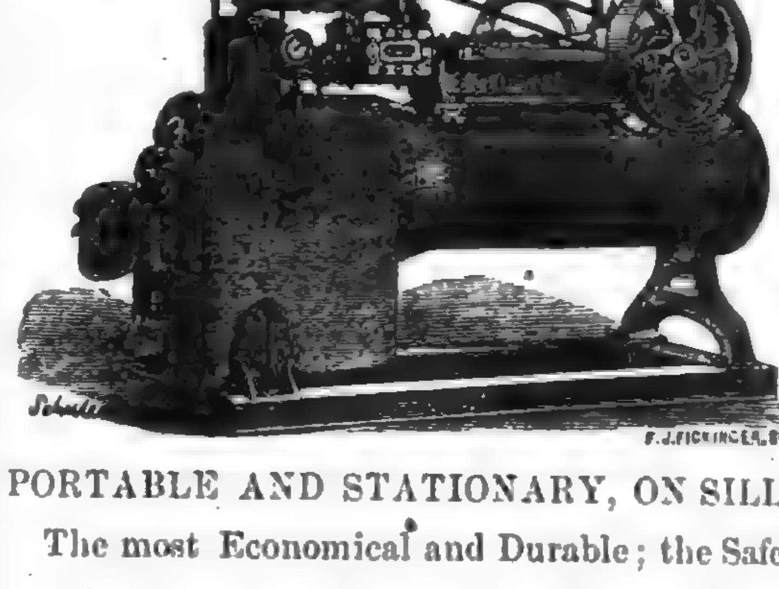
☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CO

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public p

MAULL & HOCKENSM

Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the Wor



ENGI

OF ALL

FROM TWO

HUNDRED

POWE

—AND—

OF ALL

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON W

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest and Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Bolting, and

kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,

General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham,

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!

Bottom Prices at Last at

WELLMAN & CO.'S

"Louisville Clothing House,"

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

——DEALERS IN——

Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing G

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of the House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fall & Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTERS,

And Blank Book Manufacture

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RECE
PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in Alabama, and our Prices and Work compare with those from the cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding send your to us.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electra-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. ju 7-1y

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 25x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Sept. 15-tf Lomax, Ala.

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

EAST TENN., VIRGINIA
GEORGIA RAILROA

Forms the quickest and most able route to

Eastern Cit

AND ONLY ROU

—TO THE—

WATERING PLA

—OF—

East Tennessee and V

The principle inducem

SPLENDID SCENERY
TIME AND THRO
CARS.

The only line passin mountainous regions of Eas
and Virginia.

For information a

JAS. R. OGDE
A. POPE,
A. G. P. A., L

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 21, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwards.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr 7:73 p. m.
" 10:3[illegible] "	Calera	Lve. 4:40 "
" 5:19 p m	Rome	" 10:10 a m
" 7:18 "	Dalton	" 8:05 "
" 8:45 "	Cleaveland	" 7:03 "
" 11:35 "	Knoxville	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	Norristown	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	Bristol	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr 11:00 a m	Selma	Lv. 4:30 p m
Lave 8:50 "	Demopolis	" 7:00 "
Lave 5:35 a m	Meridian	Arrive 10 p m

LODGES. — Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 423, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 82 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., meets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Christmas next Monday.

"Where was Moses when the candle went out?" It is said that he was in the dark.

Mr. J. P. Willoughby, land agent of the S. & N. Ala. railroad will be at Clanton, on Jan. 1, 1883.

Boys who thoughtfully read the story on the first page of this issue will be inclined to remain on the farm.

Miss Janie Oliver, an accomplished young lady from Wetumpka, has charge of the music department of Verbena Academy.

It is a truism of no little import that the man who seeks to practice economy by stopping his home paper will come out several lengths behind in the long run.

The Age reports one genuine case of small pox and one case of varioloid in the pest house at Birmingham. The victims are negroes. Little danger is apprehended of the disease spreading. The citizens are vacinating freely.

We have received the second number of the National Union, a Republican paper lately established in Montgomery. We place it on our exchange list in hopes that it may furnishes us something to write about occasionally.

Cotton in Clanton: Good Mid. 9¾, Middling 9⅝, Low Mid. 9, Strict Good Ord. 8¾, Good Ordinary 8⅝. The Montgomery market is dull at 9¾ to 9⅞ cents for Good Middling, 9¾ to 9½ for Middling, 9 to 9⅛ for Low Middling, 8¾ to 8⅞ for Strict Good Ord. and 8⅜ to 8½ for Good Ordinary.

Died, at Strasburg, on the night of the 10th inst., Mrs. Johanna Wilson, wife of Mr. George Wilson and mother of Mr. John T. Wilson, at the age of 77 years and 7 months. The deceased was a consistent member of the Christian or Campbellite Church. She died of consumption.

Something new, neat and novel in the buggy line is the Indiana Road Cart, for which Mr. J. H. Aldridge is agent at this point. It is called a cart, but is much on the order of a buggy. It is set on springs and has the easiest movement imaginable. It is sold cheap. Read advertisement elsewhere.

The Florence News, referring to the St. Louis, Montgomery and Florida railroad says:

We are credibly informed that immediately upon the passage of the bill the company will commence building and expect to complete it within six years, the time prescribed by the bill.

The line of the proposed road is directly through Chilton county.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, in Coosa county, by Rev. J. M. Dykes, the bride's father, Mr. Enoch Wilson, of Clanton, and Miss Docia Dykes, of Coosa. May the handsome groom and his charming bride have a long and happy life.

Read our Birmingham cards. Alonzo Elliott is the man to buy stoves from. Moore & Handly are the great machinery men of the South. Wellman is the Clothier and Houpt the Jeweler. Birmingham is competing successfully with Nashville and Louisville in many lines.

Our readers will not expect a paper next week. Printers, like the rest of human kind, find themselves in need of rest occasionally, and Christmas is probably the most appropriate time for such a rest. The VIEW wishes its readers, one and all, a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Maplesville Dots.

Miss Sallie Liles will have a Christmas tree for the benefit of her pupils. Co-operation of her patrons is desired and expected. The public are invited to attend.

We are having some cold weather, and farmers can save their meat well.

Maplesville is like Clanton making a reputation as a jug town.

BIJOU.

A Hint to Farmers.

A level-headed exchange is of opinion that the price of cotton will not average more than nine cents a pound next year, and that farmers had better make their calculations accordingly. It predicts bigger and bigger cotton production and adds: "Our section of the State is now in very good condition. The farmers have plenty of corn, and there will be considerable meat in the country. Now is the time to abandon the all cotton sysand become free of the merchants' mortgages and incumbrances upon the next crop, by keeping out of debt and making another provision crop."

Escaped.

The reported apostles of Mormonism, Hilson and DuBose, who were tried on a writ of habeas corpus last Thursday, and remanded to jail in default of $100 bail each, succeded in making their escape, on last Saturday night, by means of a small file, which they seem to have used to perfection in filing their way out. One of the women succeeded in making bond, and was released, the other is still in durance vile.

LATER.—The woman who made bond has been replaced in jail, at the instance of her bondsman, fears being entertained that she might follow the escapades.

The Price of Cotton in 1779.

COOSA RIVER, CHILTON CO.

ED. CHILTON VIEW: Dear Sir—As everything connected with the earlist cultivation of cotton seems to be of interest, I thought I would send you the following entry in a diary of my great grand father, Mr. John Logan, of Colleton District, So. Carolina. The entry was made in 1779, as follows:

"Bought 102 lbs of cotton, in the seed, of William Davis, who lives at Mrs. Slus', at 32-6 (thirty-two shillings and six pence), December 15th, 1779."

The same old gentleman, about that time, sent as a present to Col. Washington's cavalry, a waggon, loaded with rice, as a treat after their successful encounter with Tarleton, near Rantowles Bridge.

Should the above be of sufficient interest you are at liberty to publish it. Respectfully,

GEO. A. LOGAN.

A $20 Bible Reward.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for January, among which is the following:

We will give $20 in gold to the person telling us how many verses there are in the New Testament Scriptures (not the New Revision) containing but two words each, by January 10th, 1883. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner January 15th, 1883. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer for which they will receive the February Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20 to you; cut it out. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING CO., Easton, Pa.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. Wilkinson & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, N. Y.

Boston has elected a Democratic Mayor by over 2,000 majority.

To be Taken.

"You have heard," said a bashful young man who sat in a parlor a few nights ago with his sweetheart, on Fourth avenue, "You have heard of the Danish boy's whistle of wood; well I wish that the Danish boy's whistle was mine."

"And what would you do with it?" asked the smiling young girl.

"Why I would blow it," he answered, "and then my true love would take her place close by my side."

"One's good nature secures a favor so slight," replied the fair girl and she sat down right close to her lover.

"I would blow that whisle again, if I had it," stammered the blushing young man, "and then the charm would work so well that you would place your arm round my neck."

"Would it?" she said; and she smiled and laid her arm round his neck.

"I would give that whistle another good blow," said our young Adonis, "and you would give me a kiss,—a nice sweet little kiss."

The young maid then laughing replied, "what a fool of yourself with the whistle you'd make! for it would be really foolish and silly, I think, for you to sit there and whistle for what you might take."

(CURTAIN.)

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for General Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it is his duty to make it known to his fellows. This receipt, with full particulars, directions for preparation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be sent you by return mail, free of charge, by addressing with stamp or stamped self-addressed envelope. DR. J. C. RAYMOND,
164 Washington St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
☞ Mention this paper. d14y

NOTICE NO. 2027.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 13, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 19th, 1883, viz: Elizabeth C. Prim, Homestead 7469 and 9978 for the e ½ of n w ¼ n e ¼ of s w ¼ n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 10, township 23 range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: Ransom A. Miears, Peyton G. Killingsworth, James A. Brown, Luman L. Killingsworth, all of Days Mill, Ala.

THOS. J. SCOTT,
d21* Register.

NOTICE NO. 1989.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 1, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 12, 1883, viz: William F. Robuck, Homestead 8917 for the s ½ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 2, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Milton F. Fuller, Thomas J. Kiener, John Kiener, James L. Williams, all of Maplesville, Ala.

d7* THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 2005.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 29, 1883, viz: Josephus Levingston, Homestead entry 12840 and 6754 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ e ½ of s e ¼ and s w ¼ of s e ¼ sec. 22, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Hawkiks, Martin Goodson, Berry Lawrence and Jake Smith, all of Randolph, Ala.

d7 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1976.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 30th, 1882, viz: Augustus Walker, Homestead entry No. 10356 for the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 26, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, John M. Gothard, Squire D. Posey and John C. Martin, all of Randolph, Ala.

n30 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Surveyor's Notice.

I would respectfully inform the people of Chilton county that I have been reappointed county surveyor, and with an experience of thirty years am prepared to do all surveying entrusted to me with satisfaction to all parties. Persons wishing to know where their land lines are would do well to call on me.

H. R. ATCHINSON,
n23 Maplesville, Ala.

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN.
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—

Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 20-6m

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West
Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

H. L. Wheeler.
GENERAL
Real Estate Agent.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Will buy and sell lands for commissions.
Jan15-1y

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and District courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.
—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.
Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment.
Oct 5-3m

WONDERFULLY CHEAP!
Elegant New Editions of Standard Publications.
In clear type, cleanly printed on first-class paper, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, with gold and ink side and back stamps.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

ROMOLA. By GEORGE ELIOT. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
UARDA. By GEORGE EBERS. From the German by CLARA BELL. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
JOHN HALIFAX, GENTLEMAN. By Mrs. MULOCK-CRAIK. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
JANE EYRE. By CHARLOTTE BRONTE. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
HYPATIA. By CHARLES KINGSLEY. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
CORINNE. By MADAME DE STAEL. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
LAST OF THE MOHICANS. By JAMES FENIMORE COOPER. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
TOM BROWN AT RUGBY. By THOMAS HUGHES. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
☞ The foregoing eight volumes packed in a neat box, $5.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES.

KNICKERBOCKER HISTORY OF NEW YORK. By WASHINGTON IRVING. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
THE SKETCH BOOK. By WASHINGTON IRVING. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

MACAULAY'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND. [illegible] pages in 3 vols., 12mo, with portrait of the author. Cloth, $3; Half Leather, [illegible].
ROLLIN'S ANCIENT HISTORY. 1,294 pages, two volumes in one, quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $2.50; Half Leather, [illegible].
FROISSART'S CHRONICLES. Imperial octavo, 115 illustrations. Extra large type. Cloth, $1.50; Half Leather, $2.50.
WORKS OF FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS. 1,144 pages in one volume, quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $2.00; Half Leather, $2.50.
KITTO'S CYCLOPÆDIA OF BIBLICAL LITERATURE. [illegible] pages in two volumes, 12mo. Cloth, $2.00; Half Leather, [illegible].
TASSO'S JERUSALEM DELIVERED. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
POPE'S HOMER'S ILIAD. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
POPE'S HOMER'S ODYSSEY. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25. These two volumes in a neat box: Cloth, $1.25; Half Leather, $2.
CREASY'S FIFTEEN DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
PLUTARCH'S LIVES OF THE POETS. [illegible] pages in one volume. Cloth, $1; Half Leather, $1.50.
AMERICAN ADDITIONS TO CHAMBERS'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA. 4 volumes, comprising over [illegible] titles compiled by American editors; uniform in size and binding with Chambers's Encyclopædia as published by Messrs. Lippincott & Co. Bound also in Cloth, uniform with the "imported" edition of Chambers's. Cloth, per set, $10; Sheep, per set, $12; Morocco, per set, [illegible].

☞ Circular showing type, paper and styles of binding, free on application. Sold by all Booksellers, or sent post-paid on receipt of price, by J. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher, 74 Beekman St., N. Y.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.
Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the
Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-6m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo. R. F. WILSON, Columbiana.
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery.
Jan 1-1y

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST.
CLANTON, ALA.
Solicits the patronage of the public.
PRICES FOR WORK:
Shaving - - 10 cents
Hair cutting - - [illegible]
[illegible]

AFTER TEN YEARS.

A little diffident, perhaps,
  At this, our earliest meeting,
You know how ten long summers' lapse
  Embarrasses a greeting.
At first inclined to "Mr." me,
  And at a cold bow tarry;
But, melting, shook hands heartily,
  Rememb'ring me as "Harry."

Why, she was nothing but a child,
  We played together daily—
Just eight years old; no colt run wild
  E'er roamed the fields as gayly.
Her golden hair all tossed about,
  With hayseed always in it—
Her lips prepared to smile or pout—
  I see her at this minute.

Her hair is darker now, and curled—
  Propriety's prim label;
Whatever has the cruel world
  Been doing with my Mabel?
Ten years ago 'twas not like this,
  But always to me rushing,
She met me with a ready kiss—
  Last night she shook hands, blushing.

Last night she wore a silken dress
  With lace, or something, on it—
Ten years back Miss Untidyness
  Would scarcely wear a bonnet.
I can't say I admire the change;
  It makes her like a stranger;
And you, now—don't you think it strange
  How those ten years should change her?

You do not? Well, perhaps you're right,
  And don't I think her pretty?
Well, yes; her brow is far more white,
  Her hands are not so sooty.
Her eyes—how magically sweet!—
  Are tenderer and deeper;
Her hair is auburn; then 'twas wheat,
  Disheveled by the reaper.

And yet, somehow, she pleased me best
  When, boy and girl together,
We danced through life with song and jest,
  Our hearts a single feather.
They've made a stupid Sabbath tale
  Out of my boyhood's fable—
It must have been! I should not rail,
  But still—she isn't Mabel.

She isn't— What! The deuce you say,
  To make me thus impugn her!
You're going to be married, eh?
  You might have told me sooner.
I'd give you joy, but I am so Surprised I'm scarcely able—
And all our dreams ten years ago—
  Ah, faithless little Mabel!

—G. H. Jessop, in the Judge.

Two Ways of Husking Corn.

Corn husking time is approaching, and there will soon be a great crashing and ripping in the fields. Some farmers begin early in the season, stick to it, and finish without any commotion, while others wait until winter has come in earnest, then they go at it with as much bustle and turmoil as though their lives depended on the number of ears they could husk in a day.

Years ago I worked for a farmer who belonged to this latter class. He was comparatively mild at all times except during harvest and corn-husking; then he became a veritable whirlwind. He always raised from 150 to 200 acres of corn, and when he concluded it was time to begin husking he would be up at three o'clock in the morning, start the fires and have all hands out at four, breakfast at five, and then we would drive out into the cornfield and jump about to keep warm until it was light enough to begin work. When a rain-storm came on he would stick to his rows until they were finished, and compel us to do the same if we were wet to the skin. On Sundays he would have us grease the wagons, fix up the cribs, and get everything into shape so there would be no necessity for stopping and no time lost during the week. He was considered by his neighbors a thrifty, driving farmer.

Finally, he overdid the driving part. A cold rain came on, and as usual he kept on working until his wagon was filled and he was wet through. That night he was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism, and he died the following night. As I was most familiar with his plans, I was requested to take charge of the farm and finish the season's work. I changed the programme at once. We slept until five, had breakfast at six, and were out at work when it was fairly daylight. When a rain or wet snow-storm came on, we quit work at once. As a consequence, the hands were always in good spirits, worked well, and we got out full as much corn as before.

Some farmers make a great point of stripping off every particle of silk and husk. They will paw away at an ear to pick it clean while they could husk half a dozen if they went right along. If the corn is going into a dry crib—and it certainly should not go into any other—there is no necessity for taking off every particle of silk and husk. If the corn is fed to stock neither do any harm. If shelled for market, the sheller will separate the corn from all trash. If it is sold in the ear, the grain-dealer will not give a cent more for corn that is picked perfectly clean than for the same quality with the silks and a few husks on.

It is asserted that rats and mice destroy more corn in the crib when the silks and a few husks are left on. If the cribs are properly built and a few good cats kept about, there will be no perceptible difference.

Some assert that the silks accumulate and retain moisture, and thus injure the the corn. Only in cribs that were uncovered, and the corn exposed to all kinds of weather, have I seen it so. I don't believe in leaving half the husk on; but when only a leaf or two fails to come off with the bulk of the husk, I instruct my men to throw it and not waste any time on it. I find it pays; because when paying men a high price to get the crop under cover, I want it done as quickly as possible.

My method of gathering corn the past few years has been to provide each man with a team and wagon. The team being driven astride the last row husked, the man husks the two rows adjoining. When I have occasion to put two men to a wagon, each takes one row. Thus no corn is destroyed, or trampled in the dirt. A high sideboard is placed on the farther side of the wagon to prevent corn from being thrown over. I consider sixty to seventy bushels a good day's work for one man in good corn.

We select our seed-corn as we husk. Whenever we find a perfect ear we throw it to the forward end of the wagon; then, when the load is emptied at the crib, these ears are readily picked out and sacked.

Not the Right Animal.

Teacher—"John, what are your boots made of?"

Boy—"Of leather."

"Where does the leather come from?"

"From the hide of the ox."

"What animal, therefore, supplies you with boots and gives you meat to eat?"

"My father."

—The recent musical festival at Charleston, S. C., was the first ever attempted in the South.

[illegible]

Among the William H. Kennedys of this city, of whom there are no less than five, there is a [illegible] dissension that threatens to divide the family against itself. The cause of the trouble is the result of the election for Coroners. William H. Kennedy was elected Coroner by a large majority; but as there are five of this kind of Kennedy the majority of each is obviously much smaller than that of the Kennedy taken in a lump. To the credit of the Kennedys it must be said that there are only two of them who are now threatening to cut one another's throat over the result of the election. The most striking difference between these two Kennedys is that one handles spirits and the other bodies. William H. Kennedy, of 364 Third avenue, sells liquor; William H. Kennedy, of 470 Pearl street, is an undertaker. Returns from the other three William H. Kennedys have not yet come in. They will no doubt all claim to be the Coroner rather than have any hard feeling in the family. For the present the undertaker and the seller of drinks have the floor.

A Tribune reporter spoke to William H. Kennedy, of 364 Third avenue, Wednesday, on the subject nearest his heart. Mr. Kennedy was behind his bar.

"Are you still laboring under the hallucination," asked the reporter, "that you were elected Coroner Tuesday?"

"Hallucination be hanged," replied Mr. Kennedy, in an affable and engaging manner. "I was elected by a handsome majority. I never thought I would ever be the Coroner of New York."

"But William H. Kennedy claims to be elected.

"Correct, sir. And as I'm William H. Kennedy, I suppose I'm elected. I did all I could to help William H. Kennedy to be elected. There wasn't a man who worked harder for his election than I did; and as he was elected I am Coroner. All the boys call me 'Coroner' now."

"Did you celebrate your victory last night?"

"Oh, yes. I 'blew off' the boys. Before the election when the boys came in for money to help the election I sent 'em all down to the undertaker, as he was doing all that sort of work. Of course, it was kind of him."

"Inasmuch as he claims to be the one elected, what do you intend to do?"

"I'm going to consult a lawyer about it. And if I win the case I shall probably sit on his body—the defeat will kill him. He is a nervous, excitable fellow. Everybody seems to enjoy the joke. At the same time there have been all sorts of threats against me."

"You propose to bring an action, then?"

"I shall undertake—"

"But," interrupted the reporter, "if you undertake you'll lose your identity—you'll be the undertaker."

"Well, I'll serve him with an injunction."

Mr. Kennedy scorned the idea of having the Kennedy's numbered so that they could be identified.

William H. Kennedy, the undertaker, was found in his shop leaning on an empty and upright coffin. He seemed to be in an excited mood and proposed to take his seat as Coroner if it cost him a coffin.

"You are aware then that there is some doubt as to your being William H. Kennedy:" the reporter began.

"Aware! yes, aware!" roared Mr. Kennedy. "Yes, sir, I'll take that seat if it takes every drop of blood in my body. I'm not Sammy Tilden. No, I'm not. I don't propose to give in. I'll roast the other Kennedy's before Ill give up that seat."

"You are sure you are the Kennedy, the only real full blooded Coroner Kennedy."

"Kennedy!" shouted the enraged would-be Coroner. "Coroner Kennedy! Fifty thousand people will tell you I'm the man."

An effort was made to find the three remaining William H. Kennedys, but they were not found. As the Coroners-elect do not take office until January 1, 1883, it is possible that the feud may run high and that some of them may be killed off before that time. That would simplify matters.—N. Y. Tribune.

Observation.

No line can be drawn between common knowledge of things and scientific knowledge, nor between common reasoning and scientific reasoning. In strictness all accurate knowledge is science, and all exact reasoning is scientific reasoning. The method of observation and experiment in which such great results are obtained in science is identically the same as that which is employed by every one every day of his life, but refined and rendered precise. If a child acquires a new toy, he observes its characters and experiments upon its properties, and we are all constantly making observations and experiments upon one thing or another. But those who have never tried to observe accurately, will be surprised to find how difficult a business it is. There is not one person in a hundred who can describe the commonest occurrence with even an approach to accuracy. That is to say, either he will omit something which did occur and which is of importance, or he will imply or suggest the occurrence of something which he did not actually observe, but which he unconsciously infers must have happened. When two truthful witnesses contradict one another in a court of justice, it usually turns out that one or the other, or sometimes both, are confounding their inferences from what they saw with that which they actually saw. A swears that B picked his pocket. It turns out that all that A knows is that he felt a hand in his pocket when B was close to him, and that B was not the thief, but C, whom he did not observe. Untrained observers mix up together their inferences from what they see with that which they actually see in the most wonderful way, and even experienced and careful observers are in constant danger of falling into the same error. Scientific observation is such as is at once full, precise and free from unconscious inference.—Professor Huxley.

The little bit of a baby has his burdens—all the good-looking girls kissing him. He kicks against it now, but in after years—well, let him do his own attending.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—All the Justices of the United States Supreme Court are now keeping house in Washington, including Justice Gray, who is a bachelor.

—Mr. E. Peshine Smith, the journalist who recently died in Rochester, was the author of a "Manual of Political Economy," which has been adopted as a text-book in several foreign universities, and which has been translated.

—Consul Stevens writes from China that the chain pumps, which were sold largely in this country not many years ago, have been in use in China over 2,000 years. Double-headed tacks, too, have been used there for many centuries.

—A book has just been issued in Vermont entitled "The Resurrection of Christ from a Lawyer's Standpoint." It is an investigation conducted according to the laws of evidence, and it ends with a full acceptance of the resurrection of Christ as a historical fact.

—Miss Abbie Pulsifer, of Auburn, Me., has been a reporter in the courts there for ten years. Other female short-hand writers are Miss Alice C. Nute, of Chicago; Miss Ingersoll, of Washington; and Mrs. S. J. Barrows, of Boston, who reported in English a speech delivered in German without translation.

—The well-known and favorite nursery song, "Three Blind Mice," dates back to 1609, during which year it originally appeared in a music-book, the authorship of which cannot be traced. The familiar nursery rhyme of "Little Jack Horner" was written in the sixteenth century, though by whom cannot be ascertained.

—Mr. Gladstone is an able man. He delivers brilliant speeches, reads Greek like English and is one of the best scholars alive. But at the same time he jumps around and howls like an illiterate plumber when, in kicking on a tight boot, a hole in the toe of his stocking causes that valuable article to shoot way back around his ankle.—Puck.

—That the dear people may have the best book possible for the guidance of their lives, some enterprising students in New York, believing that there is good in every religion and that no religion is perfect, have compiled what they consider useful in all the sacred writings and published it under the name of "Oahspe, The New Bible." The work claims to be a history of the heavens and the earth for the past 2,000 years.

The Paris Sewers.

The so-called sewers under the city appear to serve little purpose but that of interesting British and American tourists, who delight in being rowed about down below in boats, and are always enthusiastic over the absence of evil smells in the handsomely-vaulted and well-lighted passages through which they are conducted. Seeing that the offensive matter which ought to find its way into the sewers is cleared out of the houses at night, and carried in carts through the streets, and that vegetable refuse and stale water are habitually thrown into the open gutters to poison the atmosphere, it is not surprising the air should be if anything purer in subterranean Paris than in the magnificent thoroughfares on the surface. It would probably not be rash to ascribe the superior healthiness of London, as shown by its exceedingly low death-rate, to the fact that the English capital is really drained, whereas Paris is drained only in name. The teeming slums in the East End, the multitude of factories, the dense, foggy, sunless winters of London have no equivalent here, yet the average death-rate of the French capital, even when no epidemic is raging, is, compared with that of London, as twenty-nine to eighteen; but then, if a French tourist were to venture into the great sewer of London, he would probably not survive to tell the tale.

Sympathy.

One of the principal charms of women lies in their quick sympathy. They are pre-eminently gifted with that rapid impressionability that puts them en rapport with their surroundings. Many thus endowed, however, lack the sustained force that gives cohesion to character. The influences withdrawn that called forth the emotion, the purpose borne with it begins to flag. These impulsive sympathizers rejoice with the happy and mourn with the sad; they give smile for smile and tear for tear; but the moment you leave them they forget you, and the object of your joy or of your pain is as nothing to them. For the time being they are entirely sincere; hypocrisy or affectation has not entered into the tokens of feeling they have shown; they have simply been compelled by the impression of the moment. This kind of sympathy answers better to the definition of the modern philosopher than that which inspired the injunction of the wise man, "Sorrow is better than laughter, for by the sadness of the countenance the heart is made better."

A High Opinion.

Capt. John J. Dawson, late of the British Army, residing on Love street, between Mandeville and Spain, this city, says he used St. Jacobs Oil with the greatest possible advantage when afflicted with rheumatism.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

—Richard Wagner has sold the copyright of all his musical productions to Schott, the Mayence publisher, the consideration of the agreement being the yearly payment to the composer of 150,000 marks (about $35,000). This annuity is also to be paid to Wagner's heirs for thirty years after his death. And still it is thought the publisher has made a profitable contract.

THE Youth's Companion, of Boston, is a sprightly paper, deservedly popular and without exception the best of its kind published.

—A Chinaman thus describes his experience at draw poker: "I diaw thlee carde, get flo acee, bet flive dolla, nobody clom in. Next time I diaw two cardee, get flo kingee, bet ten dolla, nobody clom in. Next time I diaw one cardee, get flo flushee, bet fifteen dolla, everybody clom in, Chinaman busted."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

25c buys a pair of Lyon's Pat. Heel Stiffeners, makes a boot or shoe last twice as long.

"My son," said an illicit distiller "remember that it is the early bird that catches the worm." "Perhaps so, father," replied the slothful young man—"perhaps so, in some localities, but around here it strikes me that it is the early revenue officer who catches the worm."

ROUGH on Rats." Clears out rats, mice, flies, roaches, bed-bugs, ants, vermin. 15c.
MOTHER SWAN'S WORM SYRUP, for feverishness, restlessness, worms. Tasteless. 15c.

—For a mare with scratches: Give her one of the following balls every day for three days, then two a week: Barbadoes aloes, two ounces; nitrate of potash, three ounces; powdered ginger, four ounces; molasses sufficient to make eight balls. Feed flax-seed tea daily. Exercise regularly.—Country Gentleman.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS TO LIVE.
From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in "perfect health," we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearance, in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which considerably benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine.

DR. DEWITT C. KELLINGER'S LINIMENT is an infallible cure for Rheumatism, Sprains, Lameness and Diseases of the Scalp, and for promoting the growth of the Hair.

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility, also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT
GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,
Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

STRONG'S PECTORAL PILLS
A SURE REMEDY FOR
COLDS AND RHEUMATISM.
Ensure healthy appetite, good digestion, regularity of the bowels. A PRECIOUS BOON TO DELICATE FEMALES, soothing and bracing the nervous system, and giving vigor and health to every fibre of the body. Sold by Druggists. For Pamphlets address P. O. Box 650, N. Y. City.

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE

EVERY MAN
Should Understand His Own Condition when suffering from disease of mind or body caused by imprudent habits, excesses, overwork or derangement of the faculties, resulting in Nervous Debility, Physical Prostration or PREMATURE DECAY.
On receipt of four 3c. stamps we will send our new book, 112 pages, 8vo., "The Law of Life and Health," a series of lectures, and giving invaluable information to MARRIED AND SINGLE MEN. Address MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, 147 E. 15th St., New York. Name this paper.

C. B. C. Coleman Business College, Newark, N. J. Write for Catalogue.

AGENTS Make money selling our Family Medicines. No capital required. Standard Cure Co., 197 Pearl St., N. Y.

THRESHERS The Best & the cheapest. Illustrated price list free. THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, O.

THIS NEW ELASTIC TRUSS
Has a Pad differing from all others, is cup shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, adapts itself to all positions of the body, while the ball in the cup presses back the intestines just as a person would with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free.
SENSIBLE TRUSS
EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

I CURE FITS!
When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you.
Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St. New York.

PATENTS Procured by American Patent Agency, 188 5th St.

AGENTS WANTED for the Best and Fastest-selling Pictorial Books and Bibles. Prices reduced 33 per cent. NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS.
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

A CATALOG
JUST ISSUED CONTAIN
400 ILLUSTRAT
AND PRICES OF
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, JE
AND SILVERWA
Will be sent to any address upon
J. P. STEVENS & C
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - GEOR

COTTON
FUTURES
Co-Operative PL
OF CONSERVATIVE
SPECULATI
Weekly Statements, Monthly
$1.000 Invested
Smaller Investments in proportion.
wanted everywhere. Circulars mailed
DIO. F. WOLFFE & CO.,
174 & 176 Common St. NEW ORLEA

CONSUMPTIO
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St.

This N.Y. Singer
With $8 set of Attachments
Warranted quiet, handsome on test trial
Happy Home Organ
Reeds, 12 stops
Bass, octave coupler with $1 stool and $1 Book
Also sent on test trial sired. Elegant case tone, durable
G. Payne & Co.

SIX CTS
INVIGORATE the HAIR
LEE, Box 1868, Boston, Mass.

AGENTS
wanted for the best selling book
States. Write, and LOO
at the terms we offer. Salary and com right men. J. H. CHAMBERS & C Atlanta

MILL and FACTORY SUPP
OF ALL KINDS, BELTING
PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL
IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS
STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVE
&c. Send for Price List. W. B.
LINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street,
VILLE, KY.

A $3 RING FOR
To introduce their quality,
GOLD-PLATED,
RING on receipt of 50 persons
I'll send prepaid over $7, for only $1. This being an unusual offer patronage, act quick. J. D. HENRY, Box
Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

ADD TO YOUR INCO
Club 13 of the Mutual Investment
Offers the surest means of making profits from investments
GRAIN, PROVISIONS & ST
Each member gets the benefit of combined
Club. Reports sent weekly. Dividends paid Club 13 paid shareholders back their money past three months, still leaving original money in Club, or returned on demand.
Explanatory circulars sent free. Reliable wanted everywhere. Address R. E. Kendall
Com'n Mchts. 177 & 179 La Salle St.

YOUTH'S COMPANION
ANNOUNCEMENT, 1883.

A REFERENCE to the contributors announced below will show that nearly all of the most distinguished popular authors of this country, and many of those of Great Britain, have been engaged as contributors to the COMPANION for the year 1883. The Announcement will be found in many respects, we think, an extraordinary one; but it includes only a part of the features of the volume for the coming year.

Illustrated Serial Stories.
A Serial Story of Boy Life in America, by . . . J. T. Trowbridge.
A Serial Story of Boy Life in Great Britain, by . . . William Black.
A Serial Story of New England Life, by . . . Harriet Beecher Stowe.
A Serial Story for Girls, by . . . Harriet Prescott Spofford.
A Serial Story of Southern Life, by . . . Marie B. Williams.
Amusing College Stories, by . . . Henry A. Gordon.
Stories of Old-Time Poor-Houses, by . . . J. D. Chaplin.
Old New England Peddlers' Tales, by . . . Wm. A. King.
Tales of the Old Dutch Farmers of New York, by . . . Eugene M. Prince.

Reminiscences and Anecdotes. (Illustrated.)
Yankee Drolleries at Old-Time Fairs and Shows, by . James Parton.
Stories of Old-Time Quack Doctors and their Remedies, by Edgar Knowles.
On the Stump. Humorous Anecdotes of Electioneering, Stump Speaking, etc., by . Hon. S. S. Cox.
Victor Hugo at Home. A chatty description of the home life of the great poet, by his Private Secretary. Richard Lesclide.
Word Pictures of the House of Commons. As seen from the Reporters' Gallery, by H. W. Lucy.
Brilliant Articles. Reminiscences of Dean Stanley and Picturesque Associations of Westminster Abbey, by . Canon F. W. Farrar.
The Royal Family of Denmark. Articles of Personal Anecdote by the Danish Minister at Washington, Hon. Carl Bille.
Great Southern Leaders. A series of articles containing personal reminiscences of Gen. Robert E. Lee, "Stonewall" Jackson, John C. Calhoun, etc., by . . . Hon. Alexander H. Stephens.

Illustrated Travel and Adventure.
A Serial Story of Adventure, by . . C. A. Stephens Life in an Irish Fishing Village, by . . Julian Hawthorne
Tales of Old Ships and Sailors, by . . Capt. F. L.
Old Times on the Missouri, by . . A Missouri
After the Mindanao Pirates in a Dutch Gun-Boat, by Lieut. F. F. Cr
Adventures in a Whaling Cruise in the North Pacific, by Macomber
The Fiftieth Tiger. A narrative of Adventure by the Special Correspondent of the London Telegraph, Phil. Robinson
Child Life and Home Life in Japan. Curious Pictures and Incidents, by a traveller in that country, Prof. E. S. Morse Railway Heroes. Thrilling stories of railroad men. Among others "The Fireman's Story;" "His Life or Theirs;" "Ship Dustin, the Boy," and "Express Messenger Riley," by . . Walter A.

Special Articles.
Important articles will be given by two of the most distinguished Neurologists in the world, describing Nervous Diseases, showing the ordinary causes of these forms of human suffering, and giving general suggestions as to their treatment. These articles will not be merely technical treatises, but will be enlivened by curious and illustrative anecdotes.
Common Nervous Ailments. A Series of Papers, by . Dr. Brown-Sequard.
The Short History of a Nervous Man. The Proper Use of the Mind, Hallucinations and Delusions, The Cause of Sleep and Sleeplessness, Somnambulism, etc., by . Dr. William A. Hammond.

The Help Series.
The Profits of Literary Labor, by . James Parton.
Salesmen and Saleswomen in City Stores. Their wages and opportunities, by . Charles Vance Elliott.
A Medical Education. How to Choose a College. Advantages of European Study, by . Dr. William A. Hammond.
Girls Who Earn a Living in Art. By the Principal of the Women's Art School, Cooper Union, . Susan N. Carter.
How to Start. Papers telling how to start in different kinds of business and in trades, with practical details, so that a boy reading these papers may act on them safely.
What a Technical Education Costs. By the Professor of Engineering of the Institute of Technology, Hoboken, . Robert H. Thurston.

In The Household.
Parlor Experiments in Science. Simple and curious, by Prof. W. C.
Entertainments for Charitable Purposes. Advice and George B.
Tableaux with Authors. Directions for Charming Evening by Kate S
Concerning Floors, Doors, and Windows. Giving to the decoration of these important features of a home, by Janet E.
Inexpensive Art Furniture. A series of papers showing be furnished in the best taste without large expenditure, cost, etc., by the Curator of the Liverpool Art Museum. Charles

The Editorials of the COMPANION will give clear and impartial views of current events at home and abroad.
The Children's Page sustains its reputation for charming pictures, poems and stories adapted to the little ones.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one who subscribes now, and sends us $1.75, we will send the Companion free to January 1st, 1883, and a full year's subscription from that date.
Subscription Price $1.75. Specimen copies
Please mention in what paper you read this advertisement.
40 Temple Place, Address, YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

For File

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Proprietor. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOL II. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1882. NO. 7

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Chattanooga, Tenn., pays her Mayor but $500 per year.

A bill introduced in the Georgia Legislature makes betting on elections a misdemeanor.

The Alabama penitentiary contains [illegible] convicts. Of these sixty-seven are whites and 455 colored.

A total of $3,372 40 has been collected toward erecting a monument to Senator Ben Hill, of Georgia.

The Little Rock Gazette says the crop of wheat sown in Arkansas this season is larger than ever before.

Alabama has over 3,000,000 acres of Government land subject to entry under homestead and pre-emption laws.

Richmond, Va., has fifty factories, representing a capital of $4,000,000; their sales for 1881 aggregated $11,250,-

The debt of Memphis is four and a half millions, and the Avalanche says it is increasing at the rate of $270,000 per year.

A Southern paper estimates that at least 100 cotton gins have burned this season. Many of the fires were incendiary.

A general local option petition which is to be presented to the Georgia Legislature in a few days is 300 feet in length.

A bill has been introduced in the Georgia Legislature to require all the qualified voters in the State to register before voting

A bill introduced in the Alabama Legislature provides that the study of the laws of health be introduced into the public schools.

The North Carolina peanut crop will this year reach 140,000 bushels. The nuts are of better quality than any grown during the past five years.

Fifty-one women from Northeast Georgia left Atlanta a day or two ago for homes and husbands in Utah, having been converted to the Mormon faith.

The dam across the Chattahoochee river, at Columbus, Ga., is nearly completed. It is the largest in the South, and contains about 200,000 feet of solid masonry.

Georgia has more illiterates than any other State in the Union. North Carolina is second on the list, Alabama third, Virginia fourth, Tennessee fifth and Mississippi sixth.

Virginia will soon have the largest furnace in the United States. The Victoria furnace, in Rockbridge county, now nearly ready to put in blast, will daily produce 200 tons of iron.

Geological examination reveals in the banks of the Mississippi, along a space of 300 miles, ten distinct forests of buried trees. Bald cypresses with a diameter of twenty-five feet have been found.

Rev. Geo. W. Baker and wife have sued W. A. Huff, proprietor of the Markham House, Atlanta, for $10,000 damages for injuries sustained by Mrs. Baker by being bitten by rats while a guest of the hotel last summer.

Male relatives of the girls employed in the Nashville manufacturing establishments are acting as detectives, on their own volition, to punish fast young men who are in the habit of insulting working girls on their way home after dark.

The Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer says there is a probability that the Cotton and Woolen Mutual Manufacturers' Insurance Company, a Northern institution, will extend its borders so as to take in Southern cotton and woolen mills.

Austin Statesman: In the most reliable quarters the crops of Texas for this year are estimated at 1,400,000 bales of cotton and 150,000,000 bushels of corn. Texas now stands first on the list of Southern States in the production of cotton and corn.

Great excitement exists in Franklin and Wake counties, N. C., over the wholesale killing of hogs blonging to the farmers. They allege that the hogs have been poisoned by tramp peddlers in the interest of Western pork packers. Only twenty live hogs are left in the two counties.

Bills in the interest of temperance are occupying a great deal of the time of the Georgia Legislature. Many counties want the sale of whiskey within their borders prohibited altogether, while others ask that the license be fixed at $5,000, $10,000, and even $20,000 per year.

Atlanta has a candidate for Mayor who proposes, if elected, to gradually reduce taxation until, at the end of fifteen years, the city government can be run without one cent of cost to her citizens. The scheme proposed by the candidate is pronounced feasible by many prominent citizens of that place.

John Milton and another colored man named Long entered a Vicksburg (Miss) saloon, and a wager being agreed upon between them as to their relative capacity for storing away whiskey, a drinking tournament was begun, the bill to be settled by the one who drank the least. Milton succeeded in drinking five pints. His funeral occured the next evening.

The Horn Industry.

If some of our humble friends with four feet could give expression to their thoughts, they would perhaps accuse man of being a terribly rapacious animal. Not only, they might say, does he eat our flesh, but he even utilizes our skin in various ways, and the very horns of our heads are cut and shaped and polished and pieced together, until they assume a hundred shapes which nature never intended they should take. What a shockingly selfish and grasping creature this man, as he calls himself, must be! It may be urged that if our four-footed brethern could speak, they might not have these or any other thoughts to communicate. This, however, is a frivolous and superficial objection, for does not the power of speech necessarily involve the ability to think? But even if this is not so—and in our present mood we are not concerned to dispute the point—it is at least certain that if animals could think and speak, the reflections we have put into their mouths would be very natural and appropriate, and from their point of view, even reasonable.

Time was when, from this point of observation, we were much greater sinners than we are now. In former days, and not so long since, either, the horn industry was of considerable importance in this country. There are, indeed, plenty of people who are by no means willing to confess themselves old, who remember when this material was used for a multitude of purposes for which glass and various metals are now employed. We are apt to think with pity of our forefathers, who used it for their lamps, and lanterns, and windows; but it is as well to remember, on the other hand, that it possessed several recommendations, by no means to be despised. True, it was not so transparent as could have been wished, nor in those earlier days was it turned out of hand so artistically as it has been by the skill of more recent times. But then it required a good deal of breaking, and so our ancestors were spared some of the irritations which we unfortunate mortals have to endure. In other directions the substitution of glass for horn has more to be said in its favor. The modern tumbler, for example, is a distinct improvement upon the drinking-horn which it has supplanted.

At the present time—to come to sober facts—horn is used for the most part in the manufacture of combs, knife-handles, and mouth-pieces of pipes, although it is employed also, to a limited extent, for fancy articles. It is still utilized, too, for the hunting-horn, but the orchestral instruments denominated "horns," are now made of brass. Strange to say, one of the best kinds of horn for artistic purposes is that for which we are indebted to the comely and graceful rhinoceros, and it is so because it is solid instead of being hollow, as most other horns are. It is worth noting, too, that although the breeder has done much to improve the flesh of domesticated animals, it does not appear that any improvement has been superinduced either in the size or texture of the horns. It is suggested, indeed, that the horns of wild animals are more permanent than those of the domesticated races.

Locked His Pocket-Book Out Doors.

There is a man in this city who is considerably given to speculation; goes out into the country and buys a few car-loads of potatoes or anything else that he thinks he can turn to advantage. The other day he gathered together every cash dollar he had, and borrowed all the spare cash that a merchant friend of his had, the whole aggregating quite a large sum of money, with a view to a speculative trip with plenty. That night he was very careful to see that all the doors and windows in the house were securely fastened. When he arose in the morning he threw up the window to see if the milk-man had got around, when, much to his horror, his eye lit upon his pocket-book in the grass near the garden walk. The first idea was that it had been stolen, rifled and thrown there. He rushed down stairs, and much to his joy found the pocket-book all safe, with contents intact. It seems that he had stepped into the garden the previous evening to get a plant, and in stooping the wallet slipped from his pocket.—Portland (Me.) Press.

—Several Chattanooga (Tenn.) youths filled a large can with water, sealed it up tightly, and then, after placing it over a hot fire, stood by to see it burst. Willie Dugger was so badly scalded when the explosion occurred that he would lose his eyesight and probably his life.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

It is gently whispered that Mrs. Langtry drinks beer regularly.

Six thousand petitions, bearing 679,000 signatures, in favor of a Sunday closing bill for England, have already been presented to Parliament.

A San Francisco club has been organised which has as its aim the nomination of Robert T. Lincoln for the Presidency of the United States in 1884.

During the past twelve months American newspapers have been received by mail in England at the rate of more than 28,000 a day, or 10,000,000 a year.

The death is announced from the western coast of Africa of King Omora. He leaves 700 widows. Of his ninety-five children seventy-seven are still alive. His oldest son has 400 wives.

During the Egyptian war a column of leaded telegraphic messages cost the London newspapers from $1,000 to $1,250. Seven shillings and two pence (about $1.80) per word was the r[illegible] charged.

Emile Zola wrote to the Connecticut parents who had named their boy after him, advising that he be made a man of science, rather than trained for "the career of literature, where there is nothing to reap but bitterness and disappointment."

It is thought at Washington that the Mississippi River Committee will report favorably upon the jetty system, and in substantial opposition to the experimental system of improvements now being conducted at such vast cost between Cairo and New Orleans.

According to Supervising Inspector Dumont's report, in the year 1851 there were 39,000,000 passengers carried in steamboats with a loss of 700 lives—an average of one life lost for every 55,700 persons carried. In the last fiscal year there were 354,000,000 persons carried and 205 lives lost—an average of only one to every 1,727,000.

A letter from St. Petersburg of recent date states that Russia is unable to compete in the European markets with wheat grown in the United States. It costs much more to grow wheat in Russia than in this country, and the average product per acre is only one-third in the former of what it is in the latter. Leading merchants consider America the granary of the world.

Senator David Davis lives in a veritable palace, in the center of a handsome and spacious park, just outside the city limits of Bloomington, Illinois. From the lofty turret that surmounts his mansion he can view fertile fields that are all his own, extending almost to the horizon, to the north and east. It is reported his contemplated wedding has been postponed until next spring, at the request of his affianced.

Harriet Beecher Stowe is very proud of her achievements as an orange grower at her charming winter home of Mandarin, in Florida, about twenty miles south of Jacksonville. Her grove, which was set out when she established herself there not long after the war, numbers something over one hundred trees, and from seventy-five of them she now reaps an income of $1,500 a year.

Thurlow Weed's autobiography, though left incomplete by him, will be published. The Albany Argus reports his grandson, Thurlow Weed Barnes, as saying: "The editorship of the work will probably devolve upon me. The manuscript of the first volume is complete, but the rest is fragmentary. My grandfather seemed to think he had plenty of time, and though we urged him to finish the work, he did not hasten it."

Canada has adopted the system of competitive examinations of candidates for admission into the civil service. It is now charged that the protectionist Ministry has hit upon an ingenius method of ascertaining the political views of candidates for government positions and rejecting or admitting applicants accordingly. In some recent examination papers the apparently harmless question was asked: "Who was Richard Cobden?" If the candidate in reply shows any enthusiasm for Cobden as a free trader he doesn't get an appointment.

Mme. Nilsson-Rouzaud received a few days ago, in Baltimore, a large envelope bearing the Paris postmark of November 6, and the address, "Madame Christine Nilsson, New York," to which some post-office employe added, "North America." Without postage or further directions it had come from Paris to New York, to Boston, and finally to Baltimore. It was found to contain an invitation to the wedding, in Paris, October 20, of the Marquis Ferdinand Guell de Bourbon, Secretary to the Spanish Embassador in Paris, to Senorita Maria Josefa Alfonso y Guell.

The matrimonial insurance swindlers will find it difficult to continue their operations through the mails hereafter. Registered letters or money orders will not be forwarded by the Post-office Department to these concerns, a list of them having been prepared by inspectors detailed for the purpose. The greatest number are located in Tennessee and Mississippi, where it is said they continue to operate in spite of the exposures which have already been made concerning their fraudulent character. Under the watchful supervision of the postal authorities, however, their days will soon be numbered.

A method of preventing pitting in smallpox is given in the Gazette des Hopitaux. A mask is made of very pliable linen cloth, leaving apertures for the eyes, nose and mouth, and the inside of this is smeared with a liniment prepared in either of the three following ways: One of these contists of carbolic acid, four to ten parts, forty parts olive oil and sixty parts prepared chalk; another, five parts carbolic acid, and forty parts each of olive oil and pure starch; and a third, two parts thymol, forty of linseed oil and sixty of chalk in powder. The mask should be renewed every twelve hours, and compresses impregnated with one of these mixtures may also be placed on the hands, and on any parts of the face which the mask does not directly touch.

Salmi Morse is actively engaged in the preparation and rehearsal of the Passion Play at New York City, which he proposes to put upon the boards within the next sixty days. Whether or not this second attempt to introduce this performance to the public will be successful, is a question concerning which varied opinions are expressed. Mr. Morse seems to be backed by ample capital. He recently purchased a building in New York, and is expending several thousand dollars in remodeling and furnishing it in a manner appropriate to the solemnity of the play. His purpose, as expressed in an interview a few days ago, is not to make money, but to present in a striking and affecting manner the suffering and crucifixion of Christ. He claims that the play will be the direct means of familiarizing the masses with religion and the teachings of the Savior who would otherwise remain in total ignorance. The estimated cost of the production is $1,500 per night. The number of performers will exceed three hundred, all amateurs. No professional actors will be allowed to take part in the play.

Mr. Travers and Two Confidence Men.

Mr. William R. Travers tells the following story on himself, and vouches for its being a new and true one: As he was leaving his office on Thursday last a well-dressed man approached him and, greeting him very cordially, said: "How do you do, sir? I am very glad to see you. When did you arrive in the city?"

"E—er—e—ex—c-c-c-cuse me—me, sir," said Mr. Travers. "You—you have evidently mis—mis—mistaken me for s-s-s-s-somebody else."

"Are you not Mr. Andrews, of Poughkeepsie?" queried the man.

"N-n-no, sir; my name is Tr-Tr-Travers," he replied, whereupon the man, with many apologies, made off.

Mr. Travers quietly walked up Broadway, looking in the shop windows, as is his habit, when he was suddenly stopped by a man, who, rushing up to him, offered his hand and said: "How do you do, Mr. Travers? I am so glad to see you! I heard you were in town and have been looking out for you everywhere."

"Pa-pa-par-pardon me, sir," said Mr. Travers, blandly. "My name is not Ter-Ter Travers; I-I-I am Mr. An-An-An-Andrews, from Pok-Pok-Poughkeepsie."—N. Y. World.

—The art of shorthand is, it appears, to be superseded by one of the queerest inventions on record. The revolution is to be effected by means of a machine called a "glossograph," consisting of six levers, forming a sort of cage, each communicating with a tracing pencil. The use to be made of the "glossograph" is rather curious. While the orator or lecturer is holding forth, the reporter is to repeat the words of the speaker with his tongue in the cage. Thus the quickest conversation, some London journals tell us, may be taken down with ease. The ludicrous aspect which this new invention assumes may be an obstacle to its adoption.—N. Y. Sun.

—"No one shall kiss his or her children on the Sabbath or fasting days," was an old Connecticut blue law. Herein we see the origin of going Sunday night to kiss the grown up children of other people.—Boston Globe.

—There is a law among the Omaha Indians relating to widows that is more terrible than the inquisition of ancient times, with all its diabolical tortures. Among the Omahas, widows must wait four years before remarrying.

Did the Comet Give the Sun a Black Eye?

Happening to look at the sun one day last week through a pair of those very dark spectacles which are used in the manipulation of the electric light, the reporter saw a distinct black speck on its disk.

"That must be a very large sun spot," he thought, and immediately betook himself to the observatory of his friend the astronomer.

"Yes," said the astronomer, "that's a truly remarkable spot. It's the black eye that the great comet gave the ruler of the solar system! At least there is a theory which says so, and, as the sun has shown black eyes before after great comets have been engaged with him at close quarters, perhaps the theory is not so very far out of the way."

"Do you mean that the comet hit the sun?"

"No, not exactly that, for if it had it would have been the end of the comet. But it undoubtedly passed through the atmosphere of the sun, and if it had gone much closer would have touched what appears to us as the sun's actual surface. You know that one of the discoveries of recent years is that meteors follow in the tracks of comets. The tremendous spot that adorned the sun's face after the perihelion of the comet of 1843 has been ascribed to the fall into the sun of a huge meteor following the comet, and the present spot, or rather spots—for there are several which made their appearance about the time of the perihelion of our great comet—may have had a similiar origin. There is another view that can be taken of it. It has been shown that a comet going very close to the sun is liable to be torn to pieces by the divellent forces operating on it. The present comet, you know, has a divided nucleus; in fact, it has probably thrown off several cometary masses of considerable magnitude, and the work of disintegration appears to be still going on. Now, it may have parted with a portion of its mass when it was nearest the sun, and the fall of this may have produced the spots. There is yet another way of looking at it which does not i[illegible] the fall of anything upon [illegible] that is this; the exceeding[illegible] close approach of the comet may by itself have caused the spots. It is true no comet has ever shown that it possessed mass enough to effect by its attraction the motion of any planet near which it passed, but the gaseous surface of the sun is in a condition far different from that of the solid globes which revolve around it. At any rate, the greater spot which you now see on the face of the sun, and some of the smaller ones too, undoubtedly made their appearance when the comet was at its perihelion; and moreover, they appeared on that side of the sun which was then turned toward the comet.

"So you see there is really some reason for saying that the comet gave the sun a black eye. In return for this pugilistic salute, however, if all the observations are to be trusted, the King of Day reduced the comet's head to fragments."—N. Y. Sun.

How a Troubadour was Tricked.

Some of the most celebrated singers in Arabia sing only for ladies, and will notperform unless they are aware that their efforts are not being merely thrown away on mankind. Of course, Moslem women can never be present, but they can and do throng adjacent terraces, courts and windows. An amusing trick was once played on one of these artists who was never known to exert himself for males only. Whenever he was invited out all the neighboring posts of vantage were quickly occupied, and if he perceived that there were ladies among his outside hearers he always surpassed himself. On the day in question, however, it was raining, and every one was obliged to stay indoors instead of spreading the guest carpets in the court. The tenor was obstinately silent, and evidently very sulky. At length one of his friends, who knew his idiosyncrasy, went out of the room, and, enveloping a broom handle with a white veil and izar, placed it in a neighboring window. Returning to the singer's side he jogged his elbow, and pointed out to him that a beautiful woman was watching him and waiting to hear his voice. He brightened up at once and sang for hours, with many a side glance at the mysterious lady. When the party broke up the inventor of the trick brought in his dummy and presented it to the singer, saying, "Behold, my uncle, the maiden to whom you have been singing." It may be imagined that his mortification was for long kept alive by the unmerciful mockery when the story got abroad.

Good Taste.

Good taste is sometimes as useful as money; indeed it has a pecuniary value of its own. How often do we see a cheap but tastefully planned and arranged cottage exceeding in attractiveness the spacious and costly but ill-contrived dwellings! The difference between taste and the want of it is strikingly manifested in the laying out of grounds and the planting of trees and shrubs. And it is also manifest in other ways. One person always appears well dressed; another never. Yet the one who is ill-dressed may pay his tailor twice as much in the year as the other.

All praise wrongly directed, or suggested by selfish motives, is an injurious element in society. It perpetuates much that ought to be repressed, it fills silly minds with vanity and egotism, it panders to some of the worst features of human character. Insincere flattery especially does this.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—When you fret and fume at the petty ills of life remember that the wheels which go round without creaking last longest.—N. Y. Herald.

—One of the best rules in conversation is, never to say a thing which any of the company can reasonably wish had been left unsaid.—Swift.

—A cow at Pittston, N. Y., ate up a section of a spring bed before her owner noticed that she had a wiry appearance. Some men are so absent-minded, you know.—Detroit Free Press.

—The verdict of the Coroner's jury at Tunbridge Wells, on the death of a child, was: "The child was suffocated, but there is no evidence to show that the suffocation was before or after death."—Medical and Surgical Reporter.

—A New York paper says: "Last night Gustavus Schwackheimer, a German, attempted to commit suicide," etc. The explanation that Gustavus is "a German" was necessary. Readers would have supposed that he was an Irishman from Tipperary.—Norristown Herald.

—We are told by a recipe book that "eggs may be kept in good order for six months by dipping them into warm tallow, and after they are cool packing them in saw-dust; cover with sawdust and make as nearly air-tight as possible, and put away in a dry, cool place." This costs but little more than twice as much as it would to throw away the eggs you have and buy fresh ones when you want 'em.—N. Y. Post.

—Nothing is ever lost by being pleasant and agreeable. You ask for two pounds of steak—no more, no less. One butcher growls that he can't cut off just two pounds, and you leave him, thoroughly vexed. At the next stall, the man of meat hears your request with unruffled visage, cuts off a pound and a half, slaps it into the scale and out again in double-quick time, rolls it up neatly, and says, with a sweet smile: "Just two pounds, ma'am." He is the man who succeeds.—Chicago Tribune.

—"What is your business?" inquired a city merchant of a country youth with whom he was playing an innocent game of euchre. "Oh, I'm one of nature's humorists," replied the verdant lad. "I fail to catch on," said the merchant, unconsciously dropping into slang; "what are you giving me?" "Just what I said, boss," responded the boy. "Well, what do you mean by nature's humorist?" "Why, I tickle the ground with a hoe," explained the young granger, "and the earth smiles with plenty." The merchant passed, and the youth made it spades.

The Dead Horse Festival.

This amusing ceremony often takes place on board of English ships sailing to Australia. On joining a ship the sailors are advanced a month's wages, with which they are supposed to have bought a horse, which dies at the end of four weeks. A dummy steed is prepared in the forecastle, the body being an old flour barrel, the neck and head of canvas, stuffed with straw and painted. In place of a saddle, a hole is cut through the body, large enough to admit the legs of the rider.

About half-past seven in the evening a small procession, headed by a man who carries a baton, furnished with a rude imitation of a human face, issues from the forecastle. Following him is a sailor with long white whiskers, who holds a can for penny contributions. He is protected by a number of policemen, armed with canvas clubs like those used in pantomimes, with which they lay about them as freely as a New York policeman, but with no other intent than eliciting shouts of laughter. The procession is closed by a number of sailors who sing jolly sea songs during the [illegible] the collection has been [illegible] party returns to the forecastle.

Shortly [illegible] ward a larger procession issues from the forecastle, with a number of comic characters in addition to those just mentioned, among them the auctioneer, in frock coat and tall hat, with a roll of papers in his hands, and attended by a clerk. Immediately after the auctioneer comes the horse, ridden, or rather carried, by a sailor dressed as a jockey, and led by a groom. The procession parades about the deck, the rider making the horse prance in the most lively and amusing manner.

The auctioneer then mounts a barrel on the quarter-deck, and after a long and laughable harangue on the merits of the horse, puts up the animal for sale. Previous to all this the hat has been passed round among the passengers and officers, and ten to fifteen pounds have been collected for the benefit of the sailors. The bidding is spirited and amusing, and ceases when it reaches the amount collected, which is then handed to the sailors by one of the lady passengers.

After the auction, the leading characters move off to the lee side, near the mainsail, and a solemn dirge is chanted about the poor animal dying suddenly, each verse ending with "Poor old Horse!" The horse and rider are then hoisted to the end of the mainyard over the ship's side, blue-lights are let off, giving a ghastly aspect to the scene, and at a given signal the rope is cut, and the horse falls into the sea, leaving the rider suspended in the air, and floats astern in the darkness. The procession again forms and marches around the deck, the sailors singing "Rule Britannia."

—Pickled grapes: Fill a jar with alternate layers of sugar and bunches of nice grapes just ripe and freshly gathered; fill one-third full of good, cold vinegar and cover lightly.—Chicago Journal.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 28, 1882.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

J. J. Sims, Postmaster at Oxford, Ala., is missing, together with $1,500 of Government money.

Two years ago Wesson, Miss., was only a pine forest. It has now a cotton mill employing 1,000 hands and nearly 3,000 inhabitants.

The Advertiser says an observant State exchange has noticed that cotton this year requires on an average only 1,500 pounds to make a bale. We are told that last year it took 1,700 and the year before about 1,800 pounds to the bale, showing that the yield the present year is very fine.

Mary Tripp had a longer experience in trousers than most women do who put them on. She wore them at Abington, Mass., and in other New England places for seven years. She lived with her husband part of the time, but occasionally went away for remunerative employment. Her last venture was in horse stealing, as a result of which she is now in prison.

The party sent out by the New Orleans Times-Democrat to explore the everglades of Florida, has completed its trip. The party traveled nearly five hundred miles through a country hitherto unknown. They declare the everglades the American garden spot. A full account of what the expedition found out will shortly appear in the Times-Democrat, the most enterprising of Southern newspapers.

Gen Joseph A. Wheeler, the noted Confederate cavalryman, was nominated by acclamation for the Forty-seventh Congress from the Eighth Alabama district Thursday, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Hon. Wm. M. Lowe. Gen. Wheeler was elected to the Forty-seventh Congress, and took his seat. The Republicans turned him out, giving the seat to Mr. Lowe. That gentleman having died, Gen. Wheeler will return, practically without opposition, to complete the term to which he will have been twice elected. The Gov. has ordered an election in the Eighth district.

The Republicans in Congress are all at once loudly calling for reform in the civil servic. They are pretending to oppose the Hubbell plan of assessments and to demand a reduction in public expenditures. Of their sudden change of sentiment, Mr. George, in a speech before the Senate, the other day, said: "The Republicans are now so thoroughly conscious of the guilt of political assessments that they come to Congress on the first day of the session, and by their President ask the speedy passage of a law to prevent them from relapsing ing into sin. It was like the case of a criminal in the daily practice of crime asking that a law should be passed to arrest him in his guilty career."

Mayor Harrison of Chicago, being requested to enforce the Sunday laws of that city, replied that he would not undertake any such thing. "I believe in Sunday as a day of rest." he said; "but what is rest, to one man may be labor to another. Rest is not simply doing nothing, but is a change. A man sitting at a desk all the week, occupied with mental labor, finds no refreshment in a stiff-back bench in church on Sunday. The Sunday of the Puritai [illegible] s beneficial to them bee [illegible] spent the week in outdoor [illegible] out men of sedentary habits nee[illegible] to reverse the usage. Any attempt to compel the people of Chicago to be pious will fail, and it ought to."

Some of the details of the Auditor's report are interesting. They show that the railway track in Alabama is in all 1,919 miles, and that railroads furnish eleven per. cent. of all the taxable property in the State. The value of land varies greatly in the different counties. The highest value is in Etowah, $6.50 per acre, and the lowest in Escambia and Washington, less than fifty cents. The State has $100,155 invested in printing presses and material, to which sum Mobile contributes $32,400, and Montgomery $11,450. Mobile contains $330,339 worth of household furniture, and Montgomery $98,730 worth. The libraries in the State are worth $219,002; the jewelry, plate and silverware $179,665. Mobile makes no return on this subject. Judging from the report, Mobile not only has no jewelry and silver, but there is not a musical instrument in this county. There are $18,672, in taxable paintings in Alabama; $757,662 in clocks, watches and chains. Alabamians evidently value their time, although they seem to have little regard for art, and, as far as Mobilians are concerned, none at all for music. The public must come to the conclusion that the rates are rather faulty.—Register.

Christmas.

Ere another issue of the VIEW reaches its readers, another Christmas will have come and gone, and we will have again celebrated the anniversay of the birth of the Savior of the world. Who knows of the miseries and the sorrows which the day may behold? Who can tell of the strifes, the contentions and the wranglings that it may witness? But when we look at our own homes, we see much to be thankful for. Here peace and plenty reign supreme, and the the hand of God has showered its blessings upon our land. Thankful should we be for such blessings, and we should not forget to beseech that they may here abide.

The present is propitious and the future most hopeful. Our people are becoming satisfied with their homes, and the disposition to seek other fields of labor is decreasing each day that we live and see the wonderful wealth and possibilities of our own Alabama. Blessed as it is with the hand of the Almighty, its riches will be untold for many generations to come. These are some of many things that we should reflect upon and be thankful for on the greatest day of the year.

Legislative.

The following important bills have passed both houses and been approved by the Governor:

To confer upon notaries public and ex-officio justices of the peace similar powers to those possessed by justices of the peace to issue attachments returnable to the circuit or any city court.

To amend section 580 of the code, which amendment fixes the annual salary of each Judge of the Supreme Court at thirty-six hundred dollars.

An act to authorize and require the Governor, to destroy all uncurrent funds in the State Treasury and all six per cent. bonds that have not been issued.

To provide for the introduction of the study of the laws of health, in the public schools of the State, which provides that hereafter physiology and hygiene shall be taught in the public schools of the State, in all cases in which the board of examiners in any county shall deem it expedient and practicable.

To make an appropri[illegible] of one hundred and thirty t[illegible] dollars for each year, fo[illegible] of the public schools.

To sell a certain plantation belonging to the State, called the State Convict Farm, purchased from Thomas Williams.

A joint memorial that the Senators and Representatives in Congress be requested to secure the passage of a bill granting aid to education in the several States, on the basis of illiteracy; the amount to be applied by the several States through their Superintendents of Education.

The Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute.

We have received the twenty-first and twenty-second annual reports of the Board of Commissioners of the Alabama Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind, made to the Governor, who is ex-officio a member of the board. The list of officers and teachers in the asylum number thirteen, including the Principal, two teachers of the blind, four teachers of mutes, one teacher of music, one matron, one physician, a master of shops, an engineer and a chief laundress.

The time covered by the report is from October 2, 1880, to September 30, 1882. The number of pupils during that time has been seventy-five, all told. Of these, fifty have been mutes and twenty-five blind, forty-four males and thirty-one females. There has been only one cases of serious illness during the two years covered by the report. Since 1871, no appropriation for repairs has been needed, the surplus of the support fund being sufficient to cover all necessary repairs and to erect a school building and laundry besides. The Principal says, however, that the present annual appropriation of $15,000 will not be sufficient to cover repairs in future. Special attention is called to the following extract from the Principal's report to the Board:

"The writer feels that he would be remiss in his duty if he failed to urge upon the attention of the General Assembly the duty of the State to make some provision for the education and amelioration of the condition of the colored mute and blind children of Alabama."

Outside of this report it is known that the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum of Alabama is a model institution of its kind. Its excellence is owing in great measure to the ability and untiring energy of the Principal, Dr. J. H. Johnson. The State has every reason to congratulate herself on having the services of one so competent in the management of one of her most important institutions.—Advertiser.

There is bad news for the girls. An Eastern journal announces the death of Mr. Kissam.

DIED,

At Maplesville, this county, Nov. 27th, 1882, Mr. BAILY BOWLINE. The subject of this sketch was born in the State of Indiana, April 10th, 1815. At an early age he removed to North Carolina, from thence to Tennessee, and finally to this section, where he has resided for about forty-five years. He was among the first settlers of this community. For fifteen years he suffered from consumption, and to its relentless grasp he was forced to yield at last. His most critical period was between the 18th and 27th of November, while the leaves were falling. Since last winter he told his friends that he did not expect to survive his critical period this year. His beloved wife preceded him to their eternal rest for one year and a day. To him death had no terrors; life was a burden. He would often ask the friends who sat watching by his bedside, "How much longer must I wait?" While the angel of death was hovering over him, his countenance was radiant with smiles too ethereal for earth, and with a blessing on all he calmly passed, to the home of the blest. O! death where is thy sting! O! grave where is thy victory!

Thus closed the career of a man, whose life was an illustration of the benign influences of christianity. He was a loving husband, a kind father, a good friend, a considerate neighbor and a true christian. He leaves a son and a daughter, several grand children, and a host of old friends, who will feel deeply his loss. K.

The Road to Wealth.

Frequent and constant advertising brought me all I own.—A. T. Stewart.

How can the world know a man has a good thing unless he advertises possession of it.—Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Success depends upon a liberal patronage of printing offices.—J. J. Astor.

The road to fortune is through printer's ink.—P. T. Barnum.

An Excellent Vehicle

At Little Cost!!

I am agent at Clanton for the celebrated

Indiana Road Cart.

The very thing for Doctors, Tax Collectors, Sheriffs and traveling men generally. It is light of weight, and smooth of run, and is made in buggy shape, the body being suspended on Springs. It is a very popular and convenient cart, stylish and durable. For terms and further information call on or write to me at Clanton.

I also have a good horse and buggy for hire which can be obtained at any time. J. H. ALRIDGE.

Clanton, Dec. 21, 1882.

A Good Home Paper.

THE CHILTON VIEW is the paper for the people to read.

Some of the reasons why the VIEW is so generally read and liked:

1. It is a good paper.
2. It is a home paper and gives you home news together with the general news.
3. It has valuable farm and household hints on its outside pages each week.
4. It is always up with the times in news matters and general progress.
5. It is a paper for the people, and is opposed to everything, whether in office or out, that is detrimental or dangerous to the interests of the people.

Added to this, it is one of the the cheapest county papers published in the State. Now is the time to subscribe and to get your neighbor to do the same.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

To satisfy a fi. fa. in my hands, issued from the circuit court of Chilton county, against Alfred Bugg and in favor of John W. Gullahorn and Brother, I will proceed to sell, on the first Monday in January, 1883, at Gullahorn's Mill, in Chilton county, between the legal hours of sale, the following described property, as the property of the said Alfred Bugg, to-wit:

One cow and calf.
One sow and pigs.
Six turkeys.
Eight chickens.
Two bedsteads.
Four bushels peas.
Two hundred and seventeen bundles fodder.
Twenty bushels corn.
One bay mare.
Five hundred pounds seed cotton.

Subject to a mortgage heretofore executed by said Alfred Bugg to R. Ehrman, and which said mortgage and the debt secured thereby is due and unpaid.

And also the following described property, as the property of said Alfred Bugg, to-wit: One lot of iron, one lot of dishes, and one lot of tools.

J. E. LOWE,
Sheriff Chilton Co.
d14

Verbena Male and Female Academy.

VERBENA, CHILTON CO., ALA.

This school is now in session and will continue until June 18, 1883.

The course of instruction is divided into four departments: Primary, Preparatory, Intermediate and Academic.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary department, per mo.			$1.50.
Preparatory	"	"	2.00.
Intermediate	"	"	3.00.
Academic	"	"	4.00.
Music	"	"	3.00.
Contingent fee per term			.25.

Good board can be obtained in private families at $9 or $10 per month.

Tuition will be charged from date of entrance to close of session, payable monthly.

The Principal will call at rooms of pupils at night and instruct FREE OF CHARGE, when solicited.

The trustees have secured the services of Prof. W. U. ACREE, who comes highly recommended as an educator. A competent corps of assistants have been employed, and no pains will be spared to make the Institution equal to any in Middle Alabama. For further information address the Principal or A. J. Brooks, Secretary of the Board of Trustees. n16

THE SUN FOR 1883.

More people have read the Sun during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. No other newspaper published on this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like the Sun for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; the events the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs the Sun makes a practice of telling the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval. The Sun has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the common good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that the Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overwhelming popular verdict against Robinsonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, the Sun stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the encroachments of monopolists, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

Terms—The several editions of the Sun are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: Daily 55 cents a month, $6.50 a year; with Sunday edition, $7.70. Sunday edition, eight pages, $1.20 a year. Weekly, eight pages, $1.00 a year. Address I. W. ENGLAND, Publisher Sun, N. Y. City.

NOTICE NO. 1887.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 29, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the register and receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 5, 1883, viz: Martha A. Gray, Homestead 2509 for the n w ¼ of sec. 31 township 23 north, range 17 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John K. Booth, Simeon H. Gleen, George Songs, and Frank Weldon, all of Mountain Creek, Ala.

THOS. J. SCOTT,
Register.
d7

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to R. L. Fannin by C. J. Pinkston, on the 13th day of April, 1881, and recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county in Vol. 5 of Record of Deeds on page 634, I will expose to public sale in the village of Verbena, on Saturday, the 23d day of December, inst., for cash, one yoke of oxen.

BERRY TATUM,
Adm'r of R. L. Fannin, Dec'd.
J. M. Falkner, Attorney.

NOTICE NO. 2018.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 8, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver at Montgomery, Ala., on Jan. 19th, 1883, viz: Secundus Jackson Hawe Homestead 7594 for the fraction 2, section 12, township 20 north, range 16 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: William W. Wadsworth, Reuben Anthony, Boling Anthony, and William Patterson, all of Mountain Creek, Ala.

d14 THOS J. SCOTT, Register.

Administrator's Notice.

Probate Court of Chilton county.

Estate of Alfred Bethea, Deceased.

Letters of administration having been granted to the undersigned on the 28th day of November, 1882, by the Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of the Probate Court of Chilton county, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against said estate will be required to present the same within the time allowed by law, or that the same will be barred.

H. C. TOMPKINS,
Administrator.
d2

J. F. MAULL.

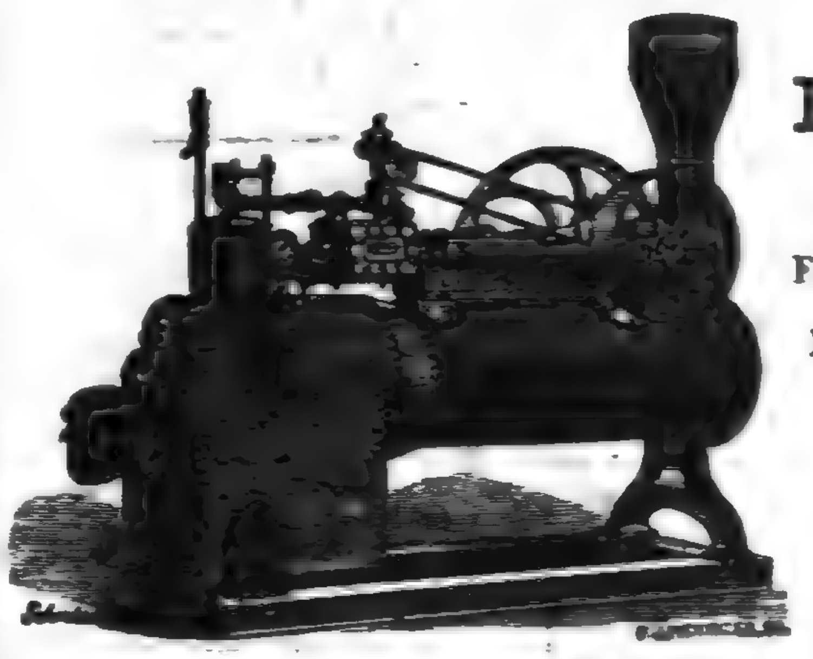
MAULL & HOCKENSMITH,
Lomax, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, FAMIL
SUPPLIES, NOTIONS, HA
Caps, Hardware, Crockery, Tinwa
Boots, Shoes, Toilet Articles
FANCY GOODS AT THE LOWEST PRICE
☞ HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CO

We sell our goods at low rates and solicit a share of public

MAULL & HOCKEN

Clanton, Ala., January 19, 1882.

The Eclipse Leads the Worl



ENGI
OF ALL
FROM TWO HUNDRED POWE
—AND—
OF ALL

PORTABLE AND STATIONARY, ON SILLS AND ON

The most Economical and Durable; the Safest, Simplest
Saw and Grist Mills, Gins, Cotton Presses, Belting,
kinds of Agricultural Implements.

For Catalogue and Prices address

MOORE, MOORE & HANDLEY,
General Agents for Alabama, Birmingham

☞ Agents wanted in every county in the State.

New Goods! New Goods!
Bottom Prices at Last at
WELLMAN & CO.'S
"Louisville Clothing Hous
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
—DEALERS IN—
Fine Clothing and Gent's Furnishing

"The Best Goods for the Least Money," is the motto of the House, and they are now selling an immense stock of Fa Winter Goods at the Lowest Cash Prices.

Feb 15-tf

W. & C. ROBERTS,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTE
And Blank Book Manufactu
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ORDERS FOR RULING AND BINDING WILL RE PROMPT ATTENTION.

We have the largest and completest printing office in bama, and our Prices and Work compare with those cities. If you want Printing, Ruling or Binding to us.

PERSONAL! TO MEN ONLY!

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich., will send Dr. Dye's Electro-Voltaic Belts and Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days to men (young or old) who are afflicted with Nervous Debility, Lost Vitality and Manhood, and kindred troubles, guaranteeing speedy and complete restoration of health and manly vigor. Address as above. No risk is incurred, as thirty days' trial is allowed. Ju 7-ly

For Sale Or To Rent.

One store house in Clanton, forty feet square, with a partition making two rooms one 16x40, and one 24x40. A good stable on lot, 16x40 feet, with loft above and a good stock shed attached. Lot is 75x150 feet, and it is the best location for business in Clanton. For further particulars apply to

J. FOX MAULL,
Lomax, Ala.
Sept. 15-tf

Blank mortgages, crop liens, warranty deeds and waive notes for sale at this office.

EAST TENN., VIRG
GEORGIA RAIL Forms the quickest and able route to Eastern C
AND ONLY
—TO THE—WATERING PLA
—of—
East Tennessee and
The principle
SPLENDID SCENER
TIME AND TH
CARS.
The only line mountainous region of
and Virginia.
For information
JAS R. O
A. POPE,
A. G. P. A.

THE CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 28, 1882.

COUNTY DIRECTORY.

Chancellor Eastern Chancery Division—N. S. Graham.
Judge Fifth Judicial Circuit—J. E. Cobb.
Solicitor Fifth Judicial Circuit—S. J. Darby.
Member of Congress—Fifth Congressional District—Thomas Williams.
Senator Fifteenth Senatorial District—William P. Oden.
Representative—J. S. Edwards.
Probate Judge—H. J. Callen.
Circuit Clerk—Wm. H. Foshee.
Register in Chancery — Dr. W. E. Stewart.
Sheriff—James E. Lowe.
Treasurer—James M. Parish.
Tax Assessor—Wm. A. Smith.
Tax Collector—Riley M. Honeycutt.
Supt. Education—James M. Corderie.
Commissioners—K. Wells, J. J. Honeycutt, R. C. Lanoir, Buckner Harris.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	6:33 a. m.
No. 3	7:15 p. m.
No. 9	11:10 p. m.
No. 11	2:00 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	8:48 a. m.
No. 4	*9:42 p. m.
No. 8	7:05 p. m.
No. 12	10:38 a. m.

* Don't stop.

SCHEDULE E. T., V. & G. RAILROAD.

SELMA DIVISION.

Going North	Daily Mail	Going South
Lve. 7:40 a. m.	Selma	Arr 7:73 p. m.
" [illegible]36 "	Calera	Lve. 4:40 "
[illegible]:40 p m	Rome	" 10:10 a m
" 7:18 "	Dalton	" 8:05 "
" 8:45 "	Cleaveland	" 7:03 "
" 11:35 "	[illegible]	" 3:30 "
" 1:01 a m	[illegible]	" 1:45 "
" 4:15 a m	[illegible]	" 10:20 p m

ALA. CENTRAL DIVISION.

Eastward	Daily Mail	Westward
Arr. 11:00 a m	Selma Lv.	4:30 p m
Leave 8:50 "	Demopolis "	7:00 "
Leave 5:35 a m	Meridian Arrive	10 p m

LODGES.—Regular communications Clanton Lodge of A. F. & A. M., No. 42, first Saturday in each month at 7 o'clock p. m.

Regular conventions Chilton Lodge No. 32 K. of P. every second and fourth Saturday nights in each month, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Woodbine Lodge No. 40, I. O. G. T., meets every Friday night at 7 o'clock.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Christmas next Monday.

"Where was Moses when the candle went out?" It is said that he was in the dark.

Mr. J. P. Willoughby, land agent of the S. & N. Ala. railroad will be at Clanton, on Jan. 1, 1883.

Boys who thoughtfully read the story on the first page of this issue will be inclined to remain on the farm.

Miss Janie Oliver, an accomplished young lady from Wetumpka, has charge of the music department of Verbena Academy.

It is a truism of no little import that the man who seeks to practice economy by stopping his home paper will come out several lengths behind in the long run.

The Age reports one genuine case of small pox and one case of varioloid in the pest house at Birmingham. The victims are negroes. Little danger is apprehended of the disease spreading. The citizens are vacinating freely.

We have received the second number of the National Union, a Republican paper lately established in Montgomery. We place it on our exchange list in hopes that it may furnishes us something to write about occasionally.

Cotton in Clanton: Good Mid. 9¾, Middling 9½, Low Mid. 9, Strict Good Ord. 8¾, Good Ordinary 8⅝. The Montgomery market is dull at 9⅝ to 9¾ cents for Good Middling, 9⅜ to 9½ for Middling, 9 to 9⅛ for Low Middling, 8⅞ to 8¾ for Strict Good Ord. and 8⅜ to 8½ for Good Ordinary.

Died, at Strasburg, on the night of the 10th inst., Mrs. Johanna Wilson, wife of Mr. George Wilson and mother of Mr. John T. Wilson, at the age of 77 years and 7 months. The deceased was a consistent member of the Christian or Campbellite Church. She died of consumption.

Something new, neat and novel in the buggy line is the Indiana Road Cart, for which Mr. J. H. Aldridge is agent at this point. It is called a cart, but is much on the order of a buggy. It is set on springs and has the easiest movement imaginable. It is sold cheap. Read advertisement elsewhere.

The Florence News, referring to the St. Louis, Montgomery and Florida railroad says:

We are credibly informed that immediately upon the passage of this bill the company will commence building and expect to complete it within six years, the time prescribed by the bill.

The line of the proposed road is [illegible] through Chilton county.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, in Coosa county, by Rev. J. M. Dykes, the bride's father, Mr. Enoch Wilson, of Clanton, and Miss Docia Dykes, of Coosa. May the handsome groom and his charming bride have a long and happy life.

Read our Birmingham cards. Alonzo Elliott is the man to buy stoves from. Moore & Handly are the great machinery men of the South. Wellman is the Clothier and Houpt the Jeweler. Birmingham is competing successfully with Nashville and Louisville in many lines.

Our readers will not expect a paper next week. Printers, like the rest of human kind, find themselves in need of rest occasionally, and Christmas is probably the most appropriate time for such a rest. The VIEW wishes its readers, one and all, a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Maplesville Dots.

Miss Sallie Liles will have a Christmas tree for the benefit of her pupils. Co-operation of her patrons is desired and expected. The public are invited to attend.

We are having some cold weather, and farmers can save their meat well.

Maplesville is like Clanton making a reputation as a jug town.

BIJOU.

A Hint to Farmers.

A level-headed exchange is of opinion that the price of cotton will not average more than nine cents a pound next year, and that farmers had better make their calculations accordingly. It predicts bigger and bigger cotton production and adds: "Our section of the State is now in very good condition. The farmers have plenty of corn, and there will be considerable meat in the country. Now is the time to abandon the all cotton system and become free of the merchants' mortgages and incumbrances upon the next crop, by keeping out of debt and making another provision crop."

Escaped.

The reported apostles of Mormonism, Hilson and DuBose, who were tried on a writ of habeas corpus last Thursday, and remanded to jail in default of $100 bail each, succeded in making their escape, on last Saturday night, by means of a small file, which they seem to have used to perfection in filing their way out. One of the women succeeded in making bond, and was released, the other is still in durance vile.

LATER.—The woman who made bond has been replaced in jail, at the instance of her bondsman, fears being entertained that she might follow the escapades.

The Price of Cotton in 1779.

COOSA RIVER, CHILTON CO.

ED. CHILTON VIEW: Dear Sir—As everything connected with the earlist cultivation of cotton seems to be of interest, I thought I would send you the following entry in a diary of my great grand father, Mr. John Logan, of Colleton District, So. Carolina. The entry was made in 1779, as follows:

"Bought 102 lbs of cotton, in the seed, of William Davis, who lives at Mrs. Slus', at 32-6 (thirty-two shillings and six pence), December 15th, 1779."

The same old gentleman, about that time, sent as a present to Col. Washington's cavalry, a waggon loaded with rice, as a treat after their successful encounter with Tarleton, near Rantowles Bridge.

Should the above be of sufficient interest you are at liberty to publish it. Respectfully,

GEO. A. LOGAN.

A $20 Bible Reward.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer twelve valuable rewards in their Monthly for January, among which is the following:

We will give $20 in gold to the person telling us how many verses there are in the New Testament Scriptures (not the New Revision) containing but two words each, by January 10th, 1883. Should two or more correct answers be received, the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner January 15th, 1883. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with their answer for which they will receive the February Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20 to you; cut it out. Address RUTLEDGE PUBLISHING CO., Easton, Pa.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. Wilkinson & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, N. Y.

Boston has elected a Democratic Mayor by over 2,000 majority.

To be Taken.

"You have heard," said a bashful young man who sat in a parlor a few nights ago with his sweetheart, on Fourth avenue, "You have heard of the Danish boy's whistle of wood; well I wish that the Danish boy's whistle was mine."

"And what would you do with it?" asked the smiling young girl.

"Why I would blow it," he answered, "and then my true love would take her place close by my side."

"One's good nature secures a favor so slight," replied the fair girl and she sat down right close to her lover.

"I would blow that whisle again, if I had it," stammered the blushing young man, "and then the charm would work so well that you would place your arm round my neck."

"Would it?" she said; and she smiled and laid her arm round his neck.

"I would give that whistle another good blow," said our young Adonis, "and you would give me a kiss,—a nice sweet little kiss."

The young maid then laughing replied, "what a fool of yourself with the whistle you'd make! for it would be really foolish and silly, I think, for you to sit there and whistle for what you might take."

(CURTAIN.)

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for General Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it is his duty to make it known to his fellows. This receipt, with full particulars, directions for preparation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be sent you by return mail, free of charge, by addressing with stamp or stamped self-addressed envelope. DR. J. C. RAYMOND,
164 Washington St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
☞ Mention this paper. d14y

NOTICE NO. 2027.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 13, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 19th, 1883, viz: Elizabeth C. Prim, Homestead 7469 and 9978 for the e ½ of n w ¼ n e ¼ of s w ¼ n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 10, township 23 range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: Ransom A. Miears, Peyton G. Killingsworth, James A. Brown, Luman L. Killingsworth, all of Days Mill, Ala.

THOS. J. SCOTT,
Register.
d21*

NOTICE NO. 1989.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 1, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 12, 1883, viz: William F. Robuck, Homestead 8917 for the s ½ of s e ¼, s e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 2, township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: Milton F. Fuller, Thomas J. Kiener, John Kiener, James L. Williams, all of Maplesville, Ala.

d7* THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 2005.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 29, 1883, viz: Josephus Levingston, Homestead entry 12840 and 6754 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ e ½ of s e ¼ and s w ¼ of s e ¼ sec. 22, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continued residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lewis Hawkiks, Martin Goodson, Berry Lawrence and Jake Smith, all of Randolph, Ala.

d7 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

NOTICE NO. 1976.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 22, 1882.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 30th, 1882, viz: Augustus Walker, Homestead entry No. 10356 for the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ of section 26, township 23 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, John M. Gothard, Squire D. Posey and John C. Martin, all of Randolph, Ala.

n30 THOS. J. SCOTT, Register.

Surveyor's Notice.

I would respectfully inform the people of Chilton county that I have been reappointed county surveyor, and with an experience of thirty years am prepared to do all surveying entrusted to me with satisfaction to all parties. Persons wishing to know where their land lines are would do well to call on me.

H. R. ATCHISON,
n23 Maplesville, Ala.

H. Houpt,
WATCHMAKER and OPTICIAN,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Glasses selected to fit any eyes. Wedding Rings, and Wedding Presents a specialty. Buyers of Watches will consult their interest by calling on me before purchasing elsewhere.

Over 25 years experience.

I have had business transactions with Mr. Houpt at various times for the last thirteen years and always found him reliable in his dealings.

nov10-tf REV. J. G. GURLEY.

Go to the Cheap Cash Store
—OF—
W. M. WILSON,
—CLANTON, ALA.—
Where you can get the best goods for the least money. A large stock
—OF—
DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS, SHOES,
And everything usually kept in a house of general merchandise now on hand, which he is selling at bottom prices.
"Quick Sales and Small Profits."

FOR YOUR
Cigars and Tobacco
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
—CALL ON—
I. FORST,
2d AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ The cheapest place in the city.
June 20-6m

Louisville & Nashville
Railroad Line.
The Quick, Short and Direct Route
TO ALL POINTS
North, East and West
Only one change of cars to
ST. LOUIS, CHICAGO, PITTSBURGH, PHILADELPHIA, NEW YORK AND BOSTON.
and the best route to
BALTIMORE & WASHINGTON.

PALACE CARS Through to Mobile and New Orleans without change, and is the shortest, quickest route to all points South.

SPECIAL LOW RATES are made for emigrants to all points West, and they are sent through in first class cars, by express trains and in quicker time than by any other route.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run on all through trains, between New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati.

CLOSE CONNECTIONS are made at Memphis, Nashville, Evansville and Louisville, with through cars for all points North, East and West.

Agents at all stations can give you full and reliable information, as to through time and connections, and procure you rates and tickets to all points. For further information address

C. P. ATMORE,
Gen. Pass. Agt., Louisville, Ky.
Or G. M. WILLIAMS,
Gen. T. Agt., Montgomery.

Insure Your Life
—IN THE—
People's Mutual
Relief Association,
OF ATLANTA, GA.

I take this method of informing the public that I am agent for the People's Mutual Relief Association of Atlanta, and can give cheap protection, to all who are weary of carrying their own risk. For particulars, rates, &c., address me at Clanton, Ala.

Dec. 29-1y A. J. HALL.

H. L. Wheeler.
GENERAL
Real Estate Agent.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Will buy and sell lands for commissions.
Jun15-1y

Robt. H. Knox,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton and adjoining counties, the circuit and district courts of the United States and the supreme court at Montgomery.

"MONTGOMERY MUSIC BAZAR,"
W. A. CHILD, Proprietor.
—DEALER IN—
Music, Musical Instruments, Fine Oil Paintings, Chromos, FANCY STATIONARY
—AND—
NOVELTIES AND BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS.

—AGENT FOR—
DECKER BROS., STIEF, BILLINGS and GATE CITY PIANO
Also Estey and Palace Organs.
No. 21 Market Street, Montgomery, Ala.
☞ WRITE FOR CIRCULARS AND CATALOGUE. ☜
Nov24-1y

BIRMINGHAM STOVE HOUSE.

Large Stock! Low Prices!
Alonzo S. Elliott,
MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN
TIN AND SHEET IRON WARE.
ROOFING AND GALVANIZED IRON CORNICE WORK.
Cooking and Heating Stoves,
Birmingham, Ala.
IRON MANTELS AND GRATES, STOVE FIXTURES, CROCKERY, &c.

We carry a complete stock, and orders by mail will receive lowest prices and prompt shipment. Oct 5-3m

---

WONDERFULLY CHEAP!
Elegant New Editions of Standard Publications.

In clear type, cleanly printed on first-class paper, handsomely and durably bound in cloth, with gold and ink side and back stamps.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

ROMOLA. By George Eliot. 416 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
UARDA. By George Ebers. From the German by Clara Bell. 350 pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
JOHN HALIFAX, GENTLEMAN. By Mrs. Mulock-Craik. [illegible] pages in one volume, 16mo. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
JANE EYRE. By Charlotte Bronte. 370 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
HYPATIA. By Charles Kingsley. 360 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
CORINNE. By Madame de Staël. 302 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
LAST OF THE MOHICANS. By James Fenimore Cooper. 293 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
TOM BROWN AT RUGBY. By Thomas Hughes. 286 pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
☞ The foregoing eight volumes packed in a neat box, $5.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES.

KNICKERBOCKER HISTORY OF NEW YORK. By Washington Irving. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.
THE SKETCH BOOK. By Washington Irving. [illegible] pages in one volume. Price in Cloth, $0.75.

MACAULAY'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND. [illegible] pages in [illegible] vols, 12mo, with portrait of the author. Cloth, $2; Half Leather, $4.
ROLLIN'S ANCIENT HISTORY. [illegible] pages, two volumes in one, quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, [illegible]; Half Leather, [illegible].
FROISSART'S CHRONICLES. Imperial octavo. 115 Illustrations. Extra large type. Cloth, $1.50; Half Leather, [illegible].
WORKS OF FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS. 1,144 pages in one volume quarto. Extra large type. Cloth, $2.00; Half Leather, [illegible].
KITTO'S CYCLOPEDIA OF BIBLICAL LITERATURE. [illegible] pages in two volumes, 16mo. Cloth, $2.50; Half Leather, [illegible].
TASSO'S JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 494 pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
POPE'S HOMER'S ILIAD. 459 pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
POPE'S HOMER'S ODYSSEY. 346 pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25. These two volumes in a neat box: Cloth, $1.75; Half Leather, $2.
CREASY'S FIFTEEN DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD. 275 pages in one volume, 16mo. Cloth, $0.75; Half Leather, $1.25.
PLUTARCH'S LIVES OF THE POETS. [illegible] pages in one volume. Cloth, [illegible]; Half Leather, $1.50.
AMERICAN ADDITIONS TO CHAMBERS'S ENCYCLOPÆDIA. 4 volumes, comprising over 15,000 titles compiled by American editors, uniform in size and binding with Chambers's Encyclopædia, as published by Messrs. Lippincott & Co. Bound also in Cloth, uniform with the "imported" edition of Chambers's. Cloth, per set, $10; Sheep, per set, $12; Morocco, per set, $16.

☞ Circular showing type, paper and styles of binding, free on application. Sold by all Booksellers, or sent post-paid on receipt of price, by S. W. GREEN'S SON, Publisher, 74 Beekman St., N. Y.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

The Florida Mutual
FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Is a Reciprocal Benevolent Institution, organized and incorporated under the laws of Florida, for the mutual protection of the property of its members against loss or damage by fire, and is the

Safest and Cheapest
FIRE INSURANCE EXTANT.

Now is the time to insure your property against fire. For terms, &c., call on or write to W. M. WILSON, Agt.
oct 5-6m Clanton Ala.

NOTICE OF
COUNTY SURVEYOR

I am prepared to survey lands in Chilton county, and all persons wishing to know where their land lines are, will please give me an opportunity of surveying for them. If I do not give satisfaction the survey is free. Postoffice—Clanton, Ala.

J. L. WILLIAMS,
Nov24-1y County Surveyor.

HENRY WILSON, Montevallo,
S. F. WILSON, Columbiana,
W. E. JOHNSTON, Clanton.

Wilson, Johnston & Wilson.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
CLANTON, ALA.

Will practice in the courts of Chilton, Shelby and the supreme court at Montgomery. Jan 1-1y

---

George Hunter,
TONSORIAL ARTIST,
CLANTON, ALA.

Solicits the patronage of the public.

PRICES FOR WORK:

Shaving - - - - 10 cents.
Hair cutting - - - - 25 cents.

☞ The only barber in the world who never talks. Jul [illegible]-1y

Exhausted Pomace.

This waste product of cider manufacture is usually lost, but there is no more propriety in casting it away than there would be in casting away the refuse of a flouring mill. Exhausted pomace is a valuable food for any kind of stock that can eat it, and is especially valuable for milch cows. It is time that the foolish impression that apples and pomace naturally tend to dry up milk-giving cows, was done away with, and that all waste from the apple orchard should be estimated at its true value and utilized for what it is worth, for there is still a lingering belief clinging to the minds of many dairymen that apples in any shape are hurtful to the flow of milk, just as a few years ago there was in respect to the use of corn or corn-meal, because when fed in excess cows were injured by eating it. We are reminded of the valuable food annually lost in the form of pomace from recently hearing the dairymen in the vicinity of a large cider mill in the northwestern part of Pennsylvania give their experience in feeding the pomace—all of which was carted away from the mill by the neighboring dairymen as fast as it was made, and fed to the cows. They all agreed in the good results of its use. One man, a little more enterprising than the rest, began by feeding his cows a peck of the pomace night and morning, with a marked improvement in the yield and quality of milk. From this he gradually increased the ration to a half a bushel twice a day, cautiously watching the result. His cows kept increasing in their flow, and soon began to improve in condition as the quantity fed was increased. His xaemple soon became contagious, and the mill was daily relieved of its waste as fast as it was made. One man, who from scanty pasture, was feeding grain quite freely to prevent his cows from shrinking, found the pomace an efficient substitute for the grain he had used, and which he quit feeding till the pomace was gone. Another, who made butter, said the yield in butter was doubled, the quantity and quality of milk being both so much improved. The most of those who used the pomace took their milk to cheese factories, where, if there had been any ill effects from using it they would at once have been developed, but it turned out that the value of the milk was enhanced for cheese making.

There is not much occasion for cautioning farmers against a waste from this source this year, as there will be but very little cider made, owing to the generally short crop of apples; but it is well to keep in mind every source of cheap food for dairy stock, that it may be availed of whenever there is opportunity.

But perhaps some reader will say, as he looks over the above, "I have known several cows to be killed by eating apples or pomace, which, it seems to me, does not argue that they are good and wholesome food for stock." We have known several animals to die from eating corn in the ear, from eating corn meal, green clover, green oats, and even green grass, when overgorged with these animal luxuries, but it would be a very lame reason for interdicting the use of these various kinds of food because they have proved deleterious when used greatly in excess. There is just as little propriety in throwing away apples or pomace as there would be in throwing away the other foods named because when used improperly they have proved injurious. The extraordinary appetite cows display for fruit ought to furnish a reasonable hint of their value. Animals are not apt to show an excessive fondness for what is naturally detrimental to them if used judiciously.—Live Stock Journal.

Mr. Greeley's Humor.

Years ago, travelers going to Canada by way of Lake Champlain used to seek the steamboat which Capt. Sherman commanded. The Captain was famous for the neatness of his boat and the discipline of its crew, and for his own politeness. He was the only man whom the late Horace Greeley acknowledged to be his superior in polite behavior.

One morning, after breakfasting, Mr. Greeley, who was in a capital humor, turning to a friend, asked:

"Do you know that I claim to be the most polite man in the country?"

The friend, well aware that the celebrated editor, when irritated, was neither gentle in manner nor courteous in speech, replied that he was not aware that the graces of politeness were prominent among his many excellent traits.

"But I assure you," answered Greeley, with a smile that overspread his baby face—some one said that he had a philosopher's head with the face of a baby—"that I have never been beaten in politeness but once in my life." Then he told the story of his defeat.

Before the days of railroads, he left Utica one morning in a stage-coach. His only fellow-passenger was a gentleman of prepossessing appearance, with whom he fell into conversation. After a while the stranger drew a cigar case from his pocket and offered Mr. Greeley a cigar. He declined the polite offer, and the conversation was resumed. Presently the gentleman, taking a cigar from the case, put it in his mouth, and returned the case to his pocket. While they were talking, he abruptly but courteously remarked to Mr. Greeley:

"I hope, sir, you have no objection to a cigar?"

"None in the world," answered Greeley, "when it is not alight."

"Oh," replied the gentleman, "I had not the remotest thought of lighting it!"

"Then and there," said Mr. Greeley, laughing, "was the only time I ever was beaten in politeness. I afterward ascertained that my victor was the famous Capt. Sherman, of Lake Champlain."

—A statistical writer says: "Rhode Island has furnished more men of national reputation for inherent deviltry than any other Northern State. Wild Bill was born in Providence, 'Billy, the Kid,' of recent unsavory renown, came originally from Watch Hill, and 'Calamity Jane' is a native of fashionable Newport. 'Texas Jack,' for whom, like Homer, seven cities claim the honor of his birth, was born in Bristol, and 'Yellowstone Kelley, the scout of Montana, is a native of Pawtucket."

The Point Barrow Esquimaux.

The natives who maintain a rather arduous struggle for existence at Point Barrow and its immediate neighborhood belong to the Esquimaux race. They are called Innuits, from the word "innuit," which, in their language, means man, the plural of which is "innuine," meaning men or people. Although there is great resemblance between all the subdivisions of the Esquimaux race, there is yet considerable disparity existing between the various families, both in language and manners, depending, no doubt, on the accidental circumstances of locality, surroundings, etc. The language of an Eastern Esquimaux would be entirely unintelligible to a native of the western coast; and even the native of one side of Behrings Straits speaks a dialect differing considerably from that of the other side. There are, in fact, many more points of similarity between all the natives of the eastern side of the Behrings Sea than there are between them and any of the natives of the opposite side—thus the natives of the Diomedes differ more in language and dress from the natives of East Cape, only twenty miles away, than the natives of Point Barrow do from those of Golowin Bay in Norton Sound, seven hundred or eight hundred miles to the northward. The natives of the American side are, on the whole, superior to those on the Asiatic—better looking, more intelligent, and more cleanl looking where cleanliness, of course, only means a lesser degree of filthiness—and the natives of Point Barrow are a trifle superior to any of the natives we have seen at any other point on the American side.

It seems to be a universal law that the savage deteriorates when he comes in contact with civilization, and the longer the contact the more abject he becomes, and no one passing along the coast of Behrings Sea and of the Arctic Ocean to Point Barrows can fail to be struck by the clear exemplification of this law. There seems to be a strong tendency in savage man everywhere to acquire the bad habits of the civilized, rather than the good, whenever the two races come in contact, and the Esquimaux race is no exception to the rule. Thus the nasives of Point Barrow, having, until recently, had but little intercourse with the white man, seem to have deteriorated less than the tribes to the southward, and are quite respectable people for savages. They are rather a good-looking people, with interesting, intelligent, but not very handsome faces. In general, their noses are too flat and the complexions too coppery for beauty. Their bodies are well formed, not at all chunky, and of average stature; their hands and feet are smaller and better formed than those of the average white man, and, if they had laid aside one or two rather nasty habits and learned to wash themselves occasionally, they might be considered tolerably handsome.

The women are more intelligent and better looking than the men, and are treated with more consideration than among most savages. Still the man is the lord and master, and his wife or his daughters have no rights that he is bound to respect by any code of law or morals existing among them. A woman can not choose her husband, but is given away much the same as a cow or a horse is, and her husband can beat her or put her away, or sell her at pleasure, except she may happen to have more friends than he has, and then it may not be altogether safe for him to exercise his lordly attributes too fully. Self-interest, however, and the indolent, easy-going habits of these people, prevent much harshness to exist in the relations between husband and wife, for the females of a marriageable age are seldom in excess of the males, and consequently there is really little choice allowed, and, besides, it is imperative that every man shall have a wife if possible, because an Innuit without one is about as forlorn and helpless an individual as can well be imagined. There is no such thing as marriage ceremony. The whole affair is a bargain, and of no more importance than any other bargain. No morality, in the proper sense of the term, exists, nothing instrinsically right or wrong. Individuals have got rights, if they are able to maintain them, so that really might is the great arbiter of right, except in such cases as superstition steps in and exerts a regulating influence over conduct. Notwithstanding all this, the social relations are carried on as smoothly, and with as little injustice, as among civilized people.—Cor. Boston Herald.

Why the Samoans Won't Work.

Mr. August Goddefroy, director of the German Commercial and Plantation society of the South Sea Islands, who is now in this country on his way to Germany, gives an amusing explanation of the fact that the Samoans won't work and the company's laborers have to be imported from the Hebrides, Solomon and New Britian Islands. "The Samoans do nothing most of the time," says Mr. Goddefroy, "and when they are tired of that they get up a fight. The young fellows see that the stock of pigs and yams is a plentiful one, and then they begin talking politics, take down their rifles, and declare war. The last campaign between the king and anti-king parties lasted five months, and resulted in three persons being killed by accident. Bless you, they never fight for viciousness, but just for the fun of the thing. They dig deep trenches about two miles apart, and in these sheltering ditches keep popping away at everything that looks like a head. Then, when the pigs and yams are exhausted, they conclude it's about time for the war to end, yell out that the sport is over, and go home. The Samoans can not be said to rank among the most useful of mankind, but they live in a paradise. There is land to cultivate that will yield a fortune by cultivation, but it takes another fortune to wait for the second to accrue. My interests are centered there, so that I speak advisedly when I say that, admirable field as it is for the commercial capitalist, Samoa can not yet be considered the promised land for the settler."

A LADY engaged to be married, and getting sick of her bargain, applied to a friend to help her untie the knot, before it was too late. "Oh, certainly," she replied, "it is very easy to untie it now while it is only a beau knot."

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Mrs. "Stonewall" Jackson has fallen heir to $4,000 left by a Memphis admirer of the General.

—The Georgia friends and admirers of Colonel W. T. Thompson, the author of "Major Jones' Courtship," are about to take steps to erect a monument to his memory in that State.

—It is said of Mr. Samuel Read, of Watertown, N. Y., who died recently, that he had a remarkable record for health, not having been confined to his house for a single day in seventy years.

—Nancy Lee is one hundred and seven years old, and lives in Lexington, Ky. She is not the famous "sailor's wife," but a negress who lived on the site of Lexington before the town was ever thought of.

—H. W. L. Garland, the editor of the Catholic Telegraph, of Cincinnati, died in that city recently of pneumonia. He was considered the brightest, most cultured and most promising young man in the profession there. He it was who once interviewed Salvini in Italian and Bernhardt in French. He was an Englishman by birth, and was thirty-two years of age.—Chicago Tribune.

—Apropos of the pronunciation of Whittier's "Maud Muller," we quote the following from a letter to the Boston Journal, which seems to settle the matter: "Last summer I met Mr. Whittier, and in answer to the same question, which has been asked me scores of times, Mr. Whittier replied that the family whose name suggested the word to him pronounced their name Mul-ler. They were Hessians."

—Mrs. Dwyer Gray, wife of the editor of Freeman's Journal, of Dublin, Ireland, is a very handsome and interesting woman. Her acquaintance with her husband happened in a romantic manner, while she was on a visit at Ballyrock, on the sea-coast near Dublin, where Mr. Gray's father had a summer residence. During a storm a schooner was driven on the rocks opposite his home, and, in the presence of his future wife, Mr. Gray swam with a rope to the rescue of the crew. For this heroic deed he won the medal of the Life-Boat institution and a wife.

How Texas Cattle Are Utilized.

There are beef-packing establishments at Rockport and Fulton, Texas, both of which places are in the center of cattle ranges, in which at least 100,000 beeves are slaughtered every year. Every part of the beef is utilized, even to the tufts of the tails, which are preserved and sold for the making of ladies' frizzettes. The blood flows into tanks and is pressed, and is sold at 2 cents a pound for the making of fertilizers. The tongues and lean beef are boiled and canned. The hides are salted and sold again. The fatty matter is extracted and goes to tallow. The bones are boiled to a pulp to extract this fatty matter, and the dry bones, mainly phosphate of lime, are sold at 1 cent a pound for fertilizing. The feet are cut off, and from the hoofs neats-foot oil is extracted. The horny part of the foot, the shin-bone and knuckle-bones, are sold for the manufacture of domestic ivory. The horns are piled up until the pith becomes loose, and this is added to the fertilizers, and the horns are sold for manufacture. Every atom of the animal is probably used.

PROF. MARKS, of Philadelphia, stated at a recent meeting of the Franklin Institute that he had made some calculations of the maximum speed at which locomotives could be driven before the centrifugal force on the tires of the driving wheels would become so great as to cause them to burst. Those calculations, which were approximate only, showed that the limit of speed was in the neighborhood of 150 miles per hour.

GENERAL.

—The fashionable coat for this winter will be cut so tight across the back that the butt of a pistol sticking out of a hind pocket will look like the hump on a circus camel.—Detroit Free Press.

—A writer in Figaro calls attention to the number of French citizens who are getting rich in the slave trade. Five hundred negroes, at $500 per head, he says, is a cargo which pays admirably.

—Boys can be lawfully removed from the rear platform of cars, when stealing rides, but the New York Court of Appeals has decided that the removal must be so gentle as not to injure the urchins.

—The bedroom of a young lady named Witemer, at Upper Milford, Lehigh County, Pa., was entered by an unknown party the other night, and her head robbed of a fine growth of hair. Nothing else was taken.

A High Opinion.

Capt. John J. Dawson, late of the British Army, residing on Love street, between Mandeville and Spain, this city, says he used St. Jacobs Oil with the greatest possible advantage when afflicted with rheumatism.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THERE is a quaint story told us about a Texan preacher who had a falling out with his congregation. While the congregation and pastor were at daggers' points, the latter received an appointment as chaplain of a penitentiary. When he came to preach his farewell sermon, he took the following verse for his text: "I go to prepare a place for you, so that where I am ye may be also."—Galveston News.

THE Youth's Companion, of Boston, is a sprightly paper, deservedly popular and without exception the best of its kind published.

A LITTLE boy was walking with his mamma, and there fell from above his head an avalanche of soot blown by the wind from a neighboring chimney. "Helloa!" cried he, quite astonished, "some nigger snow!"

25c buys a pair of Lyon's Pat. Heel Stiffeners; makes a boot or shoe last twice as long.

SOME one, who knows all about it, says that, "to ride a velocipede successfully a young man should see that his hair is carefully parted in the middle, having no more one side than on the other, in the way of balance."

"ROUGH on Rats." Clears out rats, mice, flies, roaches, bed-bugs, ants, vermin. 15c.

MOTHER SWAN'S WORM SYRUP, for feverishness, restlessness, worms. Tasteless. 15c.

—At a cornhusking in Genesee County, N. Y., a young man was caught with five red ears in his pocket, and the indignant girls ducked him in the mill-pond. They were mad because he did not have more.—Philadelphia News.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS TO LIVE.

From John Kuhn, Lafayette, Ind., who announced that he is now in "perfect health," we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearance, in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which considerably benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health, having used no other medicine.

DR. DEWITT C. KELLINGER'S LINIMENT is an infallible cure for Rheumatism, Sprains, Lameness and Diseases of the Scalp, and for promoting the growth of the Hair.

MENSMAN'S peptonized beef tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It contains blood-making, force generating and life-sustaining properties; invaluable for indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous prostration, and all forms of general debility; also, in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhaustion, nervous prostration, overwork or acute disease, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

—A Missouri teacher makes the study of geography interesting to his pupils by beginning at home, taking five counties, locations and boundaries; next States, upon the same plan; then the United States, until the whole subject is mastered.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT
GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites.
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

SIX CTS [illegible]

BUGGIES Best work in the U. S. for the money. Enterprise Carriage Co., Cin'ti, O. Territory Given. Catalogue FREE.

This N. Y. Singer, $20 With $5 set of Attachments Free. Warranted perfect. Light running, quiet, handsome and durable. Sent on test trial-plan when desired. Happy Home Organs: 4 sets Reeds, 11 stops; Mechanical Sub Bass, octave coupler, 2 knee swells, with $3 stool and $1 Book, only $75. Also sent on test trial-plan if desired. Elegant case, magnificent tone, durable inside and out. Circular, with testimonials, free. Ask G. Payne & Co., 47 Third av. Chicago.

MILL and FACTORY SUPPLIES OF ALL KINDS, BELTING HOSE and PACKING, OILS, PUMPS ALL KINDS, IRON PIPE, FITTINGS, BRASS GOODS, STEAM GAUGES, ENGINE GOVERNORS, &c. Send for Price List. W. H. DILLINGHAM & CO., 143 Main Street, LOUISVILLE, KY.

THRESHERS The Best is the cheapest. Illustrated price list free. THE AULTMAN & TAYLOR CO., Mansfield, O.

PATENTS Procured by American Patent Agency, 159 [illegible] Street, Cincinnati, O.

OPIUM HABIT
AND DRUNKENNESS.
Positively, speedily and permanently cured by DR. KEELEY'S GOLD REMEDIES, containing no form of Opium. Truth invites investigation. References best in the State. For terms, pamphlets and proofs, address,
W. C. BELLAMY, M. D.,
71-2 Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

C. B. C. Coleman Business College, Newark, N. J. Write for Circular.

AGENTS Make money selling our Family Medicines. No capital required. Standard Cure Co., 197 Pearl St., N. Y.

CONSUMPTION.
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

AGENTS
wanted for the best selling book in the United States. Write, and LOOK
at the terms we offer. Salary and commission to the right men. J. H. CHAMBERS & CO., Atlanta, Ga.

A CATALO
JUST ISSUED CONTA
400 ILLUSTRA
AND PRICES OF
DIAMONDS, WATCHES, J
AND SILVERWA
Will be sent to any address
J. P. STEVENS &
JEWELERS,
ATLANTA, - - GE

COTTON
FUTURES
Co-Operative Pl
OF CONDUCTING
SPECULAT
Weekly Statements, Monthly
$1,000 Invested
Smaller Investments in proportion wanted everywhere. Circulars
DIO. F. WOLFFE & CO.,
174 & 176 Common St. NEW O

ELASTIC
SENSIBLE TRUSS
EGGLESTON TRUSS CO.

EVERY M
Should Understand
IILL
PREMATURE
On receipt of four 3c. stamps we will send book, 112 pages, 8vo., "The Law of Wealth," a series of lectures, information to MARRIED AND SINGLE, MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE, New York. Name this paper.

STRONG'S PECTORAL
A SURE REMEDY FOR COLDS AND RHE

AGENTS WANTED
I CURE FIT
When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you. Address Dr. H. G. ROOT,

ADD TO YOUR INC
Club 13 of the Mutual Investment Clubs offers the surest means of profits from investments of $10
GRAIN, PROVISIONS &
Each member gets the benefit of Club. Reports sent weekly.
Club 13 paid shareholders back past three months, still leaving money in Club, or returned on demand.
Explanatory circulars sent free.
wanted everywhere. Address
Com'n Mchts., 177 & 179 La Salle
Publishers' Union, Atlanta, Ga.

A $9
over $7, for only $1. This being patronage, act quick. J. D.

YOUTH'S COMPANION
ANNOUNCEMENT, 1883.

A REFERENCE to the contributors announced below will show that nearly all of the most distinguished popular authors of this country, and many of those of Great Britain, have been engaged as contributors to the COMPANION for the year 1883. The Announcement will be found in many respects, we think, an extraordinary one; but it includes only a part of the features of the volume for the coming year.

Illustrated Serial Stories.
A Serial Story of Boy Life in America, by . . . J. T. Trowbridge.
A Serial Story of Boy Life in Great Britain, by . . . William Black.
A Serial Story of New England Life, by . . . Harriet Beecher Stowe.
A Serial Story for Girls, by . . . Harriet Prescott Spofford.
A Serial Story of Southern Life, by . . . Marie B. Williams.
Amusing College Stories, by . . . Henry A. Gordon.
Stories of Old-Time Poor-Houses, by . . . J. D. Chaplin.
Old New England Peddlers' Tales, by . . . Wm. A. King.
Tales of the Old Dutch Farmers of New York, by . . . Eugene M. Prince.

Reminiscences and Anecdotes.
(Illustrated.)
Yankee Drolleries at Old-Time Fairs and Shows, by . James Parton.
Stories of Old-Time Quack Doctors and their Remedies, by Edgar Knowles.
On the Stump. Humorous Anecdotes of Electioneering, Stump Speaking, etc., by Hon. S. S. Cox.
Victor Hugo at Home. A chatty description of the home life of the great poet, by his Private Secretary. Richard Lesclide.
Word Pictures of the House of Commons. As seen from the Reporters' Gallery, by H. W. Lucy.
Brilliant Articles. Reminiscences of Dean Stanley and Picturesque Associations of Westminster Abbey, by Canon F. W. Farrar.
The Royal Family of Denmark. Articles of Personal Anecdote by the Danish Minister at Washington, Hon. Carl Bille.
Great Southern Leaders. A series of articles containing personal reminiscences of Gen. Robert E. Lee, "Stonewall" Jackson, John C. Calhoun, etc., by . . . Hon. Alexander H. Stephens.

Illustrated Travel and Adventure
A Serial Story of Adventure, by . . . C. A.
Life in an Irish Fishing Village, by . . . Julian
Tales of Old Ships and Sailors, by . . . Capt.
Old Times on the Missouri, by . . . A.
After the Mindanao Pirates in a Dutch Gun-Boat, by Lieut.
Adventures in a Whaling Cruise in the North Pacific, by The Fiftieth Tiger. A narrative of Adventure by the of the London Telegraph.
Child Life and Home Life in Japan. Curious Pictures and Incidents, by a traveller in that country, Prof.
Railway Heroes. Thrilling stories of railroad men. "The Fireman's Story;" "His Life or Theirs;" Boy," and "Express Messenger Riley," by . . . Walter

Special Articles.
Important articles will be given by two of the most distinguished Neurologists in the world, describing Nervous Diseases, showing the ordinary causes of these forms of human suffering, and giving general suggestions as to their treatment. These articles will not be merely technical treatises, but will be enlivened by curious and illustrative anecdotes.
Common Nervous Ailments. A Series of Papers, by . . . Dr. Brown-Sequard.
The Short History of a Nervous Man. The Proper Use of the Mind, Hallucinations and Delusions, The Cause of Sleep and Sleeplessness, Somnambulism, etc., by . . . Dr. William A. Hammond.

The Help Series.
The Profits of Literary Labor, by . . . James Parton.
Salesmen and Saleswomen in City Stores. Their wages and opportunities, by . . . Charles Vance Elliott.
A Medical Education. How to Choose a College. Advantages of European Study, by Dr. William A. Hammond.
Girls Who Earn a Living in Art. By the Principal of the Woman's Art School, Cooper Union, Susan N. Carter.
How to Start. Papers telling how to start in different kinds of business and in trades, with practical details, so that a boy reading these papers may act on them safely.
What a Technical Education Costs. By the Professor of Engineering of the Institute of Technology, Hoboken, Robert H. Thurston.

In The Household.
Parlor Experiments in Science. Simple and curious, by Prof. W.
Entertainments for Charitable Purposes. Advice
Tableaux with Authors. Directions for Concerning Floors, Doors, and Windows. Giving to the decoration of these important features of a house, Inexpensive Art Furniture. A series of papers showing be furnished in the best taste without large expenditure, cost, etc., by the Curator of the Liverpool Art Museum.

The Editorials of the COMPANION will give clear and impartial views of current events at home and abroad.
The Children's Page sustains its reputation for charming pictures, poems and stories adapted to the little ones.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one who subscribes now, and sends us $1.75, we will send the Companion free to January 1st, 1883, and a full year's subscription from that date.
Subscription Price $1.75. Specimen
Please mention in what paper you read this advertisement.
40 Temple Place. Address, YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

22741

LAKESHORE PRESS, BIRMINGHAM, ALA. 35209

WORK ORDER

MICROFILM DEPARTMENT

SAMFORD UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
800 Lakeshore Drive
Birmingham, Alabama 35209

For Special Collection in samford Univ. Library

Date of Order: 2/8/84

Date Promised:

Pages Filmed:

X M/f Neg.
XX M/f Pos.
☐ X c loose
☐ X c bound ☐ Photocopies

QUANTITY	DESCRIPTION	UNIT PRICE	EXTENSION
	Alabama Newspapers-to be microfilmed and one neg. and two pos. made THE CHILTON VIEW - Clanton, AL N 10-D 29, 1881; Ja 5-D 28, 1882; Ja 11-D 20, 1883; Ja 3-D 27, 1884; Ja 8-D 31, 1885; Ja 7- D 30, 1886; Ja 6-D 29, 1887; Ja 5-D 27, 1888; Ja 3-D 26, 1889; Ja 9-D 25, 1890; Ja 8-D 31, 1891: Ja 7-D 29, 1892; Ja 5-D 28, 1893; Ja 4-D 20, 1894; Ja 3-D 19, 1895; Ja 2-Ja 9, 1896 THE BANNER - Clanton, AL Ja 2-D 31, 1896 Many Issues Missing

INVOICE NO.:

Photographic reproductions are made by the Samford University Library solely for the research or private study of the applicant; extracts copied are not to be reproduced or distributed in full or in part; and no part of the photocopy will be quoted by the applicant for use in his own works or elsewhere without the permission of the copyright owner. The applicant assumes all responsibility for possible infringement of copyright, or, in the case of manuscripts, literary property rights, in the act of copying the materials or in the subsequent use of them.

The applicant agrees to make proper acknowledgment to the publication from which the photocopy is made, or to the Samford University Library in the case of manuscript material in its collections. He further agrees to secure permission from the Library, in advance, to publish any part of such manuscript materials.

Microfilming—Xerox—Positive Prints—Photo Copies

Authorization Signature ____________________

No. M 5782

Microphotographed
by

1842

Harwell Goodwin Davis Library
Samford University
Birmingham, Alabama